COUNTY CITIZENS' GROUP SPLIT ON OCT. 4 VOTE ON EXPRESSWAYS

Screening Unit Is Divided on Whether to Submit Highway and Children's Building Proposals Alone.

Members of the St. Louis county citizens' bond issue screening committee are divided on whether the expressways and children's building bond proposals alone should be submitted to county voters at the Oct. 4 special state election, a poll of members by the Post-Dispatch showed yesterday.

Some of those opposing that date for the $8,500,000 expressways and the $800,000 children's buildings projects, valid petitions for which are pending, said, however, they would favor Oct. 4 if a more comprehensive bond program, now under consideration, could be made ready in time for submission the same day.

Need Called Great.

Members favoring Oct. 4 regardless of the other proposals said that expressways into St. Louis, confined to drawing-board status for up to 20 years, were needed too badly to justify further delay.

Of the 22 screening committee members, 12 opposed submission of the partial program Oct. 4, seven favored such submission, one was undecided and one was neutral. One member was out of town.

Reasons given by the opponents generally were that Oct. 4 is a poor date psychologically because many persons voting against the 2-cent state cigarette tax will be prone to vote against everything on the ballot; a balanced program should be agreed on and submitted as a "package;" time would be insufficient for a bond campaign, and submission of a partial program would inevitably mean a delay of years before other proposals could be submitted successfully to the voters.

Big Whittling Job.

Some members felt that the job of whittling down the total of $80,500,000 in tentative bond proposals announced last week, including secondary highways, courthouse buildings, parks and voting machines, to the $56,000,000 bond program which legally could be voted this year was too great to be completed before Aug. 15, deadline fixed by the Election Board for filing of election petitions.

County Planning Director M. Eugene Baughman announced yesterday that he had struck one item of the $80,500,000 tentative program—$8,874,000 for a proposed Forsyth boulevard bypass—from his recommendations of last Wednesday. He decided on the elimination because of Clayton-University City opposition.

In connection with the Oct. 4 date for submission of the expressways and children's buildings bond proposals by themselves, three of the seven members of the County Council queried yesterday said they would be opposed and one said he was undecided. Councilman L. Gordon Davis and James A. Singer were out of town, but in the past they have favored early submission of the expressways bond program.

Councilman Opposed.

Councilmen opposed were Chairman Frank L. Martini, Harold D. Carey and Maurice Abramson. James H. J. McNary said he wanted to wait until the screening committee reports before making up his mind.

Among the screening committee members favoring an Oct. 4 vote on expressways and children's buildings, some said they felt that the expressway program was so important that it should not be encumbered by the other proposals, some con-

Solution to Heat Problem

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

LARRY HAMMOND, 1¼ years old, taking hot weather problems in hand last night to provide cooling showers for LINDA FERRIS, 4. Larry is son of Mrs. Penny Hammond, 1020 Rutger street. Linda's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Ferris, 1478 Rutger lane.

WEATHER STATION CALLERS GET HOT NEWS FROM ROBOT

In calling the weather station at Lambert-St. Louis Field, don't be surprised at hearing a recording giving the temperature, humidity and forecast for St. Louis and vicinity.

The telephone answering device, recently installed, is used chiefly when the staff is shorthanded and on hot days when the station is deluged with calls from uncomfortable St. Louisans seeking respite.

The device greets the caller with: "This is a recording from the United States Weather Bureau at Lambert Field," and proceeds to give temperature, humidity and forecast. The recording is changed each half-hour.

Forecast for today and tomorrow is just like a cracked record—hot weather again and again.

BEAUTY WINS RACE AROUND WORLD, SETS AIRLINE MARK

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30 (UP)—Susan Bryan, 21-year-old career girl, landed here at noon today to set a new round-the-world flight record for non-jet commercial airlines and win a race against travel agency Executive Andrew W. Lerios.

Susan, a blonde, formerly of Denver, landed after being airborne a total of 107 hours 20 minutes in her eastbound flight to break the old record of 115 hours 38 minutes. The old record was set in 1952 by Jean-Marie Audibert in a flight starting and ending in Paris.

Lerios, who flew the opposite way around the world, arrived on a non-stop flight from New York, at 2:42 p.m. His elapsed time was recorded at 111 hours 24 minutes.

Miss Bryan is to reign as queen over a two-day air show here, starting today.

HOUSE PASSES BILL A MINUTE IN HEADLONG CLEAN-UP DRIVE

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—In a headlong drive to clean up odds and ends before final adjournment, the House passed bills at the rate of one a minute during the first four hours of today's session.

Most of the measures were for the benefit of private individuals, mainly people desiring to obtain citizenship. Many of the others were of interest to communities only.

All were considered under a rule permitting a single objection to block them, and quite a few were blocked. Some of the bills passed had not been printed in time for general distribution among the members.

Blackout on Red Paint.

IPSWICH, England, July 30 (AP)—Fire engines of Ipswich and Suffolk no longer will be red. Officials have decreed that they shall be plain metal color because paint gets scratched off as the engines rub against overgrown hedges while speeding along country roads.

HEAT TO REMAIN, SHOWERS MIGHT BREAK IT BRIEFLY

Temperature Tops 90 Sixth Day in Row—2 More Deaths Laid to Torrid Spell.

There will be no appreciable relief, at least through tomorrow, in the spell of hot weather which apparently contributed to the death of two more persons in this area, the Weather Bureau said yesterday.

High temperatures of near 100 degrees were forecast for today and tomorrow. Yesterday was the sixth day in a row in which the reading was more than 90 degrees.

Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said there may be a few brief intervals of lower temperatures caused by local thunderstorms. In one such period of temporary relief yesterday, a shower in the Webster Groves area lowered the temperature from 93 degrees at 1 p.m. to 79 at 1:30.

Minor damage was caused when lightning struck the home of Edward H. Dobcinski, 526 Foote avenue, Webster Groves. Mrs. Dobcinski, standing with her hand on a faucet of the sink at the time, received an electrical shock but was not injured. Several cans of food in a cupboard were fused together by the bolt.

The intersection of Lockwood boulevard and Gore avenue in Webster Groves was flooded to a depth of six inches for a time, and traffic was detoured on Manchester road near Frederick lane in Glendale because of water over the pavement.

Wahlgren said the highest temperatures of the year for the city and county were recorded this week. These were 100 degrees at Lambert-St. Louis Field, registered Thursday and Friday, and 97 degrees at the downtown station, recorded Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday.

Highest temperature recorded yesterday at the airport was 98 degrees at 3:15 p.m.

Heat was believed to have been a factor in the deaths of John Donahue, 69 years old, 10 North Tenth street, and Coleman Small, a Negro, 52, Laurel avenue, Robertson. The number of such deaths in recent days is now nine.

Many federal employes have been sent home early in recent days because of the heat. Government policy in general is to let some workers off before the usual quitting time when temperatures of 95 degrees persist over an extended period.

The Building Owners and Managers Association of St. Louis said that about 70 per cent of the city's office space is now air-conditioned. A spokesman for the Hotel Association of St. Louis said 75 per cent of the hotel rooms of association members are air-conditioned.

Near 100 Today

Two Fares Fare Badly as Cabbie Steers Them Into Arms of Law

Two robbers, who congratulated themselves on making an unobtrusive departure from the scene of a crime via taxicab, found yesterday they had been driven into the arms of the law instead.

The robbers, Negroes, took $100 at pistol-point from Ely Goldwasser, former owner of Westminster Pharmacy, 4300 Olive street, who was operating the store at the time. Then posing as ordinary customers, the holdup men hailed a Marcella cab driven by James D. Johnson.

Police Sgt. Charles Miller and Patrolman Lester Ficke, hot on the trail, hailed a second Marcella cab. At their direction, the driver radioed the company dispatcher to have Johnson go to Channing avenue and Pine street.

Johnson, unaware his passengers were robbers, went there. So did the police. They arrested the two men, who gave their names as Tommie Colbert and Boyd Smith. Both admitted the robbery, police said.

DIXON-YATES FOE CHARGES LEGAL WARNING TO FPC WAS SUPPRESSED

Agency's Own Lawyers 'Criticized, Condemned' Deal, Called AEC 'Inept,' Says Congressman Evins.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Representative Joe L. Evins (Dem.), Tennessee, said today two Federal Power Commission attorneys "criticized and condemned" the Dixon-Yates contract seven months ago, but their opinions were kept from Congress and the public.

Evins said the House Small Business subcommittee of which he is chairman learned last Thursday of legal opinions saying the contract gave the impression that its terms had been dictated by the Dixon-Yates utility group. The Atomic Energy Commission was termed "inept" for not getting better terms.

The opinions were prepared and presented to the FPC Aug. 25, 1954, by Lambert McAllister, acting general counsel, and Howard Wahrenbrock, assistant general counsel. Testimony showed that General Counsel Willard W. Gatchell raised the same points and others also before the commissioners.

Legal Clearance Was Claimed.

Supporters of the Dixon-Yates contract had contended it was given full legal clearance by government attorneys.

Citing portions of testimony obtained last week from FPC officials, Evins said in a statement: "It appears that there was a concerted effort in the past to suppress the information contained in those memoranda."

He contended that Jerome Kuykendall, then chairman of the FPC, had told the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee last November that "our attorneys had not passed" on the contract.

"Why was it," Evins asked, "that Mr. Kuykendall . . . an Eisenhower appointee . . . so acted in keeping from members of Congress on that occasion (in November) the objections which he knew to exist to the Dixon-Yates contract?

"Was it something that fits into a pattern of what has been termed 'cover up' of importance facets of the Dixon-Yates matters such as for example, the facts concerning the participation of Adolpe H. Wenzell of the First Boston Corp. in negotiating the Dixon-Yates deal?"

Wenzell served as an unpaid consultant to the Budget Bureau at the same time as he was a vice president of the First Boston Corp., a New York financial house which subsequently became fiscal agent for the Dixon-Yates group.

Critics Charge Cover-Up.

Critics of the Dixon-Yates contract have contended Administration officials sought to hide Wenzell's role in negotiations leading up to the contract, although President Eisenhower who ordered the contract negotiated, had promised all details of the deal would be made public.

In another development, Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, said "some heads ought to roll" as a result of the Dixon-Yates contract, which Mr. Eisenhower has now canceled.

Kefauver, chairman of a Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee investigating Dixon-Yates, discussed the controversy on a radio program recorded for broadcast in New Mexico. Appearing with him on the program was Senator Clinton Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

Anderson asked Kefauver if he did not think Mr. Eisenhower "now owes the people of this country some sort of a second statement" concerning the steps that led up to the Dixon-Yates contract.

"He made statements in a press conference in which he said that Mr. Wenzell handled no part of the Dixon-Yates contract and he approved of Mr. Wenzell," Anderson said.

"Now it is proved that Wenzell did handle negotiation. Now it is proved that he was there at the meetings and all these other things that have come to light."

Kefauver's Conclusion.

Kefauver said he thought the President should make such a statement because "as the record now stands, he approved of Mr. Wenzell."

"He approves of this cover-up, he is letting these people thwart the efforts of congressional committees to get the facts and that's just not good for the atomic energy program," Kefauver added.

Referring to Sherman Adams, presidential assistant, Rowland Hughes, Budget Bureau director, Adm. Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and J. Sinclair Armstrong, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, all of whom played a part in the Dixon-Yates matter, Kefauver said:

"It may be all these top officials, if they have done wrong—and I think they have done wrong—the President ought to tell them so and some heads ought to roll as far as I'm concerned."

TALBOTT FRIEND'S AIRLINE RECEIVES SPECIAL FAVORS FROM AIR FORCE

Freight Contract Renewed at Higher Rate Without Bids — Firm Leases C-54s From U.S. at Low Rental.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 30—A small airline company controlled by a friend of Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbott has obtained special favors from the Air Force on at least three occasions after company officers made personal visits to Talbott in the Pentagon, the Post-Dispatch has learned.

The company is Resort Airlines, Inc., controlled by Clinton Davidson Sr. of Madison, N.J.

Talbott identified Davidson as "a friend of mine" in one of the Secretary's letters obtained by Senate investigators from the files of Paul B. Mulligan & Co., a New York management engineering firm from which Talbott is resigning in the face of widespread criticism.

Some persons in the air freight contracting business believe Resort has obtained unfair advantage over its competitors through Davidson's trips to Talbott's office.

Air Force Denies Favoritism.

The Air Force, however, denies Resort has been given any special treatment.

An investigation by the Post-Dispatch has disclosed that:

1. When Resort Airlines's contract to carry Air Force freight expired last June 30, the Air Force negotiated a new $5,000,000-a-year contract with Resort—at an increased rate per mile—rather than inviting competitive bids.

2. the Air Force rented two of its C-54s to Resort last April to help the airline expand its Air Force contract operation. The rental is substantially less than any would-be competitor would have to pay to lease similar planes commerically. Resort still is using the Air Force planes in its contract operation.

3. Last year, the Air Force leased seven C-46 cargo transport planes to Resort to enable the airline to perform a $1,130,000 freight contract for the Navy Department. The planes were leased by the Air Material Command at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, O., on a direct order from Air Force headquarters in the Pentagon.

Davidson's son, Clinton Davidson Jr., chairman of Resort's board of directors, told the Post-Dispatch that on each occasion company officers initiated their request with a personal call on Talbott at the Pentagon.

Many Visits to Pentagon.

Davidson Jr. said he or his father and sometimes both of them went to the Pentagon to see Talbott and other Air Force officials on Resort Airlines business.

"We airline people are in the Pentagon all the time," the younger Davidson explained. "That's the normal way of doing business on Government contracts. I've been to so many meetings there that I would have to guess which ones I attended which ones my father attended. I don't keep a record of the meetings."

Talbott, a resident of Dayton before coming to Washington, professed to know nothing of Davidson's connection with Resort Airlines when asked about him before the Senate Investigations subcommittee on July 21.

Reading the letter that mentioned Davidson, Talbott explained vaguely that Davidson was "in investment counseling work of some kind."

"Do you mean Mr. Davidson is an investment counselor?" Senator Karl E. Mundt (Rep.), South Dakota, wanted to know.

"I think that is the business that he is in," Talbott replied. "I don't know what else he has, and I ran into him in a very peculiar way, and I never really—I have never been to his office and I don't know where he has headquarters, but it is some place in New Jersey."

Low Bidder on Contract.

Records at Wright-Patterson show that Resort was low bidder last November on the contract that was extended last month by negotiation. The agreement covers scheduled flights on two transcontinental routes set up under the Air Force's new "log-air" system. This contract service is used principally to carry engines and spare parts from one Air Force installation to another in the country.

Resort was awarded the contract, which ran to June 30, 1955, on its bid of $1.07 per aircraft mile. The negotiated one-year extension raised the rate to $1.11.

Lt. Col. A. G. Frankel Jr., chief of the airlines contracts branch at Wright-Patterson, acknowledged to the Post-Dispatch that other airlines had expressed interest in bidding on the new contract.

Earlier, the Air Force had given Resort special assistance

Britain, France Ready to Join U.S. and Russia in Space Race

Projects in Sahara Desert and England Disclosed—German Rocket Pioneers Think Soviets May Launch First Satellite.

LONDON, July 30 (UP)—Britain and France were reported ready to join Russia and the United States in a space race today.

Authorized Soviet sources in Moscow said the Russians were preparing to launch a satellite similar to that planned by Americans. No date was announced for a possible take-off, but German rocket pioneers said the Soviets may get the first satellite into space.

Informed British sources in London said the De Haviland, Fairey, Bristol and English Electric aviation companies are among the active British space researchers.

The Government's guided weapons department at the Royal aircraft establishment in Farnsborough is believed to be working on space rocket plans, too. These will be tested in the future at Australia's Woomera rocket range.

Henri Longchambon, president of the High Council of Scientific Research, disclosed that France also is in the race, with some secret projects of considerable importance underway in the Sahara desert.

"The decision of the United States marks less a discovery than a progress, important but predictable, along a path already explored during and since the last war," Longchambon said.

Andre Danjon, director of the Paris Observatory, said that "in the present state of scientific knowledge, many accomplishments of this kind are possible."

"It is simply," he added, "a question of funds."

Engineer Hans-Hermann Koelle of Stuttgart, Germany, said that "all we need is a billion dollars and we could go ahead with building a space station from which we could dive farther out into space."

Thus, with money the key to the problem, most scientific opinion in Europe seemed to feel that the United States and Russia are the only nations likely to supply it in sufficient quantity.

At Edinburgh, Nobel prize winner Sir Edward Appleton, who discovered the existence of the ionosphere, said he was delighted that the Americans, "with their great experience in the use of rockets," were going

EISENHOWER GIVES SUPPER AT FARM FOR OVETA HOBBY

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 30 (UP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower were hosts tonight at a farewell picnic supper for Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, retiring Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, all but one of Mr. Eisenhower's cabinet, White House aids and high officials from Mrs. Hobby's department attended the picnic on the Eisenhower farm. There were 56 guests in all.

Mrs. Hobby leaves her post Monday to return to her Houston, (Tex.), home.

A small tent was set up on the lawn behind the farm house. Tables and chairs were set out nearby. Each of the guests received a small card bearing a simple map describing the way to the farm. But they hardly needed directions, because everyone in town knows just where the President lives.

Earlier today the President played nearly four hours of golf (27 holes), under an overcast sky.

Mr. Eisenhower will return to Washington Sunday night or Monday morning.

U. ALEXIS JOHNSON TELLS ALL -- THE U STANDS FOR URAL

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 30 — U. Alexis Johnson, United States Ambassador to Czechoslovakia, cleared up a mystery about himself here today. He said the U in his name stands for Ural.

Johnson, departing from Idlewild airport today for Geneva, where he will represent the United States in talks with Red China starting Monday, said he did not know why his parents named him Ural and he never thought to ask them while they still were alive. Asked why he did not use the name, se smiled and replied:

"Would you?"

WHITE HOUSE DOORS CLOSED TO TOURISTS FOR 6 WEEKS

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP)—The White House will be closed to sight-seers for six weeks beginning Aug. 15, it was announced today.

A statesman said that since April 1952, when renovation of the executive mansion was finished, so many visitors have inspected the open rooms that some of the floors will have to be refinished and walls repainted.

From April 1952 through noon of yesterday, 2,992,704 visitors have toured the White House.

Nehru's Gift to Moscow Zoo.

NEW DELHI, July 30 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru plans to send two elephants to the Moscow Zoo next month as a mark of appreciation for his welcome during his recent Soviet tour, a government spokesman announced today.

RUSSIA ORDERS TROOPS TO LEAVE AUSTRIA BY OCT. 1

Equal Number of Men Will Be Demobilized as Per Geneva Proposal, Zhukov Says.

MOSCOW (Sunday) July 31 (AP)—The Soviet Union today ordered its 44,000 occupation troops withdrawn from Austria by Oct. 1 and announced Russian armed forces would be reduced by that number.

Defense Minister Marshal Zhukov in an order of the day thus implemented, so far as Russia was concerned, a Soviet proposal made at the Big Four summit conference in Geneva. This proposal was to demobilize troops of the four occupation powers when they are evacuated from Austria.

The Soviet order came just four days after the treaty restoring Austrian independence went into effect. It means Austria will be free of Russian troops for the first time in more than 10 years.

Treaty Signed May 15.

The treaty signed May 15 by Russia, Britain, France and the United States called for withdrawal of all occupation troops within 90 days after final ratification.

The Soviet order therefore proposes to beat the deadline by about a month.

The other three powers already are in the preliminary process of winding up their military affairs in Austria.

Zhukov's order called for the return of Russian soldiers to the Soviet Union.

It said the Soviet army would be reduced by the number of troops being withdrawn from Austria. There are about 70,000 foreign troops in Austria, 44,000 of them Russian.

'Peaceful Policy.'

Zhukov in comment on the Soviet action in cutting down its armed forces by the number it is withdrawing from Austria said it was "another manifestation of the peaceful policy of the U.S.S.R."

The men demobilized, he said, would "actively join the constructive labor of the Soviet people in building Communism in our country."

He commended the Soviet army in Austria for the way it carried out its duty and authorized the commander-in-chief in Austria to select soldiers and officers for decorations.

He gave credit to Allied, as well as Soviet, armies for liberating Austria from the Nazis.

"The victory of the Soviet army and the armies of the Allied powers over the Hitlerite invaders brought Austria liber-

OFFERS TO TALK ABOUT 'PEACEFUL LIBERATION' OF FORMOSA, PACT

Red Chinese Premier Follows Soviet Line of Moderation in Cold War—Favors Summit Parley on Asia.

TOKYO, July 30 (UP)—Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai said today that a reasonable and quick settlement can be reached in Geneva next week on the return of American civilians held in Red China.

In a remarkably conciliatory speech made before the National People's Congress and broadcast by Peiping radio, Chou followed the Soviet line of moderation in the cold war.

He offered to negotiate a "peaceful liberation" of Formosa. He suggested a collective security pact for Asia to include Red China and the United States. He offered to join world disarmament moves. He favored a summit conference on Asia to ease tension in that area.

Rejected by Formosa.

His overtures on Formosa were promptly rejected by the Chinese Nationalists, who labeled Chou's suggestion "inconceivable."

"We consider the Communist Chinese rebels," one source in Taipei said. "If they want to talk to us they can come to surrender."

Chou's speech seemed intent on bettering relations with the United States. He said Communist China "will endeavor" to make next week's meeting in Geneva between Red Chinese and United States ambassadors "pave the way for further negotiations."

He said it should be possible at Geneva "to reach first of all a reasonable settlement of the question of the return of civilians to their respective countries." He added that the question of returning the 40 American civilians to their homeland "can be easily settled" because the number is small. He suggested that a third power handle the situation, since Peiping and Washington do not maintain diplomatic relations.

Chou indicated that Red China would press for return of Chinese students now in the United States.

"There are a great many overseas Chinese in the United States, among whom students alone number several thousand," he said. "Most of them have relatives on the Chinese mainland. The situation of the Chinese students is particularly inconsistent with humanitarian principles as they are obstructed from returning home while their relatives have no way to aid them financially."

Free to Leave U.S.

(The State Department in Washington announced last April that some 70 Chinese students, once barred from returning to the mainland, were free to leave the United States at any time.)

The peaceful note Chou sounded in Peiping was reflected in Geneva. The Red Chinese negotiator arrived there last night in a relaxed atmosphere of cordiality. He was all smiles, there were no security agents or police in evidence, and the Red Chinese consulate had telephoned newspaper men, including Americans, to invite them to cover his arrival.

Chou warned that Red China's hopes for progress at Geneva should not be considered "a sign of weakness."

He remained hard on the issue of Formosa, warning that there are two ways to "liberate" it—by "war or by peace." Then he made his offer to negotiate a peaceful settlement:

"If possible, the Chinese government is willing to enter into negotiations with responsible local authorities of Taiwan (Formosa) to map out concrete steps for Taiwan's peaceful liberation."

Chou neatly divided the "liberation of Formosa" from discussions with the United States on easing tension there.

He said the "liberation of Formosa" is the "internal affair" of China, a familiar stand, but insisted the "United States occupation of China's territory of Taiwan" is something else again.

He said the tension in the Formosa strait was due to this "occupation" and "interference" by the United States in Red China's plans to "liberate" the island stronghold of Generalissimo Chaing Kai-shek's forces.

In suggesting that there may be more peaceful days ahead, Chou proposed an Asian peace pact.

"The Chinese people hope," he said, "that the countries of Asia and the Pacific region, including the United States, will sign a pact of collective peace to replace the antagonistic mili-

Drum-Beating English Earl Gets Dressing Down With Salad Oil

HONITON, England, July 30 (AP) — Michael John James George Robert Howard — the twenty-first Earl of Suffolk—took over the drums in a dance band at a coming out party at 6 a.m. today.

During a fast rendition of "I Love Paris," a man stepped up and emptied a huge bowl of salad dressing upon the Earl, and darted through a door.

"I wonder who that mad person was and why he did such a thing?" said the Earl. "But, I'd better not cause a scene. It would ruin this splendid dance."

Then the Earl, who was 20 last March, returned to his drumming.

CONGRESS FAILS IN ADJOURNMENT DRIVE, WILL MEET AGAIN MONDAY

Passes Two of Five Major Bills, Hundreds of Others, but Misses Saturday Goal to End Session.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) —Driving for adjournment, Congress passed and sent to President Eisenhower two of the five major bills on its "must" list, and hundreds of minor measures, but was unable to complete its work today.

At 7:38 p.m. the House recessed until Monday. Acting Majority Leader Clements of Kentucky reluctantly conceded the Senate session would have to go over to Monday also. The Senate quit work at 10:45.

Still to be acted on are the controversial housing bill to extend government programs important to home owners and the construction industry, a bill to extend various mobilization powers and a $92,000,000 appropriation bill to pay congressional expenses.

Minimum Wage Approved.

The House completed congressional action on a compromise bill increasing the minimum wage from 75 cents to a dollar and hour and sent it to the White House.

President Eisenhower wanted the figure kept down to 90 cents, but Secretary of Labor Mitchell is advising him to sign it. It is estimated that 2,100,000 workers, mostly in the south, will receive pay increases under the measure.

Both Houses also approved a catch-all money bill approving about $1,600,000,000 in funds for dozens of government agencies.

The decision to meet Monday means that for the ninth time in 10 years congress has failed to meet the July 31 adjournment date set by the 1946 reorganization law.

That law says congress should adjourn not later than July 31 except in time of war or emergency or unless congress prolongs the session by resolution. Legally, the country is in a period of emergency.

No matter what is done next week, much unfinished business will go over to the second session of the 84th congress, scheduled for next January.

The catch-all appropriations bill passed today contains hundreds of items for dozens of government agencies in the year ahead.

Among other things, the bill gave the Atomic Energy Commission most of the funds Mr. Eisenhower had said was necessary to keep it operating efficiently in the next year.

AEC was allowed $90,000,000 in additional operating funds out of the $101,000,000 requested by the Administration.

In addition, the commission was given $267,327,000 of the $294,700,000 it asked for new construction. This included $2,900,000 for a community hospital at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The major construction item deleted was $21,000,000 for a reactor to build the President's proposed atomic peace ship. Congress has not authorized this project, so funds could not be appropriated.

No Hope for Road Bill.

The last glimmer of hope for any action at this session of Congress to expand the highway program apparently went out today.

Senator Francis Case (Rep.), South Dakota, told the Senate, after conferring with members of the House Public Works Committee, that he had abandoned the idea of trying to amend a minor bill to provide for a step-up in spending on the interstate highway system.

He said he had been advised by the House members that they would "not entertain a vote" on such an amendment even if the Senate adopted it.

The House passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate a bill to increase the pay of top officials in government, with cabinet members getting a $2500 increase for top executive pay of $25,000 a year.

The bill, if enacted, would complete the round of government pay increases by adding some 300 federal executives to the approximately 2,000,000 other government employes who already have received pay hikes.

Including career incentive increases voted the armed services, the Government-wide round of increases voted by Congress this year approximates a billion and a quarter dollars a year. This does not include increases of $7500 a year which Senators and House members voted themselves.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to repeal the 10 per cent tax on travel from the United States to nearby countries—Canada, Mexico, Central America and the Caribbean area.

The House refused to give the President authority to appoint more young men to the cadet corps at West Point and the new Air Force Academy.

On objections from the floor, the House sent back to committee and killed for this session a bill authorizing the President to make 300 appointments annually to the two service schools. He is authorized now to name 89 cadets to each academy, with most of these places reserved for sons of officers.

The Senate sent to the White House for approval a House-approved supplemental appropriations bill to pay for hundreds of military construction jobs throughout the nation.

PEIPING CONGRESS VOTES MILITARY SERVICE LAW

TOKYO, July 30 (AP)—Peiping radio said today the closing session of the National Peoples (Communist) Congress in Peiping unanimously adopted a military service law.

"The law stipulates that all Chinese male citizens between the ages 18 and 40 are obligated to take up military service, either active or reserve," the broadcast stated.

"Women are exempt from military service," the radio said, "but the Defense Ministry has the right to register women between the ages of 18 and 40 with medical, veterinary and other special technical training for reserve service and mobilize them in wartime for active service in their special fields."

The broadcast said the length of active service for non-commissioned officers and privates is three years in the ground and public security forces, four years in the air force, coast guard and seaborne public security forces and five years in the navy.

Action Deferred on Henning's Election Laws Measure.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 30—The Senate tonight put off action on a bill revising and modernizing federal election laws until the next session.

The measure was sponsored by Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem.), Missouri. It would increase the amount which could be spent on election of senators and representatives and make primary elections subject to federal election laws.

With Congress pressing for adjournment early next week, Senate action on the bill has been deferred until next year, Hennings announced. He said he believed the bill would be passed then.

CANADA TO REVEAL ITS ATOMIC POWER PLANS AT GENEVA

OTTAWA, Ont., July 30 (AP) —Canada announced today that it would submit detailed plans for its first atomic power station to the United Nations atomic energy conference in Geneva Aug. 8-20.

The government nuclear power project, Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., said in a statement the experimental station would cost more than $11,000,000, start operating in 1958 and generate between 10,000 and 20,000 kilowatts of electricity.

This electricity, the statement added, will cost too much to compete commercially with hydro or coal-produced current.

The site, previously announced, will be near the village of Des Joachims, Que., on the Ottawa river about 150 miles northwest of here and some 40 miles northwest of the government's atomic establishment at Chalk River, Ont.

Atomic Energy will supply about $8,000,000 and Canadian General Electric about $2,000,000 of the cost. The latter firm is responsible for detailed design, engineering and construction.

SENATE OK'S APPOINTMENT OVER COMMITTEE OBJECTION

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP) —The Senate last night confirmed by a 43-to-41 vote the nomination of John A. Hall of San Francisco as director of locomotive inspection for the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Senate Commerce Committee had recommended against the appointment. Hall has held the job since last October, pending confirmation.

Commerce Committee Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (Dem.), Washington, said Hall was favored by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which supported President Eisenhower in 1952, but was opposed by other railroad unions and by the International Association of Machinists.

1.8 BILLION CUT OFF EISENHOWER FUND REQUESTS

Congress Appropriations of About $52,200,000 Stir Talk of Tax Slash.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) — The Eighty-fourth Congress cut almost two billion dollars off the money requests of President Eisenhower. This cut, coupled with prospects for rising revenues, has spurred hopes for a balanced budget next year.

With all the major money bills disposed of, the record showed that President Eisenhower was given about $1,800,000,000 less than the 54 billion dollars in new money he requested.

His original requests were for $53,800,000,000, but he later revised that upward. Congress actually appropriated $52,100,000,000 of this, exclusive of whatever amount is finally provided to finance Congress itself. This is expected to approximate $100,000,000 and is the only appropriation not yet cleared through Congress.

Cuts in Defense and Aid.

The biggest cuts were in defense, foreign aid and public works appropriations.

In comparable bills last year, Congress voted $49,600,000,000, exclusive of a $1,600,000,000 supplemental measure enacted this year for activities for which there were no appropriations made last year.

In addition to the $52,100,000,000 in definite appropriations voted this year, Congress tacitly authorized the appropriation of about $6,800,000,000 in indefinite funds, mainly interest on the national debt. No actual appropriation is made for these indefinite needs annually, since they are provided for in permanent laws.

Added to the definite appropriations, the allotments allowed by permanent law boosted this year's total to about $58,900,000,000.

Cuts in presidential money requests made this year may be offset next year by so-called deficiency appropriations. Congress frequently cuts departmental budgets one year only to discover that it cut too deeply and must restore some of the money in the following year.

Predictions of Tax Cut.

The fiscal outlook already has brought predictions from some members that Congress may be able to reduce taxes next year. They contend that the budget may be brought into balance as a result of reduced appropriations plus additional tax revenues which continued good business conditions may bring.

Senators Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, and Robertson (Dem.), Virginia, already have pointed to the possibility of a balanced budget during the current fiscal year if federal revenues continue at their present high pace and Congress does not offset next year some of the appropriation cuts made this year.

Top House members have said they will push for tax relief for individuals next year if there is a prospect of a balanced budget.

SENATE OK'S BILL TO LIMIT AEC 'ONE-MAN RULE'

Measure Called "Murray Amendment' Sent to President, Who Is Expected to Sign It.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The Senate passed and sent to the White House today a bill intended by some Democrats to limit what they consider "one-man rule" of the Atomic Energy Commission by Chairman Lewis L. Strauss.

The measure, sometimes referred to as the "Murray amendment," grew out of charges that Strauss had withheld information about important AEC business from Commissioner Thomas E. Murray.

President Eisenhower is expected to sign the bill into law, since the same measure also contains an Administration-sponsored amendment permitting a recess appointee to the AEC to draw full salary in Congress's recess.

Full Access to Data.

The "Murray amendment" would change the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 to state explicitly that each member of the commission "shall have full access to all information relating to the performance of his duties or responsibilities."

Companion bills adding the new language were introduced last week by Senator Clinton P. Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, and Representative Chet Holifield (Dem.), California, a member of the committee. Anderson repeated the "one-man rule" charge on the Senate floor and urged enactment of the measure.

Last Wednesday, however, Anderson reversed himself. After a "clarifying talk" with Strauss, Anderson said he was persuaded he had done Strauss an injustice and would not press for Senate action on the full-information amendment.

Holifield seized an opportunity to revive the amendment's chances at a closed meeting of the joint committee Thursday afternoon, the Post-Dispatch has learned.

Republicans on the committee brought up the Administration's bill providing salary for a recess appointee to the commission. A fifth seat on the AEC still is vacant, since the President withdrew the nomination of Allen Whitfield, a Des Moines, Iowa, attorney, after Whitfield refused to answer congressional inquiries about certain banking transactions.

Holifield Pledge

Holifield told the committee he would support the Administration's measure, but only if the "Murray amendment" were added to it. The committee unanimously reported the two-part bill Thursday, and the House passed it yesterday.

When the measure reached the Senate floor today, no one opposed it. Anderson and minority leader William F. Knowland (Rep.), California, also a member of the joint committee, both spoke in favor of it.

Both made it clear that they believed that all commissioners already were entitled to full information about AEC business. They said also that the amendment was not intended to require Strauss, who attends National Security Council meetings as atomic adviser to the President, to divulge NSC information on matters other than atomic energy to his fellow commissioners.

Outright Bar on $1-a-Year Men In U.S. Jobs Defeated in House

Limiting Them to Advisory Role Is Approved—Extension of Defense Production Powers Voted.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) —After sharp debate, the House today defeated a Democratic proposal to bar dollar-a-year men from government service but approved a provision generally limiting them to advisory roles.

Then the House approved a bill extending for one year government powers under the Defense Production Act to continued building a strategic stockpile and expanding war-useful industries. The measure now goes to a conference committee to adjust differences with a bill passed by the Senate July 19.

The bill extends authority for priorities to obtain strategic stockpile materials, for incentives including fast tax write-offs to build a broader industrial base, and for government machinery to handle priorities on civilian materials in another emergency.

Republicans in Majority.

Representative Patman (Dem.) Texas, contending unpaid officials no longer were needed, offered an amendment that would prevent the Government from employing anyone without compensation. It was defeated by voice vote.

With Republicans present at the time holding a numerical majority, Representatives Vanik (Dem.), Ohio, and Multer (Dem.) New York, also lost on a series of proposals specifically to limit the activities of dollar-a-year men.

Leading the opposition, Representative Halleck (Rep.) Indiana, remarked: "I resent the implication you hear all the time that these people somehow must all be croocks. They are loyal Americans. Thank God we have them."

The bill, as finally approved, provides that "so far as possible" unpaid officials shall be limited to advisory positions. On policy matters, it provides that they "be limited to advising appropriate full-salaried government officials who are responsible for making policy decisions."

Similar Senate Action.

The Senate had adopted a similar amendment.

Patman argued that the practice of permitting unpaid government officials to continue receiving salaries from their private firms "could make the government a vehicle for private business." He said it permits a "conflict of interest" in which the official is torn between loyalty to the government and the company paying his salary.

"We are attempting to perpetuate in time of peace something we have never had before except in wartime," he said.

The policy of using unpaid consultants, adopted in both World wars, was revived for the Korean conflict.

SENATE OK'S EWAN CLAGUE AS LABOR STATISTICS CHIEF

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) —The Senate tonight confirmed the appointment of Ewan Clague of Pennsylvania to be Commissioner of Labor Statistics.

At the same time it confirmed David W. Kendall of Michigan as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Fred C. Scribner Jr. of Maine as general counsel for the Treasury Department.

No action was taken tonight on the appointment of Newel Brown of New Hampshire as administrator of the Federal Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor.

POPE WELCOMED BY VILLAGERS TO SUMMER PALACE

CASTLE GANDOLFO, Italy, July 30 (AP)—Pope Pius XII arrived today at his summer residence in the Alban hills.

Three or four thousand priests, tourists and villagers were here to greet him. They bowed in the village square while he blessed them.

In a letter published today in the Vatican newspaper l'Osservatore Romano, the Pope lauded St. Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus (Jesuits), who died in Rome 400 years ago tomorrow. He told the leader of the society, the Rev. John Baptist Janssens, he was glad to note celebrations that will be held to honor St. Ignatius in the coming year.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP) —President Eisenhower today accepted the resignation of Dr. Charles S. Keefer, director of medical affairs at Boston University, as assistant to the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, effective Monday.

RIOTING FLARES IN MOROCCO, 15 REPORTED KILLED

Outbreaks Occur During Moslem Services — Worst Fighting at Marrakech.

CASABLANCA, Morocco, (Sunday), July 31 (AP)—Moroccan nationalists rioted during Moslem religious services Saturday in a series of anti-French demonstrations. Fifteen or more persons were killed.

The worst fighting was at Marrakech, whene ten demonstrators were reported killed. Two Europeans, including a young woman, were wounded.

In Moulay Idriss five persons were reported killed. Forty-six persons were wounded at Marrakech and Moulay Idriss.

In Algeria, to the east of Morocco, some 30 persons were killed last night and today. Troops killed 25 or more guerrillas in an all-night fight. Three Algerians were found with their throats cut in the Aures mountains, center of a revolt that started last November. Another rebel in a band of 10 was killed at Souk-Ahras near the Tunisian border. The body of a kidnapped town councillor from a suburb of Philippeville was discovered.

Moulay Idriss is a city of nearly 10,000, sacred to Moslems celebrating their biggest religious festival of the year—Aid-el-Kebir. One of those reported killed was the French lieutenant of a company of firemen. The other four were Moroccan demonstrators, presumably nationalists. Eight other demonstrators were reported wounded.

The French agency said the trouble was started by a Moroccan girl who gathered a mob by waving the green and red flag of the Moroccan empire.

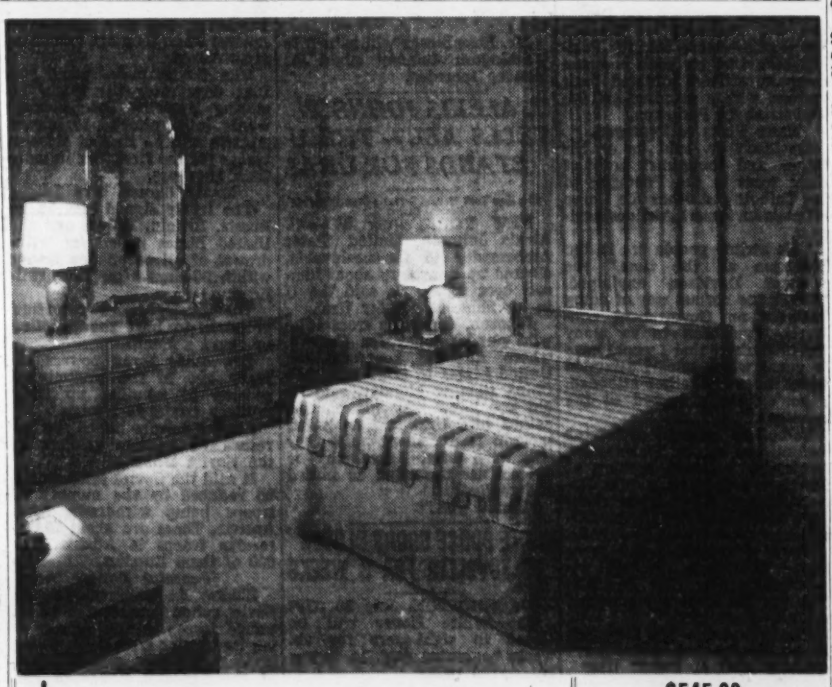

Reinforcements were hurried from Meknes. A guard was thrown around the city gates and a 9 p.m.-5 a.m. curfew established.

In Paris, the French National Assembly early today gave Premier Faure authority to extend the state of emergency in Algeria for six months beyond its Oct. 3 expiration date. Faure's government said a big effort is needed to bring calm to Algeria, which is administered as a part of France.

SENATE OK'S SALK MEDAL

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) —A special gold medal was voted by Congress tonight to Dr. Jonas E. Salk for his development of polio vaccine.

Senate passage sent to President Eisenhower a resolution to authorize the preparation and presentation of the medal to the Pittsburgh scientist.

SYMINGTON SAYS GAO BESMIRCHED YOUNG WITHOUT CHANCE TO REPLY

Senator Asserts Action 'Marks New Low in Government From Standpoint of Justice, Fair Play.'

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Staff Correspondent of the PostDispatch

WASHINGTON, July 30. — Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.) of Missouri said today the General Accounting Office had "besmirched" Howard I. Young, St. Louis mining company executive, without giving Young a chance to defend himself.

In a speech in the Senate, Symington said that GAO's action in the Young case "marks a new low in government from the standpoint of justice and fair play."

Symington said the Accounting Office had admitted it made some false accusations in a report on Young's activities as unpaid deputy administrator of the now-defunct Defense Materials Procurement Agency, which ran the government's program of stockpiling strategic minerals in the Korean emergency.

Official Explanation.

Meanwhile, Assistant Comptroller General Frank H. Weitzel, second in command of the GAO, gave the Post-Dispatch an official explanation of the main points in the report. Young has denied some allegations made by the Accounting Office.

Weitzel told the Post-Dispatch the principal conclusion in the GAO report had not been withdrawn or changed in any way.

The chief GAO charge was that Young participated in negotiations leading to government contracts with three "marginal" mining firms, while at the same time Young's company, American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. of St. Louis, had various dealings with the three mining outfits.

Weitzel's explanation made it clear the GAO also was standing by its contention that "sound principles of public administration" may have been violated in the handling of the zinc expansion program while Young was deputy head of DMPA.

However, Weitzel said one GAO charge against Young had been withdrawn and another had been modified. On the other hand, the Accounting Office still contends that Young's testimony before a Congressional committee was wrong in two places, Weitzel said.

Young was deputy DMPA administrator from 1951 to 1953, while continuing to head the St. Louis firm, from which he received his regular salary. His government service was as a "WOC" (without compensation).

Symington told the Senate that Young "has been charged with wrongdoing by the General Accounting Office without ever having a chance to present his side of the case, to anybody, even though Mr. Young pleaded with GAO that he be allowed that normal Anglo-Saxon right."

"Pilloried in Press."

"After this right was denied him," Symington continued, "Mr. Young was pilloried in the press. Now it turns out that some of the accusations originally made in the GAO report against Mr. Young are admitted by the GAO to have been false."

The Accounting Office's report, submitted by Comptroller General Joseph Campbell, said Young's alleged part in the contract negotiations constituted an apparent "conflict of interest."

Senator John J. Williams (Rep.), Delaware, told Symington he would reply to the Missourian's statement Monday with a "full review" of the facts in the case. Williams originally made parts of the GAO report public.

Symington referred to one charge which the GAO continues to back. This was the allegation that Young's firm delivered zinc to the Government at a price 1½ cents above market price.

Symington said he had investigated this charge "and now declare (it) to be false in implication."

He told the Senate negotiations for the sale of zinc began before Young became deputy DMPA administrator. Twenty days after Young's appointment the contract was completed and signed by the then administrator of DMPA, Symington said.

"Mr. Young had absolutely nothing to do with it in that period of time," he continued. "All the details had been completed."

Symington said he had talked to Jess Larson, former DMPA administrator, and added: "If these facts as given me (by Larson) are true, then — the GAO is guilty of base deception in (its) effort to further damage Mr. Young with false information.

"If the above facts are true, the era of the General Accounting Office under the great Lindsey Warren has drawn to a close.

"Apparently charges are now to be made without giving the accused an opportunity to present his position. Charges now demonstrated false have been only partially retracted."

In his explanation of the GAO's position, Weitzel listed five points on which the Accounting Office and Young differ:

1. The basic GAO charge that Young took part in the contract negotiations with the three mining companies and that this constituted an apparent conflict of interest. As a corollary, the GAO questioned whether this resulted in unsound administration of the zinc stockpiling program.

Weitzel emphasized that the GAO has not changed these two basic contentions. He said Young has denied participating in the negotiations.

The GAO contended the loans to the three small mining companies were unsound, and that the Government lost between $350,000 and $400,000 when the three firms failed to produce the expected amount of zinc.

2. The GAO charge that Young's firm sold 1167 tons of zinc to the Government at 1½ cents a pound above market price. Weitzel said the GAO had modified this statement to read that the St. Louis firm delivered zinc to the Government at a previously-set price.

Market Price Down.

The contract, signed in October 1952, called for a price of 15½ cents a pound. When deliveries began the following summer, the market price had dropped to 14 cents a pound, Weitzel said. However, escalation clauses in the contract resulted in a price of 19½ cents being paid for some of the zinc, he added.

This meant that Young's firm actually received 5½ cents more than market price for some of the zinc, Weitzel said. Young became deputy DMPA administrator in September 1951.

3. The GAO charge that Young's firm sold $60,000 worth of mining equipment to one of the three mining outfits, Mid-Continent Mining Corp. of West Plains, Mo. Weitzel said this statement had been withdrawn after GAO investigators admitted they were mistaken.

However, the GAO now states that Young's company had a partial interest in the patent on the process utilized by the machinery and would have received a royalty if the machinery had been used, Weitzel said.

4. The GAO charge that Young erred in testifying that he had not been interviewed by GAO investigators before the report was issued. Weitzel said Young was interviewed, and the GAO was sticking by this statement.

5. The GAO charge that Young erred in testifying that his company had not entered into any DMPA contracts while he was with DMPA. Weitzel said the St. Louis firm did enter into two contracts while Young was with DMPA, one of them the October 1951 agreement.

Weitzel told the Post-Dispatch the GAO at no point charged Young with illegal actions. He said the report questioned whether the St. Louisan exercised sound judgment in participating in the contracts. Young has acknowledged that his firm had agreements with the three mining companies, under which it would buy any zinc concentrates they produced.

Held in Bank Robbery

REPUBLIC (MO.) BANK ROBBED, SAILOR HELD

17-Year-Old Admits Hold-Up —Caught Hour After Theft.

REPUBLIC, Mo., July 30 (AP) —For the second time this year the Farmers State Bank of Republic was robbed today, and for the second time an arrest of a suspect was made about an hour after the robbery.

State Highway Patrol headquarters said that a 17-year-old Navy service man had signed a statement admitting the robbery. Officers identified the youth as George Ben Edmondson, Jr., of Springfield, Mo., and said $4146 in cash and a $1200 check had been recovered.

In the signed statement, Edmondson said he had spent about $20. He told officers he was on two-day leave from his Navy station in Memphis.

State troopers G. B. Tappmeyer and R. W. Brown arrested Edmondson in nearby Springfield. A 16-year-old girl was with him in his car. Officers said they were satisfied she was not implicated in the robbery.

The robber walked into the bank at noon, drew a pistol on M. A. Buxton, cashier, and two other bank employes, Mrs. Buxton and Mary Jane Breashers.

He ordered them into a rear room, forced them to lie on the floor, then taped their wrists. He also taped the eyes of Mrs. Buxton.

The robber went to the front of the bank, thrust currency into money bags and drove away.

The bank was robbed Jan. 17 of $2538 and about an hour afterward state troopers took Edward White, Greene county farmer, into custody. His first trial resulted in a hung jury. Only yesterday a federal grand jury in Kansas City indicted White in connection with the robbery.

BOAT PILOT SETS RECORD IN DASH TO KANSAS CITY

Lee R. Sawyer finished a motorboat run up the Missouri river from St. Louis to Kansas City at 8:25 o'clock last night, establishing a record time for the 319-mile trip of 15 hours and 12 minutes.

The St. Louisan finished the journey well within his goal of 17 hours, despite the fact that his 15-foot boat, the Huckleberry Finn, struck an underwater obstruction about two miles from the finish line. The lower unit of one of its two 25-horsepower motors was sheared off.

Sawyer, an electrical engineer who lives at 4554 Red Bud avenue, made refueling stops at Jefferson City and Glasgow. His wife followed him along the highways by automobile and a friend also kept pace in a truck loaded with 150 gallons of gasoline.

TWO HOLDUP MEN STEAL $85 AT CRESTWOOD GAS STATION

Mark Burch, co-owner of a filling station at 9031 Watson road, Crestwood, reported he was robbed of $85 last night by two men who drove into the station as he was preparing to close.

He told police one of the men asked for a road map and when he went into the station to get it the man followed him. Inside the station the robber drew an automatic pistol and took Burch's wallet after forcing Burch to tear the telephone off the wall.

The robbers drove away in their automobile after forcing Burch to run north from the station.

ST. LOUIS GIRL INJURED IN INDIANA PLANE ACCIDENT

Gwen Bakewell, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bakewell, 126 Linden avenue, Clayton, was injured slightly Friday when a light plane in which she was a passenger made a crash landing near New Castle, Ind., after developing engine trouble, it was learned yesterday.

William T. Deacon, Kaycee, Wyo., the pilot, was treated for face and head injuries but the Bakewell child suffered only a bump on the forehead. A second passenger, Mrs. Jackson Johnson III, 22 West Sherwood drive, Overland, was unhurt.

Bakewell said the two were en route to Bolton Landing, N. Y., for a summer vacation.

HOUSE APPROVES ST. LOUIS FLOOD PROTECTION BILL

Authorization Measure Goes to President After Senate Version Is Adopted.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 30—A bill authorizing a $130,987,000 flood protection program for St. Louis was passed without objection by the House tonight. The measure now goes to President Eisenhower.

It authorizes an initial federal contribution of $123,020,000 for construction of a system of earthen levees and concrete floodwalls on the west bank of the Mississippi river at St. Louis, to protect against a flood stage of up to 52 feet.

House approval of the bill was under a motion to suspend the rules, making a two-thirds vote necessary for passage. No objections were heard. Under a parliamentary device, the Senate version of the bill, passed last Tuesday, was then substituted for the House measure.

Direct to Eisenhower.

This meant that the bill would not have to be returned to the Senate for concurrence and could go directly to the White House.

The House version was sponsored by Representative Frank M. Karsten (Dem.), St. Louis, and supported by the two other St. Louis area representatives, Mrs. Leonor K. Sullivan, Democrat, and Thomas B. Curtiss, Republican.

Passage of the bill by both houses puts Congress on record as favoring the flood control program. Actual appropriations will have to be sought in a separate appropriation measure. It is possible but unlikely that funds will be voted before Congress adjourns.

House backers of the bill said it might be possible to get an appropriation through that body, but with Congress pressing for adjournment, it was believed unlikely a money bill could get through both houses.

Under the bill, two sections, or reaches, of the flood protection program would be built initially. They are reaches Three and Four, extending from Moline creek to Chippewa street. The program would also include flood protection for the Chain of Rocks Waterworks.

Reaches One, Two and Five were held up for further study by the Army Corps of Engineers to determine if they would give a favorable ratio of costs to benefits.

St. Louis Share.

The authorization measure specifies that the City of St. Louis will contribute to the cost of the project in money and land. The city's share is estimated at $7,967,000. The project, based on a study by the Corps of Engineers, would take at least six years to complete.

St. Louis voters recently approved a $7,547,000 bond issue to pay the city's share of the project. Revised cost estimates submitted by the Engineers earlier this month indicated the city's share would be increased by $420,000.

HOLDUP VICTIMS TO SEE MAN HELD IN POLICE BEATING

Painstaking Work Leads to Arrest Here of Five Sought in Kansas City Kidnaping.

Charles W. Ayres Jr., 26-year old former reformatory inmate held for the beating and kidnaping of Patrolman Robert Holcomb of Kansas City, will be viewed today by victims of holdups committed here in recent months, police announced.

Ayres and four other persons were arrested Friday as the result of painstaking work by St. Louis detectives who acted on fragmentary information given them by Kansas City police. Ayres had in his possession a .357-caliber revolver identified as having been taken from Officer Holcomb July 8.

The others arrested were Mrs. Doris Havard, 18, of Garden City, Kan., who, with Ayres, had been living in the 5800 block of Clemens avenue; Harry A. Ayres, 24, Charles Ayres's brother, also of the Clemens avenue address; Mrs. Mattie Ayres Howard, 21, Ayres's sister, 1300 block of North Ninth street, and a 26-year-old laborer living in the 1300 block of Temple avenue.

Detective Lt. James Shea said Kansas City police obtained information leading to the arrests from Kenneth Don Hood of St. Louis, who Thursday admitted beating and kidnaping Holcomb and locking him in the trunk of an abandoned automobile.

Hood, who escaped from the Workhouse here last June 19, said he had an accomplice in the kidnaping named "Lewis McLain" and said "McLain" lived somewhere west of Goodfellow and north of Delmar" in St. Louis. He warned that "McLain" was dangerous and would resist arrest.

Eighteen detectives were assigned to the case and they began making a door-to-door canvass of the area indicated by Hood. Hours after the canvass began, officers found the house on Clemens where a man giving the name of "McLain" was living.

Mrs. Havard was taken into custody at the apartment. Officers found in her purse a cartridge case which was identified as having been taken from the Kansas City policeman. They also found a 12-gauge sawed-off shotgun and shells, and stolen money orders on the Bank of St. Louis.

County Police Functioning Well Despite Obstacles, DuBois Says

Superintendent Tells of Problems in First Month — 'Faced Confusion All the Way,' He Asserts.

St. Louis county's new police department ends its first month of existence today with its leaders still working to overcome many problems of administration before it will become a smoothly-operating unit.

"It's remarkable how well the department has functioned despite major obstacles," Superintendent Albert E. DuBois, who took the job following his retirement from the Philadelphia Police Department, told the Post-Dispatch.

"We've faced confusion all the way," he said. "It is quite an experience to organize a police department where there was none before. We had such little time. The Supreme Court didn't act on the department's legality until 48 hours before it was scheduled to go into existence, and the County Council couldn't get the budget approved until eight days before the deadline."

Office Problems.

Employes have worked at headquarters of the department, located in the old Clayton Masonic Temple at 9 North Meramec avenue, under extremely trying conditions. Secretaries take dictation and telephone clerks receive complaints of crimes over the din of carpenters building partitions around them. The unwary are in danger of tripping over lumber when they walk about the station.

"My office was finished only last Wednesday," DuBois said. "For the first couple of weeks I worked strictly out of my hat and briefcase. It was a problem keeping the patrol cars in operation the first two days. We had to inventory the cars, which were turned over to us by deputy sheriffs and constables, while they were in motion."

The superintendent said one of his problems has been insufficient time to become thoroughly acquainted with his men.

"I must get to know each man as an individual," he said. "I had the opportunity to talk to each man at length only once before the appointments were made. There hasn't been time for any further discussions with them."

Assignments Are Temporary.

Present duty assignments are only temporary, he said, and future appointments will be made on the basis of competitive examinations.

The department, which has 17 civilian employes, has an authorized complement of 76 commissioned men. Twenty of the police officers have had no previous police experience. Some of the original holdovers from the sheriff's office have quit for various reasons. Two were dismissed when it was found they had criminal records.

There remain three vacancies, including the position of deputy superintendent. DuBois said he was preparing a stiff competitive examination for deputy candidates. He is hoping it can be filled by a Missourian with a good police background.

Members of the department already are being trained in pistol shooting and automobile driving. Within a short time, DuBois said, he will begin other phases of training, including briefing in radio transmission procedure and courses of instruction by FBI agents, the county coroner's office and assistant prosecuting attorneys.

3000 Complaints Received.

Almost 3000 complaints, ranging from a woman suburbanite's complaint that busy woodpeckers were keeping her awake to the finding of a murdered man's body in the trunk of an automobile, have been received at the station.

The biggest crime cleanup to date has been the arrest of a juvenile gang, members of which admitted 17 burglaries in the Affton area. The department has been working unceasingly on the automobile trunk murder of Floyd Oestricker.

Although enforcement of traffic laws in unincorporated areas of the county is the department's responsibility, DuBois has been unable to tackle this phase of his work as yet. That will come when some of the more pressing problems are solved, he said.

Satisfied With Headquarters.

DuBois expressed satisfaction with the 53-year-old Masonic Temple as headquarters, saying it was well built and well located. He said a larger headquarters was not necessary because the police operation would be decentralized later to serve properly the county's 500 square miles.

One of the biggest problems immediately facing DuBois will be putting into effect a provision of the county police charter amendment authorizing the department to furnish special services to incorporated areas by contract.

Representatives of three villages and one city have inquired about obtaining such service thus far, but no contracts have been drawn up. No one has suggested a basis for establishing a contract price. DuBois said he has found no precedent for setting a price for this service.

FOUR CHILDREN ARE DROWNED AT WASHINGTON, MO.

Lose Lives in St. John's Slough on Missouri River When Inner Tube Slips.

Four children drowned yesterday in St. John's slough on the Missouri river at Washington, Mo., about 50 miles southwest of St. Louis. They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Whitley Sr., of Washington.

Drowned were Bernadine, 14 years old; Robert, 10; Wyoneda, 8, and Wanda, 7. The bodies had not been recovered after a six-hour search late yesterday and the search was abandoned until this morning.

Chief of Police A. E. Smith told the Post-Dispatch the four children left their home late yesterday morning telling their mother they were going to a pond near the river. Also with them was a fifth Whitley child, 6-year-old Wesley, the only witness to the drownings.

Despite repeated warnings from their mother, the children apparently went to the slough where the current is swift and treacherous and the water eight to 10 feet deep.

The Wesley boy told Smith an inner tube slipped from the children as they stepped into deep water. First to disappear was Wanda. Wyoneda grabbed for her but was pulled under. Bernadine, the eldest in the wading party, then attempted to save the other two, but also was pulled under. Robert, when he saw his three sisters were missing, also tried to save them, but disappeared, Wesley related to police.

Wesley, who was told to stay out of the water by his sister, Bernadine, waited about 20 minutes for the other children to reappear. He than ran home, a distance of one mile, and informed his parents.

Whitley immediately [illegible] search of the children. He was joined by police o[illegible] other persons, who discovered the children's clothing on a sandbar in the slough.

Smith said apparently several persons had seen the children on the bank of the slough and warned them to stay out of the deep water there. Benjamin Schroeder, of the Washington Boat Club, said he saw three of the children wading at the mouth of the slough and cautioned them about a "step off" in the area.

The four children were members of a family of 12 children. Their father is an employe of the Missouri Meerschaum Co., a corncorb pipe manufacturing firm.

MORSE WANTS TALBOTT QUERIED ON STOCK DEAL

Quotes Affidavit He Says May Link Secretary in Fight for Corporation Control.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) —Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.) Oregon, repeating his demand that Harold E. Talbott resign or be fired, called tonight for renewed investigation of the Air Force Secretary's outside business activities.

In a Senate speech, Morse quoted an affidavit which he said indicated Talbott may have been interested in a fight for control of the Electric Auto-Lite Corp. last year. Talbott gave up his holdings in that firm when he took the Air Force post in 1953.

Making no direct allegations, Morse said Talbott should be asked also whether he was involved in last year's fight for control of the New York Central Railroad, won by New York financier Robert R. Young.

'To Determine Validity'

Morse called on the Senate Investigations subcommittee to review the new information he said he has, "in order to determine what validity there is to it." He said that "Secretary Talbott's record demonstrates quite clearly that he did not possess the attributes so necessary in a public servant."

Part of Morse's new attack was based on what he called a sworn statement from William J. Hudson Jr. who described himself as a financial anaylst employed last year "to advise Alleghany Corp. on its investment portfolio." Alleghany is an investment holding company headed by Young.

Hudson said Clayton Irwin, whom he identified as a $25,000-a-year political consultant of Alleghany Corp., had told him last Oct. 8 that the firm had authorized purchase of up to 25,000 shares of Electric Auto-Lite for "certain Washington reasons which cannot be discussed."

Note in Diary.

Hudson said he noted in his diary at the time that "I suspect Harold Talbott, Secretary of the Air Force, who is thick with Young and Irwin, is partially responsible."

Three days later, Hudson said, an Alleghany Corp. official told him the firm "had bought 25,000 shares of Electric Auto-Lite for the sole purpose of helping the present management of Auto-Lite to stay in."

"On Nov. 8, 1954," Hudson's statement continued, "Clayton Irwin asked me to make up an analysis of 'a good capital gains situation' for a Brig. Gen. William Hipps who is on Harold Talbott's staff in Washington. I had to comply and sent one in on Reliance Mfg. Co."

Asks Questions.

Morse said senate investigators should get all details on the transactions he mentioned and ask Talbott these questions:

"Did Secretary Talbott and Mr. Clayton Irwin discuss anything that Mr. Talbott should do in relations to the New York Central fight?

"Did Mr. Talbott approach any other members of the present cabinet on the New York Central matter?

"What does Secretary Talbott know about the purchases by Alleghany Corporation of 25,000 shares of Electric Auto-Lite common stock in 1954 for the price of $989,000 and the sale of that same stock later in the same year of 1954 for $909,000?"

Chairman John L. McClellan (Dem.-Ark.) of the investigating subcommittee said "I have not seen the affidavit, but our committee will investigate anything of substance that comes to it."

The subcommittee already has looked into Talbott's activities as a special partner in Paul B. Mulligan & Co., a New York management engineering firm. President Eisenhower is studying the record of that hearing and has said he himself will decide the ethics of Talbott's actions.

Pressure To Resign.

Talbott, meantime, resisted mounting pressure that he resign.

"I will do whatever the President wishes me to do," he said yesterday. He dismissed as "just a rumor" reports from three highly placed Republican Senators that he already had decided to resign.

The Senate Armed Services Committee today unanimously approved the nomination of Dudley C. Sharp, a Houston (Tex.) Republican, as assistant secretary after he promised to avoid private business activities that might conflict with his new job.

Among other things, Sharp said, he had agreed to sell his 8000-share holding in the Texas Fund, Inc., a $25,000,000 investment fund he helped to found and serves as president. Earlier in the week, he had said he wanted to retain his holding, and the committee had delayed action on his nomination pending a study.

Sharp, who has said he owns stock in 28 corporations and is a director of several, said he would resign from and sell his stock in any firm that did business with the Government.

ELECTED TO COLLEGE BOARD

The Rev. W. Sherman Skinner, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, has been elected a member of the board of trustees of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, it was announced yesterday.

The Rev. Mr. Skinner succeeds the Rev. James W. Clarke. Before coming to St. Louis last May, the Rev. Mr. Skinner was pastor of East Liberty Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Firm of Talbott's Friend Favored

in the form of the two C-54s. These enabled the airline to handle a stepped-up logair schedule. Resort's mileage for the Air Force increased from 200,000 aircraft miles last April to 300,000 in May and again to about 400,000 this month.

C-54s a Special Form.

Talbott's own testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee last Feb. 9 shows that the Air Force was doing Resort a special favor in renting it the two C-54s.

The Secretary was asked whether the Air Force "could afford to turn loose to those contractors more planes than presently are in their possession under leasing operations and what not."

"Yes; I think we can," Talbott replied. "Not many. It depends on what they want. If they want the C-54s; no. We have a lot of C-46s, which are today not terribly desirable planes."

It was less than two months later that the Air Force rented the two C-54s to Resort airlines.

In its annual report for 1954, Resort said it owned five C-54s and leased three others "at rentals substantially below the present market." Records at Wright-Patterson show that Resort pays only $.204 per mile for rental of the two Air Force C-54s. A third is rented from a private firm.

Contract With Navy.

Records of the Navy Bureau of Supplies and Accounts here show that bids for the Navy air freight contract were opened June 1, 1954. Resort was low bidder, and it signed a contract with the Navy July 9, 1954.

Between those two dates, on June 23, 1954, Air Force headquarters in the Pentagon directed the Air Materiel Command at Wright-Patterson to lease the seven C-46s to Resort Airlinese. This order, on file at Wright-Patterson, came from Col. W. O. Murchison, chief of the procurement policy division, directorate of procurement and production engineering, office of the deputy chief of staff, materiel.

"Every effort should be made to expedite the lease of these aircraft," the Pentagon order said, "since the Navy contract on which they are to be used begins 19 July 1954, and considerable maintenance work by the lessee is no doubt required."

Davidson maintained that Resort could have performed the Navy contract with nine C-46s it already had, but he acknowledged that the company wanted to avoid the expense of converting them from passenger to freight aircraft.

No Planes for Other Firms.

There is some disagreement about whether the air materiel command complied properly with a priority list that had been set up to govern the leasing of the C-46s. Resort had a high priority, but for only three C-46s, an inspection of the list showed. Some competitors of Resort Airlines say they were trying, with necessary priorities, to lease Air Force C-46s at the same time, but without success.

Col. Frankel told the Post-Dispatch that the list applied only to leases for general commercial purposes and was not binding on leases for the purpose of carrying out defense contracts.

Others, including Bradley Nash, a deputy to the Assistant Secretary of the Air Force, materiel, have told the Post-Dispatch that the priority list governed all leases, for whatever purpose.

All three transactions were defended as entirely proper and in the normal way of doing business by Clinton Davidson Jr., as well as by Air Force officials at Wright-Patterson and in the Pentagon.

Davidson told the Post-Dispatch that each of the meetings with Talbott was brief and that in each case Talbott turned the request over to Roger Lewis, Assistant Secretary for materiel. Actual negotiations, in each case, always were conducted at Wright-Patterson.

Walter D. Sohier, assistant to the deputy for procurement and production in Lewis's office, said the Air Force had a continuing problem in the stream of business men coming to the Pentagon. Using business terminology, he said salesmen always seemed to consider it necessary to maintain good relations with executive management as well as with the purchasing agent.

Davidson and the Air Force officials made the further point that two other contract air lines had their logair contracts extended by negotiation last month and also obtained the use of Air Force planes to help them expand the contract operation. Davidson said representatives of all three firms called together on Talbott to ask for extension of their contracts.

However, the planes rented to the other two contractors were C-46s—the planes Talbott said were plentiful and "not terribly desirable" — not the C-54s, which he testified the Air Force was not making available to airline contractors at the time.

"We called on Secretary Talbott briefly, and he turned us over immediately to Roger Lewis," Davidson said.

"Lewis informed us that Wright Field would get in touch with us in a week or two if extensions of the contracts were going to be negotiated. If not, we would get invitations to make bid proposals."

Wright-Patterson later asked Resort for cost information, and negotiations began for extension of its contract. Davidson said he did not know whether the decision on negotiation as against competitive bidding was made in the Pentagon or at Wright-Patterson.

Colonel Made Decision.

Col. Frankel said he made that "command decision" himself and denied that he had received any direction from Talbott's office to extend Resort's contract.

Col. Frankel and others in the Air Force defended the contract extension on the ground that it would have disrupted the logair operation to change contractor.

They denied the truth of information, obtained elsewhere, that the Air Material Command had been sharply critical of Resort's operation under the previous contract. The Air Force made routine reports available to the Post-Dispatch after a 24-hour delay and consultation with Talbott's executive assistant, Brig. Gen. William G. Hipps. No indication of this reported criticism could be found in the reports.

Davidson said Talbott had no financial interest in Resort Airlines. He denied also that the Mulligan firm ever had done any work for Resort.

Talbott and others have testified that he received $132,032 as a partner in the firm of efficiency experts in his two and a half years as Air Force Secretary. Senate inquiry has centered on Talbott's letters and telephone calls from his Pentagon office leading to employment of the Mulligan firm by defense contractors.

One of Talbott's letters, to Mulligan, dated May 20, 1953, says in part:

"I inclose herewith a note from Clinton Davidson, who is a friend of mine. You might drop him a note and ask him, at some convenient time when he is in New York, to drop by and see you in our offices. I think, if you can explain to him in detail the line of work that you are doing, that he might really be of assistance to you."

Note to "Dear Harold."

The inclosed note, addressed "Dear Harold" and signed "Clinton," said:

"I came across a memorandum in my files that about six or seven months ago you introduced me to Mr. Paul Mulligan.

"I said I thought I could be of some assistance to Mulligan, and you told me that you would get in touch with me by telephone. I have heard nothing from him since, but I still believe I might assist him."

Clinton Davidson Jr., said his father started business in New York as an estate planner for wealthy families, engaged mainly in helping them minimize tax payments. Later, the elder Davidson organized Fiduciary Counsel, an investment service. The son said his father followed a policy of dealing with only wealthy clients, limiting his clientele to 100.

Later, the younger Davidson went on, his father organized another corporation, Fiduciary Management, financing it with about $500,000,000 obtained from some 50 of his investment clients who wanted to speculate. It was with these funds, the son said, that his father obtained control of Resort Airlines in 1950, doing this through an intermediary corporation, Resort Airlines of Delaware. The operating company is a North Carolina corporation.

Davidson Sr. is chairman of the executive committee of the operating company.

U.S. PROTESTS TO BULGARIA FOR DOWNING PLANE

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 30—The United States today dispatched a sharp protest to Bulgaria for the shooting down by Bulgarian anti-aircraft gunners July 22 of an Israeli airliner. Fifty-eight persons, including 12 Americans, were killed.

Calling the action "brutal," this Government laid down three conditions, the State Department announced. They are:

1. Assurance that Bulgaria take every possible step to avoid a recurrence of any such incident, and inform the United States precisely as to what those steps are.

2. Punishment of those responsible for the shooting and prompt advice to the United States as to who was punished, and how.

3. "Prompt and adequate" compensation, payable through the United States Government, to the families of Americans killed in the attack.

171 LAST-MINUTE APPEALS FILED ON ASSESSMENTS

Total of 470 Received by County Equalization Board—Most of Them Rejected.

One hundred and seventy-one St. Louis county real estate owners filed last-minute appeals of recent assessment increases yesterday with the county's Board of Equalization, in preparation for taking their cases to the State Tax Commission.

The 171 appeals filed before the deadline brought to about 470 the number received by the equalization board before its adjournment.

All but a few of the appeals were denied. Those not actually heard by the board were automatically rejected. Taxpayers given no relief by the local board may appeal to the State Tax Commission at Jefferson City until Aug. 15.

One last-minute appeal denied by the equalization board was by Brown Shoe Co., which persuaded the board Friday to reduce the assessment of its land in Clayton from $215,140 to $162,430. The company acted yesterday to obtain a still lower assessment.

The $162,430 figure still represents more than 30 per cent of the market value of the property, the company said. The board, in raising assessments of land in Clayton's commercial district, sought to make assessed values 30 per cent of market value, in line with a recent order of the State Tax Commission.

In order to attain this end, the State Tax Commission ordered assessments on all urban real estate in the county increased by 60 per cent and all rural property by 85 per cent.

This order is being carried out by County Clerk Leo E. Sievers in the form of a blanket increase on all land not covered by the equalization board's order affecting the Clayton commercial property.

Edward G. Boedeker, a board member, told the Post-Dispatch the company convinced the board the assessment, applied on the basis of the order, was too high, particularly in view of the value placed on American Investment Co. property across the street.

In granting the company's first request, the board reduced the value per front foot from $250 to $188.

NEWEST NEW LOOK: BERMUDA SHORTS, BUTCHER'S APRON

Customers at Union Market yesterday were surprised by the sight of Bermuda shorts worn in a new style—with a butcher's apron.

The wearer was Al Babor, 8245½ Monroe avenue, Vinita Park, one of three brothers who operate the John Babor Sausage Co. Besides the rust-colored shorts and the butcher's apron, Babor wore a tan sports shirt. His socks were short length.

Babor said he has been wearing Bermuda shorts at home and on social occasions for the last 10 summers, but yesterday was his first attempt to introduce the fashion to Union Market.

"It's got so doggone hot I just had to do something to cool off," he said. "And who knows? I might start a fad."

JET ACE FISCHER MARRIES AIR FORCE OFFICER'S WIDOW

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 30 (AP) — Capt. Harold Fischer Jr., 30-year-old United States jet ace released as a prisoner of war by the Chinese Reds last spring, was married today to the widow of an Air Force officer.

His bride is Mrs. Mary Jane Peterson, Des Moines, Ia., who correnponded with him regularly after his capture by the Chinese Communists in Korea. They met after his return to this country following his release in May.

It was the second marriage for both. Mrs. Fischer has a 5-year-old daughter, Dana Lynn, by her first marriage, and Capt. Fischer, who is from Swea City, Ia., has a 6-year-old son, Harold III. Fischer was divorced by his first wife on the day he was shot down in Korea nearly two years ago. The bride's first husband, a bombadier and friend of Fischer's was killed in the Korean war.

APPLICATION CLOSE AUG. 16 FOR COUNTY POLICE TESTS

Aug. 16 is the deadline for applications by persons who want to be included in the second police job testing program of the St. Louis County Police Department, it was announced yesterday.

Applicants will be given written and physical examinations Aug. 20 at Clayton High School. Those who pass these tests will be interviewed Aug. 27. Missouri residents are eligible, officials said, pointing out that the program is not solely for county residents.

Persons passing all tests will be placed on an eligible list and will be appointed as officers and trained whenever vacancies occur. Police Superintendent Albert E. DuBois said 20 persons passed the first tests given last month to 160 applicants. Of these, 18 have been appointed and are in training.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. William Zimmermann will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary with a reception this afternoon at Bethany Lutheran Church Hall, 3621 Clay avenue. He has been a teacher there since 1905.

The Zimmermans, who live at 4429 Bessie avenue, will have their four children and nine grandchildren with them at the reception.

Canada—NATO Nation Trade.

OTTAWA, July 30 (AP)—Canada in August will ship military supplies to six NATO countries under the mutual aid program: Vehicles and parts to Italy and Turkey, radars and trucks to Portugal, gun-towing vehicles and parts to Denmark, ammunition to Britain and jeeps to Holland.

HEADS FUND DRIVE UNIT

Paul M. Morris of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co. has been appointed chairman of the United Fund public relations committee, it was announced yesterday.

Morris, public relations director for the Frisco Lines, will work with 15 other persons appointed to his committee yesterday.

POLICE HAVE LEAD IN FINGERPRINTS ON CARR'S AUTO

Checking Them Against All Arrested — Not Made by Murdered Taxicab Driver.

Latent fingerprints which were identifiable were found on the automobile in which the body of Bobby Carr, murdered St. Louis taxicab driver, was found July 21, it was learned yesterday. The fingerprints are not Carr's.

The prints are being checked against those of all persons arrested for questioning by Madison county authorities in connection with the murder investigation.

Carr's body was found stuffed into the trunk of his automobile on a coal mine parking lot near Livingston in Madison county. The 24-year-old former Marine had been stabbed in the heart and shot four times.

Seven Ordered to Quit Area

Meanwhile, seven East St. Louis men arrested in a continuing investigation of prostitution were released yesterday with orders to "get out of St. Clair county."

Chief Deputy Sheriff Clifford Flood warned the men they would be picked up by deputy sheriffs every time they were seen in the county.

Flood and State's Attorney Fred P. Schuman of Madison county, at whose request the men were arrested Friday, questioned them for three hours. They were held at the county jail at Belleville after being rounded up by St. Clair county deputies and East St. Louis police.

Among those arrested were William Welch, living in the 1400 block of North Forty-second street, former operator of the Stork Club, a roadhouse which was destroyed by fire last month, and George Ladas, a tavern operator, 500 block of South Tenth street.

Ladas, an ex-convict, is at liberty on $17,500 bond posted in the appeal of his conviction July 12 in a morals case. He was sentenced to serve 15 years in prison.

With Welch when arrested was George (Stormy) Harvill, operator of the C & J Tavern at 8912 Collinsville road. Both men previously were questioned in the investigation of Carr's murder.

Flood said questioning of the men produced no new information about the killing of Carr.

East side authorities have been investigating for some time reports that a number of bombings and shootings which have occurred in the last two years have been an outgrowth of a struggle for control of the prostitution racket.

Madison county deputies last week raided five roadhouses on U.S. Highway 40 near the Fairmount race track and a man and a woman, arrested in East St. Louis, were charged with vagrancy after being questioned in the investigation of the Carr case.

India-Pakistan Pact on Trains.

NEW DELHI, July 30 (AP)—India and Pakistan have agreed to let passenger trains cross their borders starting in August. This would close a transport gap between the two parts of Pakistan separated by about 1000 miles of India.

GOLDEN WEDDING OBSERVANCE

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chappell, 5559 Terry avenue, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary this afternoon at the home of a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chappell, 3620 Patrice place, St. Louis county. They were married here and have lived at the Terry avenue address for 30 years.

Chappell, 70 years old, was employed at the Chevrolet General Motors plant before retiring three years ago. His wife is 68. They have another son, Benjamin Chappell, and three grandchildren.

HEARINGS IN MISSOURI ASC DISPUTE ASSURED

Humphrey Acts on Senators' Pleas, Call Farm Aid Situation 'Incredible.'

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 30 — A Senate Agriculture subdivision committee will investigate alleged "political manipulation" of the agricultural stabilization and conservation program in Missouri, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, has announced.

Humphrey, chairman of the subcommittee, told the Senate yesterday the Missouri ASC program "has been filled with political considerations" which approach "gross mismanagement."

He announced plans for the investigation after Missouri's Democratic Senators Thomas C. Hennings Jr. and Stuart Symington renewed their attacks on the program in Senate speeches.

Both Senators requested a Congressional inquiry.

A spokesman for Humphrey said the subcommittee probably would hold hearings in Missouri in October or November. Other members of the subcommittee are Senators W. Kerr Scott (Dem.), North Carolina, and Karl E. Mundt (Rep.), South Dakota.

Humphrey told the Senate the Missouri situation was "incredible." He said the system of farmer committeemen was being "made into a sort of window dressing."

In Missouri, the controversy has centered around Murray C. Colbert of Columbia, State ASC chairman, who has dismissed or suspended ASC committee members in several counties. Colbert was mildly rebuked by the Department of Agriculture last month after committeemen he suspended in Mississippi county were reinstated.

The local committee members are chosen by their neighbors to run the federal acreage control, soil conservation and farm price support programs. In most cases, the suspended or fired members said Colbert gave no reason for his action.

Visiting Russians as Interested In Electric Mixers as Combines —Associated Press Wirephoto.

Visiting Soviet farm delegates GEORGI BALSHAKOV (center) and VLADIMIR MATSKEVICH, delegation leader, enjoying a joke with A. V. SORENSON (left), president of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce at a dinner given Friday night in honor of their arrival in Nebraska. Balshakov is the delegation interpreter. The Russians began their three-day tour of Nebraska yesterday with visits to farms and a soil conservation project in the area.

Besides Carrying Out Farm Mission They Are Heeding Wives' Instructions to Inspect Homes.

By TOM WHITNEY

WAHOO, Nebr., July 30 (AP) —"These fellows are just as interested in electric mixers as they are in combines," said an American who has been traveling with the Soviet farm delegation for the last two weeks.

"You ought to see them when they get inside some of these houses!" he added.

"They ask about that mixer right away. And then they ask about a lot of other appliances too."

He described how he took some of the Russians to his modern home built just a year or so ago and let them loose there where there were no reporters or photographers to inhibit their curiosity.

"They were fascinated!" he said.

"But most of all," the American said, "they were intrigued by the touch latches in the house. When they came back to my home a second time one of the Russians who had been there the first time immediately took the entire group over to show them the touch latches."

(The touch latches provide push button opening of doors, etc.)

"I showed them the garbage disposal unit," the American said. "But we didn't have anything to dispose of right at that minute. So in order to demonstrate it I put an apple in it. And to tell the truth, since I don't know Russian, I'm not sure but what maybe they went away from the house thinking it was some new kind of an apple peeler!"

The Soviet farm group has been in the United States since July 16. It has been touring farms and associated enterprises in Iowa ever since—till yesterday when it came to Nebraska.

The Russians are interested in learning about American agricultural techniques.

The Russians were also sent to help sell the "new look" in Soviet foreign policy.

But these two missions are those which the Soviet government has sent them on.

Apparently the 12 Russians, who include some very high ranking people, have in addition another assignment as well.

This one they were given by their wives.

They were, at least some of them, told to bring back information which would help their wives in homemaking.

Thus Andrei Shevchenko is collecting, it's understood, American magazines dealing with housekeeping, homemaking, cooking and the like. Every chance he gets he adds to this collection.

Shevchenko and others of the Russians when they were at Iowa State College asked about home economics publications. They wanted them for their wives. They were pleased to receive some college bulletins on interior decoration and the like.

What they want is pictures—so their wives can understand them without having to have the text translated.

SOVIET PACE FAST FOR AMERICANS

NOVOROSSISK, U. S. S. R., July 30 (AP)—The United States farm delegation — hoping for fewer vodka toasts and more inspection tours—moved into the Koban farm lands of the Krasnodar region today.

Refreshed by a two-day voyage on the Black sea aboard the steamer Pobeda (Victory), the Americans came from Odessa, where they had weathered a real siege of Ukranian hospitality.

Although they arrived in a heavy rain, more than 5000 persons were on hand to greet them, including city officials laden with bouquets.

Nebraska's Dean William Lambert thanked the crowd for the welcome, but some of his fellow delegates winced, anticipating more big official lunches with multiple toasts which the Russians have been staging in efforts to outdo the Midwest hospitality the Russian delegates in the United States are receiving.

Herb Plambeck, the farm radio-TV representative with the United States delegation said:

"The American farmers hope the pace won't get any faster. With only a fourth of the trip finished, som members of the group are wearing down and wondering if they can stand up under the pressure of 16-hour and 17-hour days all the way.

"Although anxious to do their full part for the cause of improving international relations, the American farmers hope the 'vodka circuit' activities will slow down soon so more time can be devoted to seeing Soviet farm activities and livestock projects which is the aim of their visit.

"Some of the farmers also have expressed a wish that they will be shown more of the average collective farm projects rather than just the super-collectives, agricultural institutes and state farm experimental programs. They feel the Russians are showing them mainly showplaces."

Soviet Agriculture, official newspaper of the Ministry of Agriculture, observed in a three-colnmn article today that the visiting farmers are proving plenty inquisitive, trying to learn all they can and to help the Soviet farmers all they can.

Reporting the visitors' tour of the Ukraine, the newspaper said:

"The American farmers and agronomists quickly found a common tongue with the Soviet scientists, collective farmers and tractor workers. The Americans dug for facts. They are not satisfied with explanations alone. They test things out—measure the height of wheat and corn, check grain and try machines. They ask facts about collectives and machine stations.

"Our guests display special interest in corn, which is understandable for Iowans. But there is also farmer Ferris Owen from Newark, Ohio, who declared, "Don't let these Iowans tell you they've got all the corn. In my Ohio, there's just as much corn as in Iowa and it grows better in Ohio."

BERKELEY MAN ACCUSED OF CHILD MOLESTATION

Angelo Pilla, a welder, 6821 Graham road, Berkeley, was charged with child molestation in a warrant issued last night by Magistrate Raymond I. Harris at Clayton.

After waiving a preliminary hearing, Pilla was bound over for the grand jury and his bond set at $10,000.

Berkeley police said Pilla, 28 years old, was caught in the act of attempting to molest a 13-year-old Ferguson boy. He was arrested by Patrolman Raymond Bass, who had gone for target practice to the Berkeley police pistol range, at Eva and Frost avenues, where the offense occurred.

Antiquities Given to Greece.

ATHENS, July 30 (AP) — A museum of antiquities has been donated to Greece by the Archaeological Research Fund of New York University. It is on the island of Samothrace and contains all finds turned up by excavations started in 1939 by the fund under direction of Prof. Karl Lehmann. The most famous find on the island—in 1863—was the "Winged Victory" bowsprit sculpture, now in the Paris Louvre.

HOUSING, LAND CLEARING STAFFS TO CONSOLIDATE

Charles L. Farris Named Executive Director — Agencies to Have Joint Office.

Staffs of the St. Louis Housing Authority and the St. Louis Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority are being consolidated to produce more efficient administration of the slum clearance and public housing programs, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker announced yesterday.

Charles L. Farris, who came here from Washington 19 months ago to direct the work of the Land Clearance Authority, has been designated executive director of the consolidated staff. John J. O'Toole, who has served as executive director of the Housing Authority for the last three years, will be retained as a special assistant to Farris.

The Land Clearance Authority, with a staff of 13, has offices at City Hall, and the Housing Authority, which has a staff of 265, has its headquarters in the Bank of St. Louis Building at 901 Washington avenue. The agencies, which will retain their separate identities, will move soon to a joint office at 2031 Olive street.

Move Planned for Some Time.

The Mayor for some time has been planning closer co-ordination of the two municipal authorities, and to this end has been appointing commissioners to serve on both boards. Each agency has five commissioners who serve without pay.

Eugene C. Farrell, chairman of the Land Clearance Authority commissioners, also serves on the Housing Authority board. Raymond J. Noonan likewise is a commissioner of both agencies.

The Land Clearance Authority clears blighted areas of the city for private redevelopment which can take the form of housing, commercial, industrial or other projects. The Housing Authority clears slums for construction of low-rent apartments with federal aid.

The close relationship between these two forms of slum clearance has been intensified by the Housing Act of 1954, which specified that new public housing projects may be authorized only in cases where additional facilities are needed for relocation of families to be displaced by urban redevelopment projects, expressways, parks or other public works.

Similar Responsibilities.

"Consolidation of the staffs of the two agencies which have so many similar responsibilities and tasks will not only permit more efficient operation and management," Mayor Tucker declared, "but will expedite the process of relocation and rehousing that may arise out of the redevelopment and rebuilding program undertaken as a result of the recent $110,639,000 bond issue."

The Land Clearance and Housing Authorities already have been working together in some phases of their operations. In clearing the Plaza area for the city's first urban redevelopment project, the staff of the Housing Authority was used by the Land Clearance Authority to relocate families whose homes were torn down.

Commissioners Urge Move.

Commissioners of the two agencies have adopted resolutions pointing out the benefits of a staff consolidation. Since the municipal authorities are not being merged into a single agency, they will continue to function with separate boards of commissioners.

It was indicated that all the employes of the two agencies will be retained in the consolidation, at least for the time being.

The consolidated office on Olive street will occupy the remodeled fifth and sixth floors of an old loft building, and also a one-story building to be erected on an adjacent lot. The roof of the new structure is to be utilized for parking.

The new quarters are being leased for five years. Farris said the remodeled section should be ready for occupancy within 60 days, and the new section is expected to be completed in 120 days.

DICK HAYMES CASE ENDS TRAVEL BAR ON OTHER ALIENS

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) —Immigration officials said yesterday that aliens having legal permanent residence in this country may now travel freely to the territories and possessions without challenge to their admissability on returning to the United States proper.

This is a result of the now-abandoned deportation case against Argentine-born crooner Dick Haymes. The singer successfully resisted immigration service efforts to deport him after a 1955 trip to Hawaii to visit actress Rita Hayworth whom he later married.

The board of immigration appeals twice upheld the deportation order against Haymes. But a United States district court judge in Washington canceled the order May 31, ruling that Haymes did not leave the United States by going to the islands. The court said Hawaii is a geographical part of the United States.

The Justice Department disclosed earlier this week that it will not appeal these findings, thus accepting them as binding law.

SPACE SATELLITE WOULD LIFT VEIL OF ATMOSPHERE

Two Scientists Tell of Possibilities Such a 'Platform' Would Create.

Two of the scientists who announced United States plans for launching a space satellite tell in the following article how it opens up the outer-world. They are Dr. Alan H. Shapley, vice chairman of the United States National Committee for the International Geophysical Year, and Dr. Athelstan F. Spilhaus, a member of the group.

By Dr. Alan H. Shapley and Dr. Athelstan F. Spilhaus.
(Written Especially for International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, July 30—The launching of an instrumented artificial satellite opens up for the first time the possibility of man's looking at the universe around him from above the masking layers of the atmosphere.

We can, for instance, take a long look at the sun's radiations which are invisible to earth-bound observers. And we can detect and measure the incoming particles which cause the northern lights — before they reach the lower atmosphere.

How is this important to mankind?

In many, many ways.

For example, measurements like these not only help us to understand the nature of the universe but can have important and far-reaching effects in such fields as long-range climate forecasting or improved radio reception. Such a satellite might perhaps lead eventually to a world-wide television relay system.

And, of course, it should add to man's knowledge of space—knowledge which is essential before he can travel in space.

Many potential benefits can be foreseen from the information which could be transmitted from instruments on the satellite we propose. Increasing our knowledge of solar radiation, as an example, may ultimately permit us to anticipate—predict—whether the polar icecaps are melting, whether deserts are becoming more or less arid, and similar events in the far future which are important to all people.

Then too, our studies of disturbances in the electrified layer far above the Earth, which we call the ionosphere, may be beneficial because of its effect on radio communications.

And this project opens up the possibility of future satellite experiments. What we learn through these first trials will give us much information which man will need before such ambitious projects as space flight can be achieved.

But even a small satellite can be of inestimable value. In the future it might be feasible to use devices of this kind as relay stations in space which could pick up television waves from one part of the world and relay them thousands of miles.

The project is also important in many indirect ways. For example, much new basic knowledge in atomic physics can be obtained. This could come from extended studies of primary cosmic radiation—possible only from an observing point which stays above the Earth's atmospheric blanket for a long time.

Finally, it opens up the possibility for brand-new discoveries whose nature we cannot now imagine since we will be for the first time observing the universe at leisure from what is almost a space platform.

All of this will be the work of scientists of many nations who will be able to listen to whatever signals containing scientific information may be transmitted from the satellite while in space.

It is conceivable that observing points spread all over the world will keep track of the satellite and receive the scientific information from it.

Scientists of at least 40 countries will be co-ordinating their earth-bound observations of the Earth and its atmosphere in the international enterprise which is the International Geophysical Year.

Thus, any scientific results from the satellite will be all the more valuable because they are taken from this period—July 1957 through December 1958—when other types of supporting observations will be intensified all over the world.

There will be, for instance, an unusually large number of high altitude rocket flights taking more complicated measurements than the satellite, even though these rockets stay in the high atmosphere for only a few minutes.

Also there will be many indirect measurements of the high atmosphere and many measures of solar radiation through the atmosphere. Intensified observations of the sun, particularly of solar flares and sun spots, also will be made all over the world.

All of these investigations give the measurements from the satellite much more meaning.

This is an outstanding example of the possibilities of large scale co-operation in science, both co-operation among scientific fields and co-operation among the scientists of many nations.

G.O.P. CLAIMS GREATEST BOOM IN U.S. HISTORY

Sparkman Says Anything Good in Administration Record Is Work of Democrats.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) — The Republican National Committee claimed today "the greatest peak of prosperity in our nation's history" under the Eisenhower Administration which it said had gained "peace by design, not by accident."

In its party publication, "Straight From the Shoulder," the committee asserted that "everything's booming but the guns." Partly on that basis it called on Republicans to work for "an overwhelming vote of confidence" for President Eisenhower in 1956.

The G.O.P. publication called the party's record "Brilliant . . . perhaps unparalleled in the nation's history."

Dissenting from this, Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama, Democratic nominee for Vice President in 1952, said that if the Administration's record is good in any respects it's because the Democrats have made it so.

"Many movements which have worked toward both peace and prosperity have been virtually forced on the Republicans by the Democrats," he told a reporter.

"The latest instance of this is the Big Four conference at Geneva, which was proposed by Senator George (of Georgia) and which a majority of the Republicans have yet to indorse."

Sparkman said the Republicans also are "whistling in the dark" about some phases of the prosperity of which they are boasting.

"There is no great prosperity on the farms where the Agriculture Department reported that farm prices declined 2 per cent in the month ending in mid-July," he said.

ONE LAWYER SUES ANOTHER FOR SHARE IN $20,000 FEE

William C. McLaughlin, former assistant St. Louis county prosecuting attorney, filed suit at Clayton yesterday against Lovell W. George, Clayton lawyer, for a share of legal fees George reportedly received from a client who shared in a $500,000 estate.

In his suit, McLaughlin said he was asked by Mrs. Ouida M. Hauser to present her claim to a portion of the property left by an aunt, Mrs. Laura E. Whelpley, 5530 Delmar boulevard. As McLaughlin was campaigning for political office, he suggested to George that he represent Mrs. Hauser, the petition alleged.

McLaughlin said he learned Mrs. Hauser was awarded $108,000 and George, a $20,000 fee. In his petition, McLaughlin asked the court to order an accounting of all funds George received from the estate, and for a temporary restraining order to prevent payment of fees until the court can determine McLaughlin's share.

JULY CITY CONSTRUCTION PERMITS TOTAL $2,977,000

New construction valued at $2,019,000 and alterations costing $958,000 were authorized by permits issued this month, it was reported yesterday by William C. Dale, statistician for the Building Commissioner's office.

The $2,977,000 total is $389,000 less than the $3,366,000 in construction and alterations for which permits were issued in July of last year. New residential construction was valued at $1,001,000 and commercial and industrial construction at $1,018,000. The residential construction contained 118 new family dwelling units. Permits were issued during the month to raze buildings with 257 dwelling units. Of these, 183 were in the De Soto-Carr area where clearance is under way for a public housing project.

Value of construction and alterations authorized during the first seven months of this year is $8,239,000 less than in the same period of 1954. Last year permits for $38,762,000 in work were issued in the first seven months, as compared with $30,523,000 this year.

ation and assured the possibility of re-establishing an independent, democratic Austrian state," he said.

TROOPS TO LEAVE ROMANIA, HUNGARY

(Copyright, 1955, the London Observer.)

LONDON, July 30 — Soviet leaders have informed the Hungarian and Romanian governments of Moscow's intention to withdraw all Russian troops from those two countries by October, simultaneously with the withdrawal from Austria, it was learned here today.

The announcement has caused the Hungarian Communist government, in an effort to assure its survival without substantial changes of the regime, to begin a wave of arrests and deportations against all who showed interest in friendly contacts with either the Western powers or Yugoslavia during the relaxation of recent months.

President Josip (Tito) Broz's speech last Wednesday, accusing "individual leaders" of the Hungarian and Czechoslovak Communists of sabotaging the development of friendly relations with Yugoslavia to cover up their own past mistakes, has been followed by representations in Moscow by Yugoslav Ambassador Dobrivoje Vidic. It marks the first public disagreement among the signatories of the Soviet-Yugoslav declaration.

May Have Prompted Meeting.

The Soviet decision to disengage itself militarily from southeastern Europe now appears to have been taken at the same time as the decision to sign the Austrian treaty and to have been one of the decisive factors prompting the Belgrade meeting with Marshal Tito.

It is believed that this decision also was communicated by Soviet leaders to the Western heads of government at Geneva.

If carried out this would leave East Germany and Poland as the only European countries where Soviet forces are permanently stationed. Czechoslovakia, which has no Soviet garrisons, would cease to be surrounded by Russian-occupied countries except in the north and east.

The Hungarian government learned of this Soviet intention when its Minister-President Andras Hegedues visited Moscow last month. At the same time Soviet leaders stated firmly that the Communist governments in these countries would not be abandoned — their economies have been firmly integrated into the new Soviet five-year plan due to start next year—but expressed the belief that these regimes were by now strong enough to maintain themselves without the physical presence of Soviet troops.

The Hungarian government, beset with acute agricultural difficulties, was thrown into panic by this Russian announcement. Arrests of alleged "spies," Hungarians who had openly visited Western embassies, started immediately. Last Monday, Minister of Justice Eric Molnar summoned police and security officials and told them to "prepare for an emergency."

The wave of terror and intimidation followed. It has created an atmosphere which Communist officials compare with that created by the announcement of the doctors plot in Russia at the beginning of 1955.

Arrests and deportations to the eastern frontier area and confiscations of homes have hit hundreds, ranging from alleged friends of the West to distant relatives of political exiles and "deviators" within the Communist party itself.

2 WOMEN STRUCK ON HEAD BY BURGLAR IN HOME

Mrs. Nellie Beers, 75 years old, and Mrs. Anita Mommerz, 74, were struck on the head by a burglar who stole $50 from Mrs. Beer's purse at their home, 420 South Sixth street, East St. Louis, police reported yesterday.

The women, both widows, were in the basement trying to keep cool when they heard a noise upstairs, they told police. Mrs. Beers said she was knocked down by the burglar, a Negro, who was ransacking a bedroom.

The assailant fled when she screamed, Mrs. Beers said. He ran into Mrs. Mommerz, who had ascended the basement stairs, and knocked her down before escaping. Mrs. Beers suffered a contusion and Mrs. Mommerz a bruise. They were treated at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, and released. Entry into the house was gained through an insecure rear door.

DOWN PAYMENTS INCREASED ON U.S. HOME LOANS

G.I. and FHA Requirements Boosted 2 Pct. of Government - Appraised Value.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP) —The Eisenhower Administration today increased down payment requirements on all homes bought with Government-insured mortgages. The increases equal 2 per cent of the Government-appraised value of the homes.

It also abolished the Veterans Administration's policy of no down payments on G.I. home loans.

Federal Housing Chief Albert M. Cole called the action "a mild and temporary precautionary measure which seeks to assure that the housing market will not contribute inflationary measures to the economy."

Builders this year are enjoying a boom that will rival the record 1,400,000 homes built in 1950. The predicted total is "more than 1,300,000."

Repayment Period Cut.

The Administration, in boosting down payment requirements, also cut the maximum repayment period of FHA and G.I. home loans from 30 to 25 years.

No change was made in the current 4½ per cent interest rate on VA home mortgages or the 5 per cent rate on FHA-insured mortgages.

The new regulations apply on applications received from today on.

Earl W. Smith, president of the National Association of Home Builders, denounced the Administration action as "untimely, unwise . . . arbitrary . . . totally uncalled for."

He said it was "highly problematical" whether higher down-payments would stabilize housing prices. "But one thing is certain: thousands of moderate income families who need and deserve good housing have been arbitrarily pushed out of the market," he said. "The impact of this will be felt throughout the entire economy later this year."

The National Association of Real Estate Boards asserted in a statement that there is "nothing in the (housing) market to warrant" the tighter credit restrictions. It said the administration had taken a "backward step" which would serve only to make it "more difficult for families of modest income to attain home ownership."

Accused of Playing Politics.

Chairman Olin E. Teague (Dem.), Texas of the House Veterans Committee, accused the Administration of playing politics in abolishing the no-down-payments policy on VA mortgages. He said it would give "windfall" profits to lends at the expense of veterans.

He said the Administration is "catering" to mortgage bankers who have been "campaigning" for tighter loan terms.

The increased down payments and shortened mortgage terms are expected to crimp home buying slightly throughout the country.

On a $12,000 FHA-insured house, the new down payment required will be $1440, compared to the old requirement of $1200.

Hereafter veterans will be required to pay 2 per cent down on any house they buy under the VA program.

Under the FHA program, the down payment will be 7 per cent—instead of 5—on the first $9000 of the FHA-appraised value, and 27 per cent—instead of 25—of the value in excess of $9000.

The VA maximum commitment on any home is $7500, the FHA maximum $20,000.

Until Further Notice.

In announcing the VA action, VA Administrator Harvey Higley said the new down payment requirement would remain in effect until further notice and "pending possible changes in economic conditions." His action was disclosed in a routine notice in the Federal Register, official Government publication.

Cole and Federal Housing Commissioner Norman P. Mason issued a joint statement announcing the FHA action.

They said the current housing boom is "not alarming" but that there are "warning signs" in housing construction indicating "inflationary possibilities."

Among these, they said, were "a slight but rising trend in the cost of housing.

"This has not yet been reflected in the prices purchasers must pay for homes, but it is a pressure which will affect the general economic well being of the United States."

By the Associated Press.

Cole four months ago revived the Cabinet-level National Housing Council to maintain a close scrutiny of the housing boom and the increase in real estate credit. He noted then there was no "alarm" but a desire to keep a constant watch on the housing market.

FHA officials said the cutback in the time allowed for mortgage payments would mean a mortgage holder would have to pay about 49 cents more a month per $1000 loan. Thus on a $10,000 mortgage, the additional payment would be $4.90 a month.

AIR GUARD MARCHES IN GULFPORT PARADE

St. Joseph Squadron Acclaimed Top Missouri Unit in Review.

By THEODORE P. WAGNER
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

GULFPORT, Miss., July 30—Rounding out their first week of intensive summer training, 1700 Missouri Air National Guardsmen held their annual parade and review at Gulfport Municipal Airport today.

Marching to music of the 571st Air Force Band from Jefferson Barracks, the guardsmen passed in review in six sections. Troop Commander was Lt. Col Joseph H. Thompson, 6825 Ravenscroft drive, Affton, executive officer of the 131st Light Bombardment Wing. The wing adjutant, Maj. George D. Bolger, 1258 Nectar drive, St. Louis county, was adjutant of the parade.

The airmen, in freshly cleaned khaki and blue caps, formed sharp lines as they passed the reviewing stand. The 180th Bomb Squadron from St. Joseph, marching with the precision of infantrymen, won the annual award for the best-drilled unit. Judging was by an Air Force advisory team, here to assist in the training.

The 180th Squadron is commanded by Lt. Col. Wilby W. Lee, who accepted the gold trophy for his unit. The first sergeant of the squadron is M-Sgt. Wallace Wells, a drill expert. Sgt. Wells has two brothers in the 180th Squadron.

Other units in the parade were: 122nd Squadron, New Orleans, Lt. Col. Milton O. Barth; 110th Squadron, Lambert-St. Louis Field, Lt. Col. James P. McDonough, 13 Heatherhill lane, Clayton; 131st Air Base Group, Lambert-St. Louis Field, Lt. Col. Walter Weihe, 30 Flamingo drive, St. Louis county; 131st Maintenance & Supply Group, Lt. Col. Charles F. Wurtzler, St. Joseph; Composite Section, Lt. Col. Allan R. Scholin, Belleville.

Following the parade the guardsmen were excused from training until Monday morning. The majority planned trips to New Orleans, Biloxi, Mobile and other Gulf Coast cities. Some air crews made cross-country flights to St. Louis, St. Joseph and Miami Beach, Fla. All were due back tomorrow night.

Training, in some of its phases, goes on around the clock here. Line crews tear down engines at night, and test them with roaring blasts of the throttle at 4 a.m., preparatory to a dawn mission over the Gulf. Food service personnel is routed out of bed at 4 a.m.; communications men are on 24-hour duty on switchboards and radio installations and guard and air police details also are on 24-hour schedules.

Flying operations are under the direction of Lt. Col. Glennon T. Moran, 1920 McCausland avenue, a World War II triple ace. Assisting Col. Moran are Maj. Robert H. Barron, 8611 Scudder Road, Berkeley, and Maj. Joe T. Funk, 1073 Terrace Drive, St. Louis County.

M-Sgt. Arthur P. Rethemeyer, 10329 Lackland road, Overland, first sergeant of the 110th Bomb Squadron, is attending his seventeenth summer training camp. Sgt. Rethemeyer enlisted in the old 110th Observation Squadron in April, 1931, and has missed only one scheduled drill period in 24 years. He was on active Air Force duty in the Pacific in World War II, and in Texas and California during the Korean emergency.

SAPPINGTON FARMER KILLED AS TRACTOR ROLLS OVER HIM

Orestes J. Colombo, a farmer, was killed yesterday when his tractor rolled over him, pinning him beneath a rear wheel, on his farm on Keller road, Sappington.

St. Louis county police reported that Colombo, 32 years old, was working on a mower attachment hooked to the rear of the tractor which was stopped on an incline. When the tractor started to roll down the grade, Colombo ran in front of the wheel which rolled over him.

Neighbors and passersby lifted the tractor to extricate Colombo. He was dead on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital.

SENATE GROUP IGNORES M'CARTHY FORMOSA PLEA

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee at its final meeting of the year today ignored Senator McCarthy's request for quick action on his resolution asking that Nationalist China be invited to United States talks with Red China in Geneva Monday.

The group also shelved until next year two other controversial proposals:

A resolution by Senator Wiley (Rep.), of Wisconsin, asking the President to seek admission of Spain to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The House has passed a similar resolution.

A resolution by Senator Kefauver (Dem.), of Tennessee, and others calling on the President to invite other charter member democracies of NATO to an "exploratory convention" on forming a possible Atlantic Union.

FRENCH OFFICIAL SWEEPS MARKET TO PROVE POINT

STRASBOURG, France, July 30 (AP)—The 63-year-old deputy mayor of Strasbourg took up a broom and proved his point today: The municipal market place can be swept in an hour.

Energetic Joseph Zell drew the wrath of the local Communist newspaper recently when he suggested the four-man sweeping crew hadn't been making the dirt fly fast enough. The sweepers claimed the job couldn't be done in less than several hours and the Communist paper l'Humanite d'Alsace et de Lorraine agreed.

Before a crowd of several hundred chuckling townsfolk, Zell picked up a broom today and breezed across a quarter of the big market place in one hour flat. The four-man crew, he reasoned, should be able to tidy up the whole square in the same time.

ST. LOUISANS EXPECT SATELLITE GAINS

Scientific Observers Say Valuable Data May Be Obtained.

Valuable scientific data, particularly in the field of weather studies, undoubtedly will be gained from tests with the proposed man-made earth satellite, St. Louis scientific observers said yesterday.

Edward M. Brooks, professor of geophysics at St. Louis University, said the Government's plan to send a basketball-size sphere into space to circle the earth could provide a means for the continuous recording of data which is now impossible.

Such data would include the amount of sunlight which is reflected from the earth compared to how much is absorbed and probably much new information about the sun itself, he said.

A. W. Callaway, an officer of the St. Louis Amateur Astronomical Society, said the earth satellite will be of "immense importance," partly in proving or disproving theories about the upper atmosphere now based on speculation.

The experiment could also provide information concerning the causes of disturbances in the upper atmosphere, which produce effects on the earth's weather, he said.

Meteoroligist Harry F. Wahlgren of the United States Weather Bureau remarked that "the more information you can get, the better," although he said it was difficult to foresee specific results of the satellite test, which is said to be still two years in the future.

He pointed out that weather forecasting had been helped considerably in recent years by the development of high altitude data-collecting balloons, which rise 12 to 14 miles. The Government plans to send the satellite up 200 to 300 miles.

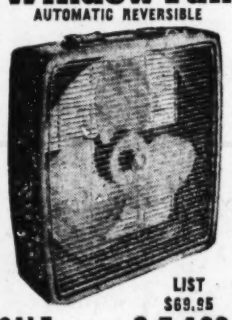

FRENCH EXCHANGE STUDENTS TO SPEND MONTH AT ELSAH

Five students from France, who came to this country under the Fulbright and Smith-Mundt Acts, will be met at Alton tomorrow by residents of Elsah, with whom they will live for a month before beginning studies at various colleges and universities.

The students and families are: Miss Annie Depeyrot, Mr. and Mrs. Grenville B. Andrews Jr.; Miss Marcelle Duquenne, Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Plagmann; Hubert Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Knadler; Georges Camille Jean Renon, Dr. and Mrs. William H. Grundmann; and Miss Paulette Jeanne Marie Encausse, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Barnes.

The month's stay with the Elsah families is aimed at "indoctrinating and orienting" the students to life in this country. The visit is sponsired by the Experiment in International Living, an organization operating under contract with the State Department.

Old Home Week.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn. (UP)—When Marcel St. Denis of Fall River, Mass., stopped to ask directions of Policeman Edmund Haddad they realized they were Army buddies who hadn't seen each other since 1945.

Off on Raft Voyage

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

PHILIP CORREIA, left, and JAMES COSTELLO, pre-medical students at St. Louis University, as they began 1145-mile float down Mississippi river yesterday to New Orleans. Their Air Force surplus life raft is equipped with canvas sail and the rudder is made from a metal soft drink advertising sign. The youths plan to stay afloat day and night. They expect to reach New Orleans in 15 to 17 days. Costello, 20 years old, then will go to his home in Miami, Fla. Correia, 18, of Patterson, Calif., will return to St. Louis.

$38,000,000 FOR TEXAS CITY BLAST CLAIMS OK'D IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP)—The House voted today to pay as a "gratuity" about $38,000,000 in claims growing out of the 1947 Texas City (Tex.) disaster.

The bill, adopted by voice vote, was sent to conference with the Senate which earlier passed a similar measure.

It would authorize payment of up to $20,000 for each death, injury, or loss of property resulting when two ships loaded with fertilizer for Europe under the foreign aid program exploded in the Texas City harbor. More than 570 persons were killed, some 3500 were injured, and property damage soared into the millions.

The bill states specifically that the United States government was not "legally responsible" and the payments were to be made as a "gratuity."

COUNTY CITIZENS' GROUP SPLIT ON OCT. 4 BOND VOTE

troversial, which might carry it to defeat.

One member said he considered the expressway program such a bargain, in view of the millions in federal and state money to be added, that voters were certain to approve it whenever submitted.

Bond funds would go to pay only the county's half share of right-of-way costs. The other half, plus construction costs, would be paid from federal and state funds. Expressways proposed are the Mark Twain in the north, Daniel Boone on the west and Ozark in the south, and an outerbelt route west of Lindbergh boulevard.

Discounts Delay Fears.

Another member favoring Oct. 4 agreed stoutly with the view that submission of a partial program necessarily would militate against an early election on the rest of the program. Another factor mentioned was that under the law proposals must be submitted to voters within a "reasonable" time. The pending petitions were filed last spring and failure to call an election this fall might result in litigation to force action, it was pointed out.

Screening committee members favoring the Oct. 4 date for the expressways election were J. John Brouk, committee chairman; Fred E. Farrow, Vincent T. Gilliam, William G. Eakin, Mrs. Louis F. Booth Jr., William L. Heckman and Charles G. DeWitt, a non-voting member.

Those opposed were Powell B. McHaney, Robert L. Coe, William F. Guffey, Richard F. Surkamp, Maurice H. Schechter, Harry Schnieders, Paul Taub, Arthur M. Donnelly, Louis V. Gutman, Joseph H. Vatterott, Carroll J. Donohue and John H. Murphy.

Michael J. Carroll said he had not yet made up his mind. Harry A. Mayer Jr., who is co-chairman of a Richmond Heights group fighting location of Daniel Boone expressway through that suburb, said he would have to reserve comment.

It was Mayer, screening committee vice chairman, who introduced a motion at last Monday night's meeting placing the committee on record as opposed to any bond election "until a complete, well-rounded program can be voted on." The motion carried 11 to 3.

Committee Chairman Brouk, who refrained from voting on that motion, said when queried yesterday that he strongly favored submission of the expressway bonds at the October election regardless of whether the rest of the program was ready. He emphasized that he thought the expressway program had been delayed too long already.

McHaney Stand.

McHaney, opposing an Oct. 4 election, stressed the point that voters might go down the line against bonds on account of the cigarette tax issue, that there would be insufficient time for a campaign and that there should be more detailed consideration of the count's needs. McHaney is president of Civic Progress, Inc., a group of St. Louis business leaders.

On the Forsyth boulevard bypass bond project, Planning Director Baughman said residents near the Rock Island Railroad right-of-way, where the route would be located, in conferences had expressed the same opposition they did in the 1954 county bond campaign. The residents fear that despite local plans barring its use as an expressway, the state might insist on taking it over as such, Baughman reported.

He said the residents indicated they would fight the plan until a start had been made at another point on the Daniel Boone expressway connection into St. Louis, which would give them assurance that their neighborhood was secure. Baughman added that any proposal by local interests for use of the Rock Island route for a more modest two-lane thoroughfare should "receive consideration."

CONDUCTORS' STRIKE MAKES 25,000 STEEL WORKERS IDLE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 30 (UP)—A strike by fewer than 100 conductors in the rail division threw 25,000 persons out of work today and shut down the entire U.S. Steel mills here—the biggest heavy industry in the South.

Arthur V. Wiebel, president of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad division of U.S. Steel, said the company was forced to bank all its blast and open hearth furnaces. It would take days to fire them up again even if the dispute were settled quickly.

The conductors, who like most other TCI employes are members of the CIO's United Steel Workers of America, had made "unreasonable" wage demands, Wiebel said, and he called the strike "illegal."

CHOU SAYS ACCORD ON U.S. CAPTIVES CAN BE REACHED

tary blocs now existing in this part of the world, so that the collective peace first advocated by the Indian government may be realized."

He offered to join any moves toward world disarmament, declaring that Red China already had demobilized 4,510,000 troops and pegged defense expenditures for 1955 at only 24.19 per cent of the total budget.

Chou lashed out at free South Viet Nam for refusing to hold negotiations on general elections to unify the country with the north.

He said the Korean armistice is "still unstable," and charged that the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission is in "danger of being wrecked."

He again blamed the Southeast Asia defense alliance for "making use of armed attacks" by the Laos government against Red-led Pathet Lao troops to interfere in the "internal affairs" of that nation.

On other issues, Chou said:

1. Red China had not been admitted to the United Nations and therefore the U.N. "is not universal."

2. His nation wants increased trade and "artificial barriers" removed between Red China and Japan. He blamed the Japanese government for not establishing normal relations with Communist nations.

3. The Big Four conference at Geneva will "contribute to the further easing of world tensions."

4. He declared support for German unification but with the "interests of European security" in mind.

5. Communist China must strengthen its national defenses because the threat of atomic war and "encircling" military bases are not removed.

6. Communist China continues to support the principles of coexistence.

JOHNSON LEAVES FOR GENEVA TALKS

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP) —U. Alexis Johnson, United States Ambassador to Czechoslovakia, left by plane for Geneva today to test the sincerity of Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's new offer to negotiate on release of American prisoners and other issues.

Johnson will meet at Geneva Monday with Red China's envoy to Poland, Wang Ping-nan, for the first ambassador-level diplomatic negotiations between the United States and Red China since the Geneva Far East conference last year.

United States hopes that the ambassador's meeting will lead to release of 51 Americans held by Red China were raised somewhat by an unusually conciliatory speech Chou broadcast over Peiping radio today.

Johnson said on departure that he would do "everything possible" to bring about release of the Americans—40 civilians and 11 flyers.

He did not comment directly on Chou's statement.

Johnson said "no time limit had been fixed" on the impending negotiations. He said he would stay in Geneva "as long as is necessary."

Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson who saw Johnson off, said he had no comment on Chou's statement.

Chou said the question of releasing 40 American civilians "can be easily settled." While he did not make entirely clear Red China's attitude toward release of 11 United States flyers, he appeared to be including them with the civilians in other portions of his speech.

Since arranging for release of the prisoners is, from the United States viewpoint, the first purpose of the Geneva meeting, this part of Chou's speech was received here with guarded optimism.

"He's talking very nicely," said Chairman George (Dem.), Georgia, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. "I hope very much that the question of the prisoners can be settled."

"Talk is cheap," said Senator Mansfield (Dem.), Montana. "Deeds will count."

The State Department had no official comment on Chou's speech.

Chou referred in his speech to "thousands of Chinese students" still being held in the United States, and indicated Red China would press for their return.

State Department spokesman Henry Suydam told reporters it has been pointed out repeatedly that "no Chinese students that we know of . . . have applied to return to the mainland who are not free to go."

Peaceful Means.

The Red Chinese leader, who in the past has voiced threats to take Formosa by force, also said in his broadcast that "conditions permitting, the Chinese people are ready to seek the liberation of Formosa by peaceful means."

Taken alone, this statement sounded good to United States officials. Secretary of State Dulles has said several times that Far East tension would be reduced if Red China, without abandoning its claim to Formosa, would simply renounce the use of force as a means of realizing its goals.

But Chou's talk of "peaceful liberation" was offset, diplomats noted, by a statement that he would not negotiate with Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government about Formosa's future, only with "local authorities" on Formosa.

By the Associated Press.

Of the 51 Americans detained inside China, 11 are United States airmen who were shot down in a B-29 bomber in January 1953 while flying for the United Nations in Korea. They were held despite the truce agreement to exchange war prisoners and, subsequently were sentenced to jail terms as spies, a charge the United States calls trumped up.

Of the 40 civilians, 25 are in prison. These 25 include 12 Roman Catholic missionaries, five Protestant missionaries, four business men, two students and two United States Army civilian employes.

There are 12 United States citizens unable to get permission to leave. Little is known about these 12. The Reds even contest claims to United States citizenship in some cases.

BRITAIN, FRANCE JOIN U.S., RUSSIA IN RACE TO SPACE

ahead with the program.

At Goettingen, Germany, West German geophysicist Dr. Jules Bartels said none of his European colleagues "has any doubt" that the American project will be successful.

"We are ready to undertake any scientific preparation that may be necessary for the successful building of an 'artificial moon,'" he said.

British Experiments.

Britain's Prof. H. S. W. Massey, chairman of the Royal Society's Uuuep Atmosphere Committee, said Britain is nine years behind the Americans in space satellite research. However, he said that in experiments we are soon to carry out we hope to jump several stages ahead."

But Massey predicted that a manned satellite station in space would not come for at least 10 years, because space medicine is a much more difficult subject than space physics.

The European press was almost unanimous in its enthusiasm for the space satellite proposal.

Australian Scientist Suggests A 'Commonwealth Satellite.'

SYDNEY, Australia, July 30 (AP) — Prof. Marcus Oliphant, Australia's leading atom physicist, called on British scientists tonight to combine and launch a "commonwealth satellite" into space.

His statement came after it was learned that space rocket experiments are to be carried out by British and Australian authorities on the Wommera rocket range.

"It is quite within the powers of British scientists to build and launch a similar satellite as planned by the United States," said Oliphant, director of the school of physical sciences at the Australian National University in Canberra.

The cost of such a satellite would be about 4,000,000 Australian pounds ($14,560,000), he added.

Dr. D. F. Martyn, chief scientist of the Radio Research Board of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization, said the proposed Woomera experiments were to develop outer space observations.

Rail Retirement Board Nominee.

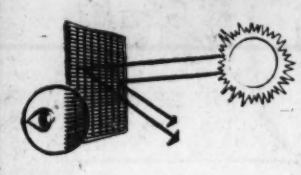

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP) —President Eisenhower today nominated Thomas M. Healey of Georgia to be a member of the three-man Railroad Retirement Board. At the same time, Mr. Eisenhower accepted the resignation of Frank C. Squire, member of the board since 1943. Squire said his resignation was in keeping with his plan to retire at the age of 70. Healey was named to fill the unexpired portion of Squire's term which runs until 1958.

Argentinian Swimmer Going Strong, Passes 40-Mile Mark

Antonio Abertondo Has Lunch of Orange Juice and Crackers on Way to Caruthersville.

Antonio Abertondo, an Argentine distance swimmer, began an attempt to set a new record for the St. Louis-Caruthersville (Mo.) swim yesterday plunging into the Mississippi river near Kads Bridge at 9:43 a.m.

By 9 p.m., he had passed Dickey's Landing, about 40 miles south, at a pace somewhat ahead of his schedule. Abertondowas reported to be swimming strongly in a calm river, and quenching a lively thirst with iced beverages. An Amateur Athletic Union timer is following him in a boat.

He was covered from head to foot with lanolin to protect his skin during the 70 or 80 hours he expects to be in the water. The record for the 292-mile swim downstream is 89 hours and 52 minutes, set by John Sigmund, a St. Louis butcher, in 1940.

Sigmund, who decided not to be present when his Latin rival began the swim, was complacent about Abertondo's chances. Referring to the current spell of hot weather, he said the trip will be "murder." "And the farther south he goes, the hotter it will get," Sigmund added.

Abertondo, who said he will celebrate his thirty-seventh birthday tomorrow while still in the river, was supposed to start swimming at 9 a.m. He was delayed because his can of lanolin froze in refrigeration overnight. His impatient handlers had to wait for it to thaw before they could smear it on him, gob by icy gob.

MATCH CHECKER CHAMPION TO PLAY 4 IN EXHIBITION

Earl Arnold, match checker champion of St. Louis, will simultaneously play the four winners of the St. Louis public school playground checker championships in a demonstration match at Lowell School playground, 1409 Linton avenue, tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

Arnold, who has won two state championships, also will award blue ribbons to the winners of the playground contests.

The players who won the championship in their age groups are Dennis Chapis, 7800 North Broadway, Baden playground, who won the senior boys championship; Shirley Heiple, 903A Destrahan street, Lowell playground, senior girls; Victor Bennett, 104 South Twenty-second street, Lincoln playground, junior boys, and Mary Lou Manhart, 5215 Blair avenue, Lowell playground, junior girls.

in the large economy size!

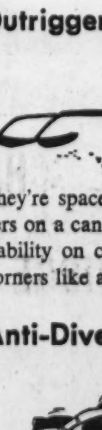

YOU CAN PAY A LOT MORE MONEY AND STILL NOT GET ALL THESE CHEVROLET ADVANTAGES!

Body by Fisher

The fine craftsmanship of Body by Fisher is found in many of America's costliest and most luxurious cars. And you get it only in Chevrolet in the low-price field.

12-Volt Electrical System

Delivers twice the punch of electrical systems in other low-priced cars! This means quicker starting in all weather, better ignition for finer performance, and a greater reserve of electrical power.

Ball-Race Steering

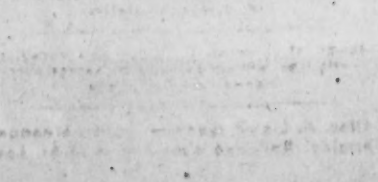

Special ball bearings in the steering gear roll with the turn of the wheel to reduce friction. Nothing makes steering easier except Power Steering itself.

High-Level Ventilation

Takes in air at hood-high level, away from road heat, fumes and dust. A special air chamber prevents rain from entering the car, and supplies a more even flow of air.

Outrigger Rear Springs

They're spaced wide apart, like outriggers on a canoe, to give you sure-footed stability on curves. The new Chevrolet corners like a sports car!

Anti-Dive Braking

Chevrolet's the only car in the industry that stops with its head up! An exclusive Chevrolet development greatly reduces the tendency to nose down under sudden stops.

Surprising, how little it takes to put this big dreamboat in your driveway for keeps. And your dollars couldn't begin to buy more pure pleasure anywhere else. Here's beauty that's putting the high-priced cars in the shade. Here's action that'll have you driving the long way home just for the fun of it. You owe yourself this new Chevrolet. Come in and see how easily you can swing it!

A.D.A. CHIEF ASSAILS 'EISENHOWER MESS'

Says Administration Is 'Most Corrupt' Since That of Harding.

CLEVELAND, July 30 (UP)—Joseph L. Rauh Jr., chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, said tonight that President Eisenhower is personally responsible for the "most corrupt" Administration since that of President Harding.

In a speech prepared for a Cleveland A.D.A. chapter meeting, Rauh attacked the Administration and its program, which he called a "public relations hoax."

Accusing the Government of "payoffs to special interests" like the Dixon-Yates contract, he said the "new moral climate" in Washington let Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbott "use his position to net profits equivalent to 500 mink coats and 500 deep freezes."

At the same time, he said, Talbott was able to swear that he had "done nothing that could be construed as dishonest."

Turning a former Republican slogan around and firing it at the Administration, Rauh declared it is "time for a change" from the "Eisenhower mess" in Washington.

A.D.A. is a nominally independent liberal political organization which generally follows the philosophy of the Democratic "New Deal" and "Fair Deal" of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman.

Rauh said all Americans are "grateful" to Mr. Eisenhower for his work at the Big Four conference at Geneva. He said A.D.A. members "hope and pray" it means a turning point in east-west relations.

But he said even such "heartening" prospects "cannot and must not be used to grant further immunity from criticism to a President who has already assumed the role of one above the political battle. . . ."

Declaring it is "time to take off our gloves," Rauh said three years of the "great crusade" have produced the "saddest excuse for a legislative program since President McKinley."

6 IN FAMILY GOING TO UNIVERSITY SUMMER SCHOOL

Six members of the Floyd family of Wood River — father, mother, three daughters and a son-in-law — are attending summer sessions at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. The family lives in a cottage on Thompson Lake near the campus.

Raymond Floyd, the father, who is athletic director at Wood River High School, is spending his third summer on work for a master's degree in industrial education. His wife is registered as a special student, taking a course in pottery "purely for pleasure."

The Floyds' oldest daughter, Mrs. James Milford, is a senior in business administration, while her husband, a June graduate of Southern Illinois University, is beginning work on his master's degree in physical education. Two younger Floyd daughters enrolled are Ellen, 17 years old, in art education, and Jenny, 8, in the third grade at the university school.

"She doesn't mind going," said Jenny's older sister today. "And if she didn't go, there wouldn't be anyone to take care of her."

5 BRAZILIAN AIR CADETS ON TOUR OF MISSOURI

Five Brazilian air cadets began a 10-day tour of Missouri today as part of an international exchange program sponsored by the Civil Air Patrol and the Air Force.

The group, accompanied by two adult escorts, arrived yesterday afternoon at Lambert-St. Louis Field and received the official greeting of the CAP Missouri wing staff. Later in the day they went to Joplin for the start of the tour.

Primarily educational in nature, the points of interest have been selected to give the group an opportunity to compare facets of social life and industry here with those in Brazil, Col. Francis J. Fabick, wing commander, said.

The Brazilians are among 145 cadets from foreign countries visiting various parts of the United States under the program. At the same time 145 CAP cadets are making tours of foreign countries which participate. Two residents of Missouri are among the group, one of them in Switzerland and one in Canada. The Civil Air Patrol is the civilian auxiliary of the Air Force.

ARGENTINE RED'S DEATH IN CUSTODY STIRS UP FUROR

Investigators Say Police Threw Physician's Body in River — Doctors Call Strike.

BUENOS AIRES, July 30 (AP)—Federal police who arrested Dr. Juan Ingalinella, a prominent Rosario physician and a Communist, have confessed he died in their custody, after which they threw his body in the river, an investigating committee announced today.

Ingalinella was arrested after the June 16 revolt against President Juan D. Peron's government. He disappeared and nothing could be learned of his fate for a month. Doctors and lawyers of Rosario demanded an investigation. Protesting Communists clashed with police.

The Argentine Medical Conference, which claims 10,000 members, has called a nationwide 24-hour strike for next Tuesday. Protests against the treatment of the Communist doctor have been voiced by the Radicals, the only party opposed to Peron which holds any seats in Congress.

A congressional investigating committee which traveled to Rosario yesterday reported today that Ingalinella died of a heart attack during police interrogation in which "violence" was used.

The police involved confessed, the committee said. They were dismissed and arrested. The Parana river is to be dredged for the doctor's body.

The Peronista party of Santa Fe Province, of which Rosario is the capital, has declared its "repudiation of the brutal police proceedings" in the case.

The investigating committee is composed of a Peronista Senator, two Peronista deputies and a deputy of the opposition Radical party.

A federal policeman guarding a Roman Catholic Church in a suburb of Buenos Aires was shot and killed before dawn today.

The attack was made about 2:30 a.m. at the Santiago Apostol (Apostle James) Church in the Nunez district by a band of five men, two of whom approached in a black sedan driven slowly with headlights off.

Policemen Juan Lino Barrionuevo and Raul Enrique Ferrin were standing watch at the church. It has been federal policy to guard all Catholic churches since the sacking and burning of many of Buenos Aires's finest religious buildings by vandals the night of the revolt. Peron blamed Communists for the destruction.

Barrioneuvo, suspicious of the car, stepped out to speak to the occupants. Noticing three armed men approaching on the sidewalk beside, Barrioneuvo reached for his pistol.

One of the men in the car shoved a rifle through the window and killed him with a bullet through the chest.

ARTIST WILLY POGANY DIES, ILLUSTRATED CHILD BOOKS

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Willy Pogany, self-taught Hungarian-born artist and illustrator, died today in his studio apartment. He was 72 years old.

His illustrations of such books as "The Arabian Nights," "Alice in Wonderland" and "The Ancient Mariner," were familiar to a generation of children.

In all, he illustrated more than 150 books, many of them childrens' editions of famous classics.

He also did many murals in public buildings, and designed more than 100 stage productions, including several for the metropolitan opera, some of the Ziegfeld Follies and Earl Carroll's Vanities.

In the film field, he served as an art director for Sam Goldwyn.

BOAT WITH 6 ABOARD SINKS, TWO SAVED, ONE BODY FOUND

REEDSPORT, Ore., July 30 (AP)—A large wave capsized a 27-foot cabin cruiser at the mouth of the Umpqua river today. Two of six persons known to be aboard were rescued; three are missing, and one body was washed ashore.

Albert Lewis of Reedsport and Lloyd L. Ballentine of Sutherlin, Ore., were rescued. Searchers found the body of Kenneth Flory, also of Sutherlin, on the beach.

Missing were Cecil Haig, Sutherlin; Royce Bowman, Reedsport, and Robert Sandau, Union Gap.

Lewis was picked up by the crew of a fishing boat. Ballentine clung to piling off the South Jetty Rocks until Coast Guardsmen tossed him a line.

SAUERWEIN TO COMMAND ILLINOIS POLICE DISTRICT

Sgt. Walter Sauerwein, a veteran of 20 years on the Illinois State Highway Patrol, will assume command tomorrow of District 11, embracing 10 counties in the East St. Louis area with headquarters at French Village. Sauerwein will be advanced to a lieutenant.

Sauerwein, who lives at New Athens, Ill., succeeds Lt. George Kuelks, who is retiring after 22 years of service. The counties which comprise District 11 are St. Clair, Madison, Monroe, Jersey, Bond, Greene, Macoupin, Montgomery, Calhoun and Clinton.

Eats Way Out of Paying.

COLUMBIA, S.C., July 30 (UP)—Bob Ernsberger sat down at Sam Bloom's restaurant, ate a four and one-half pound steak and all the trimmings and used 10 glasses of milk and water to wash it down. Then he left without paying the check. Bloom had advertised that anyone who could eat the entire steak could have it free.

They Passed the Test

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Some of more than 600 children awarded certificates yesterday on completing the Red Cross beginners' swimming course at Marquette Park. Instruction course was sponsored jointly by the city and St. Louis chapter of American Red Cross.

SAIGON ARTILLERY ROUTS ATTACKING RIVER PIRATES

SAIGON, July 30 (UP)—Some 2500 river pirates attacked government outposts within 15 miles of the city today. The roar of artillery echoed through the capital.

The barrage sent survivors of the rebel force scurrying for cover in the marshes and bamboo thickets south of Saigon.

Official reports said the attack was organized by rebel warlord Le Van Vien, notorious son of a buffalo rustler who leads the racketeering Binh Xuyen sect, in an effort to isolate Saigon from the "rice bowl" area of southern Indochina.

The Binh Xuyen, which formerly controlled both the police and the gambling racket in Saigon, was thrown out of the city in April by forces loyal to Premier Ngo Dinh Diem. Remnants of Vien's gang of underworld toughs and "river rats" fled to the swamps surrounding Bungsat, 28 miles south of Saigon.

GOVERNMENT BOOSTS TRAVEL ALLOWANCE TO $12 A DAY

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP)—The Government has issued regulations increasing the maximum travel allowances for civilian employes from $9 to $12 a day.

Budget Bureau Director Rowland R. Hughes said the increase, which includes allowances for hotels, meals and incidentals, was required by recently-enacted legislation.

The legislation also called for an increase of from 7 to 10 cents in the mileage allowance for use of privately-owned automobiles and airplanes. The maximum mileage allowance for privately-owned motorcycles was increased from 4 to 6 cents.

However, Hughes said that from now on it will be recommended that railroad coaches be used for day travel where possible regardless of the length of the trip. Government workers were also urged to use the lower fare aircoach or air tourist accommodations where adequate.

WILL WRITTEN ON WOOD MAY SETTLE ESTATE

MEDIA, Pa., July 30 (AP)—A small piece of wood may bring about settlement of an estate hanging fire legally since the death of Stephen Kurac in 1944.

The Delaware county register of wills office said yesterday it had been asked to admit to probate Kurac's will in the form of the small board, two by eight inches, with a spike through it.

On the board was written in slavic: "This house bought by Stephen Kurac in November 1943. It belongs to the children, Anna and Vincent."

The estate of Kurac, a Pennsylvania railroad worker, was valued at the time of his death at $3600, including the house.

The Register of Wills Office said, if the signature on the wood is confirmed by a bank or some other competent witness, the will can be admitted for probate. The children are both living, one in the house in suburban Drexel Hill and the other in Collingdale, Pa.

HENNINGS AGAIN PROPOSES BOARD FOR MISSOURI BASIN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 30—A bill setting up a Missouri basin commission and compact board to plan "comprehensive development" of land and water resources in the basin, was reintroduced today by Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem.), Missouri.

Under the measure, the commission would be a federal agency charged with supervising watershed management, land conservation, flood control, forestry, irrigation, electric power, navigation and a variety of related activities in the 10-state basin area.

Hennings said he was resubmitting the bill, although Congress is scheduled to adjourn shortly, in the hope that it would be studied during recess. He added that he hoped hearings could be scheduled on the measure early in the next session.

FORMER ST. LOUIS WOMAN RECEIVES HONOR IN AUSTRIA

Mrs. William H. Arnold, former St. Louisan and wife of the United States commanding general in Austria, was made a knight of the Holy Sepulcher, Grand Cross, yesterday at Salzburg. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mullen, 5217 Westminster place.

The high decoration of the Roman Catholic Church was approved by Pope Pius XII after it was proposed by Archbishop Andreas Rohracher of Salzburg in recognition of Mrs. Arnold's public and private charity activities in Austria.

UNIVERSITY CITY LEASES PARKING LOT FOR SHOPPERS

University City has leased a parking lot at 6620 Delmar boulevard to provide free daytime parking for shoppers in the loop area, city officials announced yesterday.

The lot, which will be open to the public starting tomorrow, holds 80 cars. The city has leased the lot at a cost of $400 a month on a month-to-month basis, with provision for 90 days' notice in case of termination of the contract, officials said.

The lot is the same one which was formerly used for free parking, discontinued when the city's lease was terminated by the former owners of the property.

SAM BURD FUNERAL SERVICES

Funeral services for Sam Burd, of Belleville, retired owner of a general store for 46 years, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Rindskopf undertaking establishment, 5216 Delmar boulevard. Burial will be in Chesed Shel Emeth Cemetery.

Mr. Burd, 79 years old, died of cancer Friday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville. He operated the store at Forrest City, Ark., before moving to Belleville last October. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Annie Freeman Burd; two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Peskind of Belleville, and Mrs. Rose Berk of El Dorado, Ark., three sisters and a brother.

HEAD OF RUSSIAN MINISTRY FIRED FOR LAG IN WORK

Machine Building Chief Not Abreast of Advances Abroad, Moscow Papers Say.

MOSCOW, July 30 (AP)—The presidium of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) announced today that Nikolai Stepanovich Kazakov had been relieved of his post of Minister of Heavy Machine Building. One of the charges against him was that he failed to keep abreast of technical developments abroad.

The announcement gave no details but the Soviet press has charged a lag in the work of his ministry, to which Joseph Stalin appointed him in 1943.

(The Moscow radio, heard in London, said Kazakov was replaced by Konstantin Petukhov.)

The Government newspaper Izvestia meanwhile published an editorial against shortcomings in the manufacture of up-to-date machinery. The Communist party newspaper Pravda published a similar blast five days ago. Both editorials bore out a belief in political circles that Kazakov was dismissed for failure to keep up with the latest technical developments.

(The radio broadcast quoted Pravda as saying his ministry should concern itself more with the work of engineering schools.)

"Workers in industry and scientific organizations will have to apply much effort and labor to assure Soviet industry the leading position in world technical progress and, utilizing the advantages of our system, to surpass the achievements of the science and industry of other countries," Izvestia said.

The newspaper said failure to do this was "due to the fault of certain ministries, departments and establishments," which it did not name.

The earlier Pravda piece charged new technical processes were not being introduced quickly enough and that not enough effort was being made to learn new methods from abroad. The idea of learning from abroad is one that long has been unpopular but that now is coming back into vogue.

9768 FEWER U.S. CIVILIAN WORKERS THAN A YEAR AGO

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, reported today the Government ended its fiscal year June 30 with 2,384,273 civilian employes — 9768 fewer than a year ago despite a June increase of 17,418.

Byrd is chairman of the joint Congressional Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures.

His report showed employment by civilian agencies at the fiscal year's end totaled 1,197,592—an increase of 12,524 during the year. Civilian employment by military agencies totaled 1,186,681—a decrease of 22,292 during the year.

For the month of June, total civilian employment in the Government rose 17,418 from the May figure. Byrd noted this was the fifth monthly increase in succession and the longest sustained increase since July 1952.

Mexican Drive for Vaccine.

MEXICO CITY, July 30 (AP)—Mexico's largest labor group (CTM) has ordered each of its members to contribute one peso (eight cents United States) to a fund to buy Salk anti-polio vaccine. The project is expected to yield 1,000,000 pesos.

European Security

Russians Seeking Peace---And Power

Reds Have Not Given Up Plan for Driving U.S. Out of Europe and Halting Progress of NATO.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Retired)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 30.

THE EFFORTS to reach any agreement on European security, at the meeting of the heads of state in Geneva, foundered against Soviet determination not to allow the creation of a unified Germany under conditions which might allow it to ally itself with the Western powers.

It has been and still is the contention of the United States, Great Britain and France that the aggressive policies of the Soviet Union, and the fact of a divided Germany, are the greatest threats to the peace of Europe. The will of the German people to unite—to rescue our sisters and brothers in the East from slavery, as one German deputy phrased it to the writer—if frustrated indefinitely, will, it is argued, inevitably lead to conflict. The continued division of Germany is merely evidence, it is thought, of the continued aggressive designs of the Soviet Union.

The Soviet philosophy, or pretended philosophy, is just the opposite. Their position is that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Western European Union are the products of tension, are now creators of tension, and threats to peace, and if the tension could be relaxed and fear ended the need for the pacts would be ended.

In furtherance of this contention the Soviets proposed three security pacts in a sort of step-by-step process of approaching an all-Europe security pact which would also include the United States.

AS A FIRST STEP, Soviet Premier Bulganin proposed that the four powers should make a temporary non-aggression treaty in which each agreed not to attack any other European state and not to use atomic weapons except in defense against aggression as determined by the United Nations.

Recognizing the reality of the alignments in Europe such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Western European Union and the Warsaw Pact, Bulganin proposed as an intermediate step that these two groupings should make a non-aggression treaty. East and West Germany would be included as separate states.

The final step was to be the conclusion of an all-European collective security treaty to which a unified, democratic peace-loving Germany would belong. This was first proposed at the Berlin conference in February 1954. At that time the United States was excluded from the pact. In the latest proposal the United States could join it.

The Western position has been that the status of Germany must be settled before it would be possible to take any further steps toward a European pact. At the closing session, the two sides were deadlocked on this score over the directive to be given to the Foreign Ministers for their meeting next October. The United States wanted to put the German problem as the first item on the agenda, while the Soviets wanted to make disarmament the ham in a sandwich between security and Germany.

The compromise proposed by President Eisenhower was to join European security and the unification of Germany in one item on the agenda. This was a compromise in form, but not in substance, from the viewpoint of our diplomats.

Taking the Soviet proposals on European security, disarmament and settlement of the German problem together, it is evident that the Soviet leaders have not given up any of their objectives in Europe. They are still striving to prevent the rearmament of Western Germany and to prevent the creation of a unified Germany allied to NATO. They are trying to relax tensions to a degree that may induce such countries as France and Italy to decrease their forces dedicated to the NATO. France has already shifted two NATO divisions to North Africa from a total contribution of only about half agreed to at the Lisbon conference. France is also reducing its military budget this year.

AND EVEN MORE important from the Soviet point of view, all their moves are directed toward getting the United States out of Europe and out of its peripheral bases. This seems to be evidence that the Soviet leaders have not abandoned any of their main objectives, they are only going after them with smiles on their faces in contrast to the brutality of Stalin's tactics. The new tactical maneuvers still have for their objective a weak Europe, that eventually can be Communized, and the ultimate enslavement of the free world.

The imitation NATO organized in Eastern Europe by the Warsaw Pact is only a straw man set up to be knocked down. It did not increase the security of the Eastern European nations nor of the Soviet Union. Eastern European states were already dominated and trained by Russian advisers.

NATO is a genuine partnership which increases the security of the small states of Europe. As such, it is not comparable to the Warsaw treaty. The Warsaw grouping was set up for one, and only one, purpose: to be traded off against NATO, as a bargaining piece against NATO.

Analysis of the Soviet proposal for a European security treaty shows up the Soviet intentions. "Until the formation of a united, peace-loving German state," it reads, "the German Democratic Republic (Communist) and the German Federal Republic (West Germany) may be parties to the treaty enjoying equal rights with other parties thereto. It is understood that after the unification the united German state may be a party on an equal footing with any other European state."

SYMBOL OF GERMAN PARTICIPATION in the defense of Europe is the presence near Paris at Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe of HANS SPEIDEL (left), former German general, now chief of West Germany's liaison mission to SHAPE. Speidel is shown shaking hands with GEN. ALFRED GRUENTHER, supreme Allied commander.

Each of the signatories agrees not to participate in any coalition or alliance contrary to the purpose of this treaty. In the first, or interim, stage of the treaty, armaments are frozen. The net effect would be, therefore, to prevent the rearmament of Western Germany. Eastern Germany, with its population of 19,000,000, would be included on an equal basis with Western Germany, with a population of 50,000,000.

According to the Soviet scheme for uniting the two Germanies, the two governments would work it out together. The Communists would have equal power with the democrats in the West and might hope to obtain critical federal offices so that they could seize all of Germany, as was done in Czechoslovakia.

In the disarmament proposal of the Russian delegation, Germany was not mentioned. By implication it was included in the category of "other states" which would be allowed armaments of from 150,000 to 200,000, as compared to 650,000 for Great Britain and France.

These rather petty schemes would not be accepted by the United States, as the Soviet leaders know. They really are aimed at our weak allies in Europe. The continual harping on German militarism is directed toward France. It is intended to make the Soviet Union appear an ally of France in preventing the rebirth of German armies.

Bulganin took note of an implication in a statement by Sir Anthony Eden, that the Soviet Union was afraid of a rearmed Germany, and denied it. The Soviet Union had shown, he said, that it was able to defend itself against Germany.

If he is not afraid of a rearmed Germany, then why, our diplomats ask, should preventing the rearmament of Germany remain a major Soviet policy objective? The answer the American diplomats give is that a strong Germany in the NATO alliance would be an effective offset to further Communist expansion in Europe. Indeed, it might start the defection of the Eastern satellites.

MANY WESTERN statesmen hoped that the ruling clique in the Soviet Union had finally awakened to the dangers of nuclear war and were willing to make some real concessions in the interests of peace and disarmament. Mostly, these individuals now are disabused. The Soviet delegation showed no disposition to make genuine moves or sacrifices of position. They smiled, but they did not budge.

It is still believed that the Soviets will go to great lengths to prevent a nuclear war, but that also they are bold enough to trade on the West's fear of nuclear war to try to gain their objectives without making any concessions themselves.

They appear to be victims today of a split personality. They realize the dangers of nuclear war and at the same time cannot bring themselves to retreat from their objectives sufficiently to come to terms with the West.

It is also the opinion of the best informed Ambassadors in the Soviet Union that the economic strain is becoming unbearable. They have to stop the arms race or go broke. They appear sincere in wanting peace and in reducing arms, but at the same time are unwilling to abandon any of their goals.

The Soviet leaders are trying to obtain the relaxation they need so badly by being pleasant on the surface while remaining adamant in substantive matters. No agreements were reached at Geneva except to turn over disarmament discussions to the United Nations committee and the problems of European security, German unification and increase of contacts between the East and West to a meeting of the Foreign Ministers.

There will be no Dwight D. Eisenhower with his prestige, his obvious integrity and fervor for peace at the meeting of the Foreign Ministers. The diplomatic exchanges then will deal with tactics unilluminated by inspiring passion. This meeting will show whether the Soviet leaders are willing really to sacrifice some of the Communist ambitions in the cause of peace.

Far Eastern Problems at Issue In U.S.-Red China Discussions

World Opinion Pressure Exerted Toward General Settlement—Meeting Is Set for Monday.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 30.

AMBASSADORS of the United States and Communist China meet at Geneva Monday under pressure of world opinion to take steps leading toward a general settlement of Far Eastern problems. Anything short of that in the climate of Big Four successes at Geneva last week would be disappointing and likely to be viewed as failure.

There are signs the conference may exceed the limitations imposed by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, and that it will lead to subsequent talks at a higher diplomatic level, although there is no firm statement of such intent. There are excellent reasons why the Administration should approach the talks cautiously.

THE ANNOUNCED PURPOSES of the United States in sending U. Alexis Johnson, our Ambassador to Czechoslovakia, to talk with Wang Ping-nan, Red China's Ambassador to Poland, are these:

To effect the return of 51 American civilians and airmen detained in Red China.

To assure the Chinese that all Chinese students in the United States are free to leave.

To seek arrangements that will prevent incidents like the shooting down of a British Cathay Pacific airliner a year ago off Hainan Island.

To try to find out, in the words of Dulles, "Whether the Chinese Communists accept the concept of a cease-fire in accordance with the United Nations principle of avoiding any use or threat of force which could disturb the peace of nations."

To find out, also in Dulles's words, "Whether we must prepare for war in that area (the Formosa Strait) or whether there is likely to be a cease-fire in that area."

In addition, the United States expects to learn the present demands of the Chinese Communists. Over-all, the mainland government has insisted that Formosa and the strait islands be considered part of its territory and that the Red regime be admitted to the United Nations.

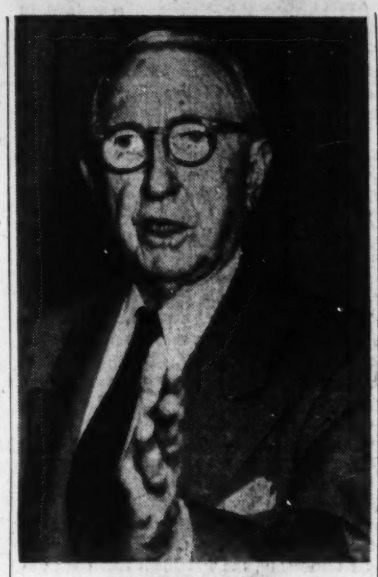

It is obvious that this agenda provides leeway for discussions of a fairly broad nature, and that it will provide opportunities for setting up subsequent conferences at a higher level. Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles have hinted in an extremely guarded fashion that if the Johnson-Wang talks are successful a meeting of Dulles and Chinese Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-lai may be indicated.

Practical domestic politics demands that the Administration proceed carefully in the field of relations with the Chinese Communists. It is in this area that the Republican party is sharply divided. Comment already in the record indicates how touchy the subject is.

Senator William F. Knowland (Rep.), California, Minority Leader in the Senate and the most powerful American supporter of the Formosa government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, has declined to make any observations of real substance on the coming conference.

Knowland said he does not think Johnson will be authorized to do more than assess and report the general attitude toward a possible Far Eastern settlement. He added:

"Congress has been given categorical assurances that there will be no negotiations affecting the sovereignty or population of any friendly people without the participation of those people. It seems to me that anything related to Formosa, Quemoy and Matsu, along with the Nationalist naval blockade of the coast, falls into that category because it affects the sovereignty of the Republic of China (the Nationalist Government of Formosa)."

SENATOR GEORGE
High level discussions.

Knowland's understanding was in line with what has been stated by the Administration, including the fact that diplomatic recognition of Red China is not involved in the talks and that the United States "is not prepared to make arrangements which would prejudice the rights of our ally, the Republic of China."

Nevertheless, at his press conference Wednesday, Mr. Eisenhower seemingly evaded a discussion of this aspect of the Johnson-Wang meeting. He was asked, "How can we make any arrangements in the absence of the Nationalist Chinese?"

His reply was that the Nationalists were not involved in our efforts to arrange the return of the detained Americans. The reporter said, "Dulles left the door open for almost any kind of discussion." The President replied the United States would have to find out what the Communists want to talk about and that the fate of unrepresented countries could not be determined.

The reporter insisted the context of Dulles's remarks at a press conference Tuesday indicated "arrangements" applied to the Formosa area, not just the airmen. To this Mr. Eisenhower answered rather tartly that the reporter was trying to interpret what Dulles meant.

THE SITUATION since the State Department announced last Monday that the two Ambassadors would meet Aug. 1 has been anything but reassuring to the Chinese Nationalists. The Formosa Government said it saw no objections to the United States seeking release of the Americans, but gave no enthusiastic blessing to the conference.

The Nationalists have been opposed even to limited diplomatic contacts with the Peiping Government. Such contacts, they think, may lead to more extensive meetings and finally to at least a tacit recognition of "two Chinas," that is, world agreement that the Communists should retain control of the mainland and Chiang the island of Formosa and the nearby Pescadores, and that Chiang should surrender the Nationalist-held islands of Quemoy and Matsu, a few miles from the mainland coast, to the Communists.

This fear was expressed at the President's Wednesday conference in a question by Joseph Chiang, correspondent of the Chinese News Service. Chiang asked whether the United States would agree to have two Chinas if peace for a good while could thereby be assured.

"The subject in that form has never been discussed that I know of," Mr. Eisenhower replied. "Now, certainly, I have never discussed the subject in that form with Secretary Dulles, but I don't see how it could be under present conditions."

In Formosa the official China Daily News, calling the approaching Geneva talks "a product of appeasement," commented:

"We smell a rat in the recent announcements from Washington. We must be on the alert for anything."

Obviously affected by the same alleged suspicion, Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, a strong Chiang supporter, tried Thursday to commit the Senate to a demand that the Chinese Nationalists be counted in on the Geneva discussions. There was no apparent support for his position.

There are similarities between the Big Four summit meetings last week and the two-power talks to come. The summit meeting, suggested originally by Winston Churchill May 11, 1953, was advocated last March 20 on a national television program by Senator Walter F. George (Dem.), Georgia, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

After the broadcast the White House sent a message to George saying the President was in general agreement. On March 21 George spelled out further his proposal for a meeting of the heads of government of the United States, Russia, Britain and France. The next day, after Mr. Eisenhower had met with Republican leaders, Knowland asserted the George proposal did not represent the "viewpoint of the Government at the present time." There was a period of confusion and clarification but it became clear gradually that the meeting would take place.

KNOWLAND, who often has differed with the President on foreign policy, has not yet expressed an opinion on the President's dramatic Geneva proposal that the United States and Russia exchange military blueprints and permit aerial inspection of each other's territory as a means of thwarting a surprise attack, although the idea was welcomed by Senate Democrats.

It was not until Thursday that Knowland made any extended comment at all on the summit conference. He said it was a success in an "exploratory" sense but that "all the basic problems remain in Europe and Asia." He warned that the West must continue to look to its defenses.

Last Sunday Senator George, on the same national television program on which he appeared in March, called for direct negotiations between the United States and Communist China within six months, probably at the Foreign Ministers' level. He said he anticipated "an acute flare-up" in the Formosa Strait unless this country indicated willingness to discuss problems with the Communists.

On Monday the State Department announced the Johnson talks with the Chinese Communists and on Tuesday and Wednesday Dulles and Mr. Eisenhower gave further details and opinions. It was widely thought at the Capitol that George was taking the policy lead on the subject of a Far East conference in the same way he promoted the meeting of the Big Four.

George expressed surprise that the ambassadorial conferences were to be held and repeated his belief that the only talks that would be profitable would be those between Chou and other high Chinese officials and United States officials of comparable rank and responsibility. George said that in his own mind he was satisfied a high-level conference will take place within a "reasonable" time.

What George expects is significant because of his great influence in foreign affairs. His support assured passage earlier in the year of the so-called Formosa resolution, in which President Eisenhower asked Congress for authority to defend Formosa and the Pescadores from possible attack by the Chinese Communists. He has brought the Democrats almost solidly behind Administration foreign policy. His desire for a meeting at the ministerial level indicates that an overwhelming majority of the Senate supports such a session.

The background of the Johnson-Wang talks includes the following:

At the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina, Johnson began discussions with the Chinese Communists on obtaining release of the Americans. These discussions were then picked up by the United States Consul General at Geneva, Franklin Gowen, who has been meeting with Chinese consular representatives for the last year.

During the year the Chinese have freed four airmen and 20 civilians. Still in China are 11 airmen, imprisoned as spies, and 40 civilians, either in prison or under house arrest or detained in China by the denial of exit visas. The State Department has described the outcome of the Gowen negotiations as "inadequate."

Last Feb. 28, Premier U Nu of Burma announced Premier Chou would be willing to receive an unofficial United States delegation to discuss the prisoners. The United States indirectly declined. On April 23, at the Asian-African Conference in Bandung, Indonesia, Chou declared:

"The Chinese Government is willing to sit down and enter into negotiations with the United States Government to discuss relaxing tension in the Far East and especially . . . relaxing tension in the Taiwan (Formosa) area."

The State Department replied immediately the United States would insist on the German Economic Revival Humming—With What Result?

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS

BONN, July 30.

NO matter how often the visitor returns to Germany he is assailed anew by what the Germans themselves like to call "the German miracle"—the great humming beehive of industry that has come out of what was assumed 10 years ago to be a ruin destined to lie hopeless and helpless for many years if not decades.

This beehive hums with long lines of truck traffic on the highways, and on the Rhine river and the interconnecting canals that carry a constant stream of barges. It reaches a crescendo in the Ruhr valley, where a new high-speed steel mill, larger than anything that existed before the war, has just gone into production.

West Germany last year became the second largest automobile producer in Europe, and with a planned expansion of 200,000 automobiles a year, Britain will be pushed hard for the No. 1 position. The British are now being crowded out of markets they had long taken for granted, and German competition with the cheap and durable Volkswagen and a new lower priced Mercedes is certain to effect the sale of American automobiles abroad.

One of Germany's leading scientists, Prof. Werner Heisenberg, has just issued a challenge to the German scientific community to carry through a plan for atomic development that will make up for the years when other countries have been pushing the development of the atom for peace and war. Criticizing present plans, Heisenberg proposed construction of an experimental reactor which would be linked with an Institute for Neutron Physics, another for chemistry and a series of laboratories for work in electronics. Mistakes have been made in this field in the recent past, but given the energy, the skills and the drive of these people no one can doubt that they will be more than made up for.

Where is it heading, this fierce drive, this newest outward thrust of the vital force of Germania? The answers are likely to be given in terms of black and white. In the American view, or at least the official American view, the West German Republic is a democracy indissolubly linked with the West, the symbol of this union being Adenauer and his popular hold on his people. Determinedly, American officials have kept saying that in this rehabilitated Germany all is for the best in the best possible of worlds.

The opposite view until very recently was that of the Soviet propagandists, who kept saying that the Germans today were the same Germans who set out under Hitler to conquer Europe with such calculated wholesale slaughter as had scarcely been seen before. The new Soviet line, as displayed in Moscow's invitation to Adenauer to come and talk about renewing relationships, seeks to cover over this bitter attack, but it does not conceal the deep-seated Russian fear of a reunited Germany. That fear was manifest at the summit conference where, despite a surface agreement in the final directive, the Soviets repeated their insistence that German reunification must come late and last, after a European security pact has been carefully buttoned up.

But if the Russian view has been the extreme view, there has been another perspective in the West which is not far from it. While they will not express it publicly, since publicly they are committed to reunification, there are many British who take an extremely dim view of the prospect for Germany. One is told in London that American policy has been naive to the point of folly in pushing German recovery so fast and in giving the Germans everything they wanted, and then something more. Seen from this dour perspective, Adenauer is scarcely more than a front man for a group of clever schemers prepared to sell to the highest bidder. If the price is right, Adenauer will make a deal when he goes to Moscow in September and leave the West, and particularly America, holding a very empty bag.

In a sovereign Germany, anything is possible, but in certain recent events there is evidence that this is too pessimistic a view. These events suggest that there may be a middle ground between the two extremes.

Adenauer called on the Parliament to give him blanket authority to put together the new German Army that will be part of NATO. The so-called volunteers bill would have meant the delegation of complete control to the central government. This produced a revolt in Parliament, and not only in the opposition parties but among Adenauer's own supporters.

Despite strenuous efforts to overcome it, the opposition persisted, and in the end even the Chancellor's own great prestige did not prevail. The compromise bill, adopted shortly before the Parliament went on its summer recess, gives the Government only the most limited powers to initiate the first preparatory stages of rearmament. The Defense Ministry is authorized to recruit only 6000 volunteers, officers and noncoms, and these recruits are not to be organized into tactical units but are available solely to staff the Ministry and for Germany's missions to NATO and elsewhere in Europe, and for a training center in U.S.A. Parliament is to have the final voice in setting up the top command, and the volunteers are to serve for a four-month trial period, until their suitability can be determined.

Although the significance of this parliamentary revolt escaped notice at the time, it seems in retrospect to have been a genuine manifestation of democratic opinion. This was evidence that no matter how popular the leader, the peoples' representatives would not hand over the kind of blank check that German leaders in the past have employed with reckless disregard for the consequences.

Perhaps too much stress can be put on this incident, and the Government may get the full measure of authority when Parliament returns. But it does indicate that the kind of checks and balances essential to a free society may be at work, and if that is so then there is hope that this resurgent Germany will be a peaceful member of the family of nations.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Taxing Cigarettes

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The recent Missouri Legislature passed Senate Bill No. 351 which places a tax of 2 cents per package on cigarettes sold in the state. This bill will be placed before the voters Oct. 4 in a referendum and, if passed, will go into effect Jan. 1, 1956.

A cigarette tax is a "poor man's" tax. The million dollar executive and the $40-a-week employe pay the same amount. The wisdom of placing a 2-cent state tax on each package of cigarettes is also questionable in view of the fact that the Federal Government already imposes a tax of 8 cents per package, and over 100 municipalities in the state of Missouri are also at the present time levying a minimum tax of 2 cents.

The total of these taxes amounts to 12 cents on a product retailing generally for about 25 cents. Even products recognized as being unquestionably in the luxury class do not bear taxes that approximate this 100 per cent levy on cigarettes.

The defects of Senate Bill No. 351 and the trouble it would cause to those engaged in the legitimate distribution of cigarettes in the state are of even more concern. This is a revenue measure; yet the bill does not provide adequate penalties for either the evasion of the tax or the counterfeiting of stamps required.

It is true that the measure calls for collection of double the amount of tax involved in cases of this kind, but for the amount of money involved this penalty is inadequate and indeed impossible of collection as the City of St. Louis has discovered.

Under a similar penalty for violation of the city cigarette tax ordinance the city has attempted to collect $500,000 in taxes and penalties from one concern and it is the opinion of the writer that this sum will never be collected.

The worst part of this situation is the undisclosed loss that the legitimate business men have suffered.

This measure also contains requirements that are absolutely impossible in their application. For example, Section 8 states partly as follows: "Every manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer shall preserve written records of sales made taxable by this act." This matter of written records is of questionable value with reference to manufacturers and wholesalers, but it has no practical application for the retailer.

I do not believe that, as required by this act, the retailer could possibly preserve a written record of each sale of cigarettes he made, and even if he were able to do so the resulting information would be valueless.

Experience has indicated that the retailer would therefore be excused from adhering to the law in spite of the fact that the law states otherwise. One excuse leads to another and every loophole becomes wider and more effective in the evasion of taxes as time goes on. This has been the history of these poorly drawn cigarette tax measures.

To sum up, the measure is bad because it places an unfair tax on the consumer. More serious, however, is the fact that it is tailor-made to incite unfair competition to legitimate merchants on the part of those only too ready to take the utmost advantage of a situation inviting enormous illegal profit. President, Missouri Association of Tobacco Distributors.

All Who Fear McCarthyism

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A recent news item stated that an American soldier in West Berlin was absent without leave for one and one half years. He spent the time in East Berlin with the Reds.

He had previously been convicted of going AWOL and larceny. His excuse for going over to the Reds was that he feared McCarthy rule.

Move over, Mr. Editor, you have a very dear bedfellow. It's too bad there isn't one each also for the editors of the Des Moines Register, Minneapolis Tribune, Louisville Courier-Journal, Washington Post, New York Herald Tribune and others of that ilk. You would all be so happy together. T. J. KERINS.

Sabotaging KETC

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In reply to Miss Kay Kranzberg's recent telegram in which she echoed the call for a qualified committee to investigate the Educational Television Commission and its policies, I agree that such is needed. Perhaps such an investigation would reveal how hard the present commission is fighting to hold Channel 9 for the people of Greater St. Louis against a group that is trying to discredit it.

It's about time disgruntled, discharged ex-employes stop crying in public. FRIEND OF CHANNEL 9.

Now Is the Time

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Now is the time for Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne to come to the aid of their party. Surely they can turn out another 15-minute script, complete with wounded but proud wife, and small dog (which, for variety, could be called "Scrabbles"). After which, President Eisenhower could embrace Secretary Talbott, smile sadly and call him "my boy." LUCY ANN WALSH.

As Congress Closes

The first session of the Eighty-fourth Congress, now closing, was not destined to be a great one in terms of great legislation enacted.

It met in an off-year between national elections, and its party leadership was different from that of the Executive branch. The two circumstances together tended to limit legislative prospects pretty much to the essentials.

But if the legislative accomplishments are few, it is worth noticing that the "cold war" between Congress and the President, which Mr. Eisenhower had predicted in an incautious moment of the 1954 election campaign, never eventuated. Partisan conflict might have created, as it had done on occasion during the past, that "paralyzing indecision" against which the President warned in his State of the Union message last January. Fortunately for all concerned, no such stalemate plagued this Congress, especially in the field of foreign policy and defense.

How far-reaching was the bipartisan support of the President on foreign policy is indicated by a few of the roll-call votes. The defense treaty with Nationalist China was approved 65 to 6; the Southeast Asia defense treaty 82 to 1, the Paris pacts on Western Germany 76 to 2, the Austrian treaty 63 to 3, the Formosa resolution 85 to 3.

Senator McCarthy's attempt to tie the President's hands at Geneva was soundly defeated, 77 to 4—a striking measure, not only of support for Mr. Eisenhower in his effort to negotiate a settlement of diplomatic conflicts, but of the decline of McCarthy's influence since the early days of this Administration.

Probably the most impressive achievement of the entire session was the passage of a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act. True, this measure retained some of the old restrictive clauses and added a few new ones, but on the whole it sustained the principle of tariff reduction by presidential initiative in exchange for concessions from other nations.

In the prior Eighty-third Congress, under Republican leadership, the President had been unable to secure more than token one-year extensions, which permitted no real tariff negotiations to be undertaken. This year, the three-year extension passed the House 295 to 110 and the Senate 75 to 13.

Outside the realms of foreign policy, defense and appropriations, the record of the session was largely one of political jockeying with an eye on next year's elections. The Democrats' attempt to add an individual income tax cut to the Administration's bill extending corporation and excise taxes was fortunately defeated. It was obviously a political gesture designed to steal any thunder which the Administration may hope to gain from proposing a tax cut next January.

So it went on some other "pocketbook" issues that are supposed to be important at election time. The President proposed increasing the minimum wage to 90 cents; his bid was seen and raised by the Democrats to $1. The President proposed to continue the public housing program at 70,000 units for the next two years; the Senate Democrats voted instead to restore the original 1949 program of 135,000 units a year.

Politically, the heaviest blows in this session were struck not by legislation but by investigations. The President was persuaded to abandon his unwise and unsound Dixon-Yates contract. He was embarrassed by the Democratic exploitation of the mishandling of the Salk polio vaccine problem by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare under the now resigned Secretary Hobby. He was further put on the defensive by disclosure that Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott had misused his office for the advantage of a private firm in which he was financially interested.

The Democrats scored on these matters because on each of them the Administration was vulnerable. Where the Administration scored handsomely was in the field of foreign policy, and there this session of Congress not only gave the Executive strong bipartisan support but freed it from the costly harassments which Senator McCarthy had earlier imposed.

The Eighty-fourth will have another chance to meet its responsibilities at the next session, beginning in January. Let us hope that the deficiencies of this session—such as its deplorable failure to agree on a sound highway building program—will then be overcome.

Garnish With a Spur of the Moment

Mark Grammas, a Jackson (Mich.) chef, is mighty right when he says men are in a rut in their eating habits. They are in a lot narrower rut, too, than Mr. Grammas refers to when he says they habitually eat eggs for breakfast, sandwiches for lunch and steak for dinner.

The eggs, up to 90 per cent of them, are either fried or scrambled, we venture to say, a negligible percentage going into such delectable but quasi-exotic dishes as Spanish omelette. The standard sandwiches are ham, and Swiss on rye, peanut butter and jelly, and bacon-lettuce-and-tomato. How many people eat cucumber sandwiches or white asparagus sandwiches—and how many restaurants are thoughtful enough to offer them on the menu?

Steaks are consumed by men in a commendable variety of ways, from rare charcoal-broiled to country-fried with onions; but it is deplorable how many people eat them without mushrooms, their natural and boon companions.

Mr. Grammas seems to think Middle Western men are in a deeper rut than most, and so they are more behoven to add a dash of impetuosity to their eating. One new dish a week, just for the heck of it, could be a good new rut to get into as a means of getting out of all the old ones.

Fingerprint Nonsense

Russian farm experts are touring American prairies today only because the United States Government detoured around a provision in its own immigration law. This provision requires fingerprinting of unofficial foreign visitors—something few nations inflict upon Americans when they go abroad.

Earlier this year Washington and Moscow planned a tour for 11 Soviet editors. That tour collapsed in recriminations when the Russians indignantly refused to be fingerprinted. To avoid a repetition of such nonsense with the Russian farm experts, the State Department declared that they would be official visitors—and officials need not be fingerprinted under the McCarran-Walter law.

What even the Russians consider a police-state tactic ought to be far more repugnant to Americans. Europeans generally, as Marquis W. Childs recently reported, are baffled by the fingerprint rules imposed by the home of the brave.

Beyond that, fingerprinting Russian farmers or French ballet dancers or German business men serves no useful purpose. Perhaps it was not intended to. The sponsors of the McCarran act sometimes seemed to be confused as to whether they were writing rules for admitting aliens or rules for barring them. The combination of suspicion and arrogance that seeped into the immigration code ought to be blotted out by the next Congress, beginning with the fingerprints.

In Fairness to Howard Young

Members of the Senate-House Committee on Defense Production say they cannot now make an "evaluation" of the record of Howard I. Young of St. Louis as a dollar-a-year man in Washington.

Their indecision threatens to leave the case in limbo until Congress meets next year. Such procrastination would be unfair to Mr. Young and unworthy of the committee.

Mr. Young is president of American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Co. and during the Korean war was deputy administrator of the Defense Materials Procurement Agency. Recently Comptroller General Joseph Campbell reported to Congress that an apparent "conflict of interest" was involved. A General Accounting Office report strongly implied that Young in his official capacity had served his company as well as his country.

The case was splashed on national attention when Senator Williams of Delaware placed the GAO report in the Congressional Record before the joint committee had a chance to hear Young's side of the story. When heard, Young denied every charge.

Since then the GAO has backed down on two of its major complaints: (1) that Young's own firm sold $60,000 worth of machinery to a company for which Young had promoted a federal loan, and (2) that his firm sold 1167 tons of zinc to the Government at a contract price above the market price at time of delivery. The GAO says the latter charge has only been reworded, not withdrawn, but does not make clear what offense is alleged.

Comptroller General Campbell also has told the committee that he would not accuse Young of acting in bad faith, but questioned whether "sound principles of public administration were exercised." This is a thorough retreat from implications of impropriety.

If the GAO is now so uncertain of some of its facts and its phraseology, why did it issue the report against Young in the first place? The public can only conclude that the report was a sloppy and reckless piece of work.

Nevertheless, the charges against Mr. Young have left their mark. And when a citizen's reputation is at stake, a congressional committee has no business allowing months to pass before justice catches up with the accusations. There has been too much carelessness of this sort for the rights and reputations of individuals.

If Mr. Young was wrong—and the GAO certainly has not proved it—the investigating committee should say so. But if Mr. Young was not wrong, then the GAO was totally wrong in bringing accusations which it could not support against a citizen who served his nation without compensation.

Truth should not be permitted to trail far behind the charges. The congressional committee has heard both sides and should reach a prompt and fair conclusion.

Toward Basic China Talks

The importance of Premier Chou En-lai's statement on Formosa and this week's Geneva talks scarcely can be exaggerated.

This is a far less belligerent Chou En-lai than the one who was threatening forcible "liberation" of Formosa a few months ago. He now talks of negotiation for "peaceful liberation."

Even more important, he couches his views in relatively moderate terms and, like the Russians, acknowledges the public demand for negotiated settlements of outstanding issues.

Chou professes to believe that the question of American prisoners still held in China can be easily settled at the Geneva ambassadorial talks. How easily remains to be seen. But if Peiping's course in those talks is as encouraging as Chou's speech, then the next step may well be discussions at the foreign-minister level on the broader issues of a Far Eastern settlement.

Senator George is entirely right in pressing for a meeting between Secretary Dulles and Premier Chou En-lai within a reasonable time.

Mr. Dulles, evidently keeping his customary eye on the Chiang Kai-shek wing of the Republican party, speaks of such a meeting as if it could only take place in the remote and misty future. But Senator George, with magnificent disdain for Senator McCarthy and others who oppose an Asian settlement, makes quite clear that he is talking about some time within the next six months.

Surely it would be a tragic error if the momentum generated at the Big Four Geneva conference were to be lost in Asia just as the Chinese Communists appear to be taking a more conciliatory line. If Peiping is ready to negotiate, Washington dares not be less so.

Too Soon to Worry Too Much

The basketball-moon which United States scientists hope to send into outer space still is only a mass of mathematical pencil squiggles. Yet stalwart Senators and Representatives already worry about giving away its "secrets."

In view of the history of atomic energy, they might ponder whether men ever can conceal facts of nature from other men for any considerable length of time. Economic advantages may help us to launch the first satellite. But some scientists believe that the Russians may be a bit ahead of us. At least they have a more ambitious name for their project: Commission for Interplanetary Communication.

Construction of the satellite was first urged by the International Council of Scientific Unions in Rome in 1954, the last International Geophysical Year sponsored by it. The next "year" is 1957-58, and the circling basketball will be the American contribution to its observance.

Naturally, there has been much lay speculation on military implications, not to mention eventual trips to the moon. But in discussing such a device last April, A. G. Karpenko of Russia claimed only that it would allow more complete study of "biological, astrophysical, radiophysical, geophysical and geographical phenomena." American scientists have promised no more; and like other members of international scieptific societies they propose to exchange their findings, if any, for the sake of greater over-all knowledge.

Evidently we need not worry too much about that just now. After all, the vastnesses of the heavens are not posted against exploration. Those who see the ionospheric basketball as the first step to interplanetary vacation excursions or world-dominating space-forts might preserve serenity by step-at-a-time worrying. They might ask, too, whether the sharing of knowledge—really available to all—rather than its withholding might not be the greater contribution to world peace.

MIGHT BE THE GREATER PAGE

Conservation Is Not Enough

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Thoreau's description of world as 'more beautiful than useful' is sound thought for men exploiting nature to limit, writer says; conservation will not work if it is only enlightened exploitation, or science developing ancient idea of a world for man only.

Joseph Wood Krutch, Formerly Brander Mathews Professor of Dramatic Literature, Columbia University, in American Forests, Magazine of The American Forestry Association

Moralists often blame races and nations because they have never learned how to live and let live. But it is not only the members of his own kind that man seems to want to push off the earth.

When man moves in, nearly everything else that lives suffers from his intrusion. Even now there are more wild animals around than we realize. They see us when we do not see them; and it is because they have seen us that we do not see them.

Joseph W. Krutch

Albert Schweitzer remarks somewhere that we owe kindness even to an insect, when we can afford to show it, just because we ought to do something to make up for all the cruelties, necessary as well as unnecessary, which we have inflicted upon almost the whole of animate creation.

Hardly more than two generations ago, Americans first woke up to the fact that their land was not inexhaustible. Yet everybody knows that the using up still goes on, perhaps not so fast nor so recklessly as once it did.

'Exploitation Is So False'

The wisest, the most enlightened, the most remotely long-seeing exploitation of resources is not enough, for the simple reason that the whole concept of exploitation is so false and so limited that in the end it will defeat itself and the earth will have been plundered, no matter how scientifically the plundering has been done.

It is not a sentimental but a grimly literal fact that unless we share this terrestial globe with creatures other than ourselves, we shall not be able to live on it for long.

You may, if you like, think of this as a moral law. But if you are skeptical about moral laws, you cannot escape the fact that this has its factual, scientific aspect.

People may know, or at least they may have been told, that what looks like the useless is often remotely but demonstrably essential. Out in the desert country they may see the land being rendered useless by overuse.

They may have heard that when the mountain lion is killed off, the deer multiply; that when the deer multiply, the new growth of trees and shrubs is eaten away; that when the hills are denuded, a farm or a section of grazing land many miles away is washed into gullies and made incapable of supporting either man or any large animals.

Variation on an Old Idea

What is commonly called "conservation" will not work in the long run, because it is not really conservation at all but rather a more knowledgeable variation of the old idea of a world for man's use only.

In our society we pride ourselves upon having reached a point where we condemn an individual whose whole aim in life is to acquire material wealth for himself. But his vulgarity is only one step removed from that of a society which takes no thought for anything except increasing the material wealth of the community.

Thoreau once said: "This curious world which we inhabit is more wonderful than it is convenient; more beautiful than it is useful; it is more to be admired than it is to be used." But without some realization that "this curious world" is at least beautiful as well as useful, conservation is doomed. If we do not permit the earth to produce beauty and joy, it will in the end not produce food either.

Here in the West, a war more or less concealed under the guise of a "conflict of interest" rages between the "practical" conservationist and the defenders of national parks, between cattlemen and lumberers on the one hand and "sentimentalists" on the other.

The pressure to allow the hunter, the rancher or the woodcutter to invade the public domain is constant, and the plea is always that we should "use" what is assumed to be useless unless it is adding to material welfare.

Man vs. His Machine

From a purely homocentric point of view, this may seem entirely proper. Is it not our proudest boast that we have learned how to "control nature"? Does not our dream of the future include a final emancipation from any dependence upon a natural balance and the substitution for it of some balance established by ourselves and in our exclusive interest?

The more completely we bring nature "under control," the more complicated our methods must become, the more disastrous the chain reaction set up by any failure of wisdom or watchfulness or technique.

Until we learned to support a population far larger than we would have believed possible a century ago, there was no danger of general starvation.

Until we learned how to "control" the atom, there was no danger that atomic phenomena would actually get out of control, and hence it is still not clear whether we are running the machines or the machines are running us.

Space and Immediate Profit

"It is," wrote John Ray (seventeenth century English naturalist), "a general received opinion, that all this visible world was created for Man; that Man is the End of Creation. . . . But though this be vulgarly received, yet wise men now-a-days think otherwise. Dr. Moore affirms, that creatures are made to enjoy themselves as well as to serve us."

Since our age is not inclined to be interested in theological arguments, it is not likely to find Ray's exposition a sufficient reason for accepting gladly the continued existence on this earth of "useless" plants and animals occupying space which man might turn to his own immediate profit.

Man is more likely to make at least certain concessions in that direction as a result of absorbing what the ecologist has to say about the impossibility of maintaining a workable balance without a much more generous view of what is "useful" and what is not.

But it is not certain that on that basis he will ever make quite enough concessions, and it is entirely certain that he will not make them happily, will not find life pleasanter just because he makes them, unless he can learn to love and to delight in the variety of nature.

AN ATOMIC FRIED HAMBURGER.
From the Milwaukee Journal.

The free world's first atomic generated electric power was turned into a commercial utility's lines recently near Schenectady, N.Y.

At the ceremonies, presided over by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, the power left over from experimental use of a General Electric Co. reactor lit a giant bulb on a platform before the 200 spectators.

But the first domestic—and practical—use made of the power was by a housewife in nearby Ballston Spa. She fried a hamburger!

How much better and more promising it is for all mankind to have the atom fry hamburgers than to be chained within a bomb casing for possible war.

Herb Garden

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Here in this small suburban
Garden dwell
History and incantation,
Ancient spell—
Maidenhair fern that helped
Assuage the ills
Of savage men when these
Were savage hills—
Marjoram, crown of bronzed
Egyptian bride—
Parsley and tarragon
Our forebears dried
In dark New England barns.
Here, as on Attic slopes
For centuries,
Sweep creeping thyme
Inebriates the bees.

Here feathers dill
The Hindus drew to ward
Off evil spirits
With Italy's white-starred
Basil, lover's herb.
Sage, silver gleaming—
Peppermint old wives brewed
From dreamless sleep—
Anise for dreaming—
Lavender, redolent of
The baths of Rome,
And pinks from a convent garden
Make their home
Here in this small suburban
Patch of sun,
Mingling their mysteries
And their roots as one.

Eisenhower Wins Part Victory On Foreign Trade Program; Two Major Requests Bog Down

Multi-Billion-Dollar Aid Bill Voted, Less Than Amount Sought—Reciprocal Act Extension Approved, but Restrictions Are Added.

By JOSEPH R. SLEVIN
The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, July 30.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER won approval by Congress of part—but far from all—of the comprehensive foreign economic program he asked it to indorse this year.

Congress voted a multi-billion-dollar foreign aid bill and it passed a three-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act. But both were qualified victories. The legislators gave Mr. Eisenhower less money than he had requested and they added several restrictive amendments to the trade law.

Two major presidential requests bogged down completely. Action on the bitterly controversial issue of United States membership in the proposed Organization for Trade Co-operation was postponed until next year. The Administration's customs simplification bill became snarled in a Senate Finance Committee quarrel over a provision liberalizing valuation procedures.

Mr. Eisenhower asked for enactment of the reciprocal trade, OTC, and customs measures in a special foreign economic policy message he sent Congress January 10. He said it is in the "enlightened self interest" of the United States to pursue a foreign economic program that will increase the economic strength of the free world.

The President stressed that the free nations must be prosperous enough to support large military establishments "to deter Communist armed aggression." The economies of underdeveloped countries must be strengthened to make their people less susceptible to Communist appeals, he maintained.

First Large-Scale Proposal.

This year witnessed the first large-scale congressional consideration of foreign trade legislation since Mr. Eisenhower entered the White House.

The proposals he put forward were based on recommendations originally developed by the Randall Commission. He refrained from seeking enactment of a foreign trade program during his first year in office but suggested instead that the Randall Commission be established to make a full study of foreign economic problems.

Mr. Eisenhower unsuccessfully presented his recommendations to the Republican - controlled Eighty-third Congress in March, 1954, after the commission had reported. He resubmitted them to the Democratic - controlled Eighty-fourth Congress last January after a "fresh review."

While Congress gave Mr. Eisenhower less than he asked, the legislative response to his requests has been taken by other countries as evidence that the United States will continue to move along the same road it has been following in recent years.

Reciprocal Trade Law.

The new reciprocal trade law means the President's request for a three-year extension of the trade agreements act with authority to negotiate tariff cuts of five per cent a year.

The bill cleared the House in the form sought by the President but it was watered down in the Senate Finance Committee. The group added 29 restrictive amendments.

One of the amendments provides for increased "peril point" protection for domestic industries. Another will make it easier for domestic industries to justify escape clause appeals to the Tariff Commission for greater protection against imports.

Mr. Eisenhower had told a press conference in March that he would throw his full prestige into the fight for the trade program. He was expected to put up a vigorous battle against the weakening finance committee amendments. Instead, the White House compromised with the protectionists and assured Senate approval of the changes by declaring the bill "acceptable" shortly before the Senate voted.

This year's deliberations revealed a significant shift in the alignment of free trade and protectionist forces. Southern Democrats, once among the stanchest defenders of the reciprocal trade program as representatives of an agricultural exporting area, found that there now are occasions when they are numbered among the protectionists.

The steady industrialization of the South—particularly a shift of textile mills to Southern states—is responsible for the change. Senator Walter F. George (Dem.), Georgia, traditionally one of the sturdiest fighters for the trade program, successfully sponsored two of the limiting amendments adopted by the Finance Committee. One was urged by the textile industry while the other was pressed by textile and chemical interests.

Calm and Patient Man to Speak for U.S. At Geneva Conference With Chinese Reds

U. Alexis Johnson Experienced in Far East, Worked on Korean Armistice.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, July 30.

U. ALEXIS JOHNSON, a calm career diplomat with long experience in the Far East and a reputation for patience, has been given the difficult task of conducting conversations with the Chinese Communists at Geneva.

Johnson, United States Ambassador to Communist Czechoslovakia, will be the State Department's chief representative at the ambassadorial-level conference opening Monday. It will be his third encounter with the diplomatic attitudes of the mainland Chinese regime.

Across the table will be Wang Ping-nan, Communist China's Ambassador to Poland, with whom Johnson has dealt once before, at last summer's conference on an Indochina truce, also held at Geneva.

In the latter days of that meeting, the two envoys conducted preliminary talks on repatriation of American prisoners of war in China. The groundwork was laid for the talks beginning Monday.

Both the conference site and the diplomat opposite him thus will be familiar to Johnson. "They (the Chinese Reds) waited to announce their man until they saw whom we were sending," he remarked in an interview with the Post-Dispatch.

Viewed as Best for Job.

Johnson's associates in the State Department, and particularly the Bureau of Far Eastern Affairs, believe he was the best and certainly the obvious choice for the job, by virtue of both training and temperament. Almost 18 years of experience in a variety of posts dealing with Far Eastern problems preceded his present assignment.

His friends say he will bring to the conference a quiet patience that has become almost a by-word in the department. "I've never seen Alex Johnson lose his temper or raise his voice," said one long-time associate.

Others describe him as primarily a "staff" worker rather than an idea man. They say his chief attributes, developed in 20 years of advancement through foreign service ranks, are a meticulous regard for detail, a retentive memory for facts and a tremendous capacity for work.

A heavy-set six-footer, Johnson looks younger than his 46 years, despite the suggestion of a double chin. He smiles easily and frequently and is a heavy smoker, using a cigarette holder. He might be a successful business man who was a football player in his college days.

Asked to discuss the principles he uses in international conferences, he thought for some time, then replied deliberately:

"Patience. I would put it at the top of the list. I had good training in that during the Panmunjom negotiations."

When the Korean armistice talks began at Panmunjom in July 1951, Johnson was director of the Office of Northeast Asian Affairs. He was quickly moved up, becoming Deputy Assistant Secretary of State in the Bureau of Far Eastern Affairs.

As the talks dragged on, Johnson became, as he puts it, "the focal point" for the discussions on the Washington end. All documents relating to the truce talks crossed his desk. He took part in most of the decisions and provided much of the information ultimately used by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in achieving an armistice.

It was his first major encounter, although at long distance, with the Chinese Communists, who had supplied "volunteers" in the Korean fighting and had representatives at the truce talks.

It was his job to draw together the mountains of information coming out of Panmunjom, make sense and order out of it and have it ready for questions from higher-ups.

24-Hour-a-Day Job.

"It was a 24-hour-a-day, seven-days-a-week job," Johnson recalled. Those who served with him at the time attest to that. "I've never seen a man work so hard," one said. "He was able to delegate authority, but he insisted on knowing what he was delegating, and in the last analysis he handled almost all of it personally."

A few months after the armistice was signed in July 1953, Johnson moved to the United States Embassy in Prague as counselor. He became Ambassador in November of that year.

The Czechoslovakian assignment was only the second non-Far Eastern post Johnson has had since joining the foreign service in 1935. Except for a stint at Rio de Janeiro from 1942 to 1944, he has served either in the Orient or on the Far Eastern desk in Washington.

Starting as language officer at Tokyo in 1935 (he speaks Japanese), he was moved from place to place in the Orient. His official State Department biography reads like a classic account of normal foreign service advancement.

He was at Mukden, Manchuria, as vice consul when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor in 1941. Johnson was interned by the Japanese, after a fashion. "It was more like a semi-house arrest. We lived upstairs, and the police moved in downstairs," he said.

Repatriation Assignment.

After the war, he handled repatriation of civilian internees and war prisoners from the Philippine Islands and Japan, as a political adviser to the Allied High Command, winning the Medal of Freedom for this work.

Johnson went to last year's Geneva conference as co-ordinator of the United States delegation. He stayed on after most of the delegation had left, to begin the talks with Wang Ping-nan on return of American prisoners.

U. ALEXIS JOHNSON

'Never Saw Him Lose Temper,' Associate Says — Mainly a 'Staff' Worker.

Friends say Johnson is the antithesis of the "striped pants and cookie-pusher" breed of diplomat. They prefer to describe him as "the new type of foreign service officer"—a little-known career man of intense diligence.

In his early days with the State Department, he was occasionally seen wearing a frayed suit and a hat that "looked like it had been stepped on." At an Embassy party not too long ago, he showed up in a dinner jacket dating back to 1936.

He is not a wealthy man. His friends say he gained promotion without benefit of political pull or influential family connections.

A graduate of Occidental College in Los Angeles, where he studied economics, and the School of Foreign Service here, where he did post-graduate work in international law, Johnson worked as a stenographer and office manager for a garage while waiting for a foreign service appointment. It was 1932, the height of the depression, and he waited three years for an opening.

Reputation as Hard Worker.

Once in, he set himself to mastering the intricacies of the Far East, achieving a reputation for driving himself hard. Staff members of the Bureau of Far Eastern Affairs consider him one of the State Department's authorities on that part of the world.

"When he comes into a meeting, he brings a mass of well-organized facts with him, listens attentively to what others have to say, then presents his material methodically and logically," his associates say. They agree that Johnson is unfailingly good-natured but not particularly inspirational.

He is married to the former Patricia Ann Tillman of Washington. They have four children, Judith Ann, now Mrs. Mason S. Zerbe Jr.; Stephen, 18, who will enter the University of Virginia this year; William, 16, and Jennifer, 12.

Johnson's relaxation is in character. He plays a hard, fast game of tennis, but admits he is not of professional status. And he climbs mountains, "although I haven't had time lately to do as much of that as I would like."

Russians at Geneva Showed Sensitivity to West's Opinion

Reds' Pleasantness More Than Desire to Seduce West—Behavior Is Reaction to Uncouth Stalin Era.

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW
Copyright, 1955, The London Observer.
GENEVA, July 30.

THE Russians did not tell us a great deal while they were in Geneva. The Soviet statesmen did not confide their difficulties in running the huge and immensely complicated machine which is the Soviet state and adapting it to the new conditions which have existed since Stalin's death.

They did not ask for advice on the best way to remove suspicion and win the confidence of the West.

They came, they talked, they smiled, they argued, they conceded, they qualified their concessions, and then they went home.

Nevertheless, I think they told us a little more than they realized and that what we have seen of them is going to make a lasting mark on East-West relations which will never again be quite as bad as they were.

Impression on Public.

By their behavior in Geneva, the Russians managed to impress a far wider public than ever before with the realities of the change that has taken place.

And how eager they were to impress! That was particularly noticeable in the case of Nikita S. Khrushchev, by nature garrulous, overbearing and indiscreet. In Geneva he controlled his nature remarkably well, and it was clear that the lessons of Belgrade had been marked and learned. He did not drink too much; he did not boast; he deferred on all public occasions to the constitutional head of government, Marshal Bulganin (whom in Belgrade, Khrushchev had completely overshadowed); he behaved with extreme restraint in every way.

In itself this remarkable change of behavior was a most encouraging sign. For it confirmed the belief that the Soviet leaders in their present mood are extremely sensitive to Western opinion. I think there is more to this than a simple desire to seduce the West by a display of surface pleasantries. Rather, in the deep reaction against Stalinism, which carried sullenness and uncouthness into every sphere of life the new Soviet leaders are anxious to show, to themselves as well as to others, that the Russians also can be civilized. They are quite obviously enjoying their new manners, the new language free from Communist jargon, the new expansiveness.

Possible Results.

I am personally convinced that this apparently superficial change will have results beyond computation. Stalin's successors began by playing a part. But the part has now got under their skin and they are no longer acting. They are beginning to think like civilized beings, and this new habit of thought will penetrate downwards through the hierarchy and into many unexpected aspects of Soviet life.

Another thing that Geneva has finally established is the present reality of collective rule in Russia. Probably the only man at present in the higher Soviet leadership who is capable of emulating Stalin as supreme master is Georgi Malenkov, who is under restraint.

Certainly Khrushchev has immense drive and a great deal of personal power, but although he is allowed to take a great deal of limelight there is nothing in his buildup to prepare the Russian people to accept him as a mystery being, apart and above. Indeed, his main role seems to be to demonstrate that the men in the Kremlin are human too, which is a conception directly opposed to the conception of a supreme and unchallengable leader, who must appear as a quasi-diety exempt from human failings.

Power of Decision.

Further, at Geneva, towards the end, when real decisions had to be taken, it became increasingly clear that the very high-powered Soviet team, which included the Prime Minister, the Foreign Minister, the Minister of Defense, and the First Secretary of the Soviet Communist party, were in fact in no position at all the make major decisions on their own account. They had to stall while they referred back to colleagues in Moscow.

This strengthens the impression that not only is there a real attempt at government by committee—that is to say, the presidium of the central committee of the Communist party—but, much more important than this, the central committee itself has ceased to be a rubber stamp, and has once more become a power in the land, as it was in the days of Lenin. It is interesting, for example, that Marshal Zhukov, who is evidently playing a very big role, is himself not a member of the presidium, but only of the central committee.

All this suggests that there is being developed at last in Russia voluntarily or involuntarily, a system of political checks and balances, which may alter the whole conception of authoritarian rule there.

Atom Parley Due to Explode Most Secrets of Peaceful Uses

Geneva Conference Working Out Just as Eisenhower Hoped It Would—Scientists Stirred to Action.

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND
(Copyright, 1955.)
GENEVA.

THE international atomic conference, which will bring the world's leading nuclear scientists to Geneva next week from nearly 60 countries, is going to conduct a test explosion of its own.

It will not be a bomb that is set off—just the opposite. Our information is that with the United States and the Soviet Union leading the way, the conference will explode merely the last year of secrecy surrounding the peaceful atom.

What is now clear is that when Geneva's "summit meeting" of atomic scientists is over, there will not be many secrets left in the field of peaceful uses.

This means that this first international atomic conference, convening almost 10 years to the day after the first atomic bomb was revealed to the world at Hiroshima, is working out exactly as President Eisenhower and Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, hoped it would when they projected the idea more than a year ago.

The President and Admiral Strauss were convinced that even if the principal powers could not agree together on how to deal with the war uses of atomic energy, it would be a tremendous boon to get the scientists working together on the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Coolness at First.

Their idea was to begin to show the world what lessons lie ahead if the nations would work co-operatively to expand and speed the development of the peaceful atom.

This is what is happening.

Preparations for the conference began in an atmosphere of skepticism and coolness bordering on indifference. When Professor Walter Whitman of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, secretary-general of the conference, made his survey trip through the principal capitals this winter, he found little interest and virtually nothing being done to prepare significant scientific papers.

The Canadians had made a good start, and Professor Whitman purposely took with him a list of Canadian titles. This stirred both the United States and British Governments to action, and when Professor Whitman went to Moscow he was able to show the Soviets an impressive array of vital atomic subjects which the West would discuss at Geneva.

V. Skoveltein, Soviet member of the conference advisory committee, asked if he could see the list of Western papers when Professor Whitman told him about it. Since he had prepared it for that very purpose, Whitman was delighted to hand it over.

Spurred Interest.

On the scientific level, Soviet interest in the conference began at this point, American scientists believe. Probably the Kremlin's political decision to participate had already been taken, but Whitman's array of Western subject matter which he showed Skoveltein undoubtedly spurred the Russians' competitive interest.

Anyway, when the Soviet list of scientific papers arrived shortly thereafter, and then the papers themselves, it became evident that the Russians were prepared to contribute highly informative, significant and quality material.

There will be nearly a thousand technical and scientific papers on how the peaceful atom can be put to work for mankind. Most of them are already in the hands of the science writers who will be covering the congress and who will aim to make them understandable to laymen. It is obvious that there is by now intensive competition, since both the United States and Russia want to show the world how far they have progressed in turning the atom to constructive purposes.

Secret Broken for All.

Once one nation declassifies what has been an atomic secret, this breaks the top secret label for everybody. The outlook is that the principal atomic powers, aware now that each knows about the same as the other, are going to make nearly all of their knowledge of the peaceful atom common property.

The atomic research reactor which, built at Oak Ridge, was flown to Geneva and installed in its own building on the grounds of the Palais des Nations, is part of the United States technical exhibit at the conference.

The peaceful atom may yet become the world's best enemy of war.

presence of Nationalist China in any discussions about the Formosa area, and advised the Communists they could demonstrate their sincerity by putting into effect a cease-fire, releasing the prisoners and accepting a United Nations Security Council invitation to discuss ending hostilities over Formosa.

During the spring, the Formosa-mainland dispute seemed to be calming down. It was thought the Communists did not want to provoke extensive hostilities just before the Bandung conference, and afterward there appeared to be a tendency to hold off because of the Big Four conference. On March 24, however, occurred the dinner at which Adm. Robert B. Carney, retiring Chief of Naval Operations, said there was risk of a general war in Asia within a few weeks.

At a press conference April 26, Dulles said this Government intended to try to find out whether the Chinese Communists were sincere in their proposal for easing tensions. On July 26, last Tuesday, Dulles noted there had been various improvements in the Formosa situation. Chinese Communist warlike activities have not been resumed (after the Tachen evacuation), he said, and "there has been something approximating a de facto cease-fire in the Formosa area." He added the former belligerent Communist propaganda about Formosa and the United States has recently been somewhat subdued.

Under these circumstances, said the Secretary, the United States, acting through the British, proposed July 11 to Chou that the Geneva consular talks be raised in level and enlarged in scope. The proposal was accepted promptly.

The Chinese Nationalists have declared themselves unalterably opposed to a cease-fire. The United States has expressed hope for one under certain conditions; Dulles stated in April that the presence of the Chinese Nationalists would not be indispensable for the discussion of a cease-fire.

As far as is known, the Chinese on the mainland are continuing to build up bases, particularly air fields, which would be useful in a possible attack on Quemoy and Matsu, and which also would be useful in defense of the mainland. The danger of air strikes by either side is likely to be greater when the rainy season ends in September or October than at present.

Just as the climate of the Big Four meeting was dependent on the attitude of the Russians, the success or failure of Johnson's talks with Wang will hinge largely on the approach of Red China.

The United States is limited in its room for maneuver. It is bound by treaty to the Chinese Nationalist Government on Formosa, with which it has had close relationships since long before the Nationalists were driven from the mainland in 1949.

The United States would have the support of its European allies if forced to defend Formosa and the Pescadores from attack by the Communists; these allies would not support the United States if it tried to defend Nationalist-held Quemoy and Matsu from Communist assault. This country has made it clear it would not support Chiang in any attempt to regain the mainland he once ruled, and that it would like to dispose of Quemoy and Matsu in some manner, but it does not want to give the appearance of retreating, for fear the Communists would make propaganda capital of it.

The over-all problem is one that appears susceptible of solution by diplomatic means. Even if the talks beginning Monday do not produce valuable results in themselves, if they are amicable, the simple fact that they were held will be of major importance, as the ice will have been broken for future meetings.

BRITISH BUSINESS MEN SIGN DEAL WITH EAST GERMANY

BERLIN, July 30 (AP)—British industrialists and East German Government representatives have signed an agreement providing for the exchange of £5,400,000 ($15,109,200) worth of goods, the official East German news service ADN announced today.

Under the agreement, British wool, cocoa, coffee, iron and steel will be shipped to East Germany in return for fertilizer, chemicals and cement, ADN said.

ARMY WANTS 600 DOGS TO TRAIN FOR SENTRY DUTY

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—The Army is in the market for 600 German shepherd dogs which will be trained for sentry duty at Air Force bases.

The Army said up to $125 will be paid for each dog that meets specifications. The animals must be between one and two years old, preferably males. Minimum and maximum shoulder heights are 22 inches and 28 inches respectively and acceptable dogs must weigh between 60 and 80 pounds.

ONE of the results of the greatly increased popular interest in churches and religious activities is the publication of an impressive number of books not only on religious and devotional themes, but on denominations and sects themselves.

The first of the six books listed above tells more about churches, church membership and religious outlooks in this country than any book heretofore published. Its every page is packed with data and statistics that never before have been brought together in one volume. Assisting Leo Rosten, the able editor, are leading spokesmen for more than 15 different religious groups, ranging alphabetically from the Baptists to the Unitarians.

Thus John Cogley of The Commonweal magazine writes about the Roman Catholics, the Rev. Ralph W. Sockman about the Methodists. The Quakers have their spokesman, the Christian Scientists theirs, the Lutherans, the Presbyterians theirs, and so on. Even the agnostics are accounted for and there is a chapter on the "non-church goer."

Here are some of the interesting facts: Suicide rates are lowest among Jews; three out of every 10 Catholics marry a non-Catholic; the average church has 322 members; 50 per cent of Protestants favor one united Protestant church; 96 per cent of Americans say they believe in God, but only 76 per cent believe in a hereafter; there are 6777 ordained women ministers; Presbyterians, Episcopalians and Congregationalists have the highest proportion of college-graduate members.

DR. ROY L. SMITH, former editor of The Christian Advocate, tells his own personal story as well as that of his church in "Why I Am a Methodist." The grandson of a Kansas circuit-riding Methodist minister, he derived his faith naturally and he has come to be called "Mr. Methodist." In his book he describes his denomination's beliefs, its organizations and its far-flung activities.

The book on the Episcopal church is the sixth in a series on "the church's teaching," but it is also independent and can be read by itself. Written by a professor of ecclesiastical history and sub-dean at the General Theological Seminary, it relates the heritage of the Episcopal church, its structure and its activity, including its overseas missions, home mission work, Christian education and social relations and actions. Statistics chart the steady growth of the membership.

The author of the fourth book is a Tennessee newspaperman who has reported many gatherings of Jehovah's Witnesses and has made a study of them, their beliefs and their works. His figures show it to be one of the fastest growing of all church groups. There are chapters on "Pastor" Charles Taze Russell and J. F. Rutherford who helped promote the group over the country.

In June members of the Jehovah's Witnesses filled Comiskey Park, Chicago. Two weeks later they filled Wrigley Field in Los Angeles. Then they met in the Cotton Bowl of Dallas and after that more than 50,000 gathered in Yankee Stadium, New York.

"CATHOLIC Approaches" gives the specifically Roman Catholic view on a number of topics of contemporary concern—politics, science, sex, the family, education being among them. Contributors include M. C. D'Arcy, S. J., Douglas Woodruff, William F. Lynch S. J., George Temple, and David Mathew.

The last volume, "Declaration of Freedom," is by the Quaker philosopher, Elton Trueblood, who is the present chief of Religious Information in the United States Information Agency and Religious Adviser for the Voice of America. It is the ninth in a series of similar brief books in which he has, during the last dozen years, discussed and diagnosed the moral and spiritual ills and needs of our age.

What he urges in his latest volume is the necessity for America to translate its freedom into universal terms, in order that it may meet the needs, aspirations and demands of men everywhere, especially in Asia.

The only practicable alternative to the continuing nightmare of a divided world, threatened by atomic destruction, as Prof. Trueblood sees it, is a world penetrated through and through by the ideal of a free society.

WILBUR DANIEL STEELE

READING AND WRITING

A Story of Lives Blighted by the Lure of Gold

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN
Book Editor of the Post-Dispatch

THE WAY TO THE GOLD, by Wilbur Daniel Steele. (Doubleday & Co., 375 pgs., $3.95.)

WILBUR DANIEL STEELE, the veteran short story writer and novelist, is one of the best craftsmen in the business and if craftsmanship were everything his latest novel, "The Way to the Gold" would surely be an outstanding literary event. As it is he has given us a skillfully plotted story on an important theme. It is regretable, of course, that the emotions displayed by his characters seem to have been borrowed from the common stockpile used so freely by the facile writers for the slick magazines. But nobody is obliged to be a genius; and it is no small achievement to work out a continuously active narrative line.

His story begins in the Washington State Penitentiary where young Joe Mundy is serving time for an offense he didn't commit. His cell-mate is a stir-crazy old lifer named Ned Glaze who many years before had taken part in the hold-up of the Spokane Express and had buried the loot—$100,000 in gold coin—in a place nobody had been able to find. One day Joe Mundy is told that the true facts about his trial and conviction have come to light and that the governor of the state is about to pardon him.

THIS gives Ned Glaze an idea. In the days that immediately follow he whispers to Joe Mundy the exact directions for locating the buried gold which Joe commits to memory. With the gold Joe can "buy" a pardon for Glaze and they will divide up what remains. Whatever misgivings Joe may have had are removed by Glaze's sudden death from the combination of excitement and general frailty. Joe now feels that he is the rightful heir to the treasure.

Before leaving the warden's office on the day of his release Joe is introduced to a fat, seemingly good-natured man named Hannibal who offers to help Joe get established in a new life. By this time Joe is receptive to nobody's favor. He doesn't need it, for one thing, and for another he is certain that life is a jungle where everybody preys on everybody else and nobody is to be trusted. After all he was thrown on the world as an orphan, was abandoned by his stepfather and was "framed" for manslaughter while trying to help a woman he hardly knew. But while he is in the act of rebuffing Mr. Hannibal's offer he learns that Hannibal proposes to take him to a town named Greenbay which, according to the directions whispered to him by Ned Glaze, is near where the holdup loot was buried.

SO he accepts Hannibal's offer; it gives him a reason for being in Greenbay, with time enough to spy out the terrain. He soon finds that others know about the treasure without knowing its location. They are the relatives of the robbers who were killed in the gun-fight that followed the holdup and they regard themselves as the rightful "heirs" to the fortune. The gold in fact, has so colored their lives that they live for nothing else and can work up no interest in making legitimate places for themselves in the community.

While Joe is adjusting his stategy to meet the new turn of events he meets the girl Edith Clifford, better known as Hank, and is immediately drawn to her. He suspects—and quite correctly—that she is a "stray" like himself. But even though their union is that of two lost souls who are bitterly intent on "getting theirs" before they are destroyed, an overwhelming mutual tenderness affects their relationship.

Yet Hank is quite ready to throw in with Joe's plans when she learns about the gold, and these plans make it necessary for them to deceive the whole town of Greenbay by pretending that they are just two people trying to get along in the normal way. Ironically enough, much deception is required. The town is more than friendly. Joe becomes a local hero after a daring rescue of a pet dog from the lake and his employer, the owner of a repair garage, looks forward to the time when Joe will become his partner.

Playing up to the requirements of their roles Joe and Hank accept the fruits of friendship with cynical, inward reservations; and in much the same spirit they become "engaged", attend pre-nuptial parties, rent a house, get married and leave on what is supposed to be a two-week honeymoon. Actually they start out with what they believe is but one intention—to find the gold and escape to Mexico.

TERRIFIC hardships follow. The landscape has changed considerably in 20 years. Identifying marks have been obliterated, trails are overgrown. The search becomes an ordeal. Moreover, as they near their goal they are overtaken by the other "heirs," and disaster threatens. What remains of the story should be left for the reader; and many other surprises await him that cannot be mentioned in a brief summary. All that need be told is that both Joe and Hank realize finally that the treasure they have sought and for which they would have become wanderers over the face of the earth, is nothing compared to the treasure they have left behind.

One infers that this thought had occurred to each of them at a much earlier stage and that each has kept silent for fear of losing the other. The general import of the story and the reactions of all the characters whose lives have been blighted by the lure of gold are wholly convincing. Mr. Steele, to be sure, saves his two favorite characters for a happy ending and lets the others destroy themselves though the moral difference in their behavior is not great. But it's an absorbing yarn all the same, and the moral—easy money comes hardest—is writ large.

DEATH OF A STRAY CAT, by Jean Potts. (Scribner's Sons, 191 pgs., $2.75.)

"I FEEL as gay as a lark. It worries me," says Gen Blair as she and her husband, Alex, start on a holiday at their beach cottage. With them are Mr. Theobald and his wife, Vonda, who mismanage the Blairs' New York bookshop while Alex is out looking for rare books. When Mrs. Theobald and Vonda arrive at the cottage—Gen and Alex have stopped at a bar—they find Marcella who has been murdered. Marcella is described as "one of those stray cats who try to follow you home." Everyone but Gen knows the dead girl. Alex and the Blairs' guest, Brad; Dwight, their neighbor who has a large home on the Island, and even Walt, a man summering there with his family, have all had fleeting affairs with Marcella. So, what was to have been a gay vacation turns into a weekend of violence and murder. Jean Potts, who was awarded an Edgar by the Mystery Writers of America this year for her first novel, "Go, Lovely Rose," has scored another success in this cleverly written and expertly plotted story.

INVASION OF PRIVACY, by Harry Kurnitz. (Random House, 247 pgs., $2.75.)

LOUIS STRADLING, head of Continental Films, buys a story, "Black Velvet," by a writer unknown to him. He orders his New York representative, Michael Zorn, to find the author and take her to Hollywood to rewrite the end of her murder story. She is beautiful Shelly Gray and she refuses to go to Hollywood because she learns that her story is a true one and that the murderer is still free. The man named as the murderer in the fictional script prepares to sue Continental for "invasion of privacy." There is not a dull time in this fast-moving entertaining story. Under the pseudonym of Marco Page, the author recently turned a previous murder-mystery, "Reclining Figure," into a Broadway hit.

Week's Review Of Business And Finance —AND HEAVEN, TOO!

By ED MORSE.

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)

STEEL joined its throaty roar to the swelling chorus of record profits this week. So did motors, oil, rubber, communications.

The American economy finished the July lap of the race for the Best Year Award with scant heed for a hot weather siesta. But there were exceptions due to strikes and seasonal factors.

At a glance, here's how things shaped up.

Industrial profits: smashing records.

Industrial production: pushing for a record.

Construction: booming.

Employment: rising.

Consumer spending: continued record.

Consumer prices: edging up.

Credit: tightening.

Present outlook: wonderful.

Steel Profit Splash.

The giants of steel smashed all-time profit records for the half year—United States Steel, No. 1, and Bethlehem, No. 2. Bethlehem upped its dividend. So did fourth-ranking Jones & Laughlin. The world's biggest industrial firm, General Motors, surged to new highs for half-yearly profits. So did the world's No. 1 oil company, Standard of New Jersey, and lesser giants of oil. Ditto for United States Rubber. Western Union doubled its '54 first half earnings. Newspaper advertising broke all previous half-year records. Meanwhile, the Government announced that first quarter profits of manufacturing companies reached $3,300,000,000 after taxes, the highest level in four years.

Industrial production rose slightly in the week to near-record levels. Employment was boosted by factories reopening after vacation. With the industrial pickup, electric power output for the week scored its sixth record of the year. Heavy construction was up again in the week. So far this year, the rate is 25 per cent above the peak rate of 1953. Building permits for the first half were at an all-time high. Somewhere in the nation, the 10 millionth post-war private home was started this month. During the first six months there were 670,000 private starts—highest volume in five years.

Rush to Save.

The Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn, holder of more home mortgages than any other savings bank in the world, said its rise in depositors' dividend rate from 2¾ per cent to 3 per cent spurred deposits so much that the bank would make more mortgage loans than ever before. Deposits in all mutual savings banks reached a high of $27,324,000,000. There was a record number of accounts, too.

Reflecting the unprecedented levels of employment and incomes and the steady rise in population, Americans bought food for their tables at a tremendous pace. All retail shopping continued at a record, 6 to 10 per cent higher in dollars than in the like week a year ago, said Dun & Bradstreet. But consumer prices edged up 0.2 per cent from mid-May to mid-June, chiefly because of a seasonal rise in food prices, the Government said. It was the first gain in seven months. Still, the price index was a shade lower than in June 1954.

As summer auto driving hit a peak, gasoline use zoomed and stocks of the fuel dipped. Gasoline prices rose in the Midwest. Motorists used 6.2 per cent more gasoline in the half year just ended than in the first half of 1954.

Up in Detroit.

In Detroit, the output of cars and trucks slipped below last week's because of work stoppages because of heat, some wildcat strikes and model changeovers. Some time next week, however, the plants will complete the year's five-millionth passenger car. Nobody doubts the car-makers will break the 1950 record of 6,600,000. The sales battle foreshadowed bargains for buyers of new models.

The stock market reacted favorably to the Geneva conference on Monday, was unsettled most of the week and finished moderately off, breaking a string of 10 succesive weekly rises.

Major New York City banks raised the rate on brokers loans from 3 to 3¼ per cent. The volume of business loans moved up and predictions were their interest rates would follow suit. Interest rates were climbing on savings accounts.

Business failures dipped to their lowest level of the year.

Bankers and economists foresaw continued prosperity. A survey by the Manhattan Bank said increased productivity and competition should help hold prices down.

Business Briefs.

Briefly over the business scene:

Copper strike, three weeks old, shows no sign of ending . . . acute copper shortage . . . rising prices. . . . Steel orders are running 20 per cent above the capacity of some plants. . . . Railroads in splurge of orders for freight cars, locomotives, equipment. . . . Carloadings lower this week but far above last year.

GOVERNMENT BONDS IN FURTHER DECLINE

Tax-Exempt State and Municipal Market Tone Deteriorates After Rise.

NEW FORK, July 30 (AP)—The decline in Government bonds continued the past week, given impetus by indications of "tightening money" and the bank increases from three to three and one-quarter per cent interest on broker-dealer collateral loans.

Long range treasury issues were the hardest hit. The 30-year 3¼s dropped 24-32 during the week to close Friday at 104 16-32 bid while the 40-year 3s lost 22-32 in the same period to close at 99 4-32 bid. Both were new lows for the year.

The intermediates declined but not so abruptly. The 2½s of 1963 were off 10-32 and the victory 2½s of December 1967-72 eased 4-32 during the week.

The corporate bond market was irregular with oil and utility issues influenced by the halting decline in the stock market Thursday and Friday.

Rail and utility bonds worked lower while industrial issues, generally speaking, held their own. The stock market decline helped to firm bonds of investment quality though at the same time it depressed debenture issues convertible into common stock.

German, South American and Australian dollar bonds worked higher in a relatively quiet foreign section. Japanese issues were mixed while Greek, Italian and Serbian bonds eased.

The tone of the tax-exempt state and municipal market deteriorated last week after brisk action a fortnight ago. The week's two biggest offerings, $25,305,000 in Chicago various purpose bonds and $25,000,000 in Los Angeles school district liens, got only a fair reception from investors. Other smaller issues, notably $12,000,000 in Denver various purpose bonds, moved nicely however, it was reported.

HALTING DECLINE SNAPS A 10-WEEK WINNING STREAK

Weekend Sees Aircraft-Atomic Issues Rocket as Space Satellite Is Planned.

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — A 10-week winning streak in stocks was snapped off this week by a halting decline in the market. The net fall wasn't much and never developed into an urgent thing. Brokers, therefore, were inclined to withhold their judgment of the importance of the decline. They noted that the volume of business wasn't great when prices were off. That indicated to them that nobody was being pushed into selling and few were even rushing to put their stocks up for sale. It was largely a trading affair.

For some time brokers have been urging caution on their customers because of the height the market has reached in recent weeks. These brokers fear that a sudden reaction, even though of a quite normal variety, might catch their customers napping.

What Averages Show.

For 10 weeks the stock market advanced in an almost straight upward line. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last Monday reached a record high level of $177. Then it ran into troubles. The average was off 80 cents on the week and closed at $175.50.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped from the new record high of 468.45 made early in the week but managed to show a gain on the week, closing at 465.85, up 1.16 points. The 20 rails lost 1.79 points at 158.19. The 15 utilities followed the industrials posting a gain of .14 of a point at 66.59 after reaching the highest point in more than 24 years at 66.68.)

The week's sales volume slipped to 11,164,905 shares from the 13,049,021 of the previous week. At the end of the week declines outnumbered advances 757 issues to 508, with 156 remaining unchanged. The total issues traded 1421.

Week of Rumors.

Wall Street seethed with rumors all week. Some were right and some were wrong and some just evaporated into the thin air from which they evidently came.

The market on Monday was riding along on the crest of the Geneva wave of good feeling about peace. The steels, motors, oils and coppers all were higher, and the Associated Press average of 60 stocks signaled a new high level for the market which topped the previous high established July 6.

The stock market the next day paid more attention to rumors of what U.S. Steel might do after the close than to anything else. Big steel finished unchanged and then directors declared the usual dividend. The market itself bent down at the close.

Break in Bethlehem.

Wednesday's market marked time with late selling in the steels cutting back early gains. Thursday's market had the greatest net fall. Bethlehem Steel swung widely all day and then finished off only ¼. After the close directors raised the dividend payment, reported new record high earnings, but dashed Wall Street hopes based on rumors of a stock split. The next day Bethlehem lost 4¾ in a reaction to the directors' action.

The greatest attention, however, was given to the White House announcement that the Government plans to launch a space satellite.

When it became known that the White House intended to make an announcement on a then undisclosed topic, the Wall Street rumor mills really began to grind. Two stocks engaged in aircraft-atomic work — General Dynamics and United Aircraft — took off and soared away. The name of no company was mentioned in Washington in connection with the project, and the two stocks began to settle back to earth. They retained a major portion of the day's gain.

5TH ARMRED DIVISION GROUP TO HOLD REUNION THURSDAY

Members of the Fifth Armored Division Association will hold a three-day reunion celebrating the tenth anniversary of the return of the division from Europe after World War II at Jefferson Hotel Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Maj. Gen. Lunsford E. Oliver (ret.), who commanded the division when it was training on the Mohave Desert and during its speedy race across France and into Germany, will be an honored guest at the reunion.

The Victory Division, noted for rapid movements in pursuit of the enemy, was the first American division to reach Germany, halting 45 miles from Berlin by command of the Ninth Army so that Russians could take the German capital.

MONTHLY AIR-RAID SIREN 'GROWL' TEST TOMORROW

The St. Louis Civil Defense office will hold its monthly air-raid siren "growl" test tomorrow at 11 a.m.

Sirens in St. Louis, University City, Brentwood, Maplewood and Ladue will be turned on for a few seconds at that time, to see if they are in operating order. A growl, audible only at short distances, will be the only sound emitted. This will be enough sound for volunteer spotters to determine if the siren is functioning properly.

Legion Police Post Installation.

Installation of Joseph Williams as commander of St. Louis Police Post No. 187, American Legion, will be Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. at 3607 North Florissant avenue. Mrs. Patricia Grady will assume the post of president of the auxiliary unit.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to classify ads under appropriate headings. The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to revise or reject advertisements or forward answers to any box number advertisement. If this right is exercised the amount paid for the advertisement will be refunded to the advertiser.

It is agreed that the liability of the Pulitzer Publishing Company in the event of failure to publish an advertisement for any reason or in the event that errors occur in the publishing of an advertisement shall be limited to the amount paid by the advertiser.

Claims concerning omissions or incorrect insertions will not be considered unless made within 30 days from date of publication.

To place a Want Ad, phone Main 1-1111 and ask for an ad-taker. It is not necessary to open an account —just say "charge it." Both cash and charge ads may be placed at the Want Ad Counter, 12th and Olive.

Advertisers using box numbers please ask for "Want Ad Answers" when inquiring about replies. (C)

JUNIE SAYS

JUST FOR GIRLS

SECRETARY — $275
Darling little jobs
(The small office kind)
In a modernistic office
Are hard to find;
This one, unexpectedly,
Now is now at you
And says, "Come, take a peek
You'll like it if you do!"

EDIPHONE — $225
The opportunity seldom arises
To train the financier's way;
So pluck a plum from
Junie's prizes;
See this "needle in a haystack" job today!

"JOBORAMA" SECRETARY, $325
A many fold job, that offers so much
Contact-shorthand-compose a touch
Organize, detail, figure with zest
See this one Monday
Be Junie's guest!

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY, $275
This position is a "way of life"
You set the pattern—here's the gist;
Constant, confident, creative,
crisp!;
A temptation no career
Girl can resist!

TYPIST — $215
Raise an eyebrow toward '56
The new dress line?
You're in a fix!
A Monied Job will save the day;
Hurry to Junie's at 9:00 Monday!

GRACIOUS GREETER — $200
A real "done" spot for the extrovert,
The vivacious, the charmer,
the pert,
Who'll tumble for the hustle,
the bustle, the spin
Of a "fun job" that's not afraid to grin!

14-DAY RANCH OUTING BY EXPLORER SCOUTS

St. Louis Group on Horseback, Hiking and Burro-Packing Trip in West.

Thirty-four Explorers and leaders of the St. Louis Boy Scout council are participating in a 14-day horseback, hiking and burro-packing trip in the 200-square mile Philmont National Scout Ranch, near Cimarron, N.M., it was announced yesterday. They will return Aug. 12.

Leaders in charge of the group, which left St. Louis Friday, are William Wehking and Andrew A. Keymer, both of Troop 360; A. D. Nuske, Explorer Post 182, and C. W. Ferner, Post 8.

The group will travel across the ranch hiking and by burros and horseback. They will have an opportunity to try panning for gold, to fish and visit historic landmarks in the Southwest.

A five-week session of western-style camping will start this afternoon with the arrival of 50 boys at Ranger Camp of Beaumont Scout Reservation.

Program for the first week will include advanced camping, pioneering and Scoutcraft activities, horseback riding, a canoe trip away from camp and on Saturday a rodeo, barbecue and square dance for boys, their parents and dates.

Almost 1000 Scouts and leaders are expected to attend summer camps operated by the St. Louis council this week. Twenty-three units from South district will be at Irondale Scout Reservation; 14 troops from Old Trails district, one from DeSoto and one from Louisville, Ky., will spend the week at Beaumont Reservation.

Camping at Lion's Den Reservation will be 16 units from Star district.

Benjamin Hildebrand, 4712 Genevieve avenue, and Clarence Warnoover, 4933 Davison avenue, were awarded Quartermaster rank, sea exploring's highest honor, at a badge of honor ceremony last night at Riverview Gardens High School. It was the first time the award has been presented in more than a year.

Brent and Robert Osdieck, 1043 North Taylor, and Michael Finley, 122 East Maple avenue, will receive Eagle awards at ceremonies of Troop 323 at 7:30 p.m. today at Kirkwood City Park. An Eagle award was presented last week to William Doerner, an Explorer of Troop 308.

WINS COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP

Robert E. Jarrett, 5101A Vermont avenue, has been awarded a freshman competitive scholarship by the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, it was announced yesterday.

Jarrett, a graduate of Soldan-Blewitt High School, will enter the university's school of chemical engineering.

DEATH OF MRS. A. H. DIEHR

Mrs. A. H. Diehr, wife of a St. Louis physician, died of cancer yesterday at Missouri Baptist Hospital. She was 62 years old and lived at 29 Rio Vista drive, Ladue.

Mrs. Diehr, the former Mabel Tanquary, is survived by her husband. Private funeral services will be at 3 p.m. tomorrow at Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, University City, with burial in Valhalla Cemetery.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Thirteen Senior Girl Scouts and two leaders will leave at 4:15 p.m. today from Union Station to attend the Region VIII Senior roundup at the Michigan Creek site near Denver. They will represent the St. Louis council at the two-week encampment, which begins Tuesday.

Riverview Gardens area day camp for Brownies and Intermediates will open Tuesday, and another day camp in Bonne Terre will begin Wednesday. Mrs. A. M. Cole, 10343 Ross circle, will be in charge of the Riverview day camp, which will be open Tuesdays and Thursdays through Aug. 25. Miss Doris Winnemann, district director, will direct the other camp.

An appeal for Seniar troops or Scouts to do clerical work for the Tuberculosis and Health Society has been made. Senior Troop 166 of Stix School is assisting the society, and others interested have been asked to call Mrs. Lucile McNulty, CHestnut 1-1554.

Members of handicapped troop were among Girl Scouts expected to arrive this afternoon for the third session of camping at Camp Cedarledge.

PLATAN AND ADAMS TEAM FOR RECORD IN ARLINGTON

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP)—Veteran Jockey Johnny Adams today guided Hasty House Farm's Platan to a new American grass course record for a mile and 3/16 in winning the $161,000 Arlington handicap by three lengths.

The 5-year-old brown horse, by Platter-Tatanne, broke to the front in the bulky field of 15 at the start, stubbornly relinquished the lead momentarily to Eddie Arcaro and High Gun, then drove ahead with five furlongs to go and stayed there under a great ride by Adams.

King Ranch's High Gun faded to seventh place while second went to a 24-1 shot, Valley Farm's Impasse, ridden by Paul J. Bailey. In third, three fourths of a length behind Impasse, was Calumet colorbearer Mark Ye Well, who nosed out Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's recent winner of the $100,000 Sunset Handicap at Hollywood Park, Social Outcast.

Platan, running as an entry with Ruhe and Mister Black, sizzled across the finish in 1:54 3-5 to knock one-fifth of a second off the American record set by Volcanic in 1949 at Washington park. Platan carried 117 pounds.

The victory was worth $104,650, which boosted Platan's earnings for the season to $151,515. It boosted his money earnings for three campaigns to $234,255. Platan did not race as a 3-year-old.

The triumph in the world's richest race on a turf course was Platan's third in five starts this year and came after a recent win in the Equipoise at Arlington Park.

Taking fifth place was Ruhe, followed in order by Blue Choir, High Gun, County Clare with Willie Hartack up, Kaster, Abee Sting, Artismo, Brush Burn, Fleet Bird, Hasseyampa and Mister Black, who had Willie Shoemaker aboard.

Platan returned $7.60, $4 and $3.20. Impasse paid $18.80 and 10, while Mark-Ye-Well paid 7.40. Attendance was 28,145 on the last day of the Arlington Park session.

Appendectomy For Donovan, Out 4 Weeks

CHICAGO, July 30 (UP)—Dick Donovan, ace righthander of the Chicago White Sox, will undergo an appendectomy and his services will be lost to the White Sox for at least four to six weeks, the club announced tonight.

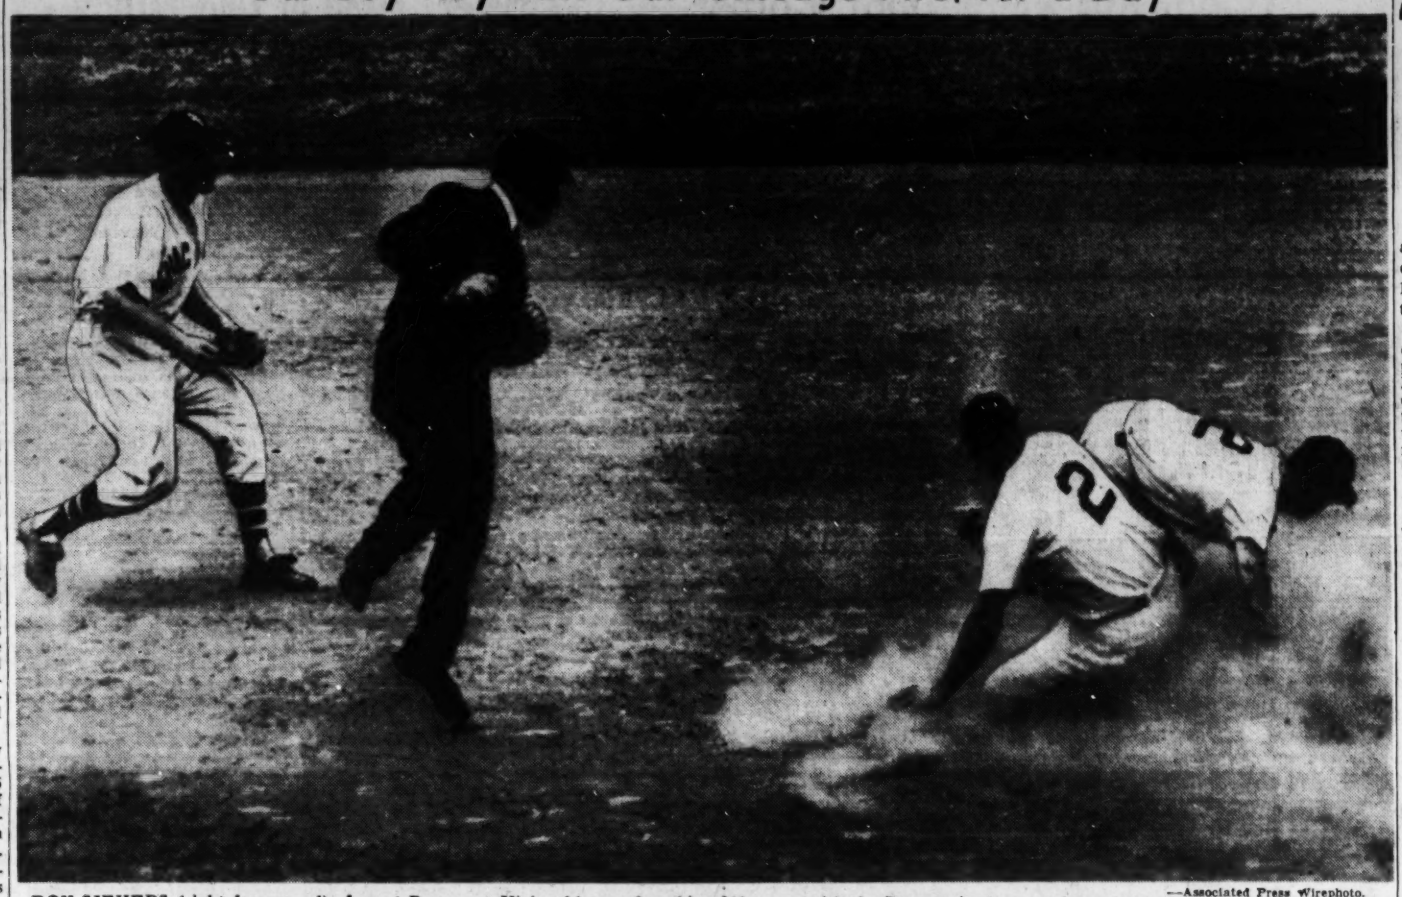

Dr. Anthony Gacuaskas, associate to White Sox Dr. John Claridge, said Donovan had a case of acute appendicitis and would be operated on immediately.

Donovan was flown to Mercy hospital from Washington where he was scheduled to pitch against the Senators Sunday. He complained of a stomach ache this morning.

Donovan was instrumental in Chicago's surge to first place, compiling a 13-4 record for the second best won-lost record in the American league. His record would be 14-3 except for a 1-0 loss to New York Tuesday.

The loss of Donovan is a rocking jolt to the White Sox's dreams of their first pennant since 1919.

ROY SIEVERS (right foreground), former Beaumont High athlete and rookie-of-the-year with the Browns, is shown as he stole second base for the Senators yesterday at Washington against the White Sox. It set up a 1-0 Washington victory, the Nats' first against the pennant-chasing Chicago team in 13 games. White Sox second baseman NELSON FOX couldn't hold a low throw from Catcher Sherm Lollar and when the ball got away, so did Sievers. He got up and went to third, and scored on a base hit, in the fourth inning. The dancer in the dark suit is Umpire LARRY NAPP and the bystander is Chicago shortstop CHICO CARRASQUEL.

Joe Page Says He, Too, Used Spitter--'4 to Game'

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Joe Page, former New York Yankee relief ace, today admitted "I threw a spitter, too," in a copyright story by Jimmy Cannon in the New York Post.

Page said he threw the illegal pitch "at least four times a game," and declared at least a dozen pitchers in the American League threw spitters when he was in the league.

"Not even my catcher knew I was doing it," said Page. "They never knew it was coming. Joe Cronin knew it. He was always asking for the ball but he never grabbed me."

Page said he threw the spitter most to Dom DiMaggio, Junior Stephens, Bobby Doerr, Ted Williams, Al Rosen and Larry Doby.

"Once I remember I had two strikes on Williams and hit him in the ribs with a spitter," he said.

Page's big years with the Yanks were with the pennant-winning clubs of 1947 and 1949. In '47 he had a 14-8 record and in '49 a 13-8 record. He passed out of the majors in '51 but tried a comeback last season with Pittsburgh. He now operates a tavern in Irwin, Pa.

Thomans Get Timely Relief Hurling, Rally To Beat Rolla, 13-6

By John J. Archibald
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

WASHINGTON, Mo., July 30—A good relief pitcher, the only thing the Thoman-Boothe team wanted more than a cool breeze, walked onto the field with a slow-motion curve and a fine drop and put the Overland team in the driver's seat of the American Legion zone tournament this afternoon.

Fred Helmering, a skinny 16-year-old with radar control, restrained Rolla for seven innings so his Thoman-Boothe teammates could wrap up the game, 13 to 6, with a seven-run splurge in the eighth. Overland earned a Saturday night off by its victory, while one-time loser Rolla and Festus played to see which would meet the Thomans at 1:30 p.m. St. Louis time tomorrow. If the Thomans lose that game a second will be played immediately afterwards.

In an early afternoon match Festus eliminated Washington from the tournament by winning, 6-3. The Thomans started in on Rolla pitcher Merle Fink in the second inning with a barrage of hits that would have kayoed most hurlers. Bob Burda opened the frame with the first of his four hits and before the inning was over Overland led, 5 to 0.

Rolla, which overcame a 7-0 deficit to beat Washington the night before, came back with four runs on as many hits against Thomans starter Bob Wichman in the same inning. That was when Coach Bill Schaeffer brought in Helmering.

Fine Beginning

Helmering, who is a novice in Legion play but has five years pitching experience in Khoury ball, struck out the first batter to face him, ending the inning.

The hustling and often spectacular Thoman-Boothe infield helped considerably but from there on Rolla got only five hits and two runs off Helmering.

Bill Lovelass hit a home run for Overland to make it 6-4 but Rolla's only successful outburst against Helmering tied the game in the fifth. Howard Leonard singled and Paul Wilson walloped a drive over the drop-off in right field for a home run.

There was another single after that but the Overland infield pulled a short double play to end the fireworks.

The score remained 6-and-6 until the eighth then Burda whipped into a fast ball and sent it into deep center. Roger Fitzwater made a leaping try for the liner but only touched it and when last seen the ball was heading down the slope toward the Missouri river.

Puzzle Was Solved.

That was the key blow for after that Fink's curves were no puzzle to Thoman-Boothe and they piled up seven runs in the inning.

Burda drove in the last of these markers with a double.

Helmering was at his best in the two remaining frames, striking out four batters to raise his total to eight. He walked only one, which is a good trick for a boy relying on slow dipping pitches. It is just the kind of thing that can carry a Legion team quite a distance.

ZIMMER'S HOMER KEYNOTES BROOKLYN'S 4-RUN SIXTH; LEFTY PODRES IS WINNER

By Bob Broeg

Don Zimmer, calloused to marking time at second base while awaiting older shortstops to act their age, broke open a scoreless duel with a sixth-inning homer last night as Brooklyn's dashing Dodgers surged to a 6-0 victory over the Cardinals before 30,638, the season's largest crowd at Busch Stadium.

The shutout, seventh inflicted on the Redbirds, was a two-man production as Lefty Johnny Podres, wobbling in the muggy evening air, turned over the task to Rookie Don Bessent in the seventh inning. And the righthanded newcomer held the Cards to one single thereafter.

For five innings, though, it was a swift, nifty game of pitch and catch with the Cardinals' Tom Poholsky smoothly matching Podres in two-hit efforts, thanks to his own efforts even more than two home team double plays.

But in the sixth stocky little Zimmer from Zinzinnati, the same kid whose promising career was imperilled when he was hit so severely in the head with a pitch two years ago at St. Paul that his speech even was impaired for a time, led off with a loud bang.

Zimmer, expected to succeed Pee Wee Reese as Brooklyn shortstop, has had to wait, however, because the captain of the Dodgers is a boyish 36 and not ready to step aside.

Learned Patience Early.

It's fortunate, anyway, that Zimmer philosophically learned patience as far back as his first sandlot team in Cincinnati when he had his heart set on playing shortstop until he was pushed over to second base by a more experienced player—his father.

Regular Brooklyn second baseman now as a result of youthful integration in which Don Hoak at third also has won a place on the league leaders' veteran varsity, Zimmer slugged Poholsky's first pitch high into the bleachers in the sixth inning for his eighth homer, and, brother, it really broke up the ball game.

Poholsky, who has yielded only 33 earned runs even though having served 16 over-the-fence drives in 70 innings, got out the next man, gave up a scratch hit to Hoak and walked Reese, promoting Manager Harry Walker to make a change. The Hat was smitten by the fact one-pitch Paul LaPalme, the Cardinals' knuckledown specialist of the bullpen, had faced and retired slugging Duke Snider four times in the last three St. Louis-Like Shucks Pruett taming Babe Ruth a generation ago, LaPalme once again struck out Snider, but was permitted to try his luck against robust right-handed-hitting Roy Campanella, who pounded a run-scoring single to left. Then sidearming Mel Wright took over and was greeted by Gil Hodges' fly-ball safety to left center, driving in Hoak. And when Alex Grammas uncorked a whopping wild throw on Junior Gilliam's grounder, the sixth inning had become a decisive four-run frame.

Two More In Ninth.

The last two runs scored by the Dodgers, who finished with nine hits, came off Brooks Lawrence in the ninth, a result of singles by Gilliam and Carl Furillo, Bessent's well-placed bunt on a suicide squeeze play and Reese's humpbacked double down the right field line.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, couldn't score in the sixth even though they collected three hits and a walk, and they weren't able to tally in the seventh, either, on a double and a pass. So the reluctant Redbirds' totals those two frustrating frames were four hits, two walks—and no runs.

In the first instance Grammas singled and Bob Stephenson, pinch-hitting, rapped into a double play before singles by Ken Boyer and Red Schoendienst, plus a walk to Stan Musial, filled the bases for Rip Repulski. The Ripper flied deep to Snider.

In the second case—that would be in the seventh—two were out when Nelson Burbrink doubled and Grammas walked. As far back as the fifth inning in which Repulski opened with a single and stole second, Podres had turned on the heat by fanning three consecutive batters, including Pete Whisenant, who opened in Wally Moon's left field position as Walker sought more hitting against southpaw pitching.

But now with two on, two out, Manager Walter Alston, a cautious man in a hurry to clinch the pennant by Labor Day, beckoned for Bessent, who came up two weeks ago today with Roger Craig, another Brooklyn farm-system rookie. Between them they've already won six games and lost none.

Bessent, facing Moon, one of the National League's most dangerous hitters against right-handed pitching, struck out the pinch-batter to close out the seventh. In the eighth he shrugged off an inning-opening error by Reese and in the ninth yielded only a single to Walker, a more successful hitter than manager so far. The hit was the Hat's fourth in six tries.

But the Cardinals need more than a single or even inspiration when they go up against Brooklyn's dashing Dodgers, knee-deep in tried and tested talent like Don Zimmer from Zinzinnati, the classy kid passing time at second base while again waiting for an older shortstop to act his age.

Redbird Notes.

THE Paul Bunyan of baseball, Don Newcombe of the 17-1 pitching record and .395 batting average, will be on exhibition with the Dodgers at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Busch Stadium. Luis (11-5) Arroyo, the Cardinals' rookie pitching standout, will oppose the giant Brooklyn righthander.

Reserved seats will go on sale at 9 a.m. at the Busch Stadium advance ticket office on Grand avenue. Gates will open at noon.

With Tom Poholsky and Johnny Podres displaying control and ability, the first four and one-half innings of last night's game were played in only 46 minutes. Five full frames were completed in 57 minutes, but then came trouble and the sixth inning alone took 33 minutes.

Most Overlooked Man In Cardinal System.

JOHNNY KEANE, St. Louis product who has been managing baseball clubs in the Cardinal organization for 14 years, must have something on the ball. As Harry Grayson, graybeard columnist for the Newspaper Enterprise Association, recently pointed out, Willard Schmidt, always a fine pitching prospect, didn't learn how to throw big-league style until he spent a few months under the experienced eyes of Keane.

There were many promising young pitchers in the Cardinal spring training camp at St. Petersburg in 1952, but Willard Schmidt was a standout. At Omaha the previous season he had pitched 19 complete games, won 19 and lost 14, struck out 202 while walking 108 batters and compiled an earned-run average of 2.11.

Schmidt was the best pitcher in the Cardinal camp that spring, 1952, and that included the veteran regulars. Unusually fast, he baffled the best of the major league batters in exhibition games. We hadn't seen a new Cardinal pitcher with similar speed since the era of Dizzy and Paul Dean, Paul Derringer and later Mort Cooper. We were so pleased with the young man's performance that we suggested to the manager of the day, one Eddie Stanky, that Schmidt had a good chance of winning more games the coming season than Vinegar Bend Mizell.

"He's wild high," Stanky demurred.

That's bad, of course, for when a man is "wild high," he throws stuff that is easy for the batters to hit into the seats.

"And he doesn't have a good curve or change-up," Stanky added.

It turned out that Stanky had something. Schmidt didn't have much luck with the hitters after the season started, after the batters' eyes were tuned so they could time the good fast ball.

Good Fast Ball; That's Why They Signed Him.

WE naively believed that Schmidt was still an unusually fine prospect, that he had been signed in the first place because he had that unusual fast ball, and that Schmidt would be assigned to the proper teacher to develop the needed good curve and change-up, so he could pitch in the majors.

However, three years later, when Willard Schmidt appeared at the 1955 Cardinal training camp at St. Petersburg, he wasn't even on the parent club's roster.

"Schmidt? Naah!" we were told when we asked why the young man hadn't qualified for a spot on the 40-man roster, and how come he hadn't yet been polished.

"He's just a thrower," the appraisal continued. "He can get by with that in the minors (Schmidt had won 18 and lost five at Houston, with 186 strikeouts) but they'll wait him out up here."

And so Willard Schmidt didn't get a chance to pitch an inning in the long exhibition schedule, for a club that needed pitching so badly that anybody, almost, could see it, hear it and smell it. Yes, it really was that bad.

In desperation, finally, the Cardinals called Schmidt back to the club recently and Willard, an ugly duckling for so long, has pitched excellent ball and has won two beautifully-pitched games.

What made the difference?

Schmidt told Grayson that Johnny Keane had "straightened him out," and Schmidt emphasized the point that nobody else had done anything for him.

Joe McCarthy Didn't Have Big Name, Either.

PERHAPS Keane ought to be brought up in some capacity to see if he can't do something about the Cardinal pitching staff, still the big problem of a club that has been rebuilt satisfactorily in other departments.

Keane, like Schmidt, has been an "ugly duckling" for a long time, too. Probably one of the most successful minor league managers the Cardinals have ever had, he was a hot candidate to manage the club when Eddie Dyer resigned. Fred Saigh, then owner of the Cardinals, summoned Keane to St. Louis for an interview. But Saigh finally decided that he wanted somebody with a name, rather than experience and a record of unusual success handling and developing ball players. Marty Marion got the job at Sportsman's Park (that's what it was then) and Keane, manfully hiding his disappointment, went back to the minors.

Keane knows his ball players. When the Cardinals were dickering with the Yankees in the deal that sent Enos Slaughter to New York, it was Keane who sent advice to insist on getting Bill Virdon.

And Johnny Keane, now managing Omaha, and still developing ball players for the Cardinals, must be wondering how a man can get a big name to go with unusual ability.

Marilynn Smith Takes Lead, Has Record 70

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., July 30 (AP) — Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kan., set a course record for women today when she fired 34-36—70 to gain a first-place tie with 147 in the second round of the $5000 Battle Creek women's open golf tournament at the Battle Creek Country Club.

Her five-under-women's-par and two-under-men's-par for the 6520 yard layout brought her even with Jackie Pung of Honolulu who added a 72 today to her opening round 75.

Virtual 3-Way Tie in A.L. as Tribe Wins, Yanks, Chisox Lose

White Sox and Pennants.

CHICAGO, July 30—THE last time the White Sox won a pennant (1919) they did so with 96 victories.

But their last world championship team (1917) won 100 games and lost 53 under the aegis of Clarence Rowland, present vice-president of the Cubs.

"We actually clinched the flag on a Saturday in Boston with 99 wins," said Rowland as he watched the scoreboard at Wrigley Field flash the Sox into first-place over the Yankees. "That night we had a party . . . and it was a good one.

"The old man (Charles A. Comiskey) jumped out of his chair when he got the bill . . . for $300. I explained that it was high because Eddie Collins (Sox second-baseman) was drinking brandy milk-punches. That gave Comiskey another start . . . because Collins never drank. But he was nervous and I made him take a few to build him up."

There was no Sunday ball in those days, so the next Sox game was in Washington on Monday. "I asked the fellows to win one more . . . and make it an even 100," said Rowland, "and they did. Then we just killed time until the Giants showed up."

Most games ever won by a champion were the 111 that Cleveland racked up in 1954. . . . The Indians would have to win 52 of their next 53 games to tie their own mark. . . . biggest margin of triumph was hung up by the Yankees of 1936 who finished 19½ games ahead of the Tigers. . . . The same Tigers, (but of 1945) won that title with only 88 victories in 153 starts, an all-time low for a World Series contender.

In the previous 54-year history of the American League, the average wins per champion has been 98.4 against 54.4 defeats. . . . So now the Sox know just what they have to approximate to win their first title in 36 years.

Hartack, Skin Diver.

WILLIE HARTACK, one of the nation's greatest jockeys now riding at Arlington Park, is a skin-diver off Florida coasts in his spare time.

Leroy (Satchel) Paige, baseball's ageless wonder, will hit the headlines again when he hurls for the West in the twenty-third annual Negro all-star game at Comiskey Park, Sunday.

Rick Casares, the highly regarded new half-back of the Bears, won a middleweight boxing tournament when he was 14, knocking out all opponents. . . . But his mother promptly moved the family out of the state (New Jersey) so Rick would forget about boxing. . . . And he wound up as an all-America football player, both in high school (Tampa) and college (Florida University.

One more grand-slam home run by Ernie Banks, the Cub shortstop, will tie him with 10 major-leaguers who share the all-time mark of four baseballs full homers hit in a single season. . . . Among them are Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Ralph Kiner, Al Rosen and Rudy York.

Sarazen vs. Evans.

GENE (SQUIRE) SARAZEN will play Chick Evans an 18-hole golf match at Skokie, Ill., Aug. 3 . . . in memory of the day that Gene won the National Open there . . . 33 years ago.

You'd think that some National League clubs could have bid for Bobby Adams, the Cincinnati infielder, whom the White Sox acquired. . . . The waiver price was $10,000 within the National League . . . and it is pretty obvious that the Redlegs got "courtesy waivers" on Bobby . . . and $25,000 from the Sox.

As Willie Miranda, the Cuban mite, hasn't enough trouble playing short for the Orioles, his 7-year-old son has joined him for a visit. . . . "He's here one wick (week) and already everytheeng is Davey Crockett. . . . Wotcha gonna do?"

If Al Kaline, Detroit's brilliant outfielder, wins the American League batting crown, he will be the first second-year man to do so since 1906 when George Stone of the Browns led the league with .358.

Recent statement by Wid Matthews, director of personnel, on "What's wrong with the Cubs" says: "We've got to build with the kids" . . . But most of the Cub "kids" are still in the minors . . . and meanwhile Chicago fans are asked to pay to see the little men who aren't here.

Only Hit Off Score By Dyck

NEW YORK, July 30 (UP)—Southpaw Herb Score, one of the American League's top rookies, pitched a one-hit, 7-0 shutout over the Baltimore Orioles today to move the Cleveland Indians into a flat-footed tie with the New York Yankees for second place—only two percentage points back of the Chicago White Sox.

The Yankees missed a chance to regain first place when they dropped a 12-2 decision to the Kansas City Athletics while the Washington Senators edged the White Sox, 1-0.

The fifth-place Detroit Tigers also picked up ground in the fast-tightening American League race by downing fourth-place Boston, 5-2, and now are only 5½ games behind the three leaders.

164 Strikeouts.

Jim Dyck ruined Score's bid for a no-hitter with a fourth-inning single that just eluded the outstretched glove of Cleveland shortstop George Strickland. The Tribe's fast-balling youngster walked six Orioles and struck out 10 to bring his league-leading total to 146.

Strickland, Vic Wertz and Gene Woodling led Cleveland's 13-hit attack on three Baltimore pitchers. Strickland drove in four runs with a triple and single, Woodling had two doubles and a single, and Wertz hit a two-run homer.

Kansas City, meanwhile, pounded out 17 hits in whipping the Yankees. Elmer Valo was the hero of this game with a homer and three doubles, while big Arnold Portocarrero stopped the Yankees with six hits. Johnny Kucks, the first of three New York pitchers, was charged with the loss.

Eddie Yort's fourth-inning double drove in Roy Sievers with the only run as the Senators downed the White Sox and handed hard-luck Billy Pierce his fourth 1-0 defeat of the season. Pierce gave up only five hits, while Bob Porterfield pitched seven-hit ball for the Senators.

Homer for Williams

The Tigers remained very much in the race by totalling 11 hits off three Boston pitchers. Ray Boone drove in three runs with a triple and a double to help Rookie Babe Birrer to his third victory of the season. Birrer gave up 10 hits, including Ted Williams's 18th homer.

In the National League, right-hander Bob Miller pitched nine innings of shutout relief ball as the Phillies downed the Cubs, 3-0. Curt Simmons was forced to leave the game with a stiff shoulder after giving up a lead-off single to Dee Fondy. Miller then entered the scene and limited the Cubs to seven singles the rest of the way. Del Ennis struck the winning blow, a two-run homer in the first inning.

The Redlegs downed the Pirates, 5-2, behind the five-hit pitching of Jackie Collum. Ted Kluszewski hit his thirty-fourth homer. Chet Nichols of the Braves turned in a six-hit, 5-3 victory over the world champion Giants, giving Milwaukee a five-game edge over the third-place Giants.

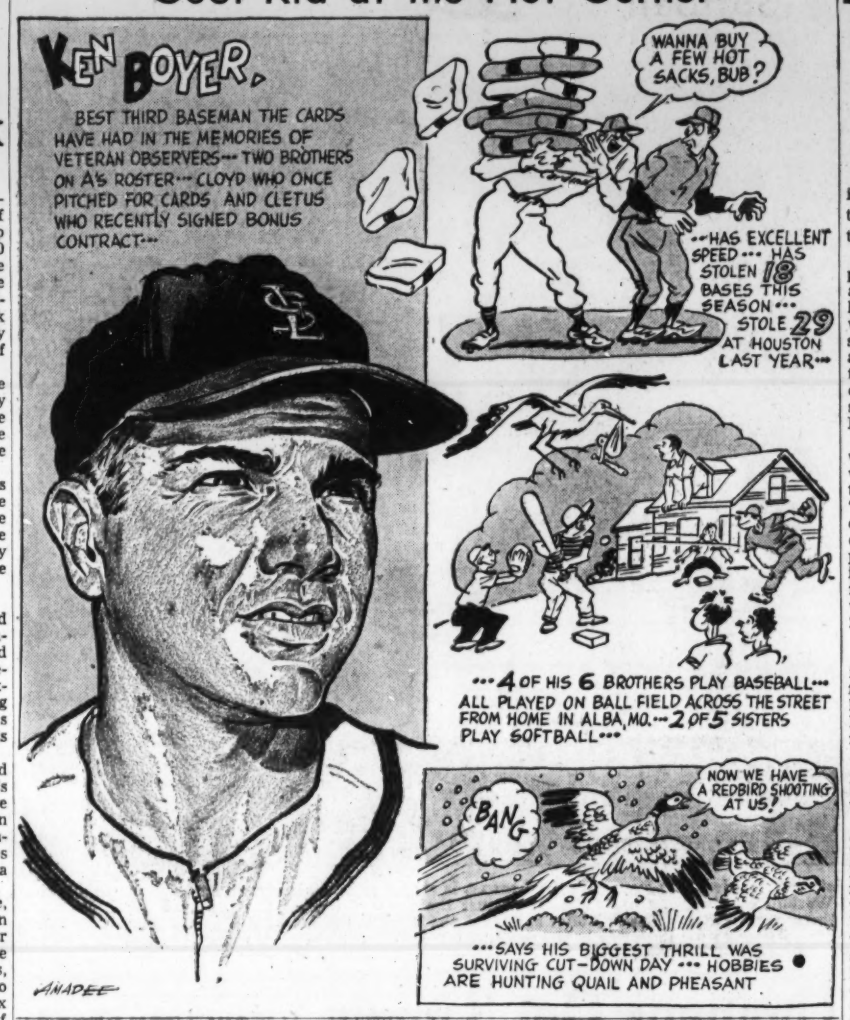

Ed Lopat Sold To Orioles for Waiver Price

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Eddie Lopat, lone remaining member of the New York Yankees' "Big Three" pitching staff of 1949-53 pennant era, today was sold to the Baltimore Orioles.

In addition to a cash consideration, believed to be about the waiver price of $10,000, the Yankees' Denver farm of the American Association will receive Pitcher Jim McDonald from Baltimore to replace Pitcher Don Larsen. McDonald, former Yankee, has a 3-5 record with the Orioles.

Recall of Larsen from Denver made it necessary for the Yankees to cut a man from their roster to remain within the 25-man player limit. Allie Reynolds, now retired, and Vic Raschi, a Kansas City pitcher, were the other "Big Three" members. Lopat, a 37-year-old lefthander who was pitching his eighth year for New York, never had a losing season since he was acquired from Chicago, Feb. 24, 1948, for Catcher Aaron Robinson and Pitchers Fred Bradley and Bill Wight. He will rejoin Wight on the Baltimore club.

Ask Me Another

By Harold Tuthill

"In what game did Pepper Martin pitch for the Cardinals? How many innings, what result and why?" R. W. Bagby, Moberly, Mo.

Pepper Martin made his debut as a Cardinal pitcher against the Boston Braves, Aug. 19, 1934, in the first game of a doubleheader. He entered the game in the fourth inning with the bases loaded, none out. After Mallon flied to Medwick, one run scoring, Jordan hit into a double play.

In the fifth Martin retired three straight batters without the ball being hit out of the infield, but, while pitching to Wally Berger, Pepper injured his right elbow. So, when Whitney singled in the sixth, Dazzy Vance relieved Martin. The Cardinals, who later went on to win the National League pennant and world series, lost the game, 10-9.

Martin was used as a pitcher because the mound staff was "shot" at the time.

In 1936 Martin also was in relief for two innings, without being credited with either a victory or a defeat.

"When Rocky Castellani fought Ray Robinson last July 22 at San Francisco he went down twice in the seventh round. Was one of them ruled an official knockdown by the referee?" Joe Corso and Mel, 1607 North 19th.

Probably not. One ringside account said Castellani slipped twice in the round. Another said he was down twice without a count and that the second was ruled a slip.

Usually in a non-title fight, it's compulsory for the boxer who goes down to take an eight-count.

Too Hot to Handle

CINCINNATI, O., July 30 (UP) — Frank Thomas of the Pittsburgh Pirates won a suit of clothes or an overcoat, today when his long home run hit a sign atop the laundry behind the left field wall at Crosley Field.

He had little immediate use for an overcoat, however. The temperature in Cincinnati at the time of his homer was 94 degrees.

Zimmer, Tired of Understudy Role With Dodgers, Asked for Action, Got It at Second Base

By Jack Rice

There was a fullness to one side of his face that usually indicates the professional ballplayer's badge of office, chewing tobacco. Don Zimmer sat up straighter in bed and solemnly said that wasn't it. He had just had a tooth extracted.

The Brooklyn second baseman put a forefinger to the bulge, and moved the finger toward his right eye. "It hurt up this way, and started puffing," he said. Zimmer had been slow to answer a telephone, and reluctant to admit he had time for conversation. It wasn't an abscessed disposition, it was Gil Hodges.

"Hodges called and said he was a newspaper man, I forget who, and said he wanted to interview me," said Zimmer. "Then a couple of other guys called, and I thought it was the day for gags." Zimmer seemed pleased. There is a compliment implied in veterans taking time for gentle gags on rookies. "It wound up in a bridge game," Zimmer added.

Understudy for Reese.

Zimmer has been a person to interview, as a second baseman, for about a month. Previously, he was a shortstop and since Peewee Reese also is a shortstop for Brooklyn, Zimmer's role had been more shadow than substance. He had been on the bench, doing a poor job of developing the virtue of patience.

"I played six, or seven, games early, when Peewee was hurt, but we were just talking about him," said Zimmer. A silent figure, roommate Ed Roebuck, nodded agreement that he had been talking. "It's not the same without Peewee. It's funny to say, but when I was playing in his place, I missed him being on the field. I know the pitchers do. They count on him coming up to say something to them, in the tight spots."

Roebuck nodded again. He's a shoehorn pitcher, an implement for tight spots. "Clem Labine's been in 33 games, I've been in 40," said Roebuck. "Seventy-three games between us, out of 101." It was a reason for staying in bed on a hot afternoon.

"Peewee can play another year, easy," said Zimmer. "I think he wants to, and I hope he does. When I wasn't playing, I asked them to send me down. Then I got in at second base, and got lucky with a couple of hits, and there I've been."

'Bavasi's a Kidder.'

Zimmer wasn't sent down because he is talented, and because he is unmortgaged by age. Seven men—Gil Hodges, Roy Campanella, Duke Snider, Reese, Carl Furillo and Jackie Robinson—will have a total of 56 seasons with the club at the end of this year. The Dodgers need to have some stout young crutches handy.

"Buzzy Bavasi's a kidder," said Zimmer. The Brooklyn executive several years ago had a corner on the bright-young-shortstop market. He began selling. He sold several off lower-classification farm clubs, and then he had two, Bill Hunter and Zimmer. He sold Hunter to Bill Veeck for $90,000. "When they sold Bill, I think to myself, 'You're all set.' Then all I start hearing is 'Fernandez, Fernandez, Fernandez,' and they tell me Cle

BETWEEN ROUNDS

By W. J. McGoogan

Virgil Akins Important To Boxing Here.

VIRGIL AKINS, St. Louis welterweight, is the man upon whom the boxing program in this city for the winter rests.

The Arena, local outlet of the International Boxing Club, has reserved six dates for the coming months and Irving Schoenwald, matchmaker for the I. B. C., said he hoped to climax the season with a world title match.

That match would undoubtedly pit the welterweight champion against Akins, a class in which the weight limit is 147.

Akins, riding the crest of three knockouts, is one of the few legitimate welterweights around today. At the moment he is ranked No. 7 among the outstanding boxers in his division.

In recent matches he has kayoed Ronnie Delaney, Akron, O., in 8 rounds; stopped Joe Miceli at St. Nicholas Arena, N. Y., in one round, and stopped Billy Sudduth, Topeka, Kan. in 8 rounds.

The champion welterweight at the moment is Carmen Basilio of Syracuse, N. Y., who won the title from Tony De Marco, Boston, at Syracuse on June 9 with a technical knockout in the twelfth round.

Basilio had a prior commitment for a return match with Tony De Marco who, in turn, had agreed to box Johnny Saxton, Philadelphia, in a return bout. Tony De Marco lifted the crown from Saxton who stepped down in favor of Tony, giving Basilio a shot at the crown.

All of that boils down to this: Basilio has either one or two matches for the championship before he can reach Akins. If Saxton is so far gone that he won't demand a match with the titleholder, then Basilio is honor bound to fight Tony De Marco again.

If he gets past that match he will be in position to accommodate all comers and he'll find Akins in line.

So, perhaps, we may see a title fight in St. Louis come next spring.

Meanwhile the program at The Arena is scheduled to start Oct. 19 with dates following Nov. 30, Dec. 21, Jan. 4, March 21 and April 11. All of those are Wednesday night, television dates.

One of the reasons the dates have been assigned to St. Louis is that there is only one outlet here, KTVI, channel 36.

For his opening show, Schoenwald is considering a number of matches. One of them is Akins against Vince Martinez. Another is Akins and Chico Vejar.

"I don't think Vejar can come close to making the weight for a welterweight contest," said Schoenwald, "but if Martinez settles his quarrel with his manager, Bill Daly, he should make an excellent match with Akins."

Akins is scheduled to box Isaac Logart at St. Nicholas Arena, Aug. 8.

Other St. Louis Boxers.

IF Akins doesn't measure up to requirements, there are several other St. Louis boxers who might help the boxing situation in St. Louis.

Among the local boxers who fit into the picture are Charles (Sonny) Liston, heavyweight; Joe Reynolds and Jesse Turner.

Liston recently surprised the boxing world with a victory over Emil Brtko at Pittsburgh by a knockout in the fifth round.

"Brtko is not a great fighter," said Schoenwald, "but he's a good one and Liston's stock took a big jump with that kayo.

"Right now Liston is ripe to fight fellows like Bob Satterfield (who opposes Nino Valdez in the Chicago Stadium soon), Johnny Holman, who defeated Ezzard Charles, then lost to him, and Charles, himself.

"That's how far along Liston has come," said Schoenwald. "He's big and strong and can hit. He didn't beat any bum when he stopped Marty Marshall at the Auditorium here, April 21, in the sixth round. He's ready for a 'name' opponent right now."

Among other St. Louis prospects are Joe and Tommy Reynolds. Both of the brothers seem to have the stuff to go places.

Turner is, of course, an established middleweight of record and can fight anybody. He was sidelined for a while because of illness but is ready to go again.

Schoenwald believes that Archie Moore will give Rocky Marciano a tough tussle for 8 or 10 rounds.

"After that, I think Marciano will take him," said Schoenwald.

"Marciano is tough and rough. You saw the first fight between him and Ezzard Charles. You know that was a tough fight for eight rounds. But in the end Charles was beaten and beaten badly. He had knots on his head as big as eggs. Moore figures to make it real tough on Marciano, too, for 8 or 10 rounds but Rocky is too rough for Moore and should knock him out."

Schoenwald went on to describe other fighters who never came back from a severe body beating, as Charles failed to come back.

"Years ago Jimmy McLarnin gave Sammy Mandell a severe pounding in the body," said Schoenwald, "and in his next fight Mandell was knocked out in a round by Al Singer.

"Look at those guys Jack Dempsey fought. They were never the same after Jack got through with them.

"And that's the way with Marciano's opponents. When he's through with them, they're through."

Harrison 5 Strokes Off Pace

AKRON, O., July 30 (UP) — Henry Ransom, the fireball golfer from St. Andrews, Ill., shot a 67 today to hold his lead after the third round of the $15,000 Rubber City open golf tournament here.

Ransom took the first nine in 33 and the second in 34 for a 68-66-67—201 card going into the final 18 holes Sunday.

This was exactly the same score registered by Defending Champion Tommy Bolt, of Chattanooga, Tenn., last year after the third round.

Bolt's final tally for the 72-hole course was 265.

Bolt walked off the course and out of the tournament today. He picked up his ball on the seventeenth hole, explaining that he was feeling ill. "I'm also tired of golf," he added.

Fast behind Ransom is newly-crowned PGA champion Doug Ford, of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., who trails by two strokes. Ford shot a four-under-par 68 today on the Firestone Country Club course for a 203 card.

In third place was Jackson Bradley, of Houston, Tex., who shot a 67 for a 204 total. Ed (Porky) Oliver, Lemont, Ill., and Dow Finsterwald, Bedford Heights, O., shared fourth place honors at 205. Oliver went the course today in 67 and Finsterwald in 68.

Tied at 206, five strokes back, were Buck White, Greenwood, Miss., and Dutch Harrison, St. Louis, Mo. White shot a four-under-par 68 while Harrison carded a 70 for the day.

Meanwhile, Fred Hawkins, who led with his fellow townsman Ransom going into the third round, shot a 73 to place him in a three-way tie for sixth position with Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass., and Jerry Barber, Los Angeles. All three now have a 207 card. Harney shot a 70 today and Barber a 68.

Bud Holscher, who took an early lead today when three-quarters of the field was in, dropped to a two-way tie for seventh place when more scores were reported.

Holscher shot a five-under-par 72 for a 208 total on the 54 holes. Tied with him was Jack Burke, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., who finished the course today with a 69.

In eighth place at 209 were Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif.; Charles Sifford, Philadelphia; Ernie Vossler, Ft. Worth; and Antonio Cerda, of Argentina. Littler shot a 65, the lowest of the tournament so far, Sifford a 67, Vossler a 70 and Cerda a 72.

Buchholz Beats Stoesser, Gains U.S. Boys' Final

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 30 (UP)—Top-seeded Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, and second-seeded Ned Neely of Atlanta, Ga., swatted their way into the final of the boys' division of the fortieth annual national junior and boys tennis championships today.

In the junior division, Esteban Reyes of Mexico City, seeded first among foreign players, and fifth-seeded Arthur Andrews of Iowa City, Ia., won their semi-finals matches to move into tomorrow's finals.

Buchholz, the 14-year-old boys champion of the Missouri Valley, sidelined fourth-seeded George Stoesser of Carmel, Calif., 6-1, 6-1, while Neely had a tougher time ousting third-seeded Gerald Dubie of Hamtramck, Mich., 6-2, 7-5. Neely won when Dubie lost control of his well-developed drop shot.

Reyes had little difficulty ousting Maxwell Brown, sixth-seeded junior from Louisville, Ky., 6-3, 6-3, but Andrews narrowly escaped an upset at the hands of seventh-seeded Ronald Holmberg, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3. Andrews, the Iowa state junior champion, will be a freshman at the University of Iowa this fall.

In the boys division semifinal doubles Buchholz and Neely beat Stoesser and Ogden Phipps, Roslyn, N. Y., 6-0, 6-2. Dubie and Ray Senkowski of Hamtramck defeated Richard Leach, Arcadia, Calif., and Ronald Sandys, La Jolla, Calif., 8-6, 6-1.

Migratory Hawks to Go From Cuba to Canada in Exhibitions

If the St. Louis Hawks don't turn out to be the best professional basketball team in the country, they'll probably rank as the most-traveled, anyway.

A 10-game exhibition schedule announced last night by Owner Ben Kerner disclosed that the Hawks would travel from Cuba to Canada in pre-season play.

Noting that he'd probably have more tune-up tests lined up for Coach William (Red) Holzman and his young team, Kerner said he believed the game at Havana with Fort Wayne, western division champions of the National Basketball Association, would be the first professional basketball contest ever played in Cuba.

The Philadelphia Warriors will be the opposition in the game at the other end of the trip—in Toronto—while the Minneapolis Lakers will be met most often, five times.

Kerner expressed pleasure at the response a ticket force of 11 persons has received here while soliciting season-seat purchases for a 24-game home league schedule beginning Nov. 5 with the Lakers at Kiel Auditorium.

The Hawks have lined up four of their promising rookies, Notre Dame's Jack Stephens, Michigan State's Al Ferrari, Dayton's Chris Harris and Duquesne's Dick Ricketts, the last-mentioned to a two-year contract.

The pro team's captain, Bobby Harrison, formerly of Michigan, also has signed, but the 1-2 stars, Furman's Frank Selvy and L. S. U.'s Bob Pettit, as well as other experienced N. B. A. men have not agreed to terms.

The Hawks' exhibition schedule:

Oct. 15, Fort Wayne at Miami Beach, Fla.; Oct. 17, Fort Wayne at Havana, Cuba; Oct. 19, Minneapolis at Mankato, Minn.; Oct. 22, Minneapolis at La Crosse, Wis.; Oct. 23, Minneapolis at Minneapolis; Oct. 24, Minneapolis at Hibbing, Minn.; Oct. 26, Minneapolis at Eau Claire, Wis.; Oct. 27, Jackson All-Stars at Jackson, Mo.; Oct 31, Philadelphia at Toronto, Can.; and Nov. 1, Philadelphia at Buffalo, N. Y.

League Softball Instead of Dolls for These Peewees

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Not to be outdone by the 24 Khoury baseball teams for boys 7 to 15 years of age at Jefferson Barracks, these little lasses have joined their brothers in league competition at J. B. This is the first season for girl's softball in the same four age divisions as the boys' leagues, but already there are four loops with four teams in each.

Jefferson Barracks Sandwich Time; Mama and the Girls Are Busy at the Softball Field

By Neal Russo

It's sandwiches only for supper at many homes in the Jefferson Barracks area this summer. The mamas are too busy managing and coaching in the little girls' softball leagues organized this year for the first time.

Little did husky John Lavin realize when, as Khoury baseball commissioner, he helped form 24 teams for boys 7 to 15 years of age, that he would get around to starting 16 teams for girls in the same age ranges just a few years later.

Parents who had daughters only began to ask last winter if something could be done for the lasses. Other little girls got tired of merely watching their brothers play. So Lavin called a meeting for all interested parents. Printed circulars telling of the meeting were distributed to homes in the J.B. area.

Forty parents showed up at that first session, so plans were made to form leagues in these divisions: atoms, 7 to 9 years of age; bantams, 9 to 11; midgets, 11 to 13, and juniors, 13 to 15. Word got around to other parents and enough girls were registered to form four four-team circuits.

Instead of copying the names of the boys' teams—Blue Sox, Red Sox, Green Sox and Black Sox—the girls adopted the name "Caps" to go with the same four colors. They wear caps and matching shorts. All have white blouses.

Most of the managers and coaches are mothers and many of them dress in the same type uniforms as their players.

Although the girls play only one league game a week, each team has two or three practices a week on the four diamonds built by the fathers on the drill field which the National Guard unit at J. B. lets them use. The papas even constructed portable backstops (with sleeves in the ground) so that the Guardsmen still could drill just before or after a game.

What good have the girls' leagues done?

For one thing, say the parents, softball has unglued the tots from their TV sets. It keeps them out of mischief and teaches them sportsmanship, they add.

Bench-jockeying of the opposition is not permitted. But the girls get rid of their excess vocal energy by chanting in unison while on the field. After the game, each team must huddle and give a loud cheer for the rivals. Then all the girls throw their caps in the air.

The atoms have a 20-foot pitching distance, 40-foot bases and use a 10-inch ball. The bantams hurl from 35 feet, run 48-foot bases and toss a 12-inch ball. The two oldest divisions have regulation distances.

Another little boys' baseball diamond at J. B. was dedicated yesterday. It has a 300-foot wooden fence (four feet high) from left to right field. It's a 150-foot shot down both foul lines to the fences for those baby Ruths who disdain bunting. The field was named Matthews Field, in honor of Luman Matthews, who as county supervisor, has helped a great deal in the sports-for-youths program at J.B.

Kelly, American Eight Take Top Events in Canadian Regatta

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 30 (AP)—Americans took the classic events—the championship singles and the senior eights—but the St. Catharines Rowing Club won the club title with a whopping 315¼ points today in the 73rd annual Royal Canadian Henley Regatta. It was St. Catharines first team title since 1950.

John B. Kelly, Jr. the 28-year-old sculler from the Philadelphia Vesper Boat Club, won the championship singles for the sixth time. He surpassed the mark of five-time winners Joe Laing of the Montreal Grand Truck Rowing Club and Toronto's Bob Dibble.

The Buffalo Westsides' smooth-stroking senior eights won the classic event and the Ned Hanlan memorial trophy to close out the four-day regatta. They did it with a one-length victory over the Philadelphia Vespers who won the American National at Philadelphia a month ago.

The College All-Star-professional football game will be played at Soldier Field, Chicago, Aug. 12. Which player scored the only All-Star touchdown when the Detroit Lions won last year, 31-6?

Boo-Collector Larsen Samples German Brand

HAMBURG, Germany, July 30 (AP)—Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., who has been booed by tennis fans all over the world, added the Germans to his list of detractors today as he casually defeated Dr. Herbert Tuebben in the first round of the German championships.

The fans apparently objected to Larsen's blase approach to the match with the 47-year-old German player, whom he defeated by 7-5, 6-4, 11-9. They apparently thought a player of Larsen's class — he is ranked fourth in the U.S. and won the U.S. title in 1950—should play much better tennis.

Gay Italian Davis Cup Players Come Up Victors, and All Wet

MILAN Italy, July 30 (AP)—Italy climaxed its march toward the championship of the European zone Davis Cup tennis competition today with a pair of victories that clinched the final series 3-0 over the defending champions from Sweden.

Little Giuseppe Merlo started the Italians rolling as he came back strongly to whip Lennart Bergelin 6-1, 6-8, 6-8, 8-6, 6-1 in a delayed match.

Then big Orlando Sirola and Nicola Pietrangeli clinched the best-of-five series by outlasting Sven Davidson and Torsten Johansson in the doubles, 6-3, 6-4, 2-6, 2-6, 6-1. Tomorrow's final two singles thus become meaningless.

Reverses 1954 Rout.

They go up against the winner of an inter-zone playoff between Japan, Eastern zone winner, and Australia, the winner of the American zone final today against Canada. The winner of that series, to be played in Germantown, Pa., Aug. 12-14, then challenges the United States at Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 26-28.

The victory over Sweden, avenging 5-0 thrashing from the same team in the 1954 European zone quarter-finals, sent the Italians into ecstasies — and a nearby swimming pool. Sirola and Pietrangeli were so happy they jumped in with their tennis clothes on. Fausto Gardini, who beat Davidson yesterday, was not to be outdone. He followed in street clothes.

Aussies in Three Straight.

MONTREAL, July 30 (UP)—Australia won the North American zone Davis Cup final today when Lew Hoad and Rex Hartwig defeated Canada's Bob Bedard and Don Fontana in doubles, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

The final singles will be played tomorrow. Yesterday's opening singles went to Ken Rosewall, in four sets over Bedard, and to Hartwig, in straight sets over Lorne Main.

Record Lasts Only 24 Hours At Cahokia

One track record was tied and another broken on successive races at Cahokia Downs last night as the meet entered its second week of racing.

Mary Jane G, winning with fifth race under the guidance of Charles Billeaud, tied the seven furlongs time of 1:25 2-5, and in the next event, Hopful Sam, with Bobby White aboard broke a six and one-half furlongs record which had a short existence.

Friday night the time for the distance was established at 1:18 4-5 and that lasted only 24 hours when Hopeful Sam negotiated the distance in 1:18 flat.

Both were short price horses in the min mutuels, Mary Jane G paying off at $4.60 for $2 and Hopeful Sam at $5.80 for $2.

Hopeful Sam, owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Triplett now has won consecutive stake events on Saturday cards. He scored last night in a photo finish with Appointment and Wal-Dot-O after having won on the opening card a week ago.

C.Y.C. Senior Baseball Play-Offs Begin Today at Fairground Park

4 League Champions In Action

St. Joseph of Clayton will meet Epiphany at 1 o'clock and Holy Rosary will oppose St. Pius at 3:30 today at Fairground No. 1 diamond in the opening round of the C.Y.C. senior baseball playoffs.

Harry Grashoff, freshman on the St. Louis U. team last spring, will pitch for St. Joseph against Joe Gummersbach. Showing a 9-1 record this season, Grashoff has run his three-year record to 27-3. He pitched junior ball in 1953-54.

Catcher Jack Fischer played in seven games after returning from classes at Notre Dame and batted .552 to lead all senior team hitters. He has driven in 13 runs. Heavy-hitting teammates are Bob Roy with .419 and Tom Sommers with .405.

For Epiphany the top batters are Don Roedner with .482, Al Jaggi .381 and Doug Pott .379. Roedner led his league in hitting.

Ray Olliges, out all last season because of a sore arm, earned the starting job for St. Pius with clutch victories near the close of the season. The "Mike Ryba" of St. Pius is Dick Gangloff, who was the staff's ace pitcher the first half of the season. He also has caught the second game of a twin bill after pitching the opener and has played first base and the outfield.

Gangloff's .428 mark paced the Cardinal Glennon League. He hit safely in all 13 games. Teammate Al Wendel batted .402.

John Spellman probably will hurl for Holy Rosary whose leading batters are Harry Mossberger .384, Bill Gronek .361 and Tom Trost .341.

Second round in the two-losses-and-out meet also will be at Fairground No. 1 a week from today. The third round will be at Cherokee No. 2 and the fourth at Busch Stadium. Admission is 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children under 12.

Looking for First Title in 40 Years

The St. Louis Union Printers, whose only tournament victory was in 1915, will try again this week in the Union Printers International Baseball League tournament at Detroit. From left, kneeling: FRANK MUNSCH, MIKE BUMB, RON HERBST, RON WEBER and WILLIE KEENOY; standing: Manager EDDIE MORAN, DON FELDMEIER, LEO BLANDINA, CHARLEY JOHNSON, CHARLEY DUBOIS, STAN MANN, BOB ROTHMEYER, CHARLEY CEPICKY and Coach EDDIE ALBRECHT. The batboys are BILL ROTHMEYER, left, and ED CEPICKY. Others on the squad are GLEN KIRCHOFF and BOB KAISER.

New Manager Eddie Moran is banking on six newcomers to pull the St. Louis Typos through in the Union Printers baseball tournament opening tomorrow at Detroit.

The new faces added since the team finished second to Washington, D.C., in the 1954 tourney at St. Louis are Leo Blandina, shortstop; Charley DuBois, second baseman; Bobby Kaiser, and Ron Weber, catchers; Ron Herbst, outfielder, and Bob Rothmeyer, first baseman-outfielder. Catcher Kaiser wears glasses.

The drawing for the two-defeats and out tournament will be made today. Some games will be played at Briggs Stadium.

Moran's starting pitchers will be Frank Munsch and Charley Cepicky. No. 3 man is Glen Kirchoff.

Two more cities have entered teams this year — Chicago and Pittsburgh. Also trying to wrest the title from Washington will be New York, Boston, Baltimore, Cincinnati, St. Paul and Detroit.

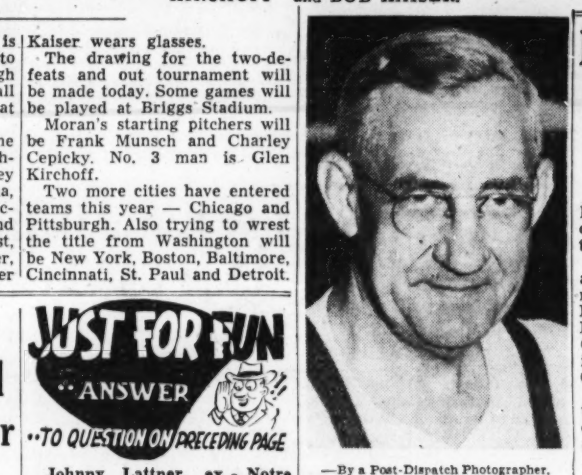

23 Teams in A.S.A. Softball At Manchester

Nineteen men's teams and four girls' squads begin play Tuesday night in the Metropolitan District tournament of the Amateur Softball Association at Manchester.

The men's champion in the two-losses-and-out meet that will take 27 nights will qualify for the regional tournament at Great Bend, Kan., along with the Broekers, who gain a place automatically because they won the regional in 1954. Regional winners go on to the Nationals at Clearwater, Fla., starting Sept. 19.

Next stop for the girls' victors will be the Omaha (Nebr.) regional, beginning Aug. 26. Kutis, which swept through the 1954 regional before finishing fourth in the National at Orange, Calif., also qualifies automatically for the regional.

In Tuesday's openers, Manchester girls play Pacific at 7:30 and the Drifters men oppose Parentes at 9:30.

Johnny Lattner, ex - Notre Dame quarterback, scored for the All-Stars in the third period of the 1954 game against the Lions.

Seattle Girl Wins Western Amateur Title

CHICAGO, July 30 (UP)—Pat Lesser, paced by a scorching putter, won the first seven holes of her match with Carol Diringer, Toledo, O., today, then coasted to a 7 and 6 victory to win the 55th annual women's western amateur golf tournament.

The 21-year-old Seattle, Wash., miss sewed up the match on the first 18. She notched a five-under-par 70, a course record at Olympia Fields for women, to lead 7-up.

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

HERMAN (LUNK) NIEMANN, who 40 years ago pitched the St. Louis Printers to the Union Printers International League title, is shown as he appears today. In 1915, Lefty Niemann won, 10-7, in the tourney at Philadelphia, then came back in relief in the third and final game with the score tied 10-10 in the fourth. He finished the 22-14 victory.

Extra Week for Muny Baseball Makeup Games

The Muny senior baseball league season has been extended one week—to Aug. 14—in order to make up rained-out games.

Most important contests today are the McNearys (8-4) vs. Hoffmeisters (6-6) in a Heine Meine League game at 10 a.m. at Porky's Field and the Kimacks (8-4) vs. Kutis South (5-6) meeting in the South Side League at Carondelet Park at 1 o'clock.

The North Side League shifts to Sherman Park No. 2 because of the C.Y.C. playoffs at Fairground No. 1.

Prize Catch.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — July 30—Two St. Louis anglers hit the headlines here recently with citation-winning fish in the seventh annual Miami Beach Summer Fishing Tournament. Judge D. Fitzgibbon bested an 18-pound barracuda. Agnes Kershow, also of St. Louis, landed a fine 20-pound Dolphin.

Bike Race Winner.

PARIS, July 30 (AP)—Louison Bodet won the gruelling Tour de France bicycle race today for the third straight year. Tens of thousands of Frenchmen cheered wildly as their compatriot triumphantly entered Parc des Princes Stadium and wheeled across the finish of the 22-day grind over 4327 kilometers (about 2704 miles).

Ozark Junior Swim at Shaw Park Tomorrow

There'll be a big splash at Shaw Park Pool in Clayton tomorrow evening, when the preliminaries of the Ozark A.A.U. sponsored Junior swimming meet opens. Coach Walter Lundt, Shaw Park coach, reports 466 individual entries from 12 clubs, one of these from Little Rock, Ark.

Preliminaries in the five age groups, ranging from 7-8 to the 15-16 year olds, will start Monday at 6:30 p.m.

Finals in diving and 18 other events will be Tuesday evening, starting at 6 o'clock, and finals in the breast stroke and relays will be Wednesday evening.

This big entry, far in excess of expectations, is a good indication of more widespread interest in competitive swimming, Coach Lundt said yesterday.

Clubs competing in this meet, with the number of their entries, follow:

Y.M.H.A.-Y.W.H.A. 84, Cottage Camp 84, Carondelet Y.M.C.A. 22, Webster Groves 59, Missouri A.C. 50, St. Louis Country Club 17, Algonquin 15, Little Rock Club 7, North Side Y.M.C.A. 6, Downtown Y.M.C.A. 6, Shaw Park 116.

Webster Groves Tennis Champion Retains Title

LaRaine Benecke retained her women's singles title in the Webster Groves tennis tournament yesterday with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Lynette Beall in the championship match. In the men's play on the Memorial Park courts, Harry Burrus advanced to the final with an 8-6, 6-2 victory over Hal Woodul.

Burrus, an assistant coach at Washington University, will meet Bob Hill at a later date for the men's title. In the men's doubles, the team of Dave Richards and Stan Cushing advanced to the semifinals, defeating Jack Lippincott and Gene Page, 7-5, 5-7, 6-1.

In a doubles semifinal, Hank Straub and Bob Copeland defeated Dick Page and Steve Brown, 6-0, 6-2.

Trabert Reports Back Ailment, Scares Officials at Southampton

Davis Cup Ace Gains Meet Final

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 30 (AP)—United States Davis Cup ace Tony Trabert threw a king-size scare into American tennis officials today when he glumly revealed that his back had been bothering him.

But a few hours later, after being examined by Dr. Nils Berglund, the same officials drew a collective sigh of relief. Dr. Berglund said he didn't believe Trabert's injury was serious.

The physician diagnosed the trouble as a slight muscular strain in the right shoulder which spread to the back. He prescribed heat treatments and massage. He added that Tony would not have to stop playing tennis.

When Trabert first announced the aching back, it was thought that his effectiveness might be hindered or that, worse, he might not be able to play in the challenge round at the end of next month.

The news of Tony's back ailment overshadowed his hard-won semi-final round victory over Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in the Meadow Club tournament. The score was 6-8, 6-1, 6-4, 2-6, 6-1.

Tony's father, Arch Trabert, first mentioned his son's trouble. Tony confirmed it and said it felt like a pinched nerve or a misplaced vertebrae. Even before he saw Dr. Berglund, he said he planned to play the final Sunday against Ed Moylan of Trenton, N. J., who eliminated Grant Golden of Chicago, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4.

Hank Raymonds Takes Coaching Job at Memphis

Henry Raymonds, head basketball coach at St. Louis U. High the last five years, has resigned to take a job at Christian Brothers College at Memphis, he announced yesterday.

Raymonds is a graduate of St. Louis U. High and of St. Louis University. He played basketball with the Billikens in 1942 and then went into service for three years. Upon his return he was a regular in the 1946, '47 and '48 seasons, being named, along with Ed Macauley, on the Missouri Valley Conference second all-star team in 1946.

During his five years as Junior Billiken coach his teams won 108 games and lost 26. The Little Bills competed in 12 tournament finals and won six of them under Raymonds's tutelage. He also coached baseball at St. Louis U. High and at St. Louis U., his 1954 Billiken team winning the Valley Eastern division title.

Raymonds will coach both sports at Memphis C.B.C., a school which just recently graduated its first four-year class. The school is expanding its basketball program and will open the season next winter against Loyola of New Orleans, a strong southern competitor.

Raymonds is the third coach to leave St. Louis U. High in recent months. C. J. Taylor departed to be assistant football coach at Mississippi Southern and Ron Holtman, football assistant, quit to become head coach at Marquette High, Alton.

Oh, Their Aching Backs--DiMag's 'Kids' Beat Hall-of-Famers

NEW YORK, July 30 (UP)—Heroes of many a dusty summer day back in grandpop's time returned to pennant-strewn Yankee Stadium today for an annual old-timers' celebration, but Joe DiMaggio's "Upstarts" turned back the "Greybeards," 7-3, in a two-inning benefit for the liniment industry.

DiMaggio directed a team of his old Yankee colleagues against an all-Hall-of-Fame squad and nostalgia closed in on the big ballyard like a heavy fog when the Yankee Clipper smashed a single off Lefty Grove and a double off Dazzy Vance to drive in three runs.

The big blast, though, was by "Old Reliable" Tommy Henrich, who hit an inside-the-park homer out past roly-poly Al Simmons in left field in the first inning.

Prior to the ceremonial game, the Yankees honored the six newest members of the Hall of Fame who were inducted at Cooperstown, N.Y., last Monday. They were DiMaggio, Ted Lyons, Vance, Frank (Home Run) Baker, Gabby Harnett and Catcher Ray Schalk.

Iowa to Miss Broeder but Football Prospects Bright, Athletic Director Says

By Robert Morrison

Binky Broeder is gone but Iowa will have a lot of good players returning for football this fall and Athletic Director Paul W. Brechler says, "We could win this year. Our team should be better than last year's."

The Hawkeyes' department head, in St. Louis to visit alumni, was not, however, crawling out on a limb that may send him and Head Coach Forest Evashevski tumbling to the ground before the autumn leaves have fallen.

"I'm not foolish enough to say we're going to win in a conference like ours," Brechler was quick to add, "but we have a chance this year to beat any opponent on any given Saturday."

It's a little better situation in many respects than it was a year ago when all Iowa was high on a Hawkeye team that finished only with a 5-4 mark overall and fifth in the Big Ten with a 4-3 record.

"The fans realized they expected too much last year," Brechler explained. "Now they don't expect quite so much and they may be pleasantly surprised."

Broeder a Real Loss.

Maplewood's Broeder, a fullback who reached a peak of greatness in the famous 14-14 tie with Notre Dame two seasons back, represents quite a loss in the 1955 picture. He was the team's top punter, too.

"That's one of our problems this season," Brechler said. "The others, besides punting, are that our passing must be better and our quarterbacking must improve. Jerry Reichow is a senior veetran returning at quarterback but so far he hasn't quite done the job as it must be done."

Besides Broeder, losses in the starting eleven included the regular center, one end and one tackle. Seven starters are back, headed by All-America guard Calvin Jones, and the prospective 1955 line is exceptionally strong with a number of key reserves available.

Regarding the opening at an end, Brechler said East St. Louis's Frank Rigney is likely to fill it as a sophomore. The six-foot-four, 220-pound Rigney is "one of the best prospects we've had in years," Brechler asserted.

Countering a generally rosy football outlook at Iowa is the fact that five of its toughest games must be played away from home. These are at Ohio State (Big Ten champion), Michigan (conference favorite), Wisconsin, U.C.L.A. and Notre Dame.

"Michigan is being rated high in the conference," Brechler said, "and Ohio can't help but be tough. Ohio has the best high school football talent in the country in my opinion. Texas claims this, but Ohio has more good boys, I think."

Khoury Flags For 3 Southwest Kiwanis Teams

Khoury senior baseball teams are in the home stretch of their races, but many nines in lower age divisions have clinched their pennants and are looking ahead to the playoffs and the All-Star games at Busch Stadium Aug. 26-27-28 and Sept. 3.

Also ahead is Khoury Night at Busch Stadium Aug. 13 when some 15,000 players, coaches and managers will be guests at the Cardinals-Redlegs game.

Three Southwest Kiwani's entries have clinched league titles—the atom, midget and Juvenile entries.

All-Star ballots must be in the Khoury office by tomorrow. St. Louis and outstate commissioners will meet at the Anheuser-Busch reception room tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Wilke Wins, 10 and 8; Fifth Glen Echo Title

Mel Wilke made short work, 10 and 8, of Tom Reidy in the final of the Glen Echo Country Club golf tournament to capture the club title for a fifth time.

Wilke shot the morning round in 69, two under par, to be five up on Reidy yesterday. He then was out in 37 to be nine up and his par on the tenth hole of the afternoon round closed out the match.

Reidy had won the title last year but Wilke prevviously had won it in 1949, and from 1951 through 1954.

Mikel to Front.

TRAINER C. C. Lemons did not have a great deal of luck when he started the horses owned by Mikel Farms of Carlock, Ill. at the Fairmount meeting, but he's making up for lost time at Cahokia Downs. . . . During the first six nights of racing at the East Side course, Mikel horses have won six times and finished second on two occasions.

That's far different from the record of one victory, one second and two thirds scored by the stable in the last two weeks of the competition at Collinsville.

The run of victories for the Lemon-trained horses began last Monday, when Almenow and Wisenheimer came into the winner's circle. . . . Then on Wednesday night, Miss Burke, Rachel G and Indiana VI carried the green and white colors of the Mikel stable home first. . . . The following night it was Miss Night that won. . . . Hypostyle and Signal Code are the horses which have placed.

As a result of the early successes, Mikel Farm has taken a lead in money earnings with $5000 collected in six nights.

In addition, Lemons has taken the lead over such trainers at Pete Maxwell, C. H. Springs, Tom Pruett, Don Kerrone and others. . . . Closest to Lemons is Maxwell, who has saddled four winners.

An Irish Trick.

THERE'S a Jockey Club rule regarding the length of names for horses. . . . It says that there cannot be more than 14 letters. . . . So there was some lifting of eyebrows when Palatial Appetite came along. . . . That name contains 17 letters.

However, there's a reason and the Jockey Club did not have to waive its rules . . . The horse was bred in Ireland by A. B. McNaughton . . . The nine-year-old is by His Highness-Kitchenette . . . There's no rule about the number of letters in a name in Ireland . . . Last year, he failed to win in five starts, gaining one second and one third to earn $1400 . . . He had won two races here and earned $1500 before he broke down in a recent race at Cahokia . . .

HOOFBEATS: Seven Jockeys who have been at Cahokia have departed for James C. Ellis Park (formerly Dade Park) . . . The Henderson, Ky., meeting opens Wednesday . . . Those who went to the Kentucky track were John Delahoussaye, F. Maher, R. P. Majors, F. Rector, C. Elder and C. H. James . . . Miss Burke has been claimed by Virginia Stables Inc. for $2000 and Plunger went to P. E. Graves for $1500 . . . The Cahokia stewards fined Trainer Walter Smith $25 for failing to bring a horse to the paddock . . . Howard Craig is riding at Detroit and recently won with Wise Traffic at $18 for $2 . . . He also scored with Ginger Miss and Irrisor . . .

The three members of the Illinois Racing Board have been named to committees by Wathen R. Knebelkamp, president of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners . . . Paul Serdar, chairman of the Illinois board, is on the illegal practices committee; William S. Miller on the study of stewards pool and Frank R. Warton, information and public relations . . .

Synchronized Swim Meet Scheduled

A synchronized swimming meet will be held Aug. 18 and 19 at Chain of Rocks pool, under the sanction of the Ozark Association of the Amateur Athletic Union. The minimum age limit will be 12 years.

No club affiliation will be required for sole contestants but team and duet entries must represent an organization, school or club. Entries close at midnight, Aug. 15. Entry forms and details may be obtained from Mrs. Peggy Krame, STerling 1-2028 or CHestnut 1-5555.

Upthegrove Wins Playoff.

Bill Upthegrove, St. Louis Country Club golfer, defeated Hord W. Hardin, 73 to 76, in their playoff for the medalist honor of the recent District Amateur golf tournament. They had tied with 150 each in the qualifying rounds.

Thomans' Coach Feels at Home In State Tourney

By Harold Flachsbart

Playing for big stakes and state championships away from the St. Louis district is nothing new to Bill Schaeffer, coach of the Thoman-Booth American Legion team competing in a Missouri zone tournament at Washington.

Schaeffer was sponsor, manager and shortstop of the Schaeffer team which won the Missouri semi-pro tournament at Sedalia in 1952. Most of his Legion players, 16 and 17 years old, don't know it, but Bill had a .425 batting average in the '52 state tourney after hitting ".399 or .400" in the University City Muny League.

"Our team placed six men on the all-state team that year," Schaeffer related prior to his departure for Washington and a bid for state Legion honors. And Bill was "lucky" enough, in his own words, to gain all-state honors himself.

Schaeffer is a product of Overland and the Ritenour school district and it is fitting that he should coach the boys from the Ritenour district now in the junior Legion baseball playoffs. He played four years of baseball at Ritenour and was captain of the ball team in both his junior and senior years.

He played pro ball in both the Detroit and Boston Red Sox farm systems, at Buffalo in the International League for the Tigers and at LaFayette, Ind., for the Red Sox, but the pressure of business forced him to forget about playing ball for a living.

Schaeffer's connection with the Thoman-Booth team which routed both Aubuchon-Dennison and Kirkwood in the St. Louis District playoffs, was somewhat sudden and unexpected. When George Marting resigned as coach, the Legion big-wigs in Overland asked Bill if he would give it a whirl. He said "yes" and the Thomans have been whirling ever since.

The club was floundering in the basement of its league with three losses and only one tie when Schaeffer took over. When the Thomans went to Washington for the zone tournament they had 10 straight victories.

"Just let 'em play ball," says Schaeffer. "You can't expect 16 and 17-year-olds to take a sign on every pitch, and I guess it was just a matter of being more relaxed than the way the team had been performing previously."

Major league scouts are watching several Overland youths, including Center Fielder Bob Burda, Shortstop Roland Kurtz and Pitcher Andy Reed, the big wheel of the drive to the state tourney. All three are juniors in high school and can't be touched until after the '56 school season.

Schaeffer's funniest experience in baseball? It was in the semi-pro tourney at Sedalia in 1952 in the final against the Jefferson City Redbirds; the fog was so thick you couldn't see the outfielders in the game at 2 a.m. But that was semi-pro; the Thomans are just amateurs!

Chataway Sets World Record For Three Miles

LONDON, July 30 (UP) — Chris Chataway set a new world record of 13 minutes, 23.2 seconds for the three-mile run today in a Britain versus Germany track and field meet at White City Stadium.

Chataway bettered the previous record of 13:26.4 set by Russia's Vladimir Kuts, in Prague last Oct. 23.

Chataway easily won the four-man event.

In the final yards, Britain's new three-mile discovery, Derek Ibbotson, looking exhausted after a great run behind the copper-haired Chataway, stumbled and fell.

Urged on by the crowd, Ibbotson dragged himself to his feet and staggered to the finish to claim second place.

His time of 13:42.2 was 19 seconds slower than Chataway's new world mark.

Fishing Catch Off at Weldon Spring.

ON the basis of the number of fishermen and fish caught, the August A. Busch Wildlife Area at Weldon Spring is having a bad year as compared with 1954.

From the season's start at the end of May until yesterday, a total of 15,640 anglers visited the area. They caught 16,980 fish, an average of about one fish an angler.

In the corresponding period last year, 19,190 fishermen appeared at the area. They took 34,900 fish, an average of almost two for each angler.

About the only bright note this season is the statement of William McDannold, fisheries management agent at the area, that average size of the fish caught, especially bass, is greater than in 1954.

As a result of several years of drouth, only 14 lakes are open on the reservation this year. Last year there were 16.

Unless there is considerable rainfall at Weldon Spring soon, it is likely that at least two of the 14 lakes now in use will be closed before the season's end. These are No. 5 and No. 32, where the water level is very low.

The Busch lakes were helped considerably by heavy rains in April, but most of the later rains which fell in St. Louis and St. Louis county missed the Weldon Spring area.

Eight Lakes Closed.

If water conditions improve, the Missouri Conservation Commission, which operates the reservation, is prepared to add eight lakes for fishing purposes next year to the number now in use. These eight have not been open for the last two years, but they have been restocked.

Bass and bluegill have been placed in four of the lakes. In the other four, the stocking has been with bass and redear sunfish.

Commission technicians are experimenting with redear sunfish in an attempt to find a good stocking companion for bass that is not quite so prolific as the bluegill. Frequently, bluegills placed in small lakes multiply so fast the fishing water is overpopulated with this species in a relatively short time.

No closing date for fishing at the Busch area has been set for this year. Last year the season ended with the first week in October, but it is expected that the commission will order an earlier closing this year, probably Labor day.

The largest fish taken at Busch this year was a 13-pound, 13-ounce channel cat caught by Howard Arnold of St. Louis. Oddly, Arnold also held last year's record—a catfish weighing 12 pounds, 12 ounces.

Biggest bass hooked in the area thus far in 1955 weighed 5 pounds, 14 ounces. The top catches in the current season were made on Lake 31.

In Defense of Lake Perch.

Referring to a recent account in Outdoors on perch fishing in Grand Haven, Mich., Dr. F. L. Kozal of Belle, Mo., writes:

"Having been born and raised in Michigan, just 12 miles north of Grand Haven, and also having spent many a happy day pier fishing for lake perch, I must indeed take umbrage at your disparaging remarks about this great game fish—the perch.

"First of all, six inches and under is a very small size for these fish. I can recall very few fish taken that size, and I know I've caught over 1000 myself.

"Most perch run about eight inches in length, and catches of 14 to 16 inches are not uncommon. A perch of six inches will weigh about the same as a bluegill of comparable length — if both are well fed before being caught.

"As far as fighting qualities are concerned, an eight-inch perch on a light fly rod is as exciting as any bluegill, any day. I was always more successful with light tackle than with the old traditional cane pole, cutty hunk and chunk of lead rig, which is standard equipment thereabouts.

"And for eating—man I drive 600 miles ever so often just to get to see my folks and sit down to a mess of perch—the best-tasting fish you can eat, bar none.

"May I suggest to you that on your next trip North you try light tackle and then report the results? I'm sure you will be pleasantly surprised at the results."

128 Junior Amateur Golfers Qualify for National Tournament

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—A total of 128 youths have qualified for this year's Junior Amateur golf championship, it was announced today by the United States Golf Association. The match play tournament will be played at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 3-6.

More than 800 young golfers filed entries for this year's tournament. The championship flight was determined following sectional qualifying rounds at 46 locations throughout the nation. Entries were open to players who will not have reached their eighteenth birthday by Aug. 7.

Foster Bradley Jr., of Los Angeles, Calif., won last year's championship, but he was too old to defend this year. Allen J. Gelberger of Santa Barbara, Calif., runner-up last year, qualified with the Los Angeles section.

OWN THIS LANCER TONIGHT!

Big New Coronet Lancer V-8

Our "Drive It Home" deal puts you at the wheel of the most glamorous "hardtop" on the road—at a price you'd expect to pay for a far smaller car!

You've seen these dashing Dodge Lancers on the road. They make heads turn wherever they go.

Maybe you've thought that a car like this costs more than you feel like paying right now.

We're out to change your idea on that. We're going to put you behind the wheel of this Dodge Lancer at close to the same price you'd pay for a much smaller "hardtop" in the "lowest price field." Bear in mind, the car we're talking about is up to 17 inches longer, with the big, solid feel no small car can approach.

But that's not all. Right now we're letting you share in our skyrocketing sales by making you a "Drive It Home" deal that is just plain too good to turn down!

Your present car is worth more in trade now than it will ever be again. Chances are it will more than cover the down payment on this value-priced Dodge Lancer.

That means—"not a penny to pay, just drive it away!" You'll drive home in the car all America is talking about . . . the Dodge Lancer.

Just one example of our low Dodge prices!

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KINGSPORT, Tenn., July 30.

ST. PAUL'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH, decorated with white carnations and roses and lighted by candles, was the scene tonight of the wedding of Miss Lawson Yates and Marvin Early Holderness Jr., a former St. Louisan.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Fain Looney of Kingsport and Lawson H. Yates of Nashville, who gave her in marriage. She was attended by a cousin, Miss Gloria Watson of Nashville, maid of honor, and by a sister, Miss Louisa Looney, Kingsport; Miss Eunice Ridley, Columbia, Tenn., the bridegroom's niece; Miss Janet Horsley, New York; Miss Jane Calhoun, Beaufort, S.C.; Mrs. Scott Holman Jr., Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. William Andrews, Asheville, N.C., bridesmaids.

They wore cool emerald green crystallette dresses, princess style and waltz length, with V necklines and push-up sleeves. They carried white carnations from which ivy cascaded.

Allison Looney, the bride's sister, wore a short dress of the same material, trimmed with a tiny lace collar, for her role as junior bridesmaid.

Imported French lace was fashioned into a gown for the bride. The bodice was trimmed with seed pearls and the full skirt swept into a chapel train. A tiara of pearls held her fingertip veil. She carried orchids, carnations and tuberoses.

Hiter Harris of New York was best man; J. L. Latimer Jr., Frank E. McGlaughon, Jerry F. Stone, Henderson Horsley, Robert T. Wilson, A. R. Brashear Jr. and William S. Farmer were ushers and Alex and R. F. Looney Jr., the bride's brothers; William Pillow Ridley Jr., Columbia, Tenn.; Frank Gay, New York;

Wanda Lee Scott Is Bride-Elect

THE engagement of Miss Wanda Lee Scott to George Walter Roe was announced last evening at a garden buffet supper at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Scott, 7303 Lindbergh drive, Richmond Heights. Mr. Roe is a son of Mrs. Dickerson Roe of Rolla, Mo.

The wedding is planned to take place early next June.

More than 200 guests were told of the news by means of pink carnation and sweetheart rose nosegays for the girls and boutonnieres for the men, with the names of the engaged pair and the date of the announcement on attached ribbons.

Tables in the garden were centered with large crystal brandy glasses holding lighted pink candles around which floated pink roses. The long buffet table, also spread in the garden, was decorated with pink and white blossoms as the base for an immense imitation engagement ring. During the evening a strolling accordionist entertained the guests.

Miss Scott has one sister, Miss Carole Kay Scott. A former student at William Woods College, Fulton, Mo., the bride-elect was chosen Sweetheart of Sigma Phi Epsilon, Mr. Roe's fraternity, at the annual Valentine dance last February at Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy, Rolla. Mr. Roe will be a senior at the school in the fall.

In addition to the prospective bridegroom, his mother, his sister, Miss Barbara, and his brother, Robert, and Miss Gayle Pease, Milwaukee, a college classmate of Miss Scott, came here for the party.

Miss Joan Dolan J. P. Mannion Jr. Are Married

THE marriage of Miss Joan Marie Dolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Dolan, 145 East Essex avenue, Kirkwood, to James Patrick Mannion Jr. took place yesterday at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Kirkwood. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Mannion, 24 Black Creek lane, Ladue.

White and blue majestic daisies, white gladiolas and greenery provided decoration for the ceremony performed by the Rev. Anthony Powers, pastor of Holy Name Church, Omaha, Nebr., a cousin of the bride.

The former Miss Dolan wore a white organdy gown with a tightly fitted bodice with cap sleeves and an off-shoulder neckline edged with ruching. The full gathered skirt extended into a train. The bride's veil fell from a tiny crown of seed pearls. She carried white orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Janet Dolan, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jeanne Weber, Mrs. Leo John Rickhoff Jr. and Mrs. Alan Anderson Small. They wore peacock blue broadcloth cotton dresses fashioned with high square necklines and full pleated skirts over crinoline. Matching velvet bandeaux encircled their hair and they carried white baskets filled with blue and white daisies.

Mrs. Dolan chose for her daughter's wedding a pink linen lace dress cut on princess lines. With it she wore a pink jeweled hat and a corsage of white orchids. The bridegroom's mother was in a gray linen dress and hat, both frosted with white beading. Her flowers were white orchids.

Edward Joseph Mannion was his brother's best man. Ushers were Dr. John T. Dolan Jr., brother of the bride; Lt. John Moffitt Kane of the Marines, Cherry Point, N.C.; Mr. Small, Edmund Griesedieck, Richard Benedict, Baltimore, and Lt. Edward Reidy, Pensacola, Fla.

The reception for members of the families and the bridal party took place at the Dolan home. Mr. Mannion and his bride, who will spend their honeymoon in Nassau, will live on McCutcheon road, Richmond Heights. She is a graduate of Villa Duchesne and Maryville College while Mr. Mannion is an alumnus of Chaminade High School, the University of Notre Dame and St. Louis University School of Law.

Miss Robison, who was born in Duluth, Minn., was graduated from high school there and attended the University of Minnesota, Duluth branch. After her graduation from St. Luke's School of Nursing in Duluth, she joined the nursing staff at Halifax Hospital, Daytona Beach. She is now a nurse at Barnes Hospital.

Mr. Jore is a native of Yonkers, N.Y. A sales engineer with a St. Louis firm, the prospective bridegroom was graduated as a chemical engineer from New York University and served with the Army Engineers in Korea.

Dorothy Johnson Is Engaged to R. F. Rodriguez

THE engagement of Miss Dorothy Esson Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Francis T. O'Grady and the late J. R. Wilfley Johnson, to Robert F. Rodriguez was announced late yesterday. The news was told to members of the families and young friends of the couple at a cocktail party at the O'Grady home, 6819 Pershing avenue, University City. The wedding will take place early this fall.

Corsages of red roses, the names imprinted on attached white hearts, were distributed to the guests by Miss Johnson's young nephew, George Desloge, son of Maj. and Mrs. John Mullanphy Desloge.

The bride-to-be attended junior college in St. Joseph, Mo., where the family formerly lived, and was graduated from Maryville College. In addition to Mrs. Desloge, her sisters are Mrs. Harold G. Reichardt, St. Louis, and Mrs. Edward W. Blanchfield, Los Angeles.

Mr. Rodriguez, who lives in Belleville, is the son of Mrs. Fernando E. Rodriguez of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and the late Maj. Rodriguez, U. S. A. He attended the University of Puerto Rico before serving with the United States Air Force, part of the time overseas. He is a member of the Industrial Designer's Institute, a professional organization.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Grady returned home a few days ago after a two-month trip to Europe.

Miss Smith Fiancee Of Marvin Seidler

MR. AND MRS. HARRY S. SMITH, 8217 Gannon avenue, University City, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jeanne DeVera Smith, to Marvin Seidler. A fall wedding is being planned.

Miss Smith attended the University of Missouri where she became a member of Phi Sigma Sigma sorority. She later studied at Washington University. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Neuman. Richard Alan Smith is her brother.

Mr. Seidler, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Seidler, 7508 Cromwell drive, Clayton, served with the armed forces for five years. He is the brother of Mrs. Charles Steinger.

Streeter-Quinn Wedding Is Event In Wichita, Kan.

WICHITA, Kan., July 30.

MISS JO ANN MARGARET QUINN and Lt. John Burton Streeter Jr. were married here this morning at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament. After the double ring ceremony, at which the Rev. T. J. O'Sullivan officiated, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeVone Matthew Quinn, gave a reception at Wichita Country Club. Lt. Streeter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Burton Streeter, who recently moved from St. Louis to Dallas Lake, Ind., were here for the wedding.

Large bouquets of white summer flowers and clusters of lighted white candles decorated the main and side altars. The pews of the center aisle, down which Mr. Quinn escorted his daughter, were set off by white satin bows.

Miss Mary Suzanne Quinn was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Catherine Vittitow, Rockport, Ind.; Miss Margaret Devereux, Lexington, Ky., and Miss Marta Higdon, Paducah, Ky. Lt. John Allen, Baltimore, was best man for Lt. Streeter. Ushers were Lt. Edwin Gibson, Roswell, N.M.; Lt. Howard Finn, San Francisco; Lt. Robert Janca, Las Vegas, N.M.; Lt. Jerome Stamm, Del Rio, Tex.; Lt. James Howerton, San Antonio, Tex.; the bride's brother, Paul Quinn; Edward Massy, Ronald Hart and Joseph Tighe, St. Louis. The bride's younger brother, Patrick, and Dennis Shay were acolytes.

The wedding gown was white silk taffeta styled with a portrait neckline trimmed with re-embroidered alencon lace, sprinkled with pearls, which extended over the shoulders to form cap sleeves. The skirt swept in back fullness into a train. The bride wore a fingertip illusion veil held in place by a half hat of heirloom hand-made cluny lace. Her bouquet was white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids were in aqua ballerina crystallette dresses with which they wore white lace juliet caps. Their flowers were white glamellias tied with white velvet ribbon.

Mrs. Quinn wore a pale blue peau de soie gown and a small hat of matching taffeta. The bridegroom's mother was in a champagne lace sheath gown and a matching hat studded with pearls and brilliants. Both mothers had orchid corsages.

Lt. Streeter, a jet instructor pilot at McConnell Air Force Base, Wichita, will take his bride to Mackinac Island, Mich., for their wedding trip. The former Miss Quinn is a graduate of Webster College, St. Louis. Lt. Streeter is an alumnus of St. Louis University.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Roberta Joseph to James S. Saltzman. Miss Joseph is the daughter of Mrs. Jeannette Joseph, 5797 Westminster place, with whom she lives, and of Lt. Jake Joseph of the St. Louis Police Department, 7420 Jeanene avenue. Mr. Saltzman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Saltzman, 6270 Cates avenue, University City. An early spring wedding is planned.

Heninger-Derrington Marriage at Church

MISS MARIAN DERRINGTON and Byrne Edward Heninger were married yesterday morning at Our Lady of the Presentation Church, St. John's Village, by the bridegroom's cousin, the Rev. John Byrne.

After the marriage, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall L. Derrington, 8944 Olden avenue, Overland, gave a family breakfast at Le Chateau and in the afternoon entertained additional guests at a reception at Hotel Jefferson.

Mr. Derrington gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a chantilly lace gown over tulle and a fingertip illusion veil gathered to a juliet cap made of pearls. Her flowers were white orchids fastened to a white satin prayer book.

Mrs. Gerald Brown was her sister's matron of honor and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Heninger Songer, was bridesmaid. They wore pastel pink linen sheath dresses, trimmed with deep rose satin cummerbunds, and coronets of lilies of the valley in their hair. Their bouquets were cascades of mauve vanda orchids.

Mr. Heninger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Heninger of St. John's Village, had his brother, Ernest Heninger of Wichita, Kan., as best man. The bride's brother, Bernard Derrington, and Mr. Brown were ushers.

After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Heninger will live in St. Louis until September. At that time they will go to Pittsburgh, Pa., to make their home while Mr. Heninger completes his senior year at Carnegie Institute of Technology. His bride is an alumna of St. Francis Xavier High School.

Miss Haar Bride-Elect.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Haar, 3929 Minnesota avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jerry Haar, to Donald E. Hopson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Hopson, 3980 Dover place. The prospective bridegroom is an alumnus of St. Louis University.

Miss Cavanagh Becomes Bride Of Dr. A. I. Cohen

THE marriage of Miss Elizabeth Ann Cavanagh, daughter of Mrs. Henry William Herweck, to Dr. Adolph Irvin Cohen took place Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herweck, 5813 Enright avenue. James F. Hornback, leader of the St. Louis Ethical Society, performed the ceremony in a setting of pink flowers and lighted tapers. Guests were limited to members of the two families, including the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Cohen of Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Herweck entertained the wedding guests and friends of the bride and bridegroom at a buffet supper in the garden. Small tables were lighted by hurricane lamps and strolling musicians provided music.

The former Miss Cavanagh, a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Ehlers, was graduated from The Principia Upper School and from the University of Wisconsin. She holds a master's degree from George Warren Brown School of Social Work at Washington University. Two years ago the bride spent a summer traveling in Europe. A member of the Independent Artists, her paintings have been shown at the City Art Museum, the Auditorium refectory and in other exhibits.

Dr. Cohen is a research physiologist. An alumnus of New York City College, he received his doctorate at Columbia University. Beginning in September he will teach at Washington University School of Medicine in the Anatomy Department. He and his bride will spend the next month traveling in Mexico and will return here to live at 623 Clara avenue.

Barbara Lipson To Be Married

A GARDEN reception given last night by Mr. and Mrs. August Lipson, 137 Brighton way, Clayton, served to announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbara Davis Lipson, to Harry T. Schukar. An autumn wedding is planned.

Miss Lipson was graduated from Clayton High School and attended Washington University where she became a member of Sigma Delta Tau sorority.

MISS BARBARA LIPSON

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Schukar, 6312 Southwood avenue, Clayton, was graduated last June from Washington University with a degree in Business Adminstration and at the same time was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Reserve. He will be called into active service soon.

The prospective bridegroom is a member of Pi Lambda Phi, social, and Thurtene, Junior, and Omicron Delta Kappa, senior, men's honorary societies. He also served as president of the Student Senate while at Washington.

Miss Yates Married To M. E. Holderness Jr.

William John Horsley and Frank Porter, Kingsport, were groomsmen.

After the ceremony, performed by the Rev. L. F. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Looney gave a reception at Ridgefields Country Club. Daisies provided decorations throughout the club. The buffet table was covered with tulle, over green, caught up with daisy clusters.

Guests from St. Louis included the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Holderness of the St. Regis apartment, 4954 Lindell boulevard, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Hoerr II. Mrs. Gay, whose husband is a former St. Louisan, accompanied him south, and Mrs. Ridley (Eunice Holderness), the bridegroom's sister, was here from Columbia.

Mrs. Looney wore grey lace, and Mrs. Holderness, pink lace, with matching accessories. Both had corsages of baby orchids.

Mr. Holderness will take his bride to the Highlands Country Club, Highlands, N.C., for their honeymoon. They will live at 120 East Seventy-fifth street, New York.

The bride is a graduate of St. Ann's Preparatory School, Charlottesville, Va., and the University of South Carolina. She made her debut in 1950 at the Assembly Ball, Columbia, S.C. Recently she has been living in New York, associated with the New York office of Kingsport Press.

Mr. Holderness is a graduate of Vanderbilt University and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honorary, and New York University Club. A lieutenant in the administrative division, Army Medical Corps, in World War II, he is now vice president of Soremus and Co., New York.

Eulene Vera Everding Is Married at Church To Robert E. Ballman

MISS EULENE VERA EVERDING was married last night to Robert Elliott Ballman at St. Stephen Evangelical Church. The Rev. Otto Kienker performed the candlelight ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis August Everding, 1519 Gieseking lane.

Miss Alice Eckhardt served as maid of honor and Miss Kay Smith and Miss Norma Jean Von der Au as bridesmaids. They wore pale pink chiffon and tulle gowns over taffeta. The honor attendant carried American beauty roses, the others pink roses. Donna Mueller, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl wearing a short, very bouffant white organdy frock trimmed with embroidery and tied with a pink satin sash. She held a basket of American beauty roses.

The bride wore a chantilly lace gown over satin with an elongated waistline pointed at back and front. The bodice was trimmed with pearls, crystal beads and iridescent sequins. The bride carried a wedding handkerchief, an heirloom in the bridegroom's family and a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis. Her veil, fingertip length, was held by a crown of pearls and iridescent sequins.

Mr. Ballman, son of Mrs. Howard Ballman, 8830 Partridge avenue, and the late Navy Lt. Ballman, had Scott King as best man and Alvin Vogt and Layton Stewart as ushers.

A reception was given at the Winston Churchill tearoom. The bride and bridegroom will visit Saugatuck, Mich., on their wedding trip. They will live in Washington and he will report Sept. 5 to serve as a Marine lieutenant at Quantico, Va. He is a graduate of Country Day School, Washington University and the university's School of Law. His bride, an alumna of Washington, has been teaching at Central Institute for the Deaf.

Bernadine Kornblatt To Be Bride at Home

PLANS for a large wedding, to be followed by dinner, for Miss Bernadine Kornblatt and Herbert Raskas at the Sheraton Hotel next Sunday, have been canceled because of the death earlier this month of Miss Kornblatt's father, Oscar Kornblatt.

Miss Kornblatt and Mr. Raskas will be married on the day originally planned at the home of her mother, Mrs. Oscar Kornblatt, 8152 Stratford avenue, Clayton. Only the immediate families will attend the ceremony to be performed by Rabbi Ephraim Epstein at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Irving Hoffman, and will be given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Melvin Kornblatt. Jerry Raskas is to be best man for his brother. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Raskas, 5811 DeGiverville avenue.

Benefit for Children.

St. Louis Council Pioneer Women has launched a summer project for the benefit of the Child Rescue Fund in Israel. Members have been asked to "give or get" from $10 to $30 to mark the organization's thirtieth anniversary which will be celebrated at the national convention in Toronto, Ont., in October. The local project will culminate at a luncheon Sept. 7 at Meadowbrook Country Club. Mrs. Nat Sandweiss is council chairman of the project.

Muether-Keller Wedding in East

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM H. KELLER gave a party last night at their home, 1446 Ronald drive, Webster Groves, to announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Susan Elizabeth Keller, to Pvt. John Merod Muether, son of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond O. Muether, 19 Country Life Acres, St. Louis county.

No announcement had been made of the engagement. The wedding took place in the afternoon in the Army chapel at Fort Dix, N.J., in the presence of the two families, who attended a dinner afterward in the Stacy-Trent Hotel, Trenton, N. J.

The bride wore a white lace street-length dress and a fingertip veil attached to a small velvet band. She carried a prayerbook ornamented with white gladioli.

Miss Jean Calhoun Macnish, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James M. Macnish of Webster Groves, served as maid of honor in a yellow embroidered organdy dress trimmed with white lace. Yellow roses provided her bandeau and bouquet. Robert Owen Muether was his brother's best man.

After a very brief honeymoon the bridegroom sailed for duty in Frankfort, Germany, where his bride hopes to join him in the spring. Meanwhile, in the fall, she will begin her freshman year at Lindenwood College.

Mr. Muether was graduated from the Taylor School and attended Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., and Washington University.

McCloud-Ideson Engagement Told

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WALTER THURMAN, 422 Mission court, University City, have announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Sandra Lee Ideson, to Dennis Doan McCloud. The news was told yesterday at a party at the Thurman home. Guests, about 20 young women, received nosegays of red carnations centered with white roses. Piercing the bouquets were arrows to which were tied streamers reading, "Sandy and Dennis."

Miss Ideson, who was graduated from University City High School, will return to Stephens College in September for her second year. She has served as president of Swans, the swimming club; as secretary of the Stephens Recreation Association, and as a member of the campus service board. Her father is Alison B. Ideson of Kirkwood.

Mr. McCloud is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. McCloud, 8007 Orlando drive, Clayton. An alumnus of Western Military Academy, he will be a junior next year at the University of Missouri, where his fraternity is Phi Gamma Delta.

Carolyne Howe, John S. Thomas Are Married

TWO residents of Evanston, Ill., Miss Carolyne Lawrence Howe and John Skriver Thomas, were married last night at Ladue Chapel. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hudson Howe, 7816 Utica drive, Hanley Hills; Mr. Thomas's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. Roscoe Thomas, live in Omaha, Nebr.

The Rev. James F. Neill performed the ceremony in a setting of white flowers and greenery and sprays of lemon and huckleberry leaves marked the center aisle.

Miss Nancy Jane Howe was her sister's maid of honor and Miss Carol Lee Hines and Mrs. William R. Thomas Jr., Seattle, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore ice blue crystallette gowns of coronets of summer blossoms matching their nosegays.

The former Miss Howe chose a white tulle gown with a shirred bodice ornamented at the neckline with Florentine lace flowers. More of the flowers were scattered on the bouffant tulle skirt. A lace cap held the bride's veil. She carried a lace wedding handkerchief, belonging to the bridegroom's mother, and a nosegay of white flowers encircled with a lace ruffle.

Mr. Thomas was attended by William R. Thomas Jr. as best man. Ushers were W. Revard Auwater, Evanston; John Barkley Foster, Royal Oak, Mich., and John Hudson Howe II, brother of the bride.

The reception was given at Le Chateau. Mrs. Howe greeted her guests wearing a sapphire blue organza and chantilly lace gown. Her hat was covered with matching sequins and her flowers were pale pink. The bridegroom's mother was in mauve chantilly lace and peau de sole. A matching lace hat and a corsage of white flowers completed her costume.

Carol Jean Stammer Married at Church To Robert J. Rolen

THE marriage of Miss Carol Jean Stammer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Stammer, 212 Royal avenue, Ferguson, to Robert J. Rolen took place yesterday morning at St. John and St. James Catholic Church, the Rev. William Dames officiating.

The bride wore a chantilly lace bodice, its Peter Pan collar embroidered with seed pearls and sequins, combined with a lace-embroidered tulle skirt. Her veil fell to her fingertips from a pearl and sequins-studded crown. She carried white carnations and pink roses.

Miss Shirley Kistner, maid of honor, and Miss Helen Riechmann and Miss Terry Robyn, bridesmaids, wore blue polished cotton and held pink carnations.

Mr. Rolen, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott Rolen, had Edward Sztukowski, who served with him in the Korean campaign, as best man. Ushers were Ellis Blackwell, Jack Hagerty and Richard Vogt.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Stammer gave a breakfast for the briday party and out-of-town guests at Norwood Hills Country Club. The afternoon reception was given at the Stammer home.

Mr. Rolen and his bride will spend their honeymoon in New Orleans and Texas. They will live temporarily with her parents. The former Miss Stammer, a graduate of Sacred Heart Academy, St. Charles, has another year at Maryville College.

MRS. EDWIN R. EDMUNDS

Miss Jean Hourigan, E. R. Edmunds Married At Columbia Church

MISS JEAN DALE HOURIGAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude W. Hourigan of Columbia, Mo., was married to Edwin Ray Edmunds, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Ray Edmunds, 823 Brownell avenue, Glendale, July 23. The evening service was performed at First Christian Church, Columbia by the Rev. Lee Sheppard before a foliage-banked altar decorated with baskets of white summer flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown designed with a lace bodice and bouffant tulle skirt. A tiara of seed pearls held her fingertip length veil in place. She carried white orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Jerry Hourigan, Bartlesville, Okla., served her sister-in-law as matron of honor in a nylon and crystaline frock in a lavender shade. Small vanda orchids trimmed the neckline and were used for her crescent-shaped bouquet. The bridesmaids, wearing similar costumes in pastel shades, were Miss Jane Nutter, Bartlesville, Mrs. Gene Perry of Columbia and Mrs. Herbert Sang, Kansas City, Mo.

Louis E. Turner of St. Louis was best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Hourigan, Mr. Sang and Clifford Winkler, St. Louis.

More white blossoms decorated the church parlors for the reception afterward.

After a wedding trip to Estes Park and Colorado Springs, Colo., the young couple will live in Canterbury Gardens, University City, where he will be on the teaching staff of the new Brittany Junior High School.

The former Miss Hourigan was graduated from Christian College, Columbia, and received both her bachelor's and Master's degrees in education from the University of Missouri. She is a member of Pi Lambda Theta, women's honorary education fraternity.

The bridegroom also holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the same university, where he has done work toward his doctorate in education. He is affiliated with Phi Delta Kappa, honorary education fraternity; and Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity. He served in the Korean campaign as an Army lieutenant.

Miss Fishel Married To Alvin Richelson

MISS JUDITH ANN FISHEL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fishel of Cairo, Ill., former St. Louisans, and Alvin Richelson were married July 3 at B'nai Amoona Synagogue. Later there was a dinner and reception in the El Cortez room of the Sheraton Hotel.

The bride wore a tissue taffeta gown trimmed with pearl-studded lace insets. A lace headpiece held her fingertip veil and she carried a Bible marked with orchids.

Miss Marilyn Fishel, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Mitchell Bush, Chattanooga, Tenn., sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Mark Spector, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Pennie Richelson, his niece, Chattanooga; Miss Sharon Fishel, Cairo, sister of the bride; Miss Ruth Levin and four cousins of the bride, Miss Carole, Miss Jane and Miss Brenda Solomon, Cairo, and Miss Phyllis Fishel.

Mr. Richelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Richelson, Chattanooga, had his father as best man. Ushers were Nathan Dietch, New York; Harold Greenberg, Dyersburg, Tenn., and Marvin Fishel, cousins of the bride, and Maurice, Isadore and David Richelson, brothers of the bridegroom, Chattanooga.

Mr. Richelson and his bride will live in Chicago after a wedding trip to Florida.

Many Hay Fever Suffers Seek Relief at Miami Beach

University of Miami Tests Show One of Lowest Pollen Counts East of Rockies.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Aside from the fun of swimming, fishing, golf and other recreation, many summer vacationers in Miami Beach return here year after year to escape hay fever.

This resort's geographic location is such that cooling sea breezes not only keep temperatures comfortable even during summer, but also maintain a constant supply of fresh, clean air in which there is only an occasional trace of ragweed pollen, chief cause of the hay fever victim's discomfort.

Weather Bureau records give the city a summer temperature average of 81 degrees with but six days a year on which the mercury exceeds 89. Extremes of heat that sweep the country from time to time are not experienced here. Tests by the University of Miami show Miami Beach to have one of the lowest pollen counts east of the Rockies, while the absence of industry and of agriculture precludes smoke and dust.

As a consequence, most hay fever sufferers usually find immediate relief on arrival here.

Low summer hotel and apartment rates make it possible for vacationers to live here economically and in luxury. Rates for two in the large, air-conditioned ocean-front hotels average around $50 to $60 a week, with the ultimate in swank available for less than $100 a week. There also is a wide choice in apartments for housekeeping.

At many of the hotels and some of the apartment buildings, the vacationer can expect private swimming facilities, either an open-air pool on the grounds, a private beach, or both. Sundecks and cabana areas around the pools invite lazy relaxation during the hours that golf, fishing, sightseeing or other recreation does not fill with activity.

Visitors whose budgets demand the strictest economy will find a good selection of rooms in the smaller hotels a block or two from the ocean, where rates begin at about $25 a week, double. Public oceanfront parks, of which there are eight along the city's Atlantic shoreline, are within a short walk of most of these hotels.

Restaurants and cafeterias in wide variety solve the eating problem at prices comparable to those elsewhere in the country. Seafood and local dishes featuring the unusual fruits of the area may be obtained, along with standard American cuisine. Stores and shops are close to all hotel and apartment areas to serve all shopping needs.

Two city-operated 18-hole golf courses are within minutes by automobile of any point within Miami Beach, while tennis courts and facilities for other park games are dotted throughout the city. The municipal recreation department also conducts daily and evening programs for adults and youngsters in three civic centers to which visitors are welcome.

Fishing is one of the famed sports here, with sailfish, marlin, tarpon and bonefish at the top of the trophy list. Fishing trips, both into the Gulf Stream and to favorite light tackle areas in Biscayne and Florida bays, may be arranged without difficulty.

Night clubs, theaters and special events such as boxing and wrestling exhibitions, lend variety to after-dark entertainment.

SOUTH AMERICAN SKI SEASON NOW IN FULL SWING

Summertime in the United States means winter in South America and snow on the Andes. So, if you're planning a trip to that part of the world, you'll be wise to take your skis along and enjoy some of the finest skiing in the hemisphere, Panagra Ski Desk reports.

From June to mid-October, ski resorts in Argentina, Bolivia and Chile will once again open their doors to winter sport enthusiasts and expectations are high that this will be one of the greatest seasons in the continent's history.

Skiing in the Chilean Andes is a relatively new fad that is fast catching on and luring both experts and novices from near and far.

The finest resorts in the hemisphere are close to Santiago, Chile's cosmopolitan capital. The nearest and most popular is Farrellones, about an hour and a half by station wagon.

CHRISTIAN SHRINES

Amidst relics of Greek and Roman gods and the mosques and minarets of its own Islamic background, the Turkish nation protects the Christian shrines which dot the country which for centuries has been the crossroads of the world.

The House of the Virgin Mary, the Cathedral of St. John, the Cave of the Seven Sleepers of Ephesus and the birthplace of St. Nicholas are maintained and guarded by the Department of Antiquities, and are open to visitors from all parts of the world. Monuments of Christianity meet the American tourist in many areas of Turkey.

BRIDGE TO HELP SOLVE FLORIDA TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Construction of a new million dollar bridge began in Hollywood-by-the-Sea, Fla., recently as a major part of a long range program designed to solve the tremendous traffic problem of Florida's famed "Gold Coast."

The new structure will span the Inland Waterway to Hollywood Beach and then cloverleaf to Ocean drive on A1A. This is actually the beginning of the fabulous "Motel Row" that becomes Collins avenue in Miami Beach.

The high concrete span, connecting the mainland with Hollywood Beach, will eliminate constant traffic snarls due to opening and closing the slow-moving draw bridge for channel traffic.

Motorists may still turn east on A1A in Dania and cross over to Hollywood Beach during construction. The old draw bridge will remain in operation until the new structure is completed.

Another million-dollar bridge is expected to be built next year which also will connect the mainland to Hollywood Beach. Funds have been appropriated and plans are now on the drawing boards.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Anyone planning to visit Britain who does not include lovely Northern Ireland in his itinerary is overlooking an important and exceedingly beautiful part of the United Kingdom.

A few short miles across the Irish Sea from the west coast of Britain, the six counties of Northern Ireland—Antrim, Londonderry, Down, Fermanagh, Armagh and Tyrone—provide attractions certain to appeal to those to whom a trip to Europe means scenery, traditions and sports, together with excellent meals and comfortable accommodations.

Pollen-Free Air.

Pollen-free air at vacation centers of west Michigan along the shores of Lake Michigan are ideal holiday sites for hay fever sufferers.

SPORT FISHING ON CAPE COD AT BEST IN AUGUST

Salt water sport fishing on Cape Cod, where the waters abound with good catches from spring until late Autumn, approaches its peak in August.

Topping the program of fishing events this year is the Cape Cod Tuna Tournament, Aug. 14-18, at Barnstable Harbor, a sport fishing center of Cape Cod Bay where the giant bluefins fill the sea. Under auspices of the Cape Cod Tuna Club, the contest has attracted some of the greatest anglers and finest sport tuna boats in the country.

Anglers, both men and women, will find August a rewarding month for striped bass and bluefish, as well as other scrappy salt water species. Continuing through August and September are the annual bass derbies at Buzzards Bay, Orleans and Provincetown and bluefish contests at Chatham and Falmouth. Monthly and seasonal prizes are awarded in these derbies.

LATE SUMMER A GOOD TIME FOR OREGON VACATION

SALEM—Late summer and early autum vacations in Oregon will be filled with fun and recreation at its best, according to reports received by the Travel Information Division, Oregon State Highway Department.

Whether it be camping or culture that the vacationer wants, he'll find it within the recreation realms of Oregon's 97,000 square miles including 13 national forests and 200 state parks.

Throughout the month of August, the Oregon Shakespearean Festival at Ashland will present plays in the authentic style of the old bard. The festival is in its twentieth year.

A host of other interesting and exciting events will take place during August and September including rodeos, festivals, fish derbies and fairs. Two of these major attractions are the Astoria Salmon Derby, Aug. 28 through Sept. 5 and Pendelton Round-Up, Sept. 15-17. Oregon's State Fair at Salem will be held from Sept. 3 to 10 this year.

Particularly conducive to travel in Oregon during the late summer and early autumn are the great variety of accommodations available, especially along the 400-mile Pacific coastline and at many valley areas.

GREAT LAKES

Half of the world's fresh water is found in the Geart Lakes. Their combined water surface is 94,710 square miles, larger than England, Scotland and Wales put together. Lake Superior, the largest of the Great Lakes and one of the largest fresh-water bodies in the world, is 602 feet above sea level.

Lake Erie is 573 feet above sea level, 29 feet lower than mightly Lake Superior.

AUGUST 'RACE WEEK' AT MARBLEHEAD

MARBLEHEAD, Mass.—Since the first seventeenth century boat sailed past the tawny ledges into the harbor, Marblehead has belonged to the sea. But the blue waters which once welcomed fishing fleets, trading schooners and Revolutionary frigates are now filled with pleasure craft. With the beginning of Race week in August, the harbor blossoms into a field of red and white sails. About 450 boats move with the wind, as the yacht clubs which rim the harbor open their competitions to skippers from all along the Eastern seaboard.

During the week beginning Aug. 6, the starting gun will send off every class of sailing craft, from turnabouts to United States 1 designs. Spectator yachts will fly bright regatta flags. Fort Sewall Park and Great Lighthouse Point, at the harbor entrance, will be crowded with watchers, as they have been for more than 70 years.

But this is not a one-week vacation town. When the silver trophies have been given out and Race week is over, Marblehead is still an enchanting spot, worth a visit at any season of the year. It is only 30 minutes from Boston, according to American Airlines.

Some vacationers stay close to the beauty and activity of the harbor: Front Street, with its boat yards and vistas of the sea through every vivid garden; the Neck, a long peninsula with leafy drives past impressive summer homes and the pounding surf and rocky chasms of the Atlantic shore; the Causeway, connecting town and Neck, with sandy Devereux Beach at the entrance to the Neck.

Others prefer just to sit in the sunshine, under a blue sky, try the benches high on the rocky cliffs of Fort Sewall Park, Crocker Park, or Fountain Park, with their ever-changing views of the harbor, the islands beyond and far out to sea.

Those who can bring themselves to leave the waterfront will find a town which has kept its individuality. Marbleheaders have always been noted for their independence and vigor; their town is like that, too. No superhighways have replaced the narrow crooked streets which wind up and down hill in the old town. The Town House was built in 1727 and is still in service. The bell of St. Michael's Church was rung so hard that it cracked, in celebrating the Declaration of Independence — but Paul Revere recast it, and it still rings out.

Numerous mansions built by wealthy eighteenth century sea captains and shipping merchants still stand, as handsome and sturdy as when they were built. Two of the finest, "King" Hooper's, built in 1745, and Colonel Jeremiah Lee's are open to the public. The Lee mansion, beautifully restored and kept up by the Marblehead Historical Society, has the old mural wall paper from England, mahogany from San Domingo, brought back in Lee ships. The giant elm which shades the house was there before it was built, in 1768, as a cost of $50,000.

Every year, some 150,000 people visit Abbot Hall, on Washington Square, to see the original painting. "The Spirit of '76." This patriotic picture was an appropriate gift to Marblehead, which built and manned the first vessel of the American Navy in 1775; provided the men who rowed Washington and his troops across the Delaware to Trenton; sent men away to fight in every war, and entertained Washington and Lafayette.

Antique collectors should be happy for days in Marblehead, for antique shops are as thick as blueberries.

Forest Lands.

Almost one-half of Washington state is still covered with forest lands. There are seven national forests in the Evergreen State dedicated to the enjoyment of the public.

NO AUTOS HERE

No automobiles touch the roads of Mackinac Island. One of the picturesque customs of the Island is the Carriage Line. Over fifty horse-drawn carriages line up down the center of the main street whenever a steamer comes in.

While waiting for the gleaming passenger ships of the Georgian Bay Line, drivers of the carriages amuse themselves with carefully guarded dice games. When its whistle announces the ship's arrival, the game is over, and each driver vies with the others for patronage from shore-going passengers.

Historical Museum.

Newly renovated and open to the public is The Fort Dalles Historical Museum at The Dalles, Ore.—part of the historic display is a collection of old mission bells of pioneer origin.

TRINIDAD ART CENTER

An art center, first of its kind in Trinidad, has been opened on the Caribbean island. It features a permanent exhibition of Trinidad paintings and sculpture.

Visitors especially interested in the arts have the opportunity of meeting local artists at the center which is located at 110 Abercromby street, Port of Spain.

Spare That Tree.

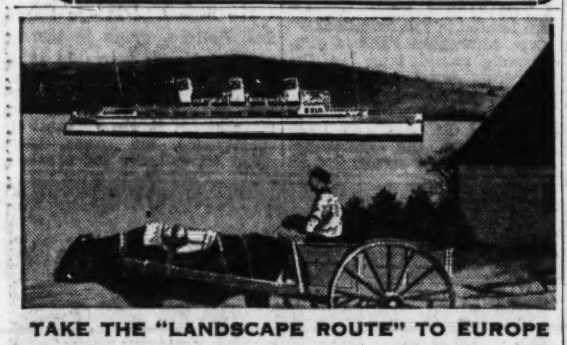

Woodsmen spare the tree whenever possible in Hawaii. Rather than cut down the coconut palms along Waikiki's main streets, for example, ingenuous builders cut holes in overhanging eaves and roofing, allowing enough room for the trees to sway in the tradewinds.

THE LAND OF ENCHANTMENT is camera country

Pile the family in the car and head for New Mexico—out of the heat and humidity, into the cool, green mountains of The Land of Enchantment, where paved highways lead on to strange and different scenes and where each vacation day becomes a new delight.

Millions of acres of cool, National Forests clothe the high ranges of New Mexico. Summer days are bright with sunshine and summer nights are always blanket-cool*. Carlsbad Caverns National Park (56° the year around) and eight famed National Monuments are but a few of the hundreds of scenic and historic spots awaiting your discovery; Fiestas and Indian ceremonials occur throughout the year, and all outdoors calls you to rest or relax as your mood determines . . . and don't forget your camera—the pictures you take home will help you relive the fun you've had!

*Average night temperature (daily minimum) at the state capital is just 55° in June, July and August!

NEW POUSADAS

Ten new pousadas, small wayside inns under government direction and supervision, are under construction in Portugal.

Designed to create hotel facilities in areas that are attracting tourists, Portugal has already established a dozen such inns. Each conforms to the characteristic landscape of the region and specializes in regional cuisine.

Beautiful Capitol.

The Washington State capitol at Olympia is one of the most beautiful in the nation. The buildings closely resemble those of the national capitol at Washington, D.C. The capitol's beautiful grounds attract color photographers from all over the world.

AUGUST A MONTH OF FAIRS IN MISSOURI

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — In keeping with a trend toward more special events, August will be another busy month, according to the Missouri Division of Resources and Development.

It is a month of fairs, with nearly all Missouri fairs either being held in August or September.

Events, however, range from "standing" summer events such as the Shepherd of the Hills Theater at Branson to centennials and Old Settlers Reunions.

The two biggest fairs will be the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia Aug. 20-28, and the Ozark Empire District Fair at Springfield Aug. 13-19.

Here is a complete list of special events in the state for the month of August:

1-6—Sixty-eighth Annual Old Settlers Reunion, Cassville.
3-7—Shepherd of the Hills Theater, Branson.
6-7—Turrentine Family Reunion, Marionville.
6-13—Jackson County Fair, Lee's Summit.
10-13 — Washington County Fair, Potosi.
11-14—Washington, Mo., Fair.
13-19—Ozark Empire District Fair, Springfield.
18-20—Annual Rodeo, Cassville.
19-21—Louisiana Street and River Festival.
20-28—Missouri State Fair, Sedalia.
21—Seventh Annual Pilgrimage to Our Lady of Ozarks Shrine, Winslow.
25-27—Old Settlers Reunion, Shelbyville.
26-28—War Dad's Convention, Joplin.
27—Camden County Livestock Show, Camdenton.
28—Hamilton Centennial.
29—Annual Jackson Homecoming.
31-Sept. 3—Webster County Fair, Marshfield.
Windsor Centennial.

The Louisiana Street and River Festival offers an unusual attraction. It it built around the Mississippi river theme; even the queen is crowned in a boat.

Montana Now Celebrating Lewis-Clark Anniversary

HELENA, Mont.—The route of the sightseeing trip of the West's first tourists, Lewis and Clark, is this summer's vacation objective for many modern sightseers. Celebration of the Expedition's sesquicentennial has resulted in a new surge of interest in the historic route, according to the Montana Highway Commission which in recent weeks has been busy answering inquiries about Lewis and Clark's trail.

In Montana, where the explorers spent more time and traveled more miles than in any other state, many of the buffalo paths and Indian trails used by Lewis and Clark are now modern highways. This makes it easy for historically-minded tourists to see many of the same sights, preserved in unspoiled natural splendor.

To help motorists follow Lewis and Clark, the Montana Highway Commission at Helena offers without charge a brief summary of the explorers' trip through the state and a list of Lewis and Clark high spots along Montana highways.

Travelers on U.S. Highway 2 parallel the Missouri river route of Lewis and Clark into northeastern Montana. At great Falls, reached by U.S. Highways 87, 89 and 91, modern tourists can witness the foam and splash of the falls of the Missouri where the explorers met so much hardship in portage.

Near Helena, cruise boats ply the Missouri river, taking passengers through the spectacular Gates of the Mountains, which Lewis and Clark named. Farther south in Montana, United States Highway 10 at Three Forks is adjacent to the Missouri River Headwaters, now a State Park, where the Expedition was faced with three river routes ahead and made the historic choice which led them to the Pacific.

South of Dillion on U. S. Highway 91 a monument marks the lucky spot where the party met the tribe of Shoshone to which Sacajawea, their Indian girl guide, belonged. Tourists traveling north from Idaho into Montana on U. S. Highway 93 follow almost exactly the path along which Lewis and Clark led the horses they received from the friendly Shoshones.

Through Hellgate Canyon, the present site of Missoula on U. S. 10, the motorist traverses the Flathead Indian trail to buffalo country across the Divide, a trail well-worn in 1806 when Meriwether Lewis led the way north, back to the Great Falls.

At Cut Bank, U. S. 2 meets the Marias river by which Lewis tried, in vain, to find a short route to western Canada. Near Billings, U. S. Highways 10 and 12 pass an impressive natural sandstone landmark christened Pompey's Pillar by Capt. Clark in honor of Pomp, Sacajawea's little son.

Throughout Montana, magnificent scenery is unchanged. Wild game still abounds in primitive areas, where the feeling of being "away from it all" is as real today as it was 150 years ago. The chief difference is that the same territory which caused Lewis and Clark "so many toilsome days and wristless nights," as their journals say, can now be covered by Montana motorists easily and comfortably in a matter of hours.

Miami's Race Track.

Hialeah, Miami's famous race track, is maintained the year-around as a public park. The colorful bougainvillea-covered trellis across the paddock side of the grandstand is the world's largest. It measures 400 feet in length and 40 feet in height. There are about 700 flamingos at Hialeah, the largest group on public exhibition anywhere.

WATER EVERYWHERE IN MINNESOTA

Minnesota's slogan, "Land of 10,000 Lakes," is inaccurate but not on the side of exaggeration. An official count gives the state 11,007 lakes, incldng the largest body of fresh water within a single state—Red Lake, which covers 274,994 acres.

There are, in fact, 4,059 square miles of inland water within the boundaries of Minnesota—enough water to inundate Delaware and Rhode Island plus 26,000 miles of rivers, brooks and streams.

All of this water means that the vacationer may find thrilling sport in bringing to boat a battling fish, diving into a body of blue, whipping up waves on water skis or canoeing in the wilderness country of the Superior National Forest.

Two famous water wonders are located in this "North Star" state. Minnehaha Falls in Minneapolis gained fame as the "laughing waters" which inspired Longfellow to write "Hiawatha." Farther north a mighty river has its origin in Lake Itasca. Here the Mississippi starts as a young stream just 15 steps across, then swells with parental pride on a 2552-mile journey to the Gulf.

Water is everywhere in Minnesota, and it goes everywhere. Some place near Hibbing (the United States Geological Survey plans to send an engineer to pinpoint the exact spot) is the only three-way watershed in North America. Theoretically, one raindrop falling on this Continental Divide would split and part would head for the Arctic Ocean, another part would head for the Great Lakes, out the St. Lawrence to the Atlantic Ocean, and the third part would ride down the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico.

It is wise to take a camera along on a Minnesota vacation, since scenic shots abound in all sections of the state. Deserving special mention is the North Shore drive along Lake Superior, where for over 100 miles one may see rugged beauty bordering an inland sea, clear blue set against rocky cliffs or dark forests, and waterfalls oozing out of the uplands.

Popular Holland.

The little land by the North Sea, Holland, grows in tourist popularity each year. In 1954 over a million visitors toured the country, which is only the size of Maryland, seeing its magnificent flowers, beautiful country-side, old towns, new cities, art galleries and canals.

FIESTA OF FLOWERS AT SAN DIEGO AUGUST 13-14

Southern California, often called the Garden Spot of the Nation, will reassert its claim to the title in San Diego Aug. 13-14 with La Mesa's twenty-fourth annual presentation of Fiesta de las Flores.

More than 200 classifications of flowers will be displayed in the La Mesa Chamber of Commerce-sponsored event. Begonia, dahlia, rose and lath house plant growers and many others will compete for trophies and awards in one of the west's most famous and colorful floral shows.

A highlight of the two-day spectacle is the annual parade of flower bedecked floats, bands and marching units to be held Aug. 14.

Rustic Cross.

A rustic cross is erected along the highway north of Reed City, Mich., at the home of the Rev. George W. Bennard, composer of the hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross."

POINTS OF INTEREST IN ALL DIRECTIONS FROM KNOXVILLE

Points of visitor interest lie in all directions from Knoxville, Tenn., hub of the region's tourist travel which has constantly expanded its varied accommodations and services. An hour's drive to the north are three state parks — Cove Lake, Big Ridge and Norris—on the shores of Norris lake. All afford cabins, lodge, boating, fishing and swimming facilities. Privately owned boat docks along the lake shores supply fishing equipment, boats and motors.

Other lakes within a 35 mile radius are Cherokee and Douglas, famous for their black bass fishing, Fort Loudoun and Watts Bar on the main stream of the Tennessee river. Near the last is Watts Bar steam plant, largest power plant in the world, now completing an expansion program and always an attraction to visitors.

A mountain lake with special appeal is Fontana on the border of the Great Smokies and impounded behind the highest dam in the East (480 feet). It has a complete tourist resort, Fontana Village, which has just completed a new swimming pool.

And only 20 miles from Knoxville is Oak Ridge, the atomic city with its massive plants and the unique Museum of Atomic Energy, recently remodeled and expanded.

MR. AND MRS. E. DONALD ROTT

Miss Halbman Becomes Bride

TWO recent graduates of Washington University, Miss Joan Halbman and E. Donald Rott, were married July 23 at Graham Memorial Chapel on the campus. The Rev. Donald H. Stewart performed the ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Michael Halbman Jr., 5474 Loughborough avenue, was attended by Mrs. Richard E. Butler as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Sue Kinney, cousin of the bride; Miss Patricia Anderson, cousin of the bridegroom; Miss Betty Johnson and Mrs. Donald Hiller. The attendants were gowned alike in sky blue lace and taffeta. Mrs. Butler carried a nosegay of pink roses and carnations and wore a wreath of the blossoms in her hair. Flowers for the others were pink roses and blue carnations.

The former Miss Halbman was gowned in white tulle and chantilly lace trimmed at the neckline with pearls. The bouffant skirt appliqued with lace was worn over crinolines and hoops. The bride's veil was held by a pearl-studded crown and her flowers were roses, lilies of the valley and white orchids.

Mr. Rott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Rott, 654 Applewood drive, Kirkwood, had Mr. Butler as best man. Ushers were Gerald Lee, Donald H. Stewart Jr., Donald Polkinghorne, Donald Pollard and Thomas Adams, all members of his fraternity, Phi Delta Theta.

The reception was given at Westborough Country Club. Mr. Rott and his bride are visiting Florida on their wedding trip. They will live in Fort Wayne, Ind., until next April when he will report to Lackland Air Force Base as a second lieutenant.

Heinermann-Thompson Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Larold S. Thompson of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Kay Carol Thompson, to Albert Ralph Heinermann, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Heinermann, former St. Louisans, now live in Fort Lauderdale. The wedding will take place Sept. 9 at First Christian Church in Fort Lauderdale.

At Possum Trot Farm

Afternoon Trips to Old Swimmin' Hole

By Leonard Hall

THERE have been few afternoons during the current hot weather when young Ricky and I, sometimes with Ginnie along, haven't managed to slip down to Saline Creek for a swim. Our "old swimmin' hole" is pint-sized; just right for a boy of 7 and yet deep enough so that his grandfather can float on his back to gaze up through green foliage to white clouds and a red-shouldered hawk sailing across the blue sky. The pool is located at the back of the farm, running down to the north water-gap, and set in a broad spot in the valley so that the current slows to a walk. Big trees grow along the banks; the finest bur and white oaks on the farm, giant sycamores, walnut and one big locust with feathery foliage.

We make no apology for these expeditions to the creek. Our farm day starts at 6 in the morning or sometimes earlier. When we're working in the bottom fields especially, it takes no more than a minute or two at 4 o'clock to get to the stream. We laze for a half-hour in water that is clear and cool enough to ease the day's fatigue and by 5 o'clock are back at the house, refreshed and ready for the evening chores and a couple of hours at the typewriter after supper.

Regardless of the time stolen, however, there's something traditional about swimming in a creek when you live on a farm, have a 7-year-old grandson and the weather is hot. The boy will doubtless learn the most modern swimming techniques from a trained instructor in a regular pool; an experience we missed as youngsters. But from us he can at least learn to dog-paddle and be unafraid of the water—to watch the trees and shoreline for unusual birds and animals—to pick a quart or two of blackberries on the way home to supper. If young Rick's memory is anything like mine, these things will stay with him for a long time.

● I THINK QUITE OFTEN people wonder how we get our work done at Possum Trot, considering the time we spend picnicking. The truth is that, as on any farm, the work is never done. And we go picnicking by utilizing the hours that other people spend at the dinner table and then watching television or going to the movies or the Little Symphony or the ball game. Our favorite places for outings are right here on the farm, so that we can leave the house at 6 o'clock and arrive at the picnic spot by 6:05 at latest. Once there, the wood-pile is ready with a couple of big stones to serve for a fireplace and the rest is as easy as eating at home. This is quite different from when one lives in town and must pack the car for a long trek into the country—or even from the old days when we hitched up the surrey and jogged out to the farm beyond the edge of the village at a sedate four miles an hour. Picnicking in those days was both time-consuming and something of a chore.

One of the chief reasons we like to get out, aside from the relaxation, is that it gives us our best opportunity for sitting quietly to observe what is happening among the birds and other wild things on the farm. It is an odd thing, but the farmer who is by instinct something of a naturalist is the exception rather than the rule. When he does have leanings in this direction, he has both advantages and disadvantages in comparison with the city dweller. On the credit side, many of his waking hours are spent outdoors where interesting things are always happening in the woods and fields. On the debit side, however, these hours outdoors are generally filled to overflowing with tasks to be done. He must finish mowing the clover field, for example, just while the mother bobwhite hatches out her brood and thus a wonderful opportunity for detailed observation is lost.

● THE PROFESSIONAL NATURALIST, or even the amateur, concentrates his time in the field on observation. Many of our friends among the wildlife photographers will spend days in a blind at a single spot in order to get one photograph or a short motion picture sequence. And despite the handicaps, there is an occasional farmer who becomes an expert in the field of natural history. Aldo Leopold tells, for example, of the Criddle brothers, wheat farmers on the broad Manitoba prairie. These two men became so interested in the wild fauna and flora of their ranch in a pioneering country that they eventually were recognized as outstanding authorities on everything from the botany to the wildlife cycles of their part of Canada. In the same way, a rancher in the mountains of New Mexico studied the elusive mountain lion and learned so much about it that he has written two of the most authoritative books on this animal.

Our own conclusion is that observing things in nature closely enough to know, understand and enjoy them is largely a matter of using one's leisure time to this end. In the country we can do this, even when we cannot see the latest play or athletic contest. When one lives in the city, the problem is more difficult.

Very often as we've watched young fox kits playing at the mouth of their den or a hen mallard leading her brood through the marshy shallows, we've wondered whether there isn't more actual sport in studying wildlife and improving the carrying capacity of our land for quail, rabbits, racoon and the rest, then there is in killing them.

The Edens of Downing Street

Prime Minister's Young Wife Prefers Company of Writers, Musicians to That of Titled Bores

First article in a series on Great Britain's Prime Minister and his wife. They deal with the human side of a couple known in England for "miles and miles of official smiles." The author is an American foreign correspondent who has covered the ups and downs of Eden's career for many years.

By George W. Herald

LONDON, July 30.

SIR ANTHONY EDEN is an early worker but not an early riser. Every morning at 7 o'clock sharp, his butler knocks at the bedroom door and brings him: (a) breakfast on a tray, (b) the London Times, (c) the so-called "boxes."

Breakfast usually consists of a cup of tea, two pieces of toast, a fruit, a slice of ham or a kipper. Since his operation two years ago, the Prime Minister has to watch his weight.

The "boxes" are flat scarlet-red leather cases. They carry the Queen's seal and contain messages which have arrived overnight from British embassies abroad. Although Sir Anthony is no longer Foreign Secretary, he still considers international affairs his primary concern.

Propped up against a pillow, the Premier goes through a whole staple of dispatch boxes and does a huge amount of work.

Around 9 a.m., Sir Anthony shaves and dresses. The man he sees in the mirror has little in common with the "diplo-matinee idol" adored by so many Englishmen. He simply cannot understand how people with eyes in their heads can call him the "beau Anthony."

"They must be blind," he sometimes says, pointing at his protruding teeth, his receding chin, his rolling gait and the narrow distance between his brows.

Through his horn-rimmed glasses, he looks to himself like a hopeless case of asymmetry made half-way bearable by his smart mustache. When he learned recently that the magazine "Tailor and Cutter" had named him, for the umpteenth time, one of the 10 best-dressed men of the year, he merely shrugged his shoulders and said:

"I haven't had a new suit in three years."

BY 9:30 the Prime Minister gets himself down to the ground floor office of "Number 10 Downing Street" which he inherited from Sir Winston Churchill. It is a long oak-paneled studio with door windows opening on a small rear garden. Much of the room is filled by a green conference table—at the far end stands Sir Anthony's working desk.

From the moment he sits down behind that desk, life comes into Number 10. He calls in one adviser after the other, talks to Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan over the telephone, gives instructions for cables and plunges into a batch of secret documents with particularly high priority.

"Many people are inclined to attribute Eden's rise to his fair blue eyes," one of his adjutants said. "Nothing could be more erroneous. All he is, I can tell you, he owes to phenomenal capacity for work. He is no proud peacock, as he may often appear to be at parties and political meetings, but rather a sort of mole who will burrow into files up to his ears in order to get to the bottom of a problem.

Another of his confidants admired the "almost monkish self-abnegation" with which Sir Anthony fulfills his official duties.

"The man is completely absorbed by his work," he said. "Even when he doesn't work, he continues to talk shop. His mind virtually never comes to rest."

A chief who asks so much of himself, naturally expects a lot from his subordinates. As a rule, his criticism is mild in form and so is his praise, for he hates exaggerations. But he tolerates neither laziness nor incompetence. If one of his collaborators commits a mistake, the temper Sir Anthony inherited from his father is likely to flare up.

On such occasions it reportedly has happened that leather-bound volumes started flying through the room, but Sir Anthony is the first one to regret such scenes. He apologizes the next morning.

WHEN Parliament is in session, the Prime Minister usually strolls to the House of Commons at noontime. There he lets himself drop on his front bench seat, leans back almost horizontally and stretches his long legs until they come to rest on the speaker's table.

As he lies there with sagging socks—he never wears garters—he looks like the image of total relaxation. He plays with his glasses, inspects his fingernails with a bored air or messages his eyebrows as if he were sitting in a barber's chair.

In reality, he doesn't lose a word of the debate. If something interests him, he will suddenly reach for pen and paper and take notes.

Sir Anthony is not an orator. His baritone hasn't the same volume as Churchill's stentorian voice. He suffers from stage fright before every major address and, although he prepares all his speeches with great care—or perhaps just for that reason—they never cause the slightest commotion.

"When Anthony makes a speech," Churchill once said, "you can be sure it will contain every cliche under the sun."

Eden fares better in Parliament when he puts his notes away and ad libs. Then he becomes dynamic and often disarms his opponents by his biting wit. When Clement Attlee, after his return from Peking, complained that Red China didn't authorize free trade-unions, Anthony got up and inquired softly:

"And in order to find that out, you have traveled 10,000 miles?"

As often as not, there is a cabinet meeting after parliament adjourns for the day. The sessions take place around the green table in Eden's Downing street office.

Sir Winston used to occupy a special armchair with a high carved back at such occasions but, when he resigned, it was presented to him as a gift. His successor contents himself with one of the ordinary green leather chairs in the room.

The seating arrangements have remained the same as under Churchill. The Prime Minister doesn't sit at the head of the table, as one would think, but, like the Lord at the Last Supper, in the middle. To his left sits cabinet secretary Sir Norman Brooks who helps him with the agenda. The ministers place themselves according to rank.

During the meeting, the participants make a point of addressing each other by their official titles. But as soon as the session is closed, Eden may take his Foreign Secretary apart and ask: "Harold, can I talk to you alone for a moment?"

The "moment" has a tendency to last until 3 a.m., and it is in these eye-to-eye conversations that are worked out the globe-circling policies which see to it that Great Britain remains a big power.

ONE night shortly before Eden became Prime Minister, he and his wife had Belgian statesman Pierre-Henri Spaak at their home for dinner.

"The roast beef is delicious," Spaak said during the meal. "My compliments, Madam."

Clarissa Eden looked at the guest in surprise and hid her face in her napkin.

"Thank you, Sir," she finally answered, "but unfortunately I am not responsible for the roast beef. It comes from a restaurant around the corner."

The reply was typical for the young Lady Eden. She makes no effort to hide the fact that she isn't particularly interested in cooking and housekeeping. Before moving to Downing Street, she used to order meals from a nearby restaurant even when she dined alone with her husband.

When the Edens invited friends to dinner, they preferred to take them to the Carlton Club or one of the exclusive Mayfair hotels.

"A girl with marked Bohemian tendencies," Clarissa's uncle Winnie once called his favorite niece. When she still lived in her three-room garconniere high above Regent's Park, the place frequently was in less than applepie order.

One night, for instance, she lost $2000 worth of jewelry to a burglar who found the baubles in a margarine box under the kitchen sink.

No wonder Clarissa got a little scared when she first learned that her husband had finally taken Churchill's mantle.

"People pity Anthony for having to succeed to a genius like Uncle Winnie, but what about me?" she asked.

"How will I ever be able to live up to the standards set by Aunt Clementine?"

SINCE then, Clarissa has started a minor revolution in No. 10 Downing street. Lady Churchill used to run the place in the grand manner, with lots of servants and Old World ceremonial. As Sir Winston had earned much money outside his office, she could afford to entertain lavishly.

In contrast, Lady Eden has to keep within her husband's salary and allowances and neither she nor he care much for big parties. They rather like to spend an evening in a small circle of friends with good conversation around the fireplace.

Thus Clarissa's first objective was to streamline operations in her new home. She reduced the household staff and simplified the service. Stylish waiters, for examples, are no longer needed at informal dinners. Once a plate has been put on the table, the Edens and their guests serve themselves.

LIKE all official homes in England, 10 Downing Street was furnished by the Ministry of Works. Its interiors, while stately, are rather cold and neutral. Lady Eden is still busy trying to give the place a personal note with the aid of flowers, vases, pillows and paintings.

Her good taste was developed in London's Slade School for Fine Arts and, later, through her work as an art reviewer for "Vogue" magazine. She shares Sir Anthony's fondness of French impressionists.

As a young man, Eden wrote a much commented upon monograph of Cezanne. Today he owns two of the master's works, as well as a Corot and several Degas and Derains. Clarissa has spent days putting these canvasses on the walls of No. 10 to their best advantage.

During a recent visit, France's Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay was so enthusiastic about what he saw that he said:

"I am going to make a report to my government. For the first time in history, a British Premier's home has been made a shrine of French culture."

Eden's young wife, whom he married in August, 1952, is a lithsome woman with green blue eyes and reddish blond hair. She measures 5 feet 4, weighs 112 pounds and reminds many people of the movie star Joan Fontaine.

She was named "prettiest deb of the year" when she was presented at Court in 1938.

Obliged to earn a living after the war, she joined "Vogue" and interviewed glamorous people such as Garbo and Orson Welles. Later on, she became an ad copywriter for the publishing house of Wiedenfeld & Nicholson. When movie magazine magnate Alexander Korda offered her a $2800-a-year job as a press agent, she gladly accepted what was considered a plum for a British career girl.

"She was a strange person," her former co-workers say. "One day she would act like a cold-blooded businesswoman and, the next day, she seemed to walk through life as if it were all a romantic dream."

NOT everyone in London was content when this rather unorthodox young woman became mistress of 10 Downing Street last April. Many dowagers resented being socially outclassed by "that horrible blue stocking." At least one widely-known noblewoman refused to come and pay her the customary respects.

Clarissa couldn't have cared less. Her aim is to transform the salons of No. 10 into a meeting place for Britain's arts and letters. She makes no bones about it, that she prefers the company of talented writers or musicians to that of titled bores. Her husband probably feels the same way.

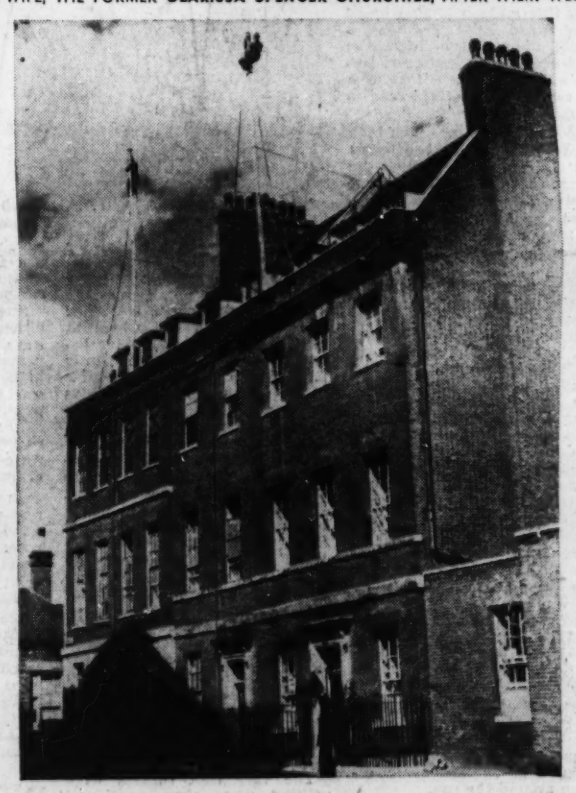

"Downing Street will never be the same," an old butler said, after having overheard Lady Eden and her guests at No. 10 discuss Marlon Brando the other evening, "but it sure will become a livelier place."

Those Eastern High Velocity Turnpikes

By Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

IF you tour your four-wheeled vacation eastward this summer you'll land on the high velocity turnpikes.

That may be an unfamiliar word to some Westerners although it dates from 1793. The first turnpike ran from Philadelphia to Lancaster. It was an oyster shell road dusty as an attic.

How comes it was called a turnpike? Because it was also one of the earliest toll roads. At hungry intervals there was a toll house. In order to stop the apple-knockers galloping by on their mule-motors there was a turn-bar or turnstile across the road.

These lads had only a couple of dollars to spend. So the tinhorn gamblers and cheaters of the big town tagged them pikers.

Many's the time I hitched a ride on the back of a hay-wagon up Lancaster Turnpike. The farmer would be much agitated by the toll-keeper's demand for a nickel on an extra passenger he didn't know he had.

You can get an education getting chased down a turnpike by a studious clover-kicker using a pitchfork for a three-tined bookmark. The minute the farmer chucked the pursuit back we went on the hay-wagon.

THE LAST TIME I was over the Pennsylvania Turnpike we geared off the distance from the Ohio line to the Delaware river in about five hours. It was a run from midnight to early dawn with no stops.

My advice to you is drive carefully and don't become a statistic. If you're on your vacation drive only in the daytime when a dollar kodak doesn't get trachoma of the iris.

Here's another tip on turnpike touring. The wise old tourists go motel-shopping around four in the afternoon. And they don't motel-up too close to the turnpike. You won't either after you've heard those transcontinental trucks roaring up a hill during the night.

Warms Up the British

Miss Dietrich--Pillar Of Fire by Night

By Art Buchwald

LONDON.

MISS MARLENE DIETRICH is now packing them in at the Cafe de Paris, a London nightclub that takes an awful lot of packing to make a package. Business is so good, in fact, that when a stranger enters the club he is stopped at every door and landing with a polite but scornful "Do you have a table reservation, sir?"

MARLENE DIETRICH . . . THE MEANING IS THERE.

The question is asked so many times that you have a feeling there is something special about having a table at the Cafe de Paris. Let us say that they are like any other tables you find in nightclubs, a little shaky on the legs and jammed so tightly together that you keep getting your soda siphon caught in the other fellow's scotch and water.

But as soon as the houselights go down, the band strikes up and a spotlight shines on a long narrow staircase, you begin to realize why it's important to have a table reservation. Miss Dietrich, swathed in yards of material thinner than cobwebs, suddenly appears to the strains of "La Vie en Rose." You immediately buckle your safety belt and wait to see what will happen. Miss Dietrich comes down the stairway slowly. A draft of air starts blowing on her dress and the material goes hither and yon. The women follow the flow of material, while the men keep their eyes glued on Miss Dietrich. You get the feeling that never has a singer owed so much to so few yards of cloth.

Miss Dietrich drifts up to the stage. She breathes into the microphone. We all breathe back. Then she starts to sing. Her voice promises almost as much as her gown. She invites us all to join her for a hazy lazy afternoon. She tells us to see what the boys in the backroom will have, and order her the same. The ice in our drinks starts melting.

● SHE SINGS TO US in French and in German. Some may not understand the lyrics, but the meaning is there. Several of the male patrons try to impale themselves on swizzlesticks, but they are stopped in time. We call for ice, but the waiters have melted away, too.

The room gets hotter. A waiter walks by. "Ice, man!" we say. "Ice, man! Can't you see I need ice?"

"I'm sorry, sir, no service during the act."

● STEAM STARTS POURING from our glass. It is almost a relief when Miss Dietrich, halfway through her program, dashes up the stairs and comes down a minute later to finish in a top hat, white tie and tails.

She lights up a cigarette and takes a puff. We all puff back. She inhales deeply. We do the same. Then she pulls up a chair, sits down and sings "One for My Baby and One for the Road."

Before you know it the 40 minutes are over and, as quickly as Miss Dietrich appeared, she has departed. We are left to stare at our warm drink and the ugly faces of the waiters around us. They don't like our looks either.

We search out Miss Dietrich in her dressing room.

"There's only one thing I'd like to ask you," we say. "How do you make such a quick change from the chiffon to the tux?"

● "IT'S VERY DIFFICULT. First I rush upstairs and into my dressing room. Then I throw off my shoes and then I strip off the gown. I take off my earrings and rings, dry my lips and grab two hairbrushes full of brilliantine and put down my hair. Then I put on socks, shirt, pants and suspenders. The girl gives me my coat, I ring the buzzer for the orchestra, jump into shoes, put on my hat, and I'm ready. The whole thing takes a minute. It has to be fast to be effective. I'm not even out of breath when I come on."

"May I make a suggestion, Miss Dietrich?"

"Yes."

"Would you tell them to put more ice in the drinks? Rather tight in the collar down there, if you get what I mean."

"I'll tell them," she cooed.

We went out and started nibbling on a palm tree in the lobby.

Father and His Baby

PIERRE VAILLARD tells an enchanting tale about a young Parisian who was wheeling his baby son's carriage through the Bois. Sonny was howling with rage. The Parisian kept repeating softly, "Control yourself, Bernard. Just be calm, Bernard."

A child psychologist watched the scene approvingly, and tapped the Parisian on the shoulder. "Congratulations, monsieur," he said warmly, "for keeping your temper so admirably. You know how to handle the little fellow. Gently does it! So he's named Bernard, eh?"

"Not at all," corrected the Parisian. "He's named Andre. I'm Bernard."

Rocketship Is Answer to Solar System Flights, Says Space Authority — 'A Scientific Prophecy'

About Author

ANNOUNCEMENT Friday that the United States plans to launch small, unmanned satellites that would circle the earth at an altitude of between 200 and 300 miles at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour, focuses attention once again on the scientific possibility of interplanetary travel.

The accompanying article, first of a series, discusses the prospect. It is from the book, "The Exploration of Space," published by Harper & Brothers, New York. The author, Arthur Charles Clarke, is chairman of the British Interplanetary Society and is a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society.

Born in Somerset, England, he spent much of his youth tinkering with gadgets, including telescopes. He had been a government auditor for several years when he joined the R.A.F. in 1941, later becoming a flight lieutenant. After working with American scientists on radar equipment he was placed in command of ground control approach for the entire R.A.F. After the war he studied at Kings College, London, receiving a degree with first class honors in physics and chemistry.

By Arthur C. Clarke

THE first difficulty one meets in trying to understand interplanetary flight is the enormous distances. They are so much greater than those we meet in everyday life that they seem meaningless. But this is something that (with practice) can be overcome. As speeds have increased, so our sense of distance has altered.

To begin, let's concentrate on earth and moon alone, ignoring the other planets. Let's reduce space by 1000 to 1. The earth is now a sphere 8 miles in diameter and 240 miles away is the moon, two miles across.

On this scale a human being would be a little less than a twelfth of an inch high, the speed of the fastest aircraft less than a mile an hour, that of a V.2 rocket about three and a half miles an hour.

The twelfth-of-an-inch high man viewing the gulf between earth and moon is in much the same position as an ant trying to picture the size of England.

To bring in the planets, we must alter the scale again, making the man sink far below visibility.

With a reduction of a millionfold, the earth is now 40 feet in diameter, the moon 10 feet across and a quarter of a mile away. The sun is 93 miles away and almost a mile across; 36 and 67 miles from it, respectively, circle Mercury and Venus.

Mercury is 15 feet across, Venus 38—a little smaller than the earth. Beyond the earth's orbit is Mars, 20 feet in diameter and 140 miles from the sun.

Outwards from Mars is a great gulf, empty save for thousands of "asteroids", few of which on this scale are larger than grains of sand. We have to travel 483 miles from the Sun before we meet Jupiter, the largest of all the planets. In our model we would be over 400 feet in diameter, with eleven satellites ranging in size from 15 feet to a few inches across.

Three other points remain to complete the picture:

First, the solar system is not stationary. All the planets are moving and in the same direction around the sun.

Second, almost all the planets lie in or very near the same plane, so that the solar system is virtually "flat", with some exceptions.

Third, the shapes of the orbits are very nearly circular with the sun at the center. Only Mercury, Mars and Pluto depart seriously from this rule, their orbits being elliptical.

This is the family of planets of which our world is a rather junior member.

WE now return to earth which, for a long time, will be the starting point for our voyages and consider the obstacles we must overcome if we wish to leave it. As we ascend from earth, pressure and density of air fall steadily. Greatest height at which men can live permanently is three and a half miles and that requires a long period of adaptation.

This absence of atmosphere affects machines, also. Airplanes are air-burning devices, require atmosphere for support. Wings and airscrews are useless in a vacuum. The limit to which conventional aircraft can ever operate is between 10 and 15 miles.

It might be thought that because earth's atmosphere is so relatively shallow that it could be ignored so far as interplanetary flight is concerned. That is not the case. It sets a limit to the speed we can develop near earth's surface but it offers a means of making a safe landing on the return.

This thin blanket of air, without which life would be impossible, is held tightly to earth by the force of gravity. Of all natural forces, gravity is the most universal and it dominates any discussion of space-flight. With increasing altitude it slowly diminishes, though so slowly that even at the greatest height yet reached by rocket (250 miles) it still has 90 per cent of its value at sea level.

As the distance from the earth lengthens into thousands of miles, the reduction becomes substantial: 12,000 miles up, a one-pound weight would weigh only an ounce. It follows, therefore, that the farther away one goes from the earth the easier it is to go onwards. (A practical example of the saying that nothing succeeds like success.)

Leaving the earth is rather like climbing a hill which at first is very steep but later becomes more and more gentle until finally it is almost flat.

If we hope to build spaceships we must bear in mind two fundamentals:

FIRST, any method of propulsion which depends on atmosphere will be useless. Second, even if we have a device which can produce thrust in an airless vacuum, our ship must be provided with enough energy to fight its way outward for thousands of miles against the pull of earth's gravity.

The first condition is easily fulfilled. The second — the energy problem—is by far the more serious. Yet even that can be solved without invoking any new and fundamental discoveries.

The means is already at hand. It is the rocket.

The very first rockets were nothing more than cardboard tubes packed with gunpowder, the tube sealed at one end and having a small choke or nozzle at the other through which the hot gases escaped.

Many large and powerful rocket motors are still designed on this principle. They have the advantage of extreme simplicity, but once the propellant has been ignited there is no way of controlling it: the rocket will go on operating until all the fuel has been burned.

The newer type of rocket, of which V2 is the most important example, is considerably more complicated but also capable of much higher performances. Instead of using solid propellants stored and burned in the same container, it uses liquid fuels which are kept in separate tanks and forced, by pumps or other means, into a carefully designed combustion chamber.

Such a system, despite the additional engineering it involves, has several advantages: most important of all, it gives much higher exhaust velocities than can be obtained with solid or powder fuels.

In addition liquid propellant rockets are controllable. The thrust can be regulated as in an ordinary engine.

In a design for a proposed man-carrying rocket, the pilot sits in a pressurized cabin at the nose: this is fitted with its own parachute. It would be separated from the main body of the rocket during the descent.

We dwellers on the Earth's surface, as we look up at the planets and wonder how we can reach them, are in rather the same position as people at the bottom of a perfectly smooth pit or funnel 4000 miles deep, set in the surface of an endless, flat plain.

BEFORE we can think of traveling to other worlds, we have to climb out of this pit. The horizontal plain represents gravitationless space which, once we have reached it, we could then navigate forever with no further expense of energy.

This is an oversimplification, for we have ignored the gravity fields of the Sun and the other planets; but we can forget these, if we are only considering the journey from Earth to Moon.

This "gravitational pit" is shown in cross-section in the drawing that accompanies this chapter, and an enlarged view of what might be called its lower slopes is given on the right of the diagram. Imagine that it is made of some smooth, hard material like perfectly frictionless glass, and consider what would happen if a body—say a marble—were propelled up its slope at a certain initial speed. Quite clearly, it would rise until its velocity had been reduced to zero, when it would start to fall back again, eventually returning to its starting level at the speed with which it began. The heights which would be reached by bodies starting at (a) 5000, (b) 10,000 and (c) 15,000 m.p.h. are shown in the figure.

IT is obvious that there will be one critical speed at which the body will never come back, but will creep over the top of the crater, as it were, and reach the horizontal level (d). This velocity is 25,000 m.p.h. and is called "the velocity of escape." If a body started upwards with more than this critical speed, it would still retain the excess as a bonus when it escaped from the pit.

The speed necessary to move in such an orbit near the earth's surface is 18,000 m.p.h., and this is called "circular velocity." Other similar orbits are shown at (f) and (g).

These are by no means the only possibilities that exist. Look, for example, at orbit (h). This is the path of a body which was projected horizontally at (g) but with insufficient speed to maintain itself. It fell downwards, gaining speed as it did so, until it had picked up enough speed to climb upwards again and retrace its orbit. Its path is thus not a circle, but an ellipse.

We can sum up these results, then, as follows: a body projected away from the Earth will escape from it completely if its speed is over 25,000 m.p.h.

If its speed is less than this, it may either fall back again or, if it is aimed in the correct direction, it may continue to orbit the Earth indefinitely in a circular or elliptical path. For the circular orbit nearest to the Earth, the necessary speed is 18,000 m.p.h.

A rocket which attained this velocity in horizontal flight, if it was just outside the atmosphere and so beyond the reach of air resistance, would circle the world forever like a second moon.

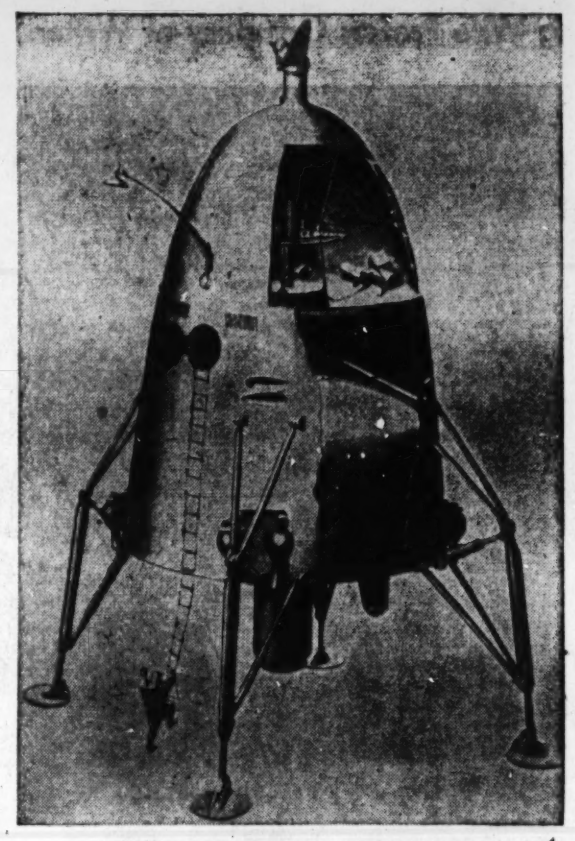

Twenty-five thousand miles per hour! It is of course a speed far greater than anything achieved by man or by any man-made object. But it no longer seems as fantastic as it did even a decade ago. In 1940 no rocket had ever traveled more than a thousand miles per hour but by 1950 the record was five times this.

Can this advance be expected to continue? Will the further five-fold increase we require be reached by 1960?

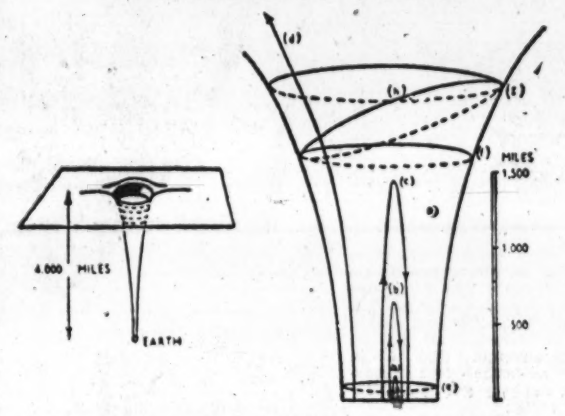

One proposal is the multi-stage or "step" rocket. It will be obvious that if we build a rocket capable of carrying a certain payload, and make that payload another rocket carrying the same percentage of fuel, when the smaller machine has burned its fuel it will have achieved twice the speed that either rocket could do by itself. Moreover, this process may be repeated: there is no need to stop at two stages. If we build a rocket with a sufficient number of steps, any desired terminal speed may be achieved.

Modern Marriage

How to End Romance

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

MANY a man, to his great regret, marries a girl he doesn't love because, after becoming involved during courtship, he doesn't know how to break it off. Others do a crude and even cruel job of ending an association with girls they don't want to marry. Fred is in this situation and wants, quite properly, to step aside so he and Mildred can find happiness elsewhere.

"But I don't know how to get away," he complains. "I don't want to hurt Mildred—she's an old friend of our family and really a fine girl, even though not the girl for me. But she clings to me, and I'll have to admit that I don't know how to break loose."

Almost every man has faced this problem at one time or another and the solutions that most of them find are no credit to them. Perhaps the commonest is to simulate a quarrel and quit. It's childish—it's caddish. Any smart girl sees through it.

THE SECOND most common device is to stay away with the explanation that business ties you up. Any smart girl knows this is a lie; and it's a particularly offensive lie. It's no compliment to tell a girl that she is less interesting and important than a service station or an adding machine.

Any decent and honest course for a man in your position ought to benefit the girl, not harm her. I'm sure you agree, Fred. Your best move is to turn to your own profit a mistake that others have found to be disastrous in their own cases. Many a fellow has introduced his girl to his best friend and had to stand by and see her marry that friend. He didn't desire such an outcome. The difference is that you do. In short, transfer her to some other man.

For this purpose, begin to make double dates and group dates. Ask her to go with some other man, to whom you introduce her, on some occasion when you can't go. Take her into organizations and groups where she'll meet others, and give her a chance.

VERY LIKELY she'll recognize your motives; but she may welcome them. Perhaps she senses that you want to get away, and is merely clinging to you for lack of something better. Give her something better—that is, something better for her purpose, which is matrimony.

Answer to Questions.

Q. Is it all right to marry a girl if I love her but am suspicious of her—don't trust her?

A. Of course not, but the first thing is to find out whether you ought to marry at all. If you are so suspicious by nature that you can't trust anybody, no girl should marry you.

Q. Girl, jilted, almost immediately fell in love with another man. Isn't this an evidence of shallowness?

A. On the contrary, it might be proof of really mature adult feeling—assuming that it was not merely a rebound. Brooding useless over the past is evidence of lack of maturity.

Q. Do you think the average woman is particularly eager to have her husband with her at the birth of a baby?

A. Doubtful. Obstetrician A. Bacon noted that when women in childbirth call for someone, "the one they most commonly call for is their mother. You rarely hear a woman calling for her husband." Modern mothers who have studied "natural childbirth," usually want their husbands; and I think it's a good experience for the husband. What's your opinion?

Secrets of Charm

Gloves for a Band-Box Look

THE wife of an important political figure has made quite a reputation for herself for being well-dressed. Especially because of the fresh and charming appearance she makes with her husband on his speaking tours, which sometimes requires her being presented to several audiences a day.

"It's all done with white gloves," she answered when asked how she manages on a hectic schedule. "I take along stacks of them, and even when I can't change from the dress I've been wearing, or must wear one that there's no time to repress, a fresh pair of white gloves saves the day."

THIS IS AN IDEA for you when you're traveling and want to look your best at a short stopover, and counting on gloves for a band box look is a good idea at any time. That a lady would not wear a certain kind and color for each occasion was unthinkable in great-grandmother's day.

We're less concerned with complicated glove etiquette now, but perfectly cared-for gloves always will be essential to a well-dressed appearance. And wear your gloves, please. Gloves contribute nothing unless they are on your hands, and detract when they are limp and wrinkled from being carried.

MORE GLOVE TIPS: Always wear long gloves as they are intended to be worn. Never remove the hand part and tuck it into the part of the glove that covers your arm.

AN IDEA FOR THAT SPECIAL BAND-BOX LOOK.

Put on your gloves indoors. Don't be seen tugging them on in the street. Wear simple gloves that take an unobtrusive place in a costume rather than fancy ones which may be distraction. Handsewn cotton gloves are becoming more and more acceptable for varied wear.

Designing Woman

Modern Dining Room

By Elizabeth Hillyer

IS today's dining room a misfit? Is it completely off-beat as far as the contemporary living room is concerned?

A man who is quite a power in this home furnishings business recently came right out and took a stand against the dining room as it is rapidly coming back. He says he was much happier when he ate and entertained at dinner in one end of the living room.

There's something about a dining room, he says, that puts stuffy ideas in people's heads. Out comes touch-me-not china and linen, on comes service that's too much for the hostess, and above all, faced is the stern dictatorship of straight-backed chairs that keep everyone stiff in the spinal column and minding his manners.

AFTER a delightful session of lolling on the comfortable living room furniture, he continues, and splashing a bit on the damage-proof topped tables, dinner is announced. Then, he insists, all genial informality stops, and comfort and easy conversation stops with it.

He admits he isn't able to whip the problem at once, but believes dining furniture should be more like the living room's. The chairs should be designed so the diner can move around and unfold his legs to help him flex his mind. And so he can turn about and lean back to take more ease in the interest of stepping up the dinner table conversation. How, he asks, can people be at their best when they're lined up stiffly like soldiers?

HE THINKS it might be wise to use small tables in the dining room each to seat three, as many as are needed for the gathering. There would be more room around them to move in, for the seated person and the person serving.

The point, of course, is that we're achieving a happy way of living today that has its own high standards but is easy, and he thinks the dining room isn't following along.

Remember when teen-agers used to make the Paramount Theater rock by dancing in the aisles during the stage show? There's a new trend now: they get right into the act. During Joni James one-nighter at Asbury Park's Convention Hall (a record-breaker), half a dozen youngsters climbed onto the stage while she was singing to ask for autographs.

Marilyn Clark, the featured singer in the Versailles show, got her job in typical Hollywood-scenario fashion. She was passing by the East Side cafe one afternoon a few weeks ago, noticed a group of girls going in for auditions, and joined them. Although Marilyn had never warbled professionally before, she bravely sang a couple of numbers for the bosses and was hired on the spot.

Gotham's heat wave is affecting the turnover in the Broadway cinema palaces. Theater managers notice that suffering midtowners have been checking into the air-conditioned havens right after dinners and sleeping through two complete shows.

Fisherman's Luck

By Christopher Billopp

ONE cannot expect to catch fish unless one goes about it the right way. A start should be made during the winter by reading up on the fundamental principles.

A serious fisherman should have the right sort of rod and reel and line. He should select his lures and bait with care. He should not consider the cost, even if it means denying other members of his family.

Naturally, he should go where the fish are. This will, no doubt require a long journey, entailing no little expense.

Perhaps a guide will be needed. But if not, at least the advice must be obtained by someone familiar with the fishing ground. Such ground will be beyond the range of a rowboat or canoe. In fact, a person could not call himself a serious fisherman if he does not have an outboard motor to carry him to the point where the fish are to be found.

AN OUTBOARD MOTOR CAN, no doubt, be rented for a price. Or one may be bought second hand. It would be surprising if it did not balk when called on to do its job. The serious fisherman, therefore, should have a fundamental knowledge of mechanics so as to keep from being stranded.

Although these preparations have been made and the directions have been carefully followed, still no fish may be caught. There can be no guarantee that they will be biting on the day chosen for the sport.

EVEN THOUGH he may have tried a dozen promising places, it is possible he will return home at the close of the day with nothing to show for it. That is part of the sport.

However, it is asking too much of him to accept misfortune with good grace when, during his absence, a boy with a bamboo pole and hook and worm, fishing off the dock, lands a whopper.

People-Watcher Out at the Zoo

CANNIFF WITH DONALD ATWOOD AND MARTHA SIDNER. THEY ARE NOT LOST, JUST TIRED, AND THE POLICEMAN, WHO LIKES KIDS, IS COMFORTING THEM.

That's the Job of Policeman Vincent Canniff, and He Often Sees a Lot More Than People Who Go Out to Watch Animals

By John Keasler

VINCENT CANNIFF is the people-watcher at the Zoo. His job works like this: The people go out to watch the animals and Canniff goes out to watch the people.

Canniff is the policeman on the Zoo beat and his job would leave a lesser man frustrated and whimpering in the shade of a reticulated giraffe.

However, now in his seventh summer on the Zoo job, Canniff, a big Irishman, pursues his widely varied duties with quiet efficiency and calmly takes things as they come up. And boy, do they come up.

"I've lost him, I've lost him!" a frantic woman shrieked to Canniff the other day, wringing her hands as she yowled to the heavens. "He's all I have and I've lost him!"

Canniff, skilled at finding lost children—as many as 25 little darlings per Sunday get lost and found—attempted to soothe the woman, and asked, "What does he look like? How old is he?"

"He'll be 39 in August," the woman wailed. This misplaced, cherished male proved to be her husband, the only one she had, and he was found bearing up bravely some 20 feet away; the reunion was a moving study in something or other.

Actually, Canniff finds, the people who give the least trouble at the Zoo are the children, even the lost ones; they, more often than not, take the self-possessed stand that there's no use in getting excited just because parents—a strange breed, anyhow—decided to vanish in thin air.

"My daddy's lost," announced one small boy.

"What's your name?" Canniff asked.

"Wilberforce Grantland Hepplewhite the Third," the little boy replied, as nearly as Canniff could recall the actual tongue-twisting name.

Canniff winced slightly, but the boy came to the rescue. "That's my real name," he said, "but my daddy calls me Jughead."

Sure enough, little Jughead and Daddy Syllable-syllable found one another with Canniff's help.

AFTER finding hundreds of lost kids, or parents, the policeman has developed a knack along this line which sometimes seems to border closely on pure instinct. In reality, however, the factor is Canniff's highly trained eye and his policeman's power of observation.

If you're a regular, or even a fairly frequent, Zoo-goer it's odds-on Canniff knows you by sight. If you happen to be a pickpocket by profession, it's a sure thing he does. It's only on Sunday he works in uniform; weekdays he's a plainclothesman, and an important part of his job is keeping undesirables away from the Zoo. He's got mental files, cross-indexed.

He also has a lot of experience. Although only 41 years old he's been with the police department some 25 years now, starting as a 16-year-old working around the police garage. He lives at 1380 Louisville avenue.

In the winter months he's on a Newstead District beat around the neighborhood of the Manchester Bank. Each year, around mid-May when the Zoo's animal shows begin, he is transferred to the Zoo and works that detail until about mid-October, when the shows close.

The show arenas are where he can be found, usually, at any given time a show is playing—that's where the largest crowds are, and crowds are Canniff's business, a business which consists of straightaway law enforcement, baby-chaser, guide, first-aid giver and walking authority on everything.

When in plainclothes he dresses informally, in slacks and colorful sport shirt, and stands around as unobtrusively as a 230-pound, over-six-footer can. Although he appears easy-going and relaxed, his gaze goes over the mass of spectators in a precise, back and forth pattern.

It's a gaze which doesn't startle easily, but one day Canniff's roving eye jolted to a sharp halt and executed a double take. A fox terrier had stuck its head out of the shirt front of a dignified looking individual who was watching the chimp show impassively. The man pushed the dog's head back into his shirt.

Canniff, making his way to the dog-owner, said, "About that dog inside your shirt, sir. Dogs are not allowed in the Zoo grounds."

"Is that so?" inquired the man, with bland innocence, unperturbed by what appeared to be his wiggling abdomen. "I didn't know that."

Canniff see his share of odd characters at the Zoo and practically all of them are on the people's side of the bars. For instance, there was this bearded individualist who either was a Hindu or found an inner peace in dressing up like one—anyhow, flowing beard and all, he was a daily sight at the Zoo, following an unvarying routine.

Head down and striding briskly he would enter the Zoo grounds each day, circle all the walkways conscientiously, cover the entire grounds and depart—never pausing and never looking at anything, people or animals. Canniff sometimes feels that fellow might have had a point there.

THEN there was the briefcase carrier. He looked fully as important as any given briefcase carrier, as he strolled about, aloofly, a man with a mission. His mission was filling up his briefcase with discarded popcorn, bread crusts and the like.

Then he would sit on a bench, unzip his briefcase and feed the swans the contents. He hasn't been around lately. Maybe he's gone into retirement.

The more people Canniff watches, the more they puzzle him. One Sunday, when he was obviously busy, a mother of a small child handed him a baby bottle and instructed him, "Go warm this."

Officer Canniff went backstage of the refreshment stand and warmed the baby's bottle, in the prescribed droplet-wrist heat test.

Another time, a woman announced she had lost her change purse. It contained 20 cents, her carfare. Canniff dug down and gave her a quarter. She accepted it, walked away, then remembered her manners.

"When you find the purse, young man," she said, regally, "you may keep the 20 cents for yourself."

"Thank you, ma'am," he said.

One thing that puzzles Canniff more than perhaps any single factor connected with his job is the reaction of some parents to his finding their lost child.

Not only do these people—a small percentage, because most parents are overwhelmingly grateful—fail to say a simple "thank you"—they seem angry at Canniff.

"They snatch the child away and glare at me like it was all my fault," Canniff said. "I just can't figure that out."

HE recalled what might be the local record for child-losing.

"I remember this woman with five youngsters," Canniff said. "She lost the first one fairly early. I found him. She lost the next one before lunch. I found him. By mid-afternoon she had lost every one of those kids, one at a time, and was so tired she was about to drop. So was I.

"I said, 'Look, lady. For your sake and mine—don't you think it's about time you gave up and went home?'"

Then, there is the casual approach to child losing; Canniff has decided there is a certain method to this misplacement.

"Officer, my child seems to be lost," a woman told him near closing time.

"How long since you've seen him?"

"Oh," she said, glancing at her watch. "About five hours or so."

The idea here—and it's practiced all the time on Canniff—that at the close of a weary day it's much easier for the cop to find Junior than to look for Junior personally. In some instances, Junior turns out to be as tall as Canniff. Canniff finds it difficult to put his heart into looking up "lost" teen-agers, who might be lost and again may have decided to drop downtown and shoot a couple of games of snooker.

However, in valid "lost child" cases, Canniff, father of a four-year-old, has the deepest compassion; knows exactly what to do and does it with dispatch.

On the one hand he calms Mommy as best he can, although sometimes she is enraged because he doesn't race away and call out the National Guard. Then, if necessary, he telephones points around the Zoo, alerts employes to be on the lookout for little Gwendolyn, age 5, wearing a red dress and white sandals and a blue ribbon in her hair.

Then he starts looking; finds Gwendolyn simply by knowing how and where to look. Odds are she turns out to have on a green playsuit and red sandals. Fathers are the worse about failing to remember what offspring are wearing.

WHEN Canniff first came on the Zoo job, seven years ago, it's a wonder he didn't end up a heat case.

"I would race up and down these hills all day long," he said. "Each lost kid meant a full circle for me. Boy, that was too much. I soon learned a lot more can be accomplished with a little planning."

Even now, though, Canniff covers a lot of ground these hot days; hardly ever sits down, moves from show to show.

He carries ammonia pills in his pocket for fainting cases, and a headful of knowledge about what to do in event of accident. He also has a gift—polished during his police clerk days—of knowing how to fill in an accident report with a concise, no-question-unanswered accuracy that is the joy of the Zoo's administrative personnel.

He likes the Zoo beat. It has its headaches, but it has its laughs; people-watching usually does.

Although he attends more animal shows than any other man in St. Louis, or maybe anywhere else, he seldom notices the antics on the arena stage.

"I'm too busy keeping an eye on the public," he said. "Man, that public!"

"I lost my dime," a small boy bemoaned to Canniff.

"Where?" he said. "Where did you lose it?"

"Right out there," the little boy said, waving vaguely at several acres. Several acres loaded with public. Canniff trudged away, wiping his neck with a handkerchief.

Flaming Youth in Action

By Stan Delaplane

SAN FRANCISCO.

I HAVE been thinking that youth is more thoughtful these days than when I was doing the thinking.

I cannot remember much of what I thought about during my salad days. But I remember it was mighty important stuff. There was a good deal wrong with the world and most of it I could have fixed. If people had listened.

I went on thinking youthful and intelligent thoughts for years.

One day I was introduced to a pretty teen-age girl.

She stood up when I came in the room and said: "How do you do, sir. You're a great friend of my father, aren't you?"

She stood each time I came in the room until my joints cracked and my hair grew grayer. It occurred to me that youth was over and I have done little big thinking since then. To them from failing hands, I threw the torch. . . .

Well, I can report that youth has taken over. Four thousand teen-agers conventioned recently and adopted a new Ten Commandments. I do not know what was wrong with the old Ten. Possibly they had no TV possibilities.

ANYWAY, the kids wrote some new ones. Snappy numbers with a little flavor of soap ads:

"Stop and think before you drink."

"Don't let your parents down; they brought you up."

"Choose a date who would make a good mate."

The other evening I went over to Rancho Del Monte Country Club in the Carmel Valley of California to see if flaming youth burned brightly.

Rancho Del Monte is set in the warm valley between the coastal hills. It has quite a youthful clientele, having a juke box, an excellent swimming pool and a small wading pool where small fry cannot drown in case you are baby sitting.

On this particular evening, there was a teen-age dance.

The dancers were just limbering up. The girls dancing with each other while the boys stood gawkily on the sidelines wondering what to do with their hands.

This is a frightful age for a boy. Because all the girls are already in business, their business being boys. When there are no boys around, the girls dance dreamily by themselves.

ON THIS EVENING, however, the girls were in party dresses and were being very grown up.

When I came in, they gave me a curious look. Apparently wondering what this person was doing doddering around out of bed after nine o'clock.

If they were thinking important thoughts, it did not show. They partnered up and danced, a hesitating sort of trip done at arm's length. There was no clutching the partner as in the days when your correspondent graced the elegant dance floors.

The boy and girl simply held hands, one hand. Looked pretty good, too.

In the interests of research, I listened to a little of the conversation.

A girl named Martha, it seemed, would not be there. She had to baby sit her small brother and it was a heart-breaking tragedy.

Somehow, I got the impression that the girls were just as happy to have Martha out of circulation.

A girl named Phyllis was MAAAaaad about a boy named Jack. "He goes to COLLEGE."

Well, kids, when you get a man around who goes to COLLEGE! Well, you go simply MAAaaaad! I mean, really!

I SHOULD REPORT that no thoughtful teen-ager came around and gave me advice from the Ten. Such as "Be humble enough to obey. You will be giving orders yourself one day."

Nor did anyone ask me to choose a date who would make a good mate.

I simply sat in the corner and sipped my lemon extract and wondered what had happened to the years.

It was very pleasant in the warm valley evening. And as a matter of fact, I used to do a little dancing up around these parts myself. Big Apple. Black Bottom. Lambeth Walk. Hoy!

Thinking too, though I can't remember exactly what it was.

Casals Interview A Highlight Today

PABLO CASALS, generally regarded as one of the foremost musicians of his time, will be heard in a filmed interview on KSD-TV at 4 this afternoon. The film was made in Prades, France, the Pyrenees town to which the Spanish cellist fled in self-imposed exile when it became clear that General Franco's forces would win Spain's civil war. In today's program, Casals will review his life and work in a conversation with the American cellist, Madeline Foley, a former student.

PABLO CASALS . . . TO BE INTERVIEWED ON KSD-TV THIS AFTERNOON.

From 2:30 to 4 this afternoon, KWK-TV will present films of the opening of Disneyland Park as it was telecast over the ABC-TV network two weeks ago. Disneyland is Walt Disney's magical kingdom on a 160-acre tract near Anaheim, Calif. Today's program will include visits to Frontierland, Tomorrowland and Fantasyland, peopled by such characters as Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse and Pinocchio. The regular Disneyland program on KWK-TV at 5:30 this afternoon will be Monsters of the Deep.

Star Tonight, on KWK-TV at 2 this afternoon, will star Nancy Devlin in "My Kewpie Doll." Miss Devlin was born in St. Louis, her actor parents known on the stage as Stephen Ellsworth and Terry Shannon.

A new Waterfront series, starring Preston Foster, will start on KWK-TV at 10 tomorrow night.

KSD-TV at 5 Saturday afternoon will present Batter Up, Mr. President, a special program to encourage more young Americans to participate in athletics in order to improve physical standards and curb juvenile delinquency.

Alberghettis on Variety Hour

Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy will be hosts on the Variety Hour on KSD-TV from 7 to 8 tonight. Principal guests will be the musical Alberghetti family—father Daniele, mother Dittoria, singing sisters Anna Marie and Carla, and brother Paulo.

Patti Andrews, one of the Andrews Sisters; comedian Jack E. Leonard, and the Sinclair and Spaulding dance team will be among guests on the Frankie Laine Time on KWK-TV at 7 Wednesday night.

Audrey and Jayne Meadows, Johnny Desmond and Jackie Miles will be Arthur Murray Party guests on KSD-TV at 7:30 Tuesday night. Dancer Mary Ellen Terry will be Donald O'Connor's guest on KSD-TV at 8:30 Saturday night.

MARY ELLEN MILES . . . DONALD O'CONNOR GUEST SATURDAY NIGHT.

Leonard Hall of Possum Trot Farm, whose articles appear in the Post-Dispatch, will be heard on KETC at 10 Friday night in the first of four programs on how to plan and carry out a float trip on the Current River.

It's Magic, a new CBS program featuring the latest in legerdemain, will start on KTVI at 6 this evening, with Paul Tripp as host.

Programs in Color

On the morning Home Show on KSD-TV Monday through Friday, the 10:45 to 11 portion will be in color each day this week. The colorcasts will cover a variety of subjects, including fashions and jewelry displays. Other KSD-TV color programs this week will include an educational film, "The Eager Minds," at 2 Saturday afternoon; an agricultural film on fruits at 2:30 Saturday; the Vaughan Monroe programs at 6:30 Tuesday and Thursday and the Matt Dennis show at 6:30 Wednesday.

Winners of the U.S. Air Force world-wide talent contest will be seen in their own musical production, "Tops in Blue," on Ed Sullivan's show on KWK-TV at 7 tonight.

Phil Houghton, experimental test pilot, will be interviewed on "The Sonic Boom" on Louise Munsch's Just for Women program on WEW at 11:30 tomorrow morning.

Cashes In on Coat Hangers

Dorsey Connors Making TV Fortune Out of Gadgets

By Virginia Kachan

Chicago, July 30 (INS) THE man who built a better mouse trap has nothing on Chicago's glamorous redhead, Dorsey Connors.

She has beaten a path to thousands of television watchers' homes by building gadgets out of things most people throw away—chiefly wire coat hangers.

Before she started bending and cutting coat hangers with pliers and shears for TV audiences, she was drawing $30 a week interviewing personalities. She estimates her yearly income at $70,000 for 1954 and at $85,000 for 1955.

Miss Connors, besides this original show, also produces and serves as commentator on an "Armchair" travel show five days a week. Both are beamed only at the Chicago area, but she is seen nationally as the Midwest editor of the National Broadcasting Company's "Home" show.

DORSEY has twisted the hangers into scores of objects—basketball hoops, butterfly nets, fish-shaped wall decorations, snack table frames, picnic forks, flower pot holders and earring trees, to mention a few.

The hanger tricks by no means cover her repertoire of do-it-yourself ideas but she is so closely identified with them that she gets mail addressed simply to the "wire coat hanger girl."

And, although many women might be offended at being linked so inseparably to a coat hanger, Dorsey terms that identification "the best thing that ever happened to me."

She considers the coat hangers so important to her career that her letterheads are marked with them. The screen in front of her living room fireplace is outlined with outsize hangers—the only rustic note in an otherwise swank near North Side apartment. And all of her 11 weekly, five-minute TV programs are opened with a picture of a coat hanger tied with a ribbon bow.

DORSEY CONNORS . . . SIMPLE IDEA RUNS SALARY FROM $30 A WEEK TO $85,000 A YEAR.

MISS CONNORS' fans have sent her hundreds of ideas in the five and one-half years she has been showing them how to make other uses out of hangers and such things as tin cans and empty milk cartons.

But, she said in an interview, her best source is still a woman on whom she has relied from the beginning—her mother, the wife of Illinois State Senator William J. Connors (Dem.), Chicago. She said:

"Mother thinks up most of the ideas and we test them to see that they actually work before demonstrating them on television."

Besides two women assistants, Miss Connors also has the help—behind the scenes—of her daughter by a former marriage, 16-year-old Stephanie, whenever the girl is free of school work.

Miss Connors has been demonstrating gadgetry and household hints on TV since 1949 and has compiled so many that her ideas have been published in book form. But her multiple role in television keeps her so busy she has no time to use the gadgets herself in her own home. She said:

"I can't think of anything nicer than settling down some day in a small cottage and using the gadgets I've been showing people how to make on TV."

Prison Visit On Schedule For Monitor

VISITS to the Federal Youth Authority, a prison for juvenile delinquents at Ashland, Ky., will be among features on Monitor on KSD today and tonight. Starting at 2:30 this afternoon, there will be periodic visits to the prison. Also on Monitor, at 2 this afternoon and at later periods, will be broadcasts from the Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood.

A program on the Community Chest will be heard on It's Our Town on KWK at 10 tonight.

Jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald, pop singer Don Cherry, mezzo-soprano Gloria Lane and The Chordettes will be heard on "What's New in Music" on KMOX at 4:30 this afternoon. Victor Young will be the conductor in the absence of vacationing Percy Faith.

Family Theater on KWK at 9:30 tonight will star Jack Haley as a writer who wants to revise fairy tales to make them milder and less frightening. Debra Paget will be the program hostess.

Television Letter Box

PLEASE accept our deepest gratitude for bringing to the American public one ray of truth concerning life behind the Iron Curtain on the Video Theater production of "Desperate Glory" on KSD-TV. Having lived behind the Iron Curtain, and having escaped to freedom, we are always delighted to find that the American people do differentiate between international communism and its victims—the Russian people. If more plays with such excellent portrayals as in "Desperate Glory" were presented, showing the inhuman conditions under which the people live, and the great necessity for us to unite with them in our one common fight against communism, then Russia would surely win its freedom and America preserve its own.

LUCY ZIEMELIS

Thanks to both KSD-TV and KWK-TV for the musical shows, especially the new dance band programs. Also thanks for "Little Rascals" and "Laurel and Hardy" movies for children (also enjoyed by adults). We turn off crime shows entirely, and although cowboy movies are aimed at children, some youngsters aren't taught that adults don't settle their differences with guns and fighting. However, 90 per cent of your programs are wonderful.

As Crosby Sees It

'Ethel and Albert' Always Stays Fresh

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, July 30.

I DON'T know how Peg Lynch does it. She's been turning out "Ethel and Albert," first as a radio, then as a television show, for what seems like generations now; and the stuff seems as fresh as ever. Partly this is because Miss Lynch, who writes as well as stars in the series, can get an awful lot of mileage out of some very small crises.

Most of the crises that befall this married couple are pretty tiny ones, and they meet them with a sort of deadpan innocence that gives the show its chief charm. In one fairly typical one, Ethel gets herself all tangled up trying to figure out the name of a tune some workman is whistling in the street. Pretty soon she has got a very reluctant Albert wracking his brains, too.

And when they can't manage it, they call the workman in and he doesn't know the name of the tune either. So the workman calls his wife to see if she knows. "No, I haven't been drinking," says the workman over the phone. "Well, I was whistling and this lady wanted to know . . . well, the lady who owns this house" and then, of course, the poor guy is in real trouble.

NANCY DEVLIN . . . FORMER ST. LOUIS GIRL IN PLAY ON KWK-TV TODAY.

FROM SUCH SLENDER threads, Miss Lynch can suspend a whole half hour of fragile domestic comedy which generally hinges on the inescapable differences between men and women, differences which are by no means eradicated by years of married life. I'm especially amused by the way Ethel and Albert can each pursue their own quite different thoughts aloud at the same time, each only dimly aware of the other's.

Another of the pleasanter aspects of the show (KWK-TV, 8:30 p.m. Monday) is the fact that practically everyone in it is terribly nice and by simply being nice they get themselves into trouble. Like that workman getting in dutch with his wife just because he was trying to help out Ethel and Albert.

Miss Lynch also has a keen ear for that utterly inane conversation that people indulge in when they can't think of anything else to say and—well, they can't just stand there.

"Been a nice day."

"Yes, hasn't it?"

"Very nice day. Well, pretty soon it'll be fall."

"And then—winter."

OF ALL THE married couples on the air—and heaven knows there are quite a collection of them—Ethel and Albert seem most to resemble people who might live down the block. With all due respect for Miss Lucille Ball, you know all along that she is an actress. With Miss Lynch and Alan Bunce who plays Albert, you think they'd be anything but actors—which is a very skillful form of acting in its own right.

Sid Caesar can't be taking much of a vacation. It's true he isn't on the screen any more, but he must be spending all his time in the wings coaching his summer replacements in how to play Sid Caesar. Everybody on the summer replacement show—even the girls—seem to be playing Caesar for all it's worth.

Same tricks, same mannerisms, same exaggerated postures and facial contortions and also, I'm afraid, pretty much the same material. Not that it's bad material—it isn't. But it's the same sort of material and I think that's a little short-sighted. Partly the idea of a summer hiatus is to give the comics a rest, but at least partly the idea is to give the audience a rest, too.

When the big man returns in the fall and appears in a bunch of sketches which closely resemble those that Sandra Deel, Sid Gould, Phil Foster, and Cliff Norton have been appearing in all summer, I should imagine that home audience will be just a little tired of it all.

As summer shows go, this is a very elaborate operation, and the sketches, especially a running one called "The Pharmacist and His Mate," are very clever, but they all sound to me not only as if Sid Caesar ought to be in them but as if Caesar had already been in them.

Rodgers-Hammerstein 'Allegro' Next at Muny Opera

PRINCIPALS OF "ALLEGRO," THE RODGERS AND HAMMERSTEIN MUSICAL PLAY WHICH WILL OPEN TOMORROW NIGHT AT MUNY OPERA. FROM LEFT, TERRY SAUNDERS AND EDWIN STEFFE AS DR. AND MRS. JOSEPH TAYLOR, JEN NELSON AS EMILY, PETER TURGEON AS CHARLIE TOWNSEND, BOB SHAVER AS JOE TAYLOR, JR. AND CHRISTINE MATHEWS AS JENNIE. THIS IS THE THIRD OFFERING IN THE RODGERS AND HAMMERSTEIN FESTIVAL.

At the Movies

By Myles Standish

MISTER ROBERTS—Not quite as hilarious as on the stage because a dozen belly-laughs have been sacrificed by cutting out the ribald stuff—but still awfully funny in its account of a bored crew aboard a Navy cargo bucket in World War II. Henry Fonda turns in a fine performance as Lt. Roberts and gives the serious side of the play earnestness and poignancy. Jack Lemmon is very amusing as the brash Ensign Pulver. William Powell is just right as Doc. But James Cagney makes the captain vitriolic to the point of being unbelievable. In Cinema-Scope. ST. LOUIS.

THE SEVEN LITTLE FOYS—Bob Hope in a straight role as the famous vaudeville and musical comedy comedian, Eddie Foy, in an entertaining musical which allows Hope plenty of wisecracks, but which has its astringent, even bitter side, as it takes a rather dim view of Foy as a father. Milly Vitale is sweet as Mrs. Foy, and Jimmy Cagney is perfect in a sequence in which he does his old role of George M. Cohan. In VistaVision. FOX.

THE LAW VS. BILLY THE KID—About the fifteenth movie devoted to putting a halo on the Arizona desperado, Billy the Kid, who killed 21 men in the 21 years of his life, this is distinguished only by being one of the worst, and that's a nasty thing to say considering the others. Scott Brady plays the hero woodenly. ORPHEUM.

NOT AS A STRANGER—The Morton Thompson best-seller about a dedicated doctor has lost its punch in Stanley Kramer's screen production. Kramer's direction is weak, Robert Mitchum's performance as Dr. Lucas Marsh is indifferent, and Olivia de Havilland is miscast as Cristina. The clinical detail has been watered down and the biting castigation of some incompetent medical men of the novel has been given only lip service. LOEW'S STATE.

GATE OF HELL—Exquisite color (Eastman), with a variation of rich and subtle chromatics have made this first Japanese color picture for export a thing of ravishing beauty. It tells a legend of twelfth-century passion and violence, a stark tragedy of a love-crazed samurai and a frightened married lady which is an Oriental counterpart to "The Rape of Lucrece." Done with power, although curiously unmoving. With Machiko Kyo, Kazuo Hasegawa. SHADY OAK.

WUTHERING HEIGHTS—Return of the 1939 dark romantic classic, with Laurence Olivier and Merle Oberon. Also THE FALLEN IDOL, the 1949 film which Director Carol Reed and Author Graham Greene made into a minor masterpiece of suspense and penetrating insight into the mind of an 8-year-old boy. With Ralph Richardson. RICHMOND.

CINERAMA HOLIDAY—The spectacular depth process gives us sights and sounds of Paris, Switzerland and America. AMBASSADOR.

JANE RUSSELL AND JEFF CHANDLER ARE TEAMED IN "FOXFIRE," COMING SOON TO THE FOX.

A SEA MONSTER REARS HIS UGLY HEAD (EIGHT STORIES HIGH) IN "IT CAME FROM BENEATH THE SEA," HORROR FANTASY NEXT AT THE ORPHEUM.

THE Rodgers and Hammerstein Festival will continue into its third week at Municipal Opera when the composer-librettist team's "Allegro," is presented tomorrow night, to run through next Sunday.

The musical play, on which Hammerstein wrote an original story, ran for 315 performances on Broadway in 1947 and 1948 and toured for a year. It played the American Theater here in January, 1949. This will be its first Forest park production.

It tells the story of a doctor who must make his choice between his conscience and riches. In 67 scenes, utilizing a few props as scenery, it tells of the life of Joe Taylor, Jr., from birth through wild oats and college years, his marriage to crass and coy wife, his giving up the life of a small-town physician to be an immensely wealthy Chicago society doctor. It uses Greek chorus effects and impressionistic devices, and goes in for satire on modern life.

Bob Shaver will make his Muny Opera debut as Joe Taylor, Jr. Christine Mathews, who plays Julie Jordan in the current "Carousel," will be Jennie Brinker, who marries Joe. Terry Saunders will return for the first time since 1951 as Joe's mother. Edwin Steffe, long familiar as a character actor and baritone at the Forest Park theater, will play Joe's father. Jen Nelson, who played in "Where's Charley?" and "The Red Mill" last summer, will be Emily, Joe's devoted nurse. Peter Turgeon will have the role of Charlie, Joe's cynical friend. Mary Kreste will play Grandma Taylor.

PRINCIPAL DANCERS will be Robert Pagent and Ruth Lawrence. Also in the cast will be Erik Rhodes, Walter Klavun, Norman MacKaye, Oliver Cliff, Camila Ashland, Christine Palmer, Lewis Bolyard and Eugene Dorian.

The score includes "So Far," "You Are Never Away," "A Fellow Needs a Girl," "The Gentleman is a Dope," "Money Isn't Everything," and "Yatata-yata."

Shaver recently finished playing with the national company of "Wonderful Town." He toured with "Call Me Madam," "Allegro," "On the Town" and "One Touch of Venus." Miss Mathews was leading lady on Broadway in "Wish You Were Here," and played Sarah Brown in the touring company of "Guys and Dolls." Miss Saunders played the head wife of the king in "The King and I" on Broadway and on the road. Miss Nelson is a night-club and television singer.

"Carousel" by Rodgers and Hammerstein, will have its final performance at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Besides Miss Mathews, it features Chris Robinson, Elise Rhodes and Mario de Laval.

'The Tempest' Opens at Stratford Sans Critics

STRATFORD, Conn., July 30 (AP) — William Shakespeare's "The Tempest" opened Tuesday night at the new Stratford Shakespeare Festival Theater but there were no critics on hand to review it.

Jim Awe, manager of the theater, had asked the critics to stay away until the production had a chance to work itself in. Scores of critics, including one from the Russian newspaper Pravda, attended the new theater's first production, "Julius Caesar," July 12.

Awe said tonight he had asked critics not to attend until Aug. 1.

"We found out we have to have a couple of audiences under our belts to get swinging," he said. "After a couple of nights, 'Julius Caesar' went perfectly."

"The Tempest" stars Raymond Massey, Joan Chandler, Jack Palance and Roddy McDowell, all of whom played in "Julius Caesar."

The theater is patterned after similar ones in Stratford, Ont., and Stratford-on-Avon in England.

'Bombshell' Revived

"Bombshell," the 1933 film starring Jean Harlow, will be shown at the Cinema Guild, 455 North Boyle avenue, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday and next Sunday.

The Spanish Zarzuela

By Thomas B. Sherman

THE Spanish zarzuela is roughly equivalent to the Broadway musical play or the Viennese operetta in its relationship to the popular culture. It is usually confined to one act, however, and its musical language permits a little more sophistication of harmony and orchestration than is usually found in the popular theater of other nations. Even so its appeal is direct and immediate and relies almost entirely on good tunes. The story is usually episodic with a simple situation revolving around a central character who is usually a recognizable type.

"La Revoltosa" with music by Ruperto Chapi is an excellent example of the zarzuela. (London International, One 12-inch LP.). A cast headed by the highly competent soprano, Ana Maria Iriarte, projects the lyrical score with vivacity and grace. The production, involving the Madrid Singers and the augmented Madrid Chamber Orchestra is conducted by Ataulfo Argenta. Other zarzuelas recently recorded are La Cancion del Olvido (Song of the Forgotten) by Jose Serrano and El Barquillero (The Wafer Vender) by Ruperto Chapi. These also carry the London International label.

ORCHESTRAL: The complete score of Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe" ballet has been recorded by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra under Antal Dorati with brilliant acoustical results. (Mercury, One 12-inch LP in album with drawings, photographs and explanatory notes.) The complete version, aside from its length, contains many features that are not heard in the concert suites. A chorus intoning vowels rather than words is used with striking effect as an added orchestral resource. This carefully prepared performance reflects great credit on all concerned and on Dorati in particular. . . . A new recording of the Berlioz "Symphonie Fantastique" by the Philharmonia Orchestra under Herbert von Karajan merits a qualified endorsement. The orchestra is responsive and plays with an excellent tone which is beautifully reproduced. In the first movement, however, the fleshy texture and rolling swells are more appropriate to Wagner than to the somewhat feverish, mercurial spirit of the "Fantastique." (Angel, One 12-inch LP.) . . . The late Albert Roussel is represented by four compositions in a recording made by the Lamoureux Orchestra of Paris with Paul Sacher conducting. They are the Petite Suite for Orchestra, Concerto for Small Orchestra, Sinfonietta for String Orchestra and Concerto for Piano and Orchestra. (Epic, One 12-inch LP.) All are well played. Leila Gousseau is the solo pianist but the piano part is imbedded in the orchestration. Roussel's deft employment of the orchestral palette is notable. The frequently angular melodic material is not particularly interesting.

FOLK MUSIC: Josh White, the accomplished Negro balladeer, plays and sings a number of ballads and "blues" drawn from various sources. Some of them are modern, some have obviously been modified to suit his purposes by White himself. Included is the story of "John Henry," the fabled section hand, and an Americanized version of Jack Hall, the unrepentant murderer. White's mastery of the guitar, which he plays with extraordinary fluidity, is no greater than his authoritative, beautifully timed vocal style. (Elektra, One 12-inch LP.)

VOICE AND ORCHESTRA: Ravel's Song Cycle, "Sheherazade," which is distinguished for its expressive vocal line as well as for its exquisite harmonies and orchestral color, is presented with affecting delicacy by Suzanne Danco, accompanied by L'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande. Ernest Ansermet is the conductor. "Trois Poemes de Stephen Mallarme," more iridescent if not so allusive, are on the reverse side together with "Deux Melodies Hebraique." Reproduction is favorable to the fine distinctions of color and shading that are essential to a realization of important values. (London, One 12-inch LP.)

Best Sellers

RESPIGHI: "Church Windows of Rome" and "Roman Festivals" played by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra under Antal Dorati. (Mercury, One 12-inch LP.)

SAINT-SAENS: Symphony No. 3, played by the NBC Orchestra with Arturo Toscanini conducting. (RCA-Victor, One 12-inch LP.)

Marlon Brando to Do Cowboy-Indian Picture

HOLLYWOOD, July 30 — Marlon Brando has decided to do a cowboy-and-Indian picture as his first independent production, but he hasn't yet found the proper story. Brando wants to make a picture in which the Indian is portrayed as the hero and the white man as the villain.

"Today the Indians are a broken race of people," he said. "The white man took his culture away and destroyed his philosophy of life and morality. We challenged the precepts on which he based his religion

"We made the Indian out to be perennial bad force—a malignant source of evil. We did this to establish conflict in films. The Indian was made into a one-dimension character but he's a fully developed personality and I'd like to indicate this in a film."

Abbott and Costello Finally Quit Universal

HOLLYWOOD, July 30 (UP) —Comedians Bud Abbott and Lou Costello planned to engage in independent film production today after ending 15 years of working for Universal-International studio.

The comedy team ended their association with U-I yesterday. Their 40 films earned them an estimated $25,000,000 and grossed more than $15,000,000 for the studio.

Bogey Refuses To Be Scared by 'New Faces' Outcry

By James Bacon

HOLLYWOOD, July 30 (AP) —Humphrey Bogart, a sassy 54, is enjoying his greatest year in the movies and Hollywood's new crop of leading men don't scare him one bit.

"Producers always are trying to throw a scare into us old-timers with that 'new faces' pitch. The public won't buy it though. And I'll tell you why:

"All these new guys — and girls too — all look alike, talk alike and act alike. I see 'em all the time and I can't tell one from the other. How can the ticket buyers?"

The great dissenter expounds:

"They get some pretty boy, give him a fancy name and rub their hands when the bobbysoxers scream. It's a different story when they start putting a couple millions in a picture. They want Jimmy Cagney, Gary Cooper, Spencer Tracy, Duke Wayne or someone else the ticket buying public wants to see.

"And when Bogart stinks in a movie, the fans know it's Bogart. They don't say 'whatshisname stunk.'"

Bogart admits to a few exceptions among the young people, notably Marlon Brando, Aldo Ray and Jeff Richards. His comments:

"The only thing I got against Brando is that he stole my stuff. When he came out here in a torn T-shirt, the town went crazy for him. I came out here 25 years ago with my pants seat thin and they called me a bum."

OF RAY, who co-stars with him in "We're No Angels:"

"Aldo's not pretty and his voice sounds like gargles with kerosene but the public will remember him."

Incidentally, Bogart, as an escaped convict from Devil's Island, turns in the finest comedy performance of his career in "We're No Angels" and comments:

"Let's see some of these new faces get laughs out of a script that has a couple of killings and Devil's Island as its main theme."

Of Richards, a frequent sailing companion, Bogie says:

"He's all man."

Bogart leaves us with two questions relative to the new face situation:

"Did you ever see a night club mimic do an impersonation of Lance Rivers?"

"Which would you rather have — Tab Hunter's publicity or Jimmy Stewart's money?"

Sterilizing Glasses

Know how to sterilize jelly glasses when you are going to fill them with freshly-made preserves? Place the clean glasses in a large kettle and cover them with water. Bring the water to a boil; boil 15 minutes. Turn off the heat but keep the glasses in the hot water until you are ready to fill each one.

Fried Onion Rings

Frying onion rings to go with that charcoal-broiled steak? Peel large Spanish onions and slice them about a quarter inch thick. Separate the rings and dip them into milk, then into flour seasoned with salt before frying until golden brown. The rings will need to be fried from five to seven minutes at 365 degrees.

Brightening A Drab Hall At Entrance

By Dorothy Brainerd

MRS. M.M. is quite right in feeling that it is important for guests to receive a pleasand first impression when they step inside our homes.

"We recently rented an apartment with which I am quite happy—I don't know what to do to keep it from seeming so drab I hate to have visitors come into such an unattractive spot."

One solution, of course, would be to paper it in a gay pattern. If you do not wish, or are not permitted to do any decorating you might find that small chair or table painted white or a pastel shade would bring the space to life.

Another solution would be a large mirror placed at a strategic point to pick up vistas from the living room.

Mirrors really can work wonders, when used wisely. For instance, one placed opposite a picture window will literally bring the out-of-doors inside, and a narrow room can be given the feeling of width by the use of a mirrored panel on one wall.

"WE HAVE some rust spots an a new cement driveway. Do you know what will remove them, and also some oil spots?" asks Mrs. J.E.C.

It probably will take an abrasive action to remove the rust—try an old brick or stone, or a sander.

The oil spots should be scrubbed with a mixture of four ounces of trisodium phosphate in one gallon of hot water, with a sprinkling of scouring powder. Rinse with clear water. If the spots are stubborn, cover them with a paste of the trisodium phosphate and water and allow to stand with for 30 or 40 minutes before scrubbing and rinsing.

MRS. D'S PROBLEM is one which has annoyed many a meticulous housekeeper. She explains:

"We have bought a home that has a badly stained sink. Is there any way that these stains can be removed?"

Take a damp cloth and saturate it with a small amount of household bleaching agent. Let the saturated cloth remain over the stain for about 10 minutes, then rinse thoroughly. It may be necessary to repeat several times. But don't pour the bleach directly on the sink; be sure to dilute it by pouring on a damp cloth.

If the stains do not respond to this treatment, try one of the commercial products made for this purpose. They are obtainable in the housewares departments.

HERE IS a word of warning which might avoid an unhappy experience. The American Institute of Laundering (research and educational center of the laundry industry) reports that snags contribute a great deal to clothing damage after laundering. the Institute suggests that a good brand of paste wax be used on clothes chutes and inside wooden laundery hampers to avoid snagging soiled clothes on the rough wood. It is a good idea to check chute or hamper for rough edges and joints, and sand them down before waxing.

FROM URBANA, ILL., Mrs. O.M.R. writes: "I have two plastic upholstered chairs in excellent condition, but the color no longer fits into my newly decorated room. Can these be painted successfully, and if so what type of paint?

"Also, we have new wall-to-wall carpeting. I made runners from some pieces of the same carpeting to cover the heavy traffic areas. Now I have been told that the use of these is harder on the broadloom than the traffic. Is this so?"

Frankly, I am inclined to think that you would be wiser to slipcover the chairs than to paint them. A plastic chair could be painted with a good spar enamel; however, this will eventually chip. And it will do so much more quickly if the seats of the chairs are upholstered so that they have "give" to them—obviously this puts a strain on the finish.

Your question about the use of the runners was an interesting one. In order to get an authoritative answer, we asked the advice of the Carpet Institute, and quote their reply:

"This question comes up frequently, and it is our opinion that the runners will do no appreciable harm to the wall-to-wall carpeting underneath."

Any homemaking problems bothering you? If so, write to Dorothy Brainerd in care of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. She will answer your questions, or publish them and see if other readers have the answers for you.

Luncheon Eggplant

Ingredients: One small eggplant, ¼ pound cheddar cheese (sliced thin), one egg (well beaten), salt, one and one-half cups crushed ready-to-eat wheat cereal, butter or margarine.

Method: Slice eggplant one and one-quarter-inch thick; it is not necessary to peel it. Sandwhich two slices of eggplant and one slice of cheese (cut to fit) together. Add a good dash of salt to egg. Dip eggplant and cheese sandwiches into egg, then into crushed cereal. Brown slowly in hot butter. Serve at once.

'My Opinion'

Son Wants Mother To Divorce Father

By Martha Carr

I HAD the greatest shock of my life when I discovered recently that my husband, to whom I have been married 29 years, had been seeing another woman. I confronted him with it and he seemed almost relieved that I knew about it. He said it was true, but that it was all over now and that he honestly had never loved anyone except me. He begged me to forgive him. The other woman, he said, has moved away and he realizes now how foolish he was. I believe him, Martha, and I love him too much to destroy our marriage but our son has been after me to get a divorce. He says my husband has treated me shamefully and if I had any self-respect or pride I would throw him out. Please tell me what to do.

WORRIED.

Listen to your own heart instead of your son. What right has he to try to tear up his parents' marriage, if there is any chance at all of saving it? Certainly, your husband made a mistake. Maybe, to paint the picture as dark as possible, the woman ran out on him and that's why he suddenly reformed and came back to you. But then again maybe he's being honest. Give him a chance. If he's being untruthful, I have an idea that you'll find out soon enough. But meanwhile, insist that your son let you make up your own mind.

Dear Martha:

● PLEASE HELP ME DECIDE what to do. I am 27 years old and live with my father. He is able to take care of himself but he wants me to wait on him all the time and he is scared to death I'll get married and leave him. I'm sick of coming home from the office every day and doing all the housework, cleaning up, cooking dinner, washing dishes. I could scream. Now I've met a man who wants to marry me. I've only known him five weeks but he seems real nice. He and my father don't get along though and this man wants me to run off and marry him. He says I'm crazy to let my father impose on me this way. What do you think?

RUTHIE.

It doesn't make sense to spend your life in slavery, but neither is it sensible to run off with just any man because he gives you a chance to escape. See if you can't rearrange the situation at home. Can your father employ a housekeeper or a part-time cook who will relieve you of some of the work? Try gradually to make him less dependent on you, but don't run away with someone you've known only five weeks and who doesn't get along with your dad. You'd be in the middle of a miserable situation the rest of your life. When the right man does come along, you'll have to stand up to your dad and make him understand that you have the right to happiness.

Dear Martha:

● I WAS ENGAGED TO A BOY when I met a service man and fell for him like a ton of bricks. So I broke my engagement to this other boy and started dating this service man. Now he has left town and I haven't heard from him in two months. Meanwhile, the boy here has started dating someone else and I guess isn't interested in me any more. So, Martha, what can I do?

PATSY.

You can make up your mind that the next time you snag a good, solid home-town boy you won't throw him over for someone else. I'm afraid you asked for your trouble this time. If your ex-boy friend learns that you were double-crossed and are back in circulation, he may be interested enough to come back. But don't count on that from someone whose pride has been hurt.

Dear Martha:

● I HAVE A NEIGHBOR who fights continually with her husband and never pays any attention to the children. They are at my house half the time. They don't get their meals on schedule and their clothes are never clean. I feel sorry for them but my husband says I should stay out of any argument with their mother. She isn't pleasant to any of us and several of the other mothers in the block have been talking about it. What can we do for these children?

WORRIED.

I certainly think your husband is right in that you shouldn't interfere in your neighbor's family situation, but there are ways you might help. Maybe you or another neighbor could talk with her someday, just to get a little better acquainted, and invite her to have coffee with the group in someone's kitchen or backyard. Perhaps one or two of the mothers could take all the youngsters to the park to play or out for a picnic lunch, and you could ask if she would mind your inviting her children. As hard as it is, try to be friendly and you may be surprised how she will welcome your kindness.

Dear Martha:

● I GOT OVER MY HEAD IN DEBT two years ago and now have two extra jobs in the evening so I can pay off what I owe. I'm beginning to see the light but it will be some time before I'm clear. I'm engaged to a girl and we want to be married soon but I keep telling her I can't think about marriage until I can get the worry of these debts off my mind. But she keeps after me and I'm getting fed up. She knows how hard I have to work but she can't see why I can't be dating her every night in the week. As it is, I work four nights and all day Saturday, so we only have about three dates a week. Don't you think she's unreasonable?

BOB.

Naturally she wants to be with you, Bob, but she isn't playing it very smart to make you worry about her silly complaints as well as the creditors. Tell her she'll have to take her choice. If she wants you to be with her more, you can give up one of your jobs—but it will be that much longer before you can marry.

Dear Martha:

● MY HUSBAND AND I have been sending Christmas and birthday gifts to his brother and sister-in-law ever since they married two years ago and to this day we have never received a word of thanks. I'm a little fed up. What do you think?

DISGUSTED.

Since it's your husband's family which is involved, I think you'd better find out how he feels about it. If he agrees, you'd be smart to save your pennies for more appreciative souls. If, however, he wants to continue sending presents, I suppose you'll have to go on doing it and hope the brother and his wife will wake up and act like human beings.

Martha Carr is glad to answer your problems. If you wish a personal reply, please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She cannot discuss questions of a medical or legal nature.

Diversified Fashions for the College Crowd

Girls Have Wide Selection of Styles Available From Which to Select Autumn-Winter Wardrobes

THE WHITE BULKY SWEATER WORN WITH PLAID WOOL "FANCY PANTS" BY MISS INEZ BAKER OF MONTICELLO COLLEGE IS SCHEDULED FOR POPULARITY THIS FALL.

MISS MARY ELLEN SCHMIDT OF WILLIAM WOODS COLLEGE WEARS A BLACK JERSEY OVERBLOUSE BRAIDED AND BEADED WITH VELVET, WITH A MANY-GORED WOOL SKIRT.

WOOLEN STOLE AND MATCHING SKIRT ARE ALLIED WITH A PEBBLE KNIT BODICE IN NEW EVENING "SEPARATES" WORN BY MISS DIANE DOELLING OF WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY.

THE VOGUE OF THE BLAZER IS ILLUSSTRATED BY MISS RUTH LEINBERGER OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI WHO COMBINES HER NAVY BLUE ONE WITH A BLUE AND WHITE WOOL SKIRT.

By Sylvia Stiles

COLLEGE girls may have as much difficulty choosing their fashion majors this fall as they do in deciding upon their academic courses. So many ideas are being launched for the coming season that wardrobes could reach a confused state unless special attention is given to planning and picking a wardrobe. There's the bulky look and the skinny look, for example, while the barrel silhouette is competing with the tunic, and the shifting waistlie is adding its bit to the confusion.

To help the girls, especially those who are starting to college for the first time, stores again are providing the services of college boards. Some of the stores also are scheduling fashion shows. Three St. Louis department stores opened their college shops last week with uniformed girls from various schools serving both as advisers and salespeople while two of these stores will hold public fashion showings this week. The stores also have had the co-operation of national magazines in planning their promotions.

Although the collections are not complete, suffiicent merchandise has been presented to indicate that this will be a big year for dresses and sweaters that have the "pulled-down" appearance. Long overblouses and longer sweaters are extensively advocated. Many suit jackets are longer, and also are fitted at the hipline, so that the barrel silhouette results. Sweaters also have a bulky emphasis. Loose cable knitting is a popular trend. Not only white sweaters but red ones and black ones will be selected for wear with skirts and with pants.

The vogue of shorts and "fancy pants" for dormitory and campus wear is another trend that is pronounced this year. Bermuda shorts are being introduced in plaid and plain colored fabrics. Plaid woolens are used, too, for the fitted pants which end above the ankles and have slashes at the hem. Big checks are among other patterned woolens liked for casual wear and for various campus needs. The skirt of boldly checked material shares honors with clan plaids for skirts and dresses to be worn with blazers. The widespread acceptance of the blazer is apparent as this practical jacket appears in all of the college collections.

Blazers in a shade of beige woolen called vicuna, although it is very similar to the familiar camel tone, will be among those modeled in the Scruggs Vandervoort Barney college show to be held Wednesday evening on the parking deck of the Clayton store. Entitled "Kicking-off for Fall," this show staged in cooperation with Mademoiselle magazine, will stress fashions for the football season and football colors. Bright red not only is an accent color, but a major wardrobe hue in these college clothes. Allied with the neutral vicuna tone, red adds new interest.

Glen plaids are revived and the popular black watch plaid has a new rival—brown watch plaid—as the gayety of the new season is presented. Browns are fashionable and varied in their shadings. Fake furs that are very lightweight are assembled in a striking group. These fake furs look especially impressive in the blond and the brown shades. Not only full length coats but the briefer topcoat that will be liked for campus and for football games appears in the imitation fur material.

A practical emphasis being given to all of the college collections by the accumulation of "separates." The number of evening "separates" has increased since last season, and there is great variety in types and fabrics. Blanket striped and plaid woolens are used for skirts with matching stoles or matching vestees. Black jersey is another versatile material for skirts and bodices as well as for overblouses and jackets. Corduroy is another fabric with many uses in the ensembling of a complete costume for day or evening.

Scheduled for two performances for college students on Thursday, the Stix, Baer & Fuller show will be held at 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. in the Founders' Hall on the ninth floor. Miss Edith Beeson, Midwest editor of Glamour Magazine, will be a guest commentator for part of the show which also will include fashions for career girls. Among the ideas to be featured will be the Scotch theme launching the vogue of clan plaids in practically every type of apparel. Dormitory, campus and "date" clothes are included. Some new versions of the boy's coat in Black Watch plaid look distinctive. There also is a plaid chinchilla in a reefer style.

The bright colored wool dress gets more than the usual attention, especially with its bloused back and low-placed back belt. Jumpers, too, are among glamorous modes for late-day wear as well as for informal daytime occasions. Another trend that is being indorsed is that of skirts with sweaters that have been dyed to match. Some bright shades of blue are usually attractive for these sweaters and skirts as well as for blazers.

The tunic fashion is a pronounced one in the college clothes assembled by the Famous-Barr College Board with Harper's Bazaar magazine. Corduroy jackets in knee length, tweed suits with the tunic length coats to be worn with other skirts, and many of the long torso overblouses illustrate this trend. The knitted emphasis is seen here, as in other collections. Shirtwaist dresses and coats have knitted accents. Crew neck sweaters are long and bulky.

Influence of the tunic is seen in evening dresses. Many of the floor length and the waltz length dresses have pannier or flaring tunic overskirts. Taffeta and net are used extensively. Velvet and velveteen in jewel tones as well as black are flattering. The majority of the evening dresses are shown in the short length except for very formal dances. Strapless bodices continue to be preferred to the covered-shoulder type, judging by the number of strapless ones on display.

EXPERT HAIRCUTTING $1.25
EVERY KIND OF STYLE FROM THE FEATHER CUT TO THE BRUSH CUT THE SHINGLE TO THE NEW DEEP WAVE CUT
To get the best haircut in town spend only 10-15 minutes at Ragsdale's . . . if your hair-do doesn't stay in or doesn't comb out right it isn't always the fault of the hair styling technique. In many cases improper hair shaping is the cause. The purpose of professional hair shaping is to keep your hair at the length that is best for you. Shaping will give you maximum satisfaction with your particular hair style. Let Ragsdale's highly experienced operators shape and style your hair to your individual personality.
We have pleased thousands—we will please you.

EXPERT SHAMPOO and SET $1.10
THE BEST SHAMPOO & SET IN TOWN
Using OIL TONIC SHAMPOO helps prevent and relieves all normal cases of dandruff.
Your hair is priceless. Protect it with Oil Tonic Shampoo.
It takes only 40 minutes to an hour to get expert hair styling at Ragsdale's . . . We guarantee to use the best shampoo soaps obtainable for your particular type of hair and one of our expert hair stylists.

EXPERT OIL BLEACHING $3.95
Professionally done to add new beauty, new life and highlights to your hair.

Most beauty shops sell exactly the same quality cold wave permanent for $10 to $20 . . . Our price: $3.95, $5.95, $6.95. No better waves at any price. Why pay more? All permanents guaranteed.
To give each lady better and more equal service, no tipping or sales talk permitted.

IMMEDIATE SERVICE

NO TIPPING OR SALES TALK PERMITTED
ALL SHOPS AIR-CONDITIONED and on GROUND FLOOR

PROPER HAIR CARE
Brushing . . . your hair should be brushed thoroughly at least once daily, preferably twice. Use long, firm strokes with a stiff brush.
Shampooing . . . One GOOD shampoo a week with all of the soap completely rinsed out of the hair is normal. If your hair is oily or inclined to have dandruff, a good shampoo every five days is better.
Dandruff . . . Most cases of dandruff is simple scalp shedding of dry, dead skin. A good shampoo will remove this type of dandruff and more frequent shampoos often cure it.
Ragsdale guarantees to use the best shampoo soaps obtainable.
Permanent Waves . . . The best permanent wave will grow out in three to six months, depending upon how fast your hair grows. For best results your permanent should be shampooed and styled every week. If it is impossible for you to get a professional shampoo and style weekly and you do your own hair, then we suggest the following:
You will get better service from your permanent if you pin up your hair after each shampoo. Normally you will need one or two light hair shapings between each permanent. This will keep your hair at the proper length.

A Snap Curl Wave is the best for all types of hair because there is no heat to dry your hair. The curls are one to one and one-half inches closer to scalp than many types of permanents and the final result can hardly be told from naturally curly hair. Your hair, like your skin, requires proper care and treatment if you wish it to look its glistening best. If you want your hair to look right, and be easily managed, it should receive proper hair shaping. If your hair is tinted or bleached it takes only a little extra care to keep it looking natural.
It takes 3 to 10 years of practical beauty work to become an expert hair dresser. Our average operator has between 8 and 9 years' experience. For the last 15 years we have given many, many thousands of permanents each year, so it is just natural that we would have more knowledge of permanent waving than someone who gives one or two permanents a week—Got a hair problem? Go to Ragsdale Beauty Shop.
P.S.: For the best hair results get Professional treatment as often as you can, and give yourself the best possible home care. . . . A professional permanent wave or hair style will improve your appearance and morale more than any other one thing can possibly do . . . When you do get a professional permanent wave (and you will) go to a Ragsdale Beauty Shop.

Important Art: Being Good Guest

By Angelo Patri

SUMMER is the time when young people go visiting. Being a good guest is an art well worth acquiring. Maybe a few hints gained of experience with youthful visitors may be helpful.

First, set a definite time for arriving and leaving. This makes things easier for both host and guest. Be prompt about both. Be on the ship, the plane or the train you said you would be on, and be sure that you take the train, or whatever mode of travel you use, promptly at the end of the set time. Even if you are invited to stay over—go when you said you would go. Many a guest has closed the door behind him by staying over his allotted time.

FIT YOURSELF into the life of the family. Watch to see what the family routine is about bathrooms, meals, daily household chores and do your full share toward keeping the household runnning smoothly. Always remember to say, "May I?" before using a chair, a radio, a television set and never lay hands on a car unless you are requested to do so. This is ironclad etiquette. Any breach of it will make a young guest about as welcome as a mosquito.

When asked about a trip, a picnic or a party, listen with your mind as well as with your ears. Go along happily with whatever entertainment is offered you, but be truthful about any lack of skill in a sport if you suffer that lack. Don't be like the girl who was asked along in a sailboat with the idea that she could help said the boat. She had never been in a sailboat in her life, but hated so say so, and the result can be imagined. Don't belittle any skill you may have, but don't pretend to have what you have not, unless you want to be in a very embarrassing place.

KEEP YOUR BELONGINGS in the room you occupy and keep them in the closet, the chest or your suitcase; anywhere but scattered about the house. Neatness in this will create a warm spot for you in the heart of the hostess.

Try to be pleased with everything and never, never say, "Ours is so different. Much larger, and you can do lots more with it." A sophisticated air and "I really don't care. Whatever you say."—that's poison. You are to be pleased, delighted, with whatever is offered.

Be particularly careful to pay courteous attention to any elderly person in the family, particular attention.

In saying goodby, thank everybody for their kindness and once at home, write your thank-you note.

IMMEDIATE DELIVERY

ON BRAND-NEW 1955

Cadillacs

Yes, we're celebrating our recent success in obtaining an extra allotment of new '55 Cadillacs. Now you can even choose colors, trims and equipment and get IMMEDIATE DELIVERY.

For ages, or so it seems, we've had to beg your indulgence in those seemingly long waiting periods for delivery. This, of course, has been due to Cadillac's nationally oversold position.

For the moment, at least, we happily invite you to come in and take a new '55 Cadillac home with you. Incidentally, our used car inventory is at an all-time low. This will enable us to make an exceptionally high trade-in allowance on your present car.

COMPLETE FURNITURE, APPLIANCE, JEWELRY, LUGGAGE, SPORTING GOODS, HOUSEWARES, FAN AND AIR CONDITIONING DEPARTMENTS.

Fresh Cherry Sauce

Ingredients: One pound dark red sweet cherries, one-half cup sugar, one-fourth cup water, one tablespoon cornstarch, one-fourth cup cold water, one tablespoon lemon juice.

Method: Wash, drain, stem and pit cherries; there should be about two and one-half cups. Put cherries in saucepan with sugar and one-fourth cup water. Stir occasionally over moderate heat until sugar disolves and syrup is at boiling point. Mix cornstarch with one-fourth cup cold water until smooth. Add to cherries; cook and stir constantly until syrup is thickened and clear. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon juice. Serve hot or warm over cottage pudding. Makes two cups.

Shrimp Sauce

Ingredients: One-half pound shrimp (cooked and deveined), four tablespoons butter or margarine, four tablespoons flour, two cups milk, one teaspoon lemon juice, two tablespoons drained capers, salt and pepper.

Method: Cut shrimp in half so they have the same shape but are flatter. Melt butter in one-quart saucepan; stir in flour over low heat. Add milk; cook and stir constantly over moderately low heat until thickened and bubbly. Stir in shrimp, lemon juice, capers and salt and pepper to taste. Reheat. Serve over broiled fish fillets. Makes six servings.

Fables Of the Famous

By E. E. Edgar

HEIGHT: When pitcher Bobo Newsom was with the St. Louis Browns, usually deep in the second division, his constant complaint was that his teammates did not give him any support.

One day, in a game against the Yankees, he was tagged for five extra base hits in a row. The Browns' manager came out to the mound.

"How do you feel, Bobo?" he asked.

"I feel fine," growled Newsom. "It's those outfielders. They're not playing high enough."

BEST WISHES: Theatrical manager Oscar Hammerstein had little patience with would-be actors who lacked talent. At one time, a friend persuaded him to grant an audition to a stage-struck debutante who had ambition, but little else.

After listening wearily to her expressionless reading, Hammerstein said:

"Young woman, my advice to you is to go home and forget the theater."

"But you don't understand, Mr. Hammerstein," she protested. "I'm dying to go on the stage."

"In that case," replied Hammerstein, "I wish you every success."

Promises: One night, when he was leaving the concert hall with a friend, conductor Serge Koussevitzky was stopped by a composer, who was obviously angry. He reproached the conductor for not including his sonata on the program, after promising that he would.

When the composer had gone, the friend remarked:

"He has a point, Serge. You did promise to play his sonata. You know, you have a terrible weakness for making promises."

"I know," admitted Koussevitzky. "It's very fortunate I have the strength not to keep them."

LOST: One day, shortly after President Eisenhower became Army Chief of Staff, he was trying to find his office in the Pentagon.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER . . . LOST IN PENTAGON.

After wandering about aimlessly for some minutes in the maze of corridors, the man who had guided to victory the greatest armies in history had to admit that he was hopelessly lost.

He stopped a young major who was approaching, and asked:

"Pardon me, major, could you direct me to Gen. Eisenhower's office?"

The major looked up and recognized the General at once. For a moment he just stood there, in embarrassed silence. Then, summoning his courage, he pointed to a door just a few feet away, and mumbled without his customary dignity:

"That's your office right over there, sir."

Gen. Eisenhower, even more embarrassed than the major by this revelation, thanked the man hurriedly and quickly disappeared into the sanctuary on the other side of the door.

Guilty: Richard Mansfield, one of the great a ctors of his day, was an incorrigible adlibber. At one time, he was starring in a play in which his stage brother dropped dead during a ballroom scene. When the man collapsed, Mansfield had to cry out in grief:

"Stop the music. My brother is dead!"

One night, when the company was on tour, it was playing in a small town. A local orchestra, an amateur group, was engaged to play the music during the ballroom scene. Their performance was a horror.

When the stage brother fell in a heap, Mansfield cried:

"Stop the music. It has killed my brother!"

ALLERGY: Joseph G. (Uncle Joe) Cannon, Speaker of the House during the early part of the century, was allergic to long-winded speeches.

One day, a bill to stamp out the foot-and-mouth disease was under discussion in the House. One Congressman, who never missed an opportunity to speak a few thousand words, spoke for more than an hour on the subject. His speech was as pointless as it was long.

When he had finished, Cannon turned to the member who had introduced the bill.

"Are you sure this bill will stamp out the mouth disease?" he asked.

"I'm convinced of it," was the reply.

"Then," said Cannon, glaring at the loquacious Congressman, "I'm for it."

MONOTONOUS: When the late umpire Bill McGowan joined the American League in the mid-twenties, he worked day and night at his trade.

He was determined to develop a distinctive style that would be noticed in the stands. Every night, he and his roommate, another umpire, would practice gestures for hours in front of the mirror.

One night, they were trying out different ways of saying the all too familiar "You're out!". First McGowan and then the other would stand in front of the mirror.

"Yer ou-ou-ouuuut!" one would bark, critically appraising the expression on his face.

"You'rrrrre OUT!" the other would bellow, never taking eyes off himself.

For several hours this went on, their voices rolling like thunder down the corridors. Finally, along about midnight, there was an angry knock on the wall of the adjoining room.

"For gosh sakes," came the anguished howl from their neighbor, "will you guys call somebody safe and get to bed?"

Fruit Sundae

Ingredients: One-half cup diced banana, lemon juice, one cup blackberries, one cup cantaloupe balls, one pint vanilla ice cream.

Method: Sprinkle banana with a little lemon juice so fruit won't darken. Mix gently with blackberries and cantaloupe. Serve over ice cream. Makes four servings.

Cream Soup

When you serve a cream soup to your family, use a cup of milk for each portion when you prepare the soup. This way you will be including generous amounts of valuable nutrients in your family's diet.

Diced Potatoes

Layer diced cooked potatoes and bits of crisply cooked bacon in a shallow casserole. Cover with a thin white sauce and top with buttered soft bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven until hot through; if topping isn't golden brown, place under the broiler for a few minutes.

Blackberry Cobbler

Ingredients: Three tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, one cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon cinnamon, four cups blackberries, one cup water, one tablespoon lemon juice, one tablespoon butter or margarine, one cup biscuit mix, one tablespoon sugar, one-third cup light cream, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon.

Method: Mix tapioca, one cup sugar, salt, one-eighth teaspoon cinnamon, blackberries and water in a saucepan. Cook and stir over moderate heat until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat; add lemon juice and butter. Pour into a baking dish (12 by 7 inches) and keep warm. Mix biscuit mix with one tablespoon sugar. Add cream and stir until soft dough is formed. Turn onto a lightly floured board or prepared pastry cloth and knead 10 times. Pat lightly to about one-fourth inch thickness. Cut out eight two-inch biscuits. Place biscuits on top of blackberry mixture. Then mix one tablespoon sugar and one teaspoon cinnamon and sprinkle over biscuits. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 30 minutes or until biscuits are baked through. Serve warm with cream. Makes eight servings.

Note: One-fourth cup milk and two tablespoons butter or margarine (melted) may be substituted for the light cream in making the biscuit topping.

Ulcer: How To Sidestep Getting One

By Glen Shepherd, M.D.

IF big business men changed from martinis to milk in times of stress, I'll bet fewer would have peptic ulcers.

Not that ulcers are peculiar to big business men. They just make more noise about having them. They regard them as a badge of executive office — which ulcers definitely are not. Factory workers, secretaries, and housewives — people in all kinds of jobs — have peptic ulcers.

There is nothing mysterious about peptic ulcers. They are simply holes in the lining of the stomach or duodenum (the first part of the intestine after the stomach). Acid stomach juice eats at the tender meat of the stomach or duodenal wall through this hole in the protective lining.

Ulcers occur from changes in blood supply and in the amount of stomach acid juice. Increased amounts of acid attack a part of the lining made vulnerable by blanching, by temporary loss of blood supply.

The excessive acid and the blanching of the stomach wall come from the emotions of anger, worry, fear, or despair that you "swallow" instead of openly expressing by talk or action.

THE WAY MARTINIS get into the act is that their alcohol (and dry martinis are almost 50 per cent alcohol) increases stomach production of acid. When executives take a couple of martinis on an empty stomach on the way home after a nerve-wracking afternoon in the office, it may be the final straw. Frustrations and anxieties have already increased stomach acid and possibly blanched the stomach lining. Then the alcohol causes another great surge of acid. Much of this treatment and the executive painfully boasts of his ulcer.

Tobacco is another culprit as an accessory. It increases stomach acid production. Most people smoke more when nervous. Their stomachs are also producing more acid and perhaps blanching from the same nervousness. This, combined with tobacco's effect, can make a hole in the stomach or duodenal lining and pouf—another ulcer victim. Coffee and tea also increase stomach acid. That's a good reason for eating food with coffee.

If we doctors were looking for patients, I wouldn't point this out to you. But we'd rather prevent disease. After all, an ulcer diet is hardly a gourmet's dream.

YOU CAN PREVENT your first ulcer by the following:

Eat at regular intervals—food gives the stomach acid something besides the stomach to work on. Don't skip lunch. Shoping or conferences aren't that important.

Don't insult your stomach by starving it, then smoking chain fashion and gulping coffee or martinis. Though stomachs can take a lot of abuse, there's a limit.

Get rid of your emotions—don't swallow or conceal them. If you can't blow off at the time, do it later by swatting a golf ball or beating the rug. Talk out your frustrations—that's one important use of a wife or husband!

Creative hobbies can help you work off bottled-up emotions. A por painting, a miserable bit of music on that beat-up piano, is far better than a peptic ulcer. Bending your neighbor's or wife's ear is better than getting a hole in your stomach lining. At least it's more comfortable for you.

When you have particular stress, an argument or some other emotional blow-up, take a glass of milk, not a martini. Make it a malted if you don't care about your waist-line. (That's the danger—people can eat themselves into obesity from bottled-up emotions).

Try to avoid those situations that make you blow up.

No Plans to Put RKO's 800 Old Films on TV Yet

NEW YORK, July 30 (UP).

THE new owners of RKO Radio Pictures Corporation said today they have no plans to put any of the company's 800 movies on television in the foreseeable future.

All of the films will be made available to paying audiences in motion picture theaters as long as there is a demand for them.

This announcement was made at a news conference by Thomas F. O'Neil, the new boss of RKO, bought for $25,000,000 from millionaire Howard Hughes yesterday.

O'Neil said it was impossible to say when the RKO movies, featuring some of Hollywood's brightest stars, would be made available to home audiences. The theater demand for the films may continue for months, he said.

As president of General Teleradio, Inc., a subsidiary of the General Tire and Rubber Co., O'Neil negotiated the purchase of the Hughes studios, film library and distributing setup. RKO now will be a subsidiary of General Teleradio, he said.

When the purchase was announced it was believed General Teleradio made the deal primarily to get movies for television.

O'Neil said that had been his hope, too. But when Hughes said he would sell his film library only if the studios and other properties went along with it, General Teleradio decided to go into the Hollywood movie making business in a big way.

Production at RKO now is at a standstill, except for some films being made by independent producers, O'Neil said. It will be resumed as soon as the new owners have studied the situation thoroughly, he said.

Among the more famous films O'Neil will redistribute to theaters and eventually put on TV are all the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers musicals and movies starring Irene Dunne, Loretta Young, Robert Mitchum, Cary Grant, Ingrid Bergman, Ava Gardner, Rosilind Russell, Katharine Hepburn, Joan Fontaine and Lucille Ball.

Snap Beans Parmesan

Ingredients: One pound snap beans, three-fourths cup boiling water, one small onion (minced), one-half cup salad oil, one-fourth cup wine vinegar, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-half cup grated Parmesan cheese, thinly sliced radishes, romaine.

Method: Cut ends from beans; scrub in cold water. Cut beans slantwise into two-inch pieces. Cook rapidly, covered, in boiling water just until tender-crisp; drain; cool. Beat onion, salad oil, vinegar, salt, pepper and cheese together with a fork in mixing bowl; toss with beans. Refrigerate. Serve chilled beans garnished with romaine. Makes six to eight servings.

only 30 MINUTES FROM ST. LOUIS

Lake Lorraine

Only 30 minutes away from St. Louis a beautiful new Lake Vacationland is rapidly coming into existence. Drive out today.

The LAKE VACATIONLAND St. Louisans have always wanted

Among the beautiful hills of Jefferson County there will soon be a lake of clear, sparkling water, with picturesque lodges, where busy men and their families will enjoy life as they have always hoped to do. . . . even as the nearby city swelters under Summer's simmering heat.

Here lake-cooled breezes will gently fan you to sleep at night—and by day, give zest to the finest fishing, swimming, sailing, canoeing and motor-boating this section has ever known.

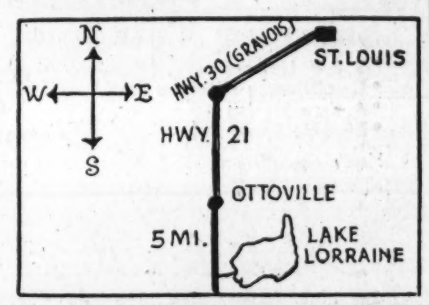

The same men who developed Lake Montowese and Fond de Lac are Building Lake Lorraine, near Goldman, Missouri, less than 30 miles south of Affton on Highway 21 (Tesson Ferry Road). One small lake is now stocked and ready for fishing.

Lodge sites vary in size from 50x150 feet to half-acre and acre tracks. Modern conveniences are available. Lodge site prices start at $750, and may be bought on convenient terms.

Lake Lorraine will NOT be open to the general public. It is being developed—and will be maintained —for Lodge Site owners and their guests.

My Neighbor Says:

MOST power tools, especially the portable types, come with a special grounding wire that can be fastened to the frame of the outlet box. But before you put much faith in this connection, check or have your electrician check to be sure that the outlet box is actually grounded. Some are but many, because of faulty electrical connections, are not.

About the best way to remove paint from the base of paint brush bristles is to comb it out with a wire brush. There are special brushes made for this job but an ordinary wire brush with bristles set fairly close together will do the trick. Run the comb with the bristles—not against them.

Paste wood filler can be thinned to the right consistency either with turpentine or benzine.

To insure that your brush is perfectly free of dust and lint before varnishing, pour a small amount of varnish into a clean container, dip the brush into this and then draw the bristles across the blade of a knife. Any dust in the bristles will be picked up by the varnish and deposited on the blade. Throw out the left over varnish.

If you coat ordinary wire insect screening on the outside with white paint it will make it more difficult for people to see through from the outside but won't bother your vision from the inside to outside.

Fulbright Says U.S. Control Of Natural Gas Price at Well Would Boost Consumer's Cost

He Replies to Douglas That Curbs Would Wrongly Classify Production as Utility and End Search for Fuel Which Keeps It Cheap.

Following is a defense by Senator Fulbright of his bill to exempt natural gas producers from direct control of the Federal Power Commission. In the June 26 issue the Post-Dispatch presented the arguments against exempting the gas producers from regulation, by Senator Paul H. Douglas of Illinois. Although Congressional leaders have indicated that such legislation probably will not be passed at this session, the issue may well come up again. Both Senators are Democrats.

By J. W. FULBRIGHT
United States Senator from Arkansas.

WASHINGTON, July 30.

IF producers in the Southwest donated a year's supply of natural gas to the families of Missouri, the typical household budget would be saved only $8.63—and there would still be a $69.38 gas bill to pay.

Exceptional? No, not at all. The same pattern is nation-wide among states importing most or all natural gas used for residential purposes. "Free" gas, given away at the producing field, would still cost $69.66 a year to the average family in Wisconsin—a saving of $4.96 annually; $72.60 in Tennessee—a saving of $7.25 annually; and $68.23 in Illinois—a saving of $5.58. In Rhode Island, where gas is used primarily for cooking and not for heating, "free" gas would save the average Rhode Island consumer only $1.54 on an annual gas bill of $66.66.

Where are the added costs slipped into the consumer's monthly bill? Most natural gas users may be surprised to learn that, literally, it happens right at home—not far away in Texas or Louisiana or Arkansas. The culprit, if there is one, is not some far away, impersonal corporation—it is your local distributor of gas.

900 Per Cent Rise.

The 320,000 residential users of natural gas in St. Louis and St. Louis County pay nearly 900 per cent more for gas than the same gas costs in the producing field. Out of $21,000,000 St. Louis families pay each year to cook and heat with gas, $14,000,000 is for costs added after the natural gas has been delivered into the city.

Specific prices and specific costs vary from city to city and state to state, but there is no variation in the fact that—on the national average—88.5 cents of every household dollar spent for gas goes for service, and only 11.5 cents goes for the gas itself. The field price of natural gas is the smallest component of the ultimate retail price.

These facts are highly significant and pertinent to the Congress's present effort to formulate a new policy to guide Federal Power Commission participation in the regulation of the natural gas industry. Consumers, press, and public officials must understand these facts thoroughly; otherwise there is a very real danger that Congress may be influenced by artful and tireless propagandists to take a wholly unrealistic and foolish course.

The question of federal policy toward the nation's basic fuels and energy resources is a fundamental question. Federalization of our fuel supply, for example, would render untenable the historic position of private competitive enterprise as our economic system. This prospect—whether remote or real—commends caution in any approach to a new and expanded use of federal regulatory powers.

Documented Fantasy.

Unfortunately, there are persons who seemingly will not rest until they see the federal government go into the oil fields of the southwest and plant a regulatory heel on every natural gas well in that area. In their zeal, these advocates have discarded even the pretense of caution with facts and reason and have fabricated a sort of documented fantasy which they themselves believe to be learned economics.

My very good friend and colleague, Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, demonstrated in these columns several weeks ago how successfully fantasy can be employed to obscure the true perspective of the natural gas issue. The Senator elected to discard the facts as they are and to conjure up oversized statistics more suitable to his purposes.

The actual economics of the natural gas industry refute—rather than support—the position that federal controls at the well-head are needed to "save" the consumer from the producer.

As the facts show, the producer's price is the least important factor in the consumer's gas bill. If the Federal Government should assume control over that price, the maximum benefit in dollars and cents to the consumer would be negligible even if the field price were arbitrarily reduced to zero.

Fallacy of U.S. Price Fixing.

The fatal fallacy of this position, however, is that the Federal Government has no authority to determine or control what domestic or commercial consumers pay. Local rates are fixed locally by state or municipal agencies. The consumer allows himself to be deceived when he accepts the idea that his natural gas bill is made high by men far away in Texas—or that it can be made lower by men far away in Washington. What the consumer pays is determined usually in his own community.

This fact cannot be too strongly emphasized: Even if the price of natural gas were frozen permanently at present levels, the customers in St. Louis—and elsewhere—would probably continue to pay an increasing cost for it through the years.

The customer is, in a real sense, not paying for gas so much as he is paying for service—the finest service obtainable. At the turn of a knob, natural gas is in the customer's home, ready to cook or heat, any time, day or night, every day in the year. No shoveling, no telephoning, no storage, no inconvenience whatsoever is necessary with natural gas, and that is what the customer pays to enjoy.

Steel Pipe a Factor.

In the final analysis, the price of steel pipe or the overtime wages of local meter readers may have more to do with boosting the consumer's gas bill than the field price of natural gas itself. I am reasonably certain that Senator Douglas would not criticize the Steelworkers Union for their recent success in negotiating for a modified guaranteed annual wage, but that wage contract—resulting in a $7.50 per ton increase in steel prices—will mean higher gas bills for many present and all future natural gas consumers.

The illogic of the Federal control argument assumes even more astonishing proportions when it is realized that—wherever it is presently sold, whatever its current selling price—natural gas represents the best fuel bargain available to consumers in that area.

As a fuel for homes, business establishments, or industry natural gas is the finest obtainable. The entire interstate market for natural gas which has opened since World War II—extending service to 9,000,000 residential users—has been a replacement market in which natural gas has been voluntarily substituted for other fuels, principally oil and coal. Other fuels have done—and could do—the job which natural gas performs. But natural gas is cleaner, cheaper, and more efficient. Natural gas is preferred by those who want the best.

If the thesis is accepted that the fuel bills of America's families are matters of concern to the Federal Government, then by no logic can it be accepted that natural gas merits first attention. Since the end of World War II price controls, the consumer costs for coal and fuel oil have skyrocketed 100 per cent—the price of natural gas in the Consumers Price Index has advanced only 12 per cent. In the same period, food has gone up 65.2 per cent, clothing 36.6 per cent, rents 41.1 per cent, and the over-all cost of living 49.7 per cent.

Senator Douglas—and others of his persuasion—neglect these facts, undertake no crusades to "save" the coal user from the producer. Obviously, somewhere along the way, some perspective has been lost on this issue. The natural gas consumer is not petitioning for relief from exorbitant prices; quite the contrary, in the state of Illinois more than 300,000 families—presently "captive consumers" of competitive fuels—are on waiting lists for natural gas service.

This would suggest that possibly the people understand the statistics about natural gas better than the proponents of Federal control. In his article, Senator Douglas dwelled at length on the statistic that passage of pending legislation preserving the independent producer's exemption from Federal utility-type regulation would mean, according to "reasonable estimates," an increase to consumers of $600,000,000. In support, he cited industry experts who offered estimates of how much—on a comparative basis—natural gas would be worth if it were selling for the same price as competitive fuels such as coal and oil. This figure of $600,000,000 is an absurdity, of course, but it does constitute the best evidence of the bargain of natural gas field prices.

This sort of mathematical contortion is—as it is meant to be—enough to frighten reason out of any discussion of this issue, but such propaganda techniques are unacceptable as a basis for decisions about national policy by the public—or by Congress.

Years of Propaganda.

Ten years of propaganda have persuaded many good people that the big figures and hypothetical statistics are, in reality, facts. It is an uninviting labor—like trying to dissuade believers in Flying Saucers—that there is less there than meets the eye.

The fact is that the natural gas issue is not a dollars-and-cents issue. The real issue is supply—not price, and many of the consumers' self-appointed protectors are rendering a real disservice by obscuring that basic truth.

From the beginning, the monumental error of the advocates of Federal intervention in the producing field has been the careless conclusion that because natural gas is distributed by utilities the production of gas is automatically a utility function, also, subject to utility regulation.

This is not true.

The gas utility is selling, primarily, service. On a daily average, the residential user pays the utility 18 cents for bringing gas to him and pays only 2 cents for the gas itself.

Prices Not Directly Related.

The two prices are not directly related. One may rise while the other falls or remains constant. In St. Louis, for example, the field price of natural gas consumed in the city increased 4 cents per thousand cubic feet from 1949 to 1953, while the cost to consumers for typical home use rose 12.4 cents over the same period. From 1952 to 1953, the field price for St. Louis natural gas advanced 0.2 cent, the price at the city gate rose 5.2 cents, and the price to home consumers increased 9.5 cents.

Any gas utility in the United States can—and some of them do—delivered manufactured gas, rather than natural gas, through their mains. The gas is manufactured from coal. Rising coal prices mean rising gas prices in such circumstances. No city has asked—and no member of Congress has suggested — that the Federal Government should assume jurisdiction over coal production to fix the ultimate price of manufactured gas, yet the relationship is exactly comparable with the role natural gas accupies.

Our whole concept of utility regulation is against the argument that federal power should be used to fix and freeze field prices of natural gas. Utility rates—even though regulated—vary with changing economic conditions, and the pretense that a federal freeze on gas prices would be mere utility regulation is a sham. What the proponents of federal gas controls are asking is the introduction into our political system of a punitive, arbitrary, selective exploitation of individual commodities on a politcal basis.

The inapplicability of the utility concept to natural gas production is further illustrated by the recent action of the City of Memphis in announcing plans to build its own municipal electric power station. Memphis can—at this distant point—predict the costs of its undertaking and determine the level of consumer rates to be charge. This is a true utility situation.

Cost of Finding Gas.

By the same measure, hundreds of American cities want natural gas—one pipeline alone has been petitioned for service by 149 cities. The cities cannot, on their own, simply undertake to supply their own gas needs. Natural gas must be found, not made. Where it might be found, how much it might cost to find it are unpredictables. On the average, nine wells must be drilled before one producing well is found. At costs from $100,000 to $1,000,000 per well—dry holes included—the outlay would be astronomical, with no certainty of success.

Obviously, the producer cannot be treated as a utility. If, as some suggest, the Federal Government should apply the utility principle and guarantee a return on investment—including the expenses of the search for gas, dry holes and all—the result would be a gigantic subsidy to the inefficient and unsuccessful and a penalty to the efficient producer. It is quite clear now that if Senator Douglas had his way the producer would sensibly sell his high cost gas—the gas in which he had the most invested—into interstate commerce and keep the low cost gas at home in intrastate channels. This would be a particularly unnecessary burden for the interstate consumer, the folly of an unrealistic theory.

There is another element to consider. Already it has been mentioned that natural gas is not selling—and has never sold—for its relative worth on a heat content basis with competitive fuels. Gas at the well-head sells for less than half the value of coal at the mine-face and one-fifth as much as oil at the well.

Oil Finances Gas.

This unusual economic bonanza results from the fact that, for 50 years, the discovery of natural gas has been subsidized by the search for oil. Until recent years, natural gas was considered economically worthless. Discovery was largely accidental, but through years of oil exploration a great "stockpile" of natural gas reserves accumulated.

The end of World War II—and the improvement of pipeline transmission facilities—opened, for the first time, access to vast new markets outside the Southwest. Consumption since that time has more than tripled in the 35 gas-importing states and some 25,000,000 families now use it.

Today natural gas has a value which it never had before. Also there is built up a tremendous demand to find natural gas. The supplies are exhaustible; there is not enough to go around to everybody or to last forever.

The consumer's interest—the public interest—lies in finding more and more gas. What it will cost to find it no one can predict, because no search for gas has ever been financed as such. At present the petroleum industry is spending some $3,100,000,000 annually on the discovery, development, and production of oil and gas reserves combined.

If we set our Federal policy by the principle that the producer should get no more for natural gas in the future than he received in the past, then we will, necessarily, collapse the search for additional reserves. Independent gas producers are no different than Illinois farmers, St. Louis manufacturers, Wisconsin dairymen — they are not going to labor to produce a commodity which governmental policy makes uneconomic to market.

In regard to supply, no segment of the natural gas industry has a greater interest in maintaining adequate supply than the pipelines; otherwise, they could not operate. The Federal Power Commission determined some time ago that it was in the public interest to encourage the pipelines to search for natural gas, find their own reserves.

Fair Return Theory.

Senator Douglas takes issue with this, holding that the pipelines should be able to charge only on the basis of a fair return on their investment—not the reasonable market price. In many instances, the costs as determined by investment figures on a public utility formula are above the reasonable market price. In other cases, of course, the reverse is true.

For example, in the El Paso Natural Gas Co. case the most recent pertinent decision — the FPC found the marketed price of the company's gas to be $4,970,000. Had Senator's Douglas' formula been applied, the cost to consumers would have been $5,060,000—plus return, plus federal income tax amounting to several million more.

The system now used by the commission — and embodied in the Harris-Fulbright bills before Congress—will benefit the public interest far more than Senator Douglas's unrealistic effort to impose public uitility formulae upon the nation's commodity producers.

The point is well established that—for all the good intentions which may serve as motivation—the exponents of federal jurisdiction over the nation's gas producers are out of touch with reality and are working against—not for—the consumer's interest.

The public interest in natural gas lies in finding more and more supplies. If the producer is treated as a public utility, the search for gas to supply the interstate market will no longer be justified.

Pending Bills.

Congress now has before it on the calendar of each House, legislation to establish a new, workable pattern of Federal regulation — regulation to supplement but not supplant the authority of the states and municipay governments. The bills are H. R. 6645, by Representative Oren Harris of Arkansas in the House, and S. 1853, which I introduced in the Senate.

These bills exempt the producer from utility regulation, but they do not leave the Federal Power Commission powerless—or the consumer defenseless—against unreasonable price increases. For the first time, the Commission is given real authority to control what the producer is paid by the pipeline. Interstate transporters cannot pass on to consumers more than the reasonable market price as determined by the Commission.

The consumer benefits and the producer benefits and the national economy benefits. It is a workable, effective, reasonable system which Senator Douglas elected in his article to dismiss by saying that the "reasonable market price" standard was "useless" and "window dressing."

As shown in this article, Senator Douglas's own scheme for something other than a reasonable price would actually cost the consumers millions of dollars more.

Selective Price Controls.

In a free competitive economy, it is a hazardous business to undertake to single out individual commodities for artificial price controls by the central government. Once the government begins to pick and choose, its decisions are controlled by political considerations—not by sound economics. This leads inevitably to exploitation of the less powerful by the more powerful— the wages of labor, the products of the farmers, the output of individual plants and industries all become fair game once the precedent is set.

The bugaboo of monopoly is injected into the issue extraneously. There are more than 2000 natural gas producers competing vigorously for leases, discoveries, the privilege of producing and of finding markets in which to sell. Of the 453 separate manufacturing industries considered standard in the United States economy, 382 have a higher concentration of ownership than does natural gas production.

Monopoly Factor.

We have a great body of antitrust laws in the land to protect the public against monopoly. These are applicable to the natural gas industry as much as to any other. Nowhere among those laws, however, is it suggested that the proper remedy for monopoly is governmental price-fixing—which is the course some seem now to want to follow.

The public—particularly the gas consumers—would do well to begin taking a more careful and more searching look at the arguments advanced by those who want Congress to beat a hasty stampede into the experiment of virtually Federalizing a basic producing industry.

Every Federal agency which has examined this natural gas question through the years has, after learning the facts, concluded that the public interest would be best served by maintaining gas producers free of utility controls.

The Federal Power Commission reached that decision first shortly after the Natural Gas Act was passed—and then—Commissioner Leland Olds, one of the present champions of Federal regulation, was among those who voted for the exemption which Congress proposes now to re-establish in the law. Today the F.P.C. is still asking Congress to write that exemption firmly into the law.

Both House and Senate Interstate Commerce Committees, by bipartisan votes, have recommended passage of the Harris-Fulbright bills.

AMERICANS NOT LIKED IN ONE FRENCH TOWN

Ranked Far Down Popularity List by Nouville in U.N. Survey.

PARIS, July 30 (UP) — Americans are not very well liked or trusted in one little village of France.

A United Nations survey showed that the people in a town called Nouville rank Americans far down the list of popular foreigners behind Belgians, Englishmen, Russians and Swiss.

In the trustworthy department, the Nouvillites put Americans last and Russians first.

It probably isn't surprising then that the people of Nouville failed to mention Americans among the most civilized nations. Their choices were the French, Swiss and English.

These bits of information were included in a United Nations survey of prejudices around the world published yesterday by the sponsoring U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The survey also revealed that the British, in general, consider Americans progressive, conceited, generous, peace-loving, intelligent and practical.

The British apparently think Americans are good gadgeteers, also. The survey showed that when an Englishman buys an American gadget, he expects it to work.

A group of young Japanese, asked what countries they considered superior to their own and in what ways, listed the Germans tops in science and technology, followed by the United States and Russia.

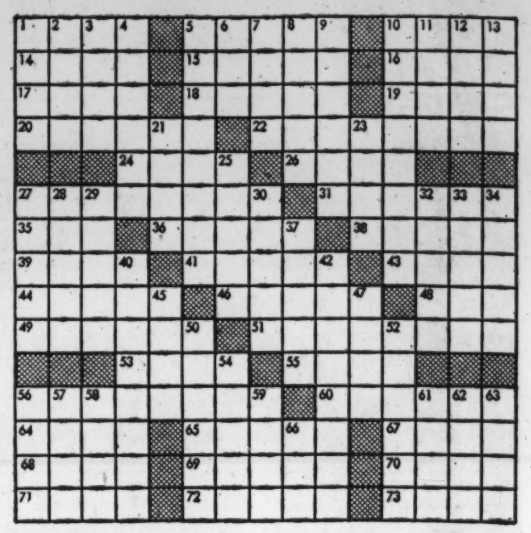

They regarded France as the first nation in the world intellectually and Switzerland the most advanced politically.

MRS. SORKIN TO TOUR BASES

Mrs. Cylvia A. Sorkin, St. Louis officer of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will visit American bases in Europe where service women are stationed next month. She will make the trip in her capacity as member of the Defense Advisory Committee for Women in the Services.

New Building For Insurance Firm on Lindell

Plans for construction of a divisional headquarters building for the General Insurance Co. of America on a 160-foot site at 3750 Lindell boulevard, were announced yesterday by W. L. Campbell, president, at the company's home office in Seattle, Wash., and John B. Scurry, resident vice president in St. Louis.

Demolition of old buildings on the property has been completed and construction of the new building will start immediately, Scurry said. Completion is scheduled for June, 1956.

The property, which is 213 feet deep, formerly consisted of three parcels. Rodemyer-Christel & Co., assembled the site and represented the insurance firm in the purchase of the property.

The new 3-story building, of modern design with year-around air conditioning, will have a lower level and two upper floors, with total space of 45,000 square feet. Parking will be provided for approximately 100 cars.

A "tower effect" will be achieved by working a "core principle" into the design of the building. This tower will contain service facilities such as air-conditioning equipment, elevator controls, electrical vault and air shaft. Proposed plans are to use "lift slab" construction in which floors and roof are poured at ground level and then raised to position by hydraulic jacks. The Austin Co., which designed the building and is general contractor, is licensed by the Institute of Inventive Research to use this technique

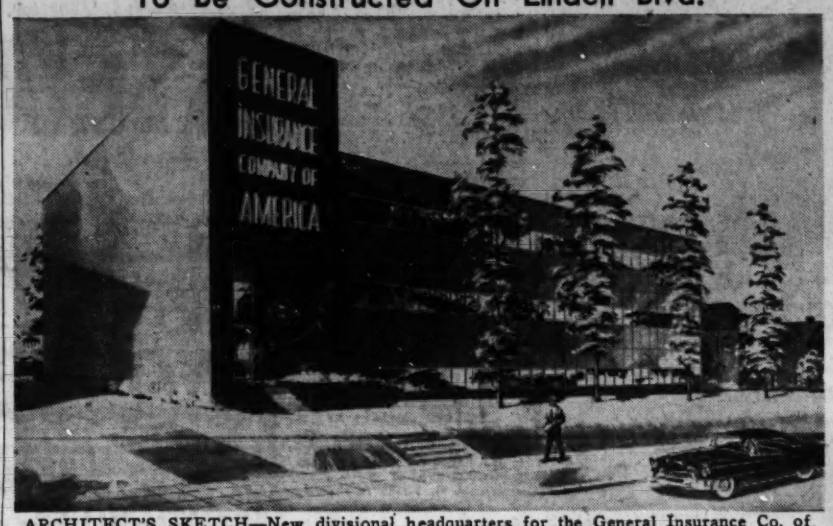

The company's St. Louis office, established here since 1927, is now in the Buder Building at 707 Market street. Scurry said the company required more space to take care of expanded operations.

LEASED BY BANK

The First National Bank in St. Louis has leased the seventh floor, containing 9500 square feet of floor space, in the 511 Locust Building. The area will be used by the bank until completion of remodeling of its own building.

Lease negotiations were handled by the Edward L. Bakewell Real Estate Co.

To Be Constructed On Lindell Blvd.

ARCHITECT'S SKETCH—New divisional headquarters for the General Insurance Co. of America at 3750 Lindell is scheduled for completion next June. Rodemyer-Christel & Co. represented the insurance company in the purchase of three properties involved in the site. The Austin Co. is general contractor.

Recently Completed Medical Building

HAS 10 OFFICE SUITES—Maria Medical Center erected at the southwest corner of West Florissant and Park Lane for Harry F. Steinle. The building, 125 by 125 feet, has adjoining parking facilities for 70 cars. $175,000 is the reported cost of the improvements and the lot. Joseph Biritz was the architect and general contractor.

From Lumber Sales To Automobile Deals

EXTENSIVE ALTERATIONS UNDER WAY—Property at the southeast corner of Natural Bridge and Goodfellow acquired from the Hill-Behan Lumber Co. by the Mallory Buick Co. Approximately $150,000 is being spent for modernization and installation of equipment. The sale was negotiated by the Glick Real Estate Co., Inc.

Has Air-Conditioning, Six Bedrooms and an Elevator

THREE ACRES OF FORMAL GARDENS—Residence at 1601 South Warson road, Ladue, on a 48-acre tract acquired by the Oxenhandler Realty Corp. from Mrs. Horton Watkins, whose agent was Mary Potter Love, Inc. The property, with the exception of the residence and three acres, was resold to Arthur Fischman and Louis Steinbaum for development into homesites.

Natural Bridge And Goodfellow Property Sold

Plans for a $150,000 modernization and equipment installation program for the Mallory Buick Co., in buildings recently purchased at the southeast corner of Goodfellow and Natural Bridge, have been reported by Morton Mallory, president of the new agency.

The property, acquired from the Hill-Behan Lumber Co., fronts 326 feet on Natural Bridge and 258 feet on Goodfellow.

The purchase price was reported as "in the neighborhood of $200,000."

Improvements include two buildings, both of which are being extensively remodeled. The main building, fronting on the two thoroughfares, will be converted in offices, showroom space with wide areas of glass construction, and service department with 15,000 square feet of floor space. There will be general offices, three private offices, three closing offices, service manager's office and sales conference room. Interior colors will be red, white and blue.

Features of the shop include 18 two-post hydraulic lifts, white enamel work benches for each mechanic, a white painted floor (rather unusual in a garage), and a battery of eight exhaust fans.

Exterior improvements include a deep aluminum valance around the building.

A rear building, 80 by 145 feet and formerly used for storage, is being converted into a body shop, new-car "get ready" department and areas for polishing and undercoating.

Main entry to the sales rooms and offices is at 5730 Natural Bridge. Entrance to the shop area is off Natural Bridge with exits on Goodfellow.

George Burg, architect, designed the changes with Richard H. Sherman as general contractor.

The sale of the property from Hill-Behan to Mallory was made through Glick Real Estate Co., Inc.

NAMED REPRESENTATIVE

Thomas E. Bayer has been named a local representative of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers with headquarters in Chicago, Ill., according to Robert Sargent, president of the St. Louis County Real Estate Board. One of Bayer's primary duties will be to stimulate panel discussions on brokerage problems at local levels.

Building Sold In 1100 Block On Olive Street

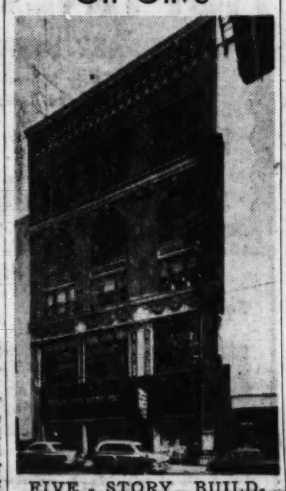

A five-story and basement building at 1105-09 Olive street, containing 40,000 square feet of floor space and fronting 66 feet on the north side of Olive, has been purchased by Harold and Melvin Dubinsky from the Avon Realty Co.

W. A. Reed, St. Louis branch manager for Remington-Rand, principal tenant of the building for a number of years, said yesterday that negotiations have just been completed by the company for the purchaseof a site at the southwest corner of Lindell and Sarah and that ground would be broken within 60 days for construction of a modernistic four-story building as part of Remington-Rand's expansion program.

Plans of the new owners of the Olive street property are to extensively modernize the building when the lease by Remington-Rand expires June 1, 1956. Jack Dubinisky & Sons handled the transaction for the buyers and seller.

Elected Assistant Treasurer.
At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Community Federal Savings & Loan Association of Overland, Glennon Runde was elected assistant treasurer of the organization.

On Olive

FIVE-STORY BUILDING—At 1105-09 Olive street bought by Harold and Melvin Dubinsky from the Avon Realty Co. Jack Dubinsky & Sons acted for buyer and seller.

Mortgage Bankers Convention.
The forty-second annual convention of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America will be held at the Statler and Biltmore Hotels in Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 31 through Nov. 3, with an anticipated attendance of nearly 3000 persons from all parts of the United States, Canada, Latin America and Hawaii.

WESTROADS CENTER SPACE LEASED BY JEWELRY COMPANY

Stix, Baer & Fuller announced yesterday that the Hess & Culbertson Jewelry Co., founded in 1883, will be a tenant in Westroads Center, the suburban shopping development being built by Stix, Baer & Fuller at the intersection of Clayton and Brentwood boulevard in Richmond Heights.

At the same time, it was reported that the jewelry firm had renewed the lease of its downtown quarters at the southeast corner of Ninth and Olive streets for 10 years, as of April, 1956.

The Hess & Culbertson store will contain 1728 square feet of floor space. It will have a marble facade and will be air conditioned. Located in the northernmost of the two buildings which flank the court west of the Stix, Baer & Fuller store, the shop will be easily accessible from the parking area.

All of the departments in the downtown store, located at Ninth and Olive streets since 1925, will be contained in the new store. In addition, varied lines of china and crystal will be added to both the Westroads and downtown stores to complete the bridal department.

Designed by architects, Jamieson, Spearl, Hammond & Grolock, the Hess & Culbertson store is scheduled to open late this fall.

FRANKLIN AVE. LEASE

A two-story building at 3327 Franklin avenue has been leased by Sidney La Rose to Erwin and Joseph Podolsky of Podolsky Brothers Wholesale Grocers, now at the southwest corner of Tenth and Howard streets.

The lease was negotiated for all parties by the Henry R. Weisels Co.

SEWING-VACUUM CLEANER FIRM EXPANDS ON S. GRAND

ABC Vac., Inc., has moved from 3210 South Grand to recently leased larger quarters at 3204-06 South Grand. This is the second expansion in four years for the sewing machine and vacuum cleaner business, according to Medford W. Stacey, president of the firm. The new quarters contain 7000 square feet of air-conditioned sales and service department space on the first floor and 5000 square feet of warehousing area in the basement.

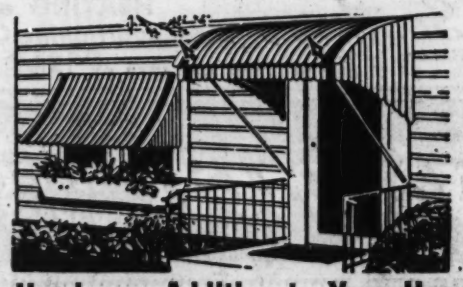

The property is owned by Hyman and Blanche Bournstein and was leased through the Joseph L. Kohner Realty Co.

BUILD IT YOURSELF WITH CRAFT PATTERNS BY A. NEELY HALL

Keep Your House Cool

568 A PLYWOOD DOOR CANOPY

★ If your home was built without weather protection for its side or rear door, you probably will be interested in the attractive canopy shown above. You can build one quickly because it has few parts, no complicated cutting and assembling, and requires no skill to build. Craft Pattern 568 shows full-size patterns for marking out the pair of side brackets, shows the size to cut the top, and details the assembling and trimming. One 4-by-4-ft. panel of ¾-in. exterior type of plywood and several pieces of stock lumber will do the job. The pattern is adjustable to meet any problem your doorway may present, whether wall is of brick, stone or frame.

30-INCH HOMEMADE ATTIC FAN

LOUVERED ATTIC FAN HOUSING

★ Enjoy refreshing sleep in air-conditioned rooms by installing an attic fan. You may prefer a commercial fan, but Pattern 575 shows how to build one, and Pattern 576 shows how to mount the fan and how to build in the ventilating louvers for it.

★ Send 25 cents each for the Craft Patterns 568, 575 and 576; $1.25 each for the Boat Packet (20 patterns), Windmill Packet (12 patterns), Playground Apparatus Packet (17 patterns), and Garden Furniture Packet (22 patterns). Send 25 cents for illustrated catalog of more than 800 patterns available.

ON AIR CONDITIONING
ALUMINUM AWNINGS

Made Here in St. Louis!
The addition of "ALUMA KRAFT" Aluminum Awnings to your home means you'll require an air conditioning unit of smaller, less expensive size than would otherwise be necessary since the heat load it will have to offset will be smaller. If you already have air-conditioning in your home . . . "ALUMA KRAFT" Awnings will cut down the cost of operating your cooling system considerably. In an awning shaded home, there is less inside heat. The air-conditioner does less work with a consequent reduction in cost of operation.

Profile House To Be Formally Opened Today

Formal opening of the All-Electric Profile Home at 1318 Marlann drive, in Baberry Hill, a quarter mile north of Manchester and one block east of Bopp road, will be held today.

The house was built by the D.M.T. Development and Construction Co., Inc., and is being promoted on a co-operative basis by Famous-Barr Co., Westinghouse Electric Corp. and Union Electric Co.

In addition to the heating, cooling and dehumidification, provided by the heat pump, the home is equipped with units which remove all odors, kill airborne bacteria and remove dust particles from the air within the home.

Built-in kitchen equipment provides freedom of design with an unusual and practical kitchen arrangement.

Planned lighting and installation set the pattern for convenient and enjoyable living.

The home is decorated throughout by Famous-Barr Co.

A feature of the house is a unique type of roof construction which combines uses of materials and construction designed to keep the interior of the house protected from summer heat.

The roofing shingles are white, which tends to reflect back the sun's rays before they enter the attic space. Immediately under the roof rafters a sheet of reflective foil is attached, and reflects back, to the outside air, any infra-red rays which penetrate the roofing material.

This construction, combined with large air vents on each end of the attic space, insures the attic space remaining at virtually the same temperature as the outdoor air.

In addition, there are four inches of bulk insulation in the ceiling joists and two-and-a-half-foot roof overhang which shades the windows on all sides of the house.

A heat pump automatically conditions the air in a home from hour to hour, season to season and year to year. Once heating and cooling temperatures have been set on the thermostat, the heat pump "remembers" them and in its single element both heats and cools, reversing itself as the weather fluctuates.

The house will be open to the public every day, except Mondays, until Oct. 15.

NEW SUBDIVISION OPENED ON 70-ACRE TRACT ON BOPP RD.

Opening of Frontenac Forest, a new luxury home development, was announced by Siteman-Adreon, Inc., last week. The wooded 70-acre development is on Bopp road, a half mile south of Clayton road, just north of Crystal Lake Country Club.

Frontenac Forest is being developed on what is said to be one of the last sizable tracts of virgin forest in St. Louis county. Siteman and Adreon said that they plan to retain the natural wooded beauty of the area and to style each home to blend with the site.

The development has sanitary sewers and is in the Ladue School district. It is protected by the zoning laws of Town and Country and Frontenac.

The subdivision features three- and four-bedroom brick ranch houses with full basement, oversized two-car garage and a five-ton central air-conditioning unit. Four basic floor plans have been developed by architect Robert G. McMahon.

A divided pavement parkway marks the entrance to the development and plans call for a large stone entrance to be erected soon. Visitors will receive a map of the 70-acre development at the entrance from representatives of Laura McCarthy, Inc., sales agent for Frontenac Forest.

LAUNDRY EQUIPMENT FIRM BUYS BUILDING ON EASTON

A mercantile and industrial building at 4724-38 Easton avenue has been purchased by I. G. Weingaertner & Sons, Inc., for expansion. The company, primarily engaged in buying, selling and repairing laundry machinery, has occupied part of the building under lease since 1941.

The property was sold by the John Neiner Co., Inc., which had acquired it in 1910 as headquarters for the manufacturer and sale of buggies under the name of the John Neiner Carriage Co. Later, the firm specialized in manufacturing, repairing and painting truck bodies.

The Korte Realty & Loan Co. negotiated the sale for all parties.

Controversy Over Extension Of GI Loan Date

By WILLIAM KERWIN

WASHINGTON, D. C. (INS)—Two years from now, an estimated eight to ten million World War II veterans are scheduled to lose their right to buy a home under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

A big question facing Congress next January is whether to extend the program beyond the July 25, 1957 deadline to give these veterans a new chance to use the loan benefit.

The problem does not affect veterans of the Korean War. They have ten years, until Jan. 31, 1965, to apply for farm, home or business loans through the Veterans Administration.

But the question of extending the World War II program, which carries the easiest credit terms in history, has already produced some controversy and threatens more before the issue is finally resolved.

At this point, most Washington officials expect Congress to vote an extension if for no other reason than the fact that it would be physically impossible to supply all the eligible veterans with homes before the operation expires.

Alabama's two Democratic senators, Lister Hill and John Sparkman, have introduced a bill to continue the program for three years until July 25, 1960. The measure has the support of the American Legion and segments of the housing industry.

But Chairman Olin E. Teague (Dem.) Tex., of the House Veterans Affairs Committee has informed housing industry leaders that he is opposed to extending the G.I. loan operation unless a strong case can be made for the action.

Teague is said to feel that the loan program is basically no different than the educational and unemployment benefits under the G.I. Bill of Rights which Congress has allowed to die.

Moreover, committee spokesmen say they are concerned over reports that about 25 per cent of the 3,750,000 G.I. home loans granted so far have been taken over by non-veterans buying the houses from the veteran originally owning the property.

But Sparkman contends the three-year extension is needed to avoid the "natural rush" that could develop into "panic buying" among veterans if the program definitely expires two years hence.

He declares: "There truly could develop a boom-and-bust proposition with greatly accelerated activity during the next two years followed by a sharp breakoff in the latter part of 1957."

In addition, the Alabama Democrat points out that the Korean War prevented many World War II veterans from using their loan benefit because of shortages of materials as well as financing.

Despits Teague's stand, political experts say that Sparkman's bill has more than an even chance of winning approval if it comes to a vote in the 1956 election year.

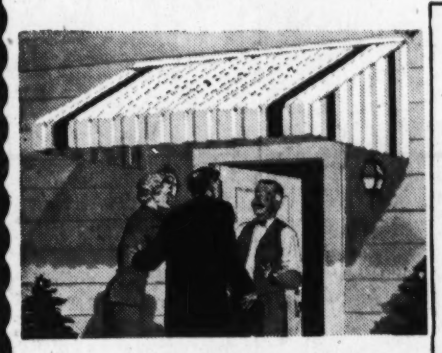

PLASTICS FIRM WILL MOVE FROM LINDELL TO LOCUST

Lease of a one-story building at 2700-02 Locust street, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gartenberg, has been signed by the W. V. Baron Plastics Co., which will move from 3333 Lindell boulevard as soon as alterations into office and factory space have been completed at the Locust street location.

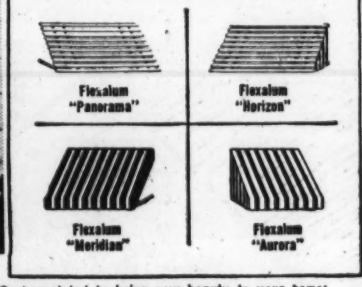

Rodemyer-Christel & Co. were agents for the owners with the Dubinsky Realty Co. acting for the plastics company.

what's so new about unit masonry?

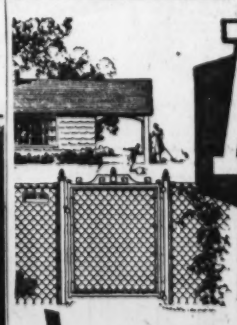

Not a thing. It's as old as the hills—or at least the pyramids and the Roman baths.
New ways of making and handling unit masonry* are being devised all the time, but the idea is ancient. Only the term is recent.
Unit masonry is a term that has come into use to describe the pieces (or units) that are used by masons or bricklayers to build houses, factories, skyscrapers, garden walls and other structures. The term includes brick, concrete block, glass block, marble, stone, and tile.
These materials offer many advantages—natural beauty, permanence, low maintenance, fire safety, lower insurance rates, design flexibility, termite protection and, naturally, higher resale value.
If you plan to buy or build, insist on unit masonry—the time-tested building materials that are always in style.

Glowing Summer Color

PERENNIAL GARDEN—Groupings of hemerocallis and hybrid lilies add glowing summer color to Mrs. George Peak's perennial garden at Columbia, Mo. Among daylily varieties are Maid Marian, Marie Wood, Garnet Robe, Potentate and Ruby Supreme. Groupings of the same color combinations are repeated at intervals through the border, lending a pleasing feeling of unity.

Easy-to-Grow Hemerocallis One of Most Useful Perennials

By ELEANOR B. McCLURE
Post-Dispatch Garden Writer.

Recently an out-of-town visitor asked for a list of hemerocallis gardens. Her particular interest, she said, was in use of daylilies for fine decorative effect.

I'll confess that this request stumped me. While I know of a number of fine daylily collections in this area, I could list just a few plantings that are really distinctive from the point of view of garden design.

That's truly surprising, for the daylily has quite properly been called "the mainstay of the summer garden." Dependable and floriferous, it is remarkably heat-and-drouth tolerant. By planting a proper selection of varieties, it is possible to have almost continuous bloom from mid-May until September.

Moreover, the easy-to-grow hemerocallis is surely one of the most useful of all perennials. Clumps of hems planted in bays or recesses of the shrubbery border will add brilliant color accents to what might otherwise be unrelieved walls of green.

Groupings of daylilies are also attractive beneath trees. For example, against the gray trunk of an old apple tree, try the golden yellow of Hyperion or Bountiful, or the rosy pink of Rosalind or Fulva rosea. Add bulbs and bluebells for spring color, and face the planting with ground cover. The willowy leaves of the hems contrast effectively with the distinctive foliage of Japanese spurge (Pachysandra terminalia), or English ivy.

Daylilies may also be used to provide a bright spot of color in a shaded area beside the house. Vines of ivy or euonymus may be used for the background. Groups of native ferns may be added, as well as bleeding heart, bluebells, primroses, lily-of-the-valley, columbines, wild phlox, various types of hostas, and other shade-tolerant plants.

Although purists would say that daylilies do not belong among wild flowers, we have planted them along the ravine in our woodland garden. Hems are wonderfully helpful on these steep banks, for their roots get a tenacious hold on the soil.

The flowers are never so large and beautiful when grown in deep shade, of course. Nevertheless, the plants make a fine springtime show and add gay spots of color in the long summer months.

For their landscape effect, we prefer the yellow and pink varieties. Just when the daffodils and bluebells have finished blooming, we have the first flowers of Earliana, Flavinia and Blanche Hooker.

Among the fine daylilies that bloom in June are pale yellow Primula and a lemon yellow variety called Mission Bells. Revolute has wavy petals and a green-tinted throat. A variety called Dorothea has large blooms in buff and pink tones, while Georgia, another pastel blend that has much the same coloring, blooms a little later.

One of the finer mid-season varieties is Vespers, a pale cream bloom that opens in the afternoon and then remains fresh the following day. Tall-growing Morpheus has bright gold flowers which are ruffled and recurved. We have found this variety most floriferous, and it has sunfast blooms that stay open in the evening and are delightfully fragrant.

In late summer, the yellow flowers of Autumn Daffodil and Autumn Prince make a bright foil for the lavender blooms of Lycoris, often called "the hardy amaryllis" or "Magic lily." These yellow hems are also very effective when planted beside the rosy flowers of perennial begonia (Begonia evansia) and blue-flowering hostas (Hosta lancifolia fortis).

Daylilies are perhaps most effective of all when combined with other flowers in the perennial border. Little Minor is decorative when planted among phlox divaricata and dwarf irises. Flavina and Earliana and Blanche Hooker will blend with May-flowering tulips, poppies and irises.

One Illinois gardener has planted yellow Primula with Blue Rhythm iris and that luscious pink poppy, Helen Elizabeth. The burnished tones of Brunette complement the yellow of iris Spun Gold. Linda, in cream and rosy tones, is handsome when it grows beside pink Monarda and blue and white rudbeckia.

Golden Hyperion makes a wonderful midsummer picture in the garden of Mrs. Thomas E. Harmon, in East St. Louis. Beside these sunny yellow flowers there are rosy pink phlox, rich blue Belladonna, Bellamosum and Pacific hybrid delphiniums, with highlights provided by clumps of shasta daisies.

In a beautiful garden at Columbia, Mo., Mrs. George Peak has combined daylilies of many colors with new hybrid lilies in gold, peach, apricot and red shades. In the foreground are feverfew, columbines, daisies, stokesia, platycodon, and airy masses of gypsophila. In the background are stately spires of blue and white delphiniums, spikes of lavender lythrum, and clumps of one of spectacular Olympia hybrid lilies. These lilies, improved centifolium hybrids, vary from four to seven feet in height, and their giant trumpets have truly ethereal beauty.

Why Summit Hall's Certified Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Makes a WEED-FREE LAWN That Won't Burn Out!

Meyer Z-52 Zoysia is the best all-around grass ever developed for America's home lawns. It spreads from plugs to form a lawn of cushiony turf that thrives in drought and extreme summer heat, goes for weeks without watering or mowing, eliminates weeds and crabgrass, and withstands heaviest wear, even in play areas. Reporting direct from Summit Hall Turf Farm, LOOK magazine (see current issue) calls our Meyer Z-52 Zoysia "Carefree Grass."

LOOK calls it "THE CAREFREE GRASS"

As first and foremost producer of this grass, we certify our material is the pure, parent stock originally developed by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture and the U. S. Golf Association Green Section. We guarantee it will grow in any soil from heaviest clay to lightest sand—even in so-called rock beds!
Rushed to you via Railway Express, our handy, 2" round plugs arrive precut, ready to plant. The U. S. Agriculture Dept. recommends plug planting for home-owners because it's easy, most reliable. Complete, illustrated directions accompany each order.
Plant plugs one foot apart, checkerboard fashion. In two complete growing seasons the plugs link together, forming lush, drought-proof, permanent turf.
Now is the time to plant. Order today. Use coupon and start your "Carefree" Zoysia lawn within a few days.
GUARANTEE
Every plug of Certified Summit Hall Meyer Z-52 Zoysia is guaranteed to grow or we replace.

Air-Conditioned Homes Cooling Family Temper

WASHINGTON—Family tempers which have a natural tendency to soar with hot summer temperatures are cooled off in air conditioned homes, a research team reported following a survey of the 22 families living in the "Air Conditioned Village" at Austin, Texas.

"The contribution of air conditioning most frequently mentioned by the owners was 'harmony and better disposition,'" the research team told the sponsors of the experimental village.

The village was built in early 1954 under the sponsorship of the Research Institute of the National Association of Home Builders, the Air-Conditioning Association and interested manufacturers. Each of the 22 houses had a central air conditioning system of different make and installation.

More, Better Sleep.

A major contributory factor to the better dispositions noted in the air conditioned homes undoubtedly was more and better sleep. The researchers found that adults in air conditioned homes averaged 8.1 hours of sleep a night during the summer months, while the persons living in non-air conditioned homes averaged only 6.9 hours. Ninety-five per cent of the adults in the village reported they felt rested after their night's sleep, while only 60 per cent of those interviewed outside the village felt that way.

The researchers found that the families living in the experimental village spent more time together during the hot summer days and evenings than did those with no air conditioning in their homes. There also was more "at home" entertaining by the villagers.

Less Time Cleaning.

Of particular interest to housewives was the finding that the air-conditioned houses required less dusting, less general cleaning and fewer hours required for laundry. An average of four hours a week was sufficient for the village housewife to clean her house, while her non-air-conditioned neighbor was required to spend an average of six. As for laundry, the village housewife spent only one-half the time washing clothes that the housewife living in a non-air-conditioned house did.

Fourteen of the wives in the non-air conditioned group took down drapes, installed seat covers on chairs and otherwise "decorated" for the summer, the researchers reported. By contrast, none of the housewives in the village did, although 16 of them had made a practice of "decorating for the summer" when they lived in homes without air conditioning.

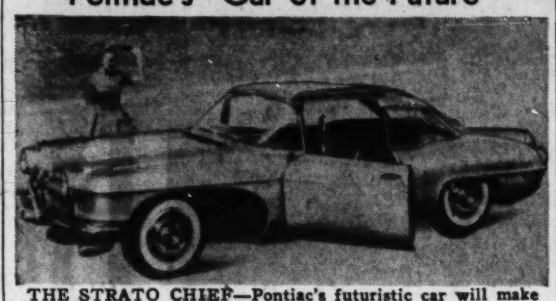

Ned A. Cole, Austin builder and a trustee of the NAHB Research Institute, is the project manager for the village. The engineering studies were prepared by C. W. Nessell, director, Mobile Laboratory, National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association. A full report on the village will be issued later in the year.

Oldsmobile's Experimental Delta

53 INCHES HIGH—Oldsmobile's experimental model, now on display locally, is a four-passenger close coupled coupe, 201 inches long and powered with a 250-h.p. "Rocket" engine. Unusual features include brushed aluminum roof, dual fuel tanks in the rear fenders, front seats that swivel for easy entry and cast aluminum wheels. The body is finished in two-tone metallic blue set off by ornamental chrome with the interior in blue leather and blue aluminum trim. The body, except the top, is made of fiberglass.

Pontiac's "Car of the Future"

THE STRATO CHIEF—Pontiac's futuristic car will make appearances the next two weeks, beginning Aug. 5, at three local dealers. The car, finished in silver lacquer with vermilion red interior and front fender cutouts, is 53 inches high. The top of the six-passenger coupe is supported by four slim airfoil sectioned pillows and specially formed glass to give uninterrupted vision. For easy access to the passenger compartment, hinged panels in the roof automatically raise when the doors of the car are opened.

SAVINGS AND LOAN PICNIC

The tenth annual Savings & Loan Institute picnic will be held Sat., Aug. 6, at Koehler Acres, off Highway 141. The event, a get together for the institute's employes, officers and their families, is sponsored by the St. Louis Chapter No. 8 of the American Savings and Loan Institute.

SECOND ANNUAL GLAD SHOW WILL BE HELD NEXT SUNDAY

The second annual regional show of the Missouri Gladiolus Society is to be held at the Missouri Botanical Garden Sunday, Aug. 7. The event will be open to all gladiolus growers, regardless of their place of residence, the only restriction being that all competitive entries (except arrangements) must have been grown by the exhibitor.

All exhibits must be in place by 10 a.m., when judging will begin. Judges will award first, second and third ribbons in all classes.

Norman Abrams, president of the society said that an invitation had been extended to florists to exhibit arrangements or baskets in a special non-competitive section.

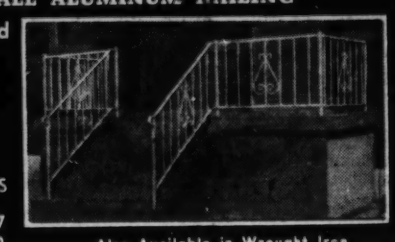

Growers need not belong to the Missouri Gladiolus Society in order to participate and no entry fees will be charged. Wilbert Willerding is chairman of the show.

what's so new about unit masonry?

Not a thing. It's as old as the hills—or at least the pyramids and the Roman baths.

New ways of making and handling unit masonry* are being devised all the time, but the idea is ancient. Only the term is recent.

Unit masonry is a term that has come into use to describe the pieces (or units) that are used by masons or bricklayers to build houses, factories, skyscrapers, garden walls and other structures. The term includes brick, concrete block, glass block, marble, stone, and tile.

These materials offer many advantages—natural beauty, permanence, low maintenance, fire safety, lower insurance rates, design flexibility, termite protection and, naturally, higher resale value.

If you plan to buy or build, insist on unit masonry—the time-tested building materials that are always in style.

Glowing Summer Color

Easy-to-Grow Hemerocallis One of Most Useful Perennials

By ELEANOR B. McCLURE
Post-Dispatch Garden Writer.

Recently an out-of-town visitor asked for a list of hemerocallis gardens. Her particular interest, she said, was in use of daylilies for fine decorative effect.

I'll confess that this request stumped me. While I know of a number of fine daylily collections in this area, I could list just a few plantings that are really distinctive from the point of view of garden design.

That's truly surprising, for the daylily has quite properly been called "the mainstay of the summer garden." Dependable and floriferous, it is remarkably heat-and-drouth tolerant. By planting a proper selection of varieties, it is possible to have almost continuous bloom from mid-May until September.

Moreover, the easy-to-grow hemerocallis is surely one of the most useful of all perennials. Clumps of hems planted in bays or recesses of the shrubbery border will add brilliant color accents to what might otherwise be unrelieved walls of green.

Groupings of daylilies are also attractive beneath trees. For example, against the gray trunk of an old apple tree, try the golden yellow of Hyperion or Bountiful, or the rosy pink of Rosalind or Fulva rosea. Add bulbs and bluebells for spring color, and face the planting with ground cover. The willowy leaves of the hems contrast effectively with the distinctive foliage of Japanese spurge (Pachysandra terminalia), or English ivy.

Daylilies may also be used to provide a bright spot of color in a shaded area beside the house. Vines of ivy or euonymus may be used for the background. Groups of native ferns may be added, as well as bleeding heart, bluebells, primroses, lily-of-the-valley, columbines, wild phlox, various types of hostas, and other shade-tolerant plants.

Although purists would say that daylilies do not belong among wild flowers, we have planted them along the ravine in our woodland garden. Hems are wonderfully helpful on these steep banks, for their roots get a tenacious hold on the soil.

The flowers are never so large and beautiful when grown in deep shade, of course. Nevertheless, the plants make a fine springtime show and add gay spots of color in the long summer months.

For their landscape effect, we prefer the yellow and pink varieties. Just when the daffodils and bluebells have finished blooming, we have the first flowers of Earliana, Flavinia and Blanche Hooker.

Among the fine daylilies that bloom in June are pale yellow Primula and a lemon yellow variety called Mission Bells. Revolute has wavy petals and a green-tinted throat. A variety called Dorothea has large blooms in buff and pink tones, while Georgia, another pastel blend that has much the same coloring, blooms a little later.

One of the finer mid-season varieties is Vespers, a pale cream bloom that opens in the afternoon and then remains fresh the following day. Tall-growing Morpheus has bright gold flowers which are ruffled and recurved. We have found this variety most floriferous, and it has sunfast blooms that stay open in the evening and are delightfully fragrant.

In late summer, the yellow flowers of Autumn Daffodil and Autumn Prince make a bright foil for the lavender blooms of Lycoris, often called "the hardy amarylliis" or "Magic lily." These yellow hems are also very effective when planted beside the rosy flowers of perennial begonia (Begonia evansia) and blue-flowering hostas (Hosta lancifolia fortis).

Daylilies are perhaps most effective of all when combined with other flowers in the perennial border. Little Minor is decorative when planted among phlox divaricata and dwarf irises. Flavina and Earliana and Blanche Hooker will blend with May-flowering tulips, poppies and irises.

One Illinois gardener has planted yellow Primula with Blue Rhythm iris and that luscious pink poppy, Helen Elizabeth. The burnished tones of Brunette complement the yellow of iris Spun Gold. Linda, in cream and rosy tones, is handsome when it grows beside pink Monarda and blue and white rudbeckia.

Golden Hyperion makes a wonderful midsummer picture in the garden of Mrs. Thomas E. Harmon, in East St. Louis. Beside these sunny yellow flowers there are rosy pink phlox, rich blue Belladonna, Bellamosum and Pacific hybrid delphiniums, with highlights provided by clumps of shasta daisies.

In a beautiful garden at Columbia, Mo., Mrs. George Peak has combined daylilies of many colors with new hybrid lilies in gold, peach, apricot and red shades. In the foreground are feverfew, columbines, daisies, stokesia, platycodon, and airy masses of gypsophila. In the background are stately spires of blue and white delphiniums, spikes of lavender lythrum, and clumps of one of spectacular Olympfa hybrid lilies. These lilies, improved centifolium hybrids, vary from four to seven feet in height, and their giant trumpets have truly ethereal beauty.

Why Summit Hall's Certified Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Makes a WEED-FREE LAWN That Won't Burn Out!

Meyer Z-52 Zoysia is the best all-around grass ever developed for America's home lawns. It spreads from plugs to form a lawn of cushiony turf that thrives in drought and extreme summer heat, goes for weeks without watering or mowing, eliminates weeds and crabgrass, and withstands heaviest wear, even in play areas. Reporting direct from Summit Hall Turf Farm, LOOK magazine (see current issue) calls our Meyer Z-52 Zoysia "Carefree Grass."

As first and foremost producer of this grass, we certify our material is the pure, parent stock originally developed by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture and the U. S. Golf Association Green Section. We guarantee it will grow in any soil from heaviest clay to lightest sand—even in so-called rock beds!

Rushed to you via Railway Express, our handy, 2" round plugs arrive precut, ready to plant. The U. S. Agriculture Dept. recommends plug planting for home-owners because it's easy, most reliable. Complete, illustrated directions accompany each order.

Plant plugs one foot apart, checkerboard fashion. In two complete growing seasons the plugs link together, forming lush, drought-proof, permanent turf.

Now is the time to plant. Order today. Use coupon and start your "Carefree" Zoysia lawn within a few days.

GUARANTEE

Every plug of Certified Summit Hall Meyer Z-52 Zoysia is guaranteed to grow or we replace.

Air-Conditioned Homes Cooling Family Temper

WASHINGTON—Family tempers which have a natural tendency to soar with hot summer temperatures are cooled off in air conditioned homes, a research team reported following a survey of the 22 families living in the "Air Conditioned Village" at Austin, Texas.

"The contribution of air conditioning most frequently mentioned by the owners was 'harmony and better disposition,'" the research team told the sponsors of the experimental village.

The village was built in early 1954 under the sponsorship of the Research Institute of the National Association of Home Builders, the Air-Conditioning Association and interested manufacturers. Each of the 22 houses had a central air conditioning system of different make and installation.

More, Better Sleep.

A major contributory factor to the better dispositions noted in the air conditioned homes undoubtedly was more and better sleep. The researchers found that adults in air conditioned homes averaged 8.1 hours of sleep a night during the summer months, while the persons living in non-air conditioned homes averaged only 6.9 hours. Ninety-five per cent of the adults in the village reported they felt rested after their night's sleep, while only 60 per cent of those interviewed outside the village felt that way.

The researchers found that the families living in the experimental village spent more time together during the hot summer days and evenings than did those with no air conditioning in their homes. There also was more "at home" entertaining by the villagers.

Less Time Cleaning.

Of particular interest to housewives was the finding that the air-conditioned houses required less dusting, less general cleaning and fewer hours required for laundry. An average of four hours a week was sufficient for the village housewife to clean her house, while her non-air-conditioned neighbor was required to spend an average of six. As for laundry, the village housewife spent only one-half the time washing clothes that the housewife living in a non-air-conditioned house did.

Fourteen of the wives in the non-air conditioned group took down drapes, installed seat covers on chairs and otherwise "decorated" for the summer, the researchers reported. By contrast, none of the housewives in the village did, although 16 of them had made a practice of "decorating for the summer" when they lived in homes without air conditioning.

Ned A. Cole, Austin builder and a trustee of the NAHB Research Institute, is the project manager for the village. The engineering studies were prepared by C. W. Nessell, director, Mobile Laboratory, National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association. A full report on the village will be issued later in the year.

Oldsmobile's Experimental Delta

53 INCHES HIGH—Oldsmobile's experimental model, now on display locally, is a four-passenger close coupled coupe, 201 inches long and powered with a 250-h.p. "Rocket" engine. Unusual features include brushed aluminum roof, dual fuel tanks in the rear fenders, front seats that swivel for easy entry and cast aluminum wheels. The body is finished in two-tone metallic blue set off by ornamental chrome with the interior in blue leather and blue aluminum trim. The body, except the top, is made of fiberglass.

Pontiac's "Car of the Future"

THE STRATO CHIEF—Pontiac's futuristic car will make appearances the next two weeks, beginning Aug. 5, at three local dealers. The car, finished in silver lacquer with vermilion red interior and front fender cutouts, is 53 inches high. The top of the six-passenger coupe is supported by four slim airfoil sectioned pillows and specially formed glass to give uninterrupted vision. For easy access to the passenger compartment, hinged panels in the roof automatically raise when the doors of the car are opened.

SAVINGS AND LOAN PICNIC

The tenth annual Savings & Loan Institute picnic will be held Sat., Aug. 6, at Koehler Acres, off Highway 141. The event, a get together for the institute's employes, officers and their families, is sponsored by the St. Louis Chapter No. 8 of the American Savings and Loan Institute.

SECOND ANNUAL GLAD SHOW WILL BE HELD NEXT SUNDAY

The second annual regional show of the Missouri Gladiolus Society is to be held at the Missouri Botanical Garden Sunday, Aug. 7. The event will be open to all gladiolus growers, regardless of their place of residence, the only restriction being that all competitive entries (except arrangements) must have been grown by the exhibitor.

All exhibits must be in place by 10 a.m., when judging will begin. Judges will award first, second and third ribbons in all classes.

Norman Abrams, president of the society said that an invitation had been extended to florists to exhibit arrangements or baskets in a special non-competitive section.

Growers need not belong to the Missouri Gladiolus Society in order to participate and no entry fees will be charged. Wilbert Willerding is chairman of the show.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH PICTURES

THE VANISHING BLIGHT

Nearly Cleared Plaza Area, as Seen From Union Station Tower

A FRESH NEW ATMOSPHERE of expansiveness is becoming more and more evident in downtown St. Louis as the clearing of the Plaza area pushes forward. Most of the dingy, decay-ridden buildings, and the shadowy, rat-infested alleys have disappeared, and the city's downtown skyscrapers now stand out boldly against the sky. This photo, taken from the clock tower of the Union Station, strikingly shows the broad, sunlighted vista that has replaced the blight. For the first time in decades the imposing St. John's Catholic Basilica (center) and the spired Centenary Methodist Church (left), which are to remain, stand out unobscured by drab neighbors. The tall Ford Apartments, beyond the Basilica towers, and the Eighteenth Street Garage (left center) also will be part of the future Plaza area. Most of the buildings shown along left side of Market street, some of them unroofed or partly battered down, have been removed in last few days. Other structures in the Ford Apartments block are yet to come down.

SACK OF SAIGON HOTEL

Hostelry Stormed After Anti-Communist Viet Nam Rally Turns Into Riot

Demonstrating students wave Nationalist flags and banners from windows and balcony of Saigon's Hotel Majestic during destructive riot that started from a peaceful protest that had encouragement of South Viet Nam government. Interior of five-story government-owned hotel was left a shambles.

With hands upraised, rioters file through the hotel's littered lobby at the direction of gun-carrying policemen, one of whom had been doused by stream from fire hose. Seven Viet Namese, a French woman and a French soldier were injured in the melee.

Almost under the feet of the milling crowd, an injured Viet Namese lies in street, his hands clasped over his pain-contorted face. Police said the man was beaten by rioters when he was mistaken for a Communist Vietminh sympathizer.

A PEACEFUL STUDENT anti-Communist demonstration in Saigon denouncing the partition of Viet Nam a year ago developed into a riot in which the city's leading hotel was sacked. The demonstration was staged on the first anniversary of the armistice that ended the long war in Indochina and divided the country. It was intended to show the unwillingness of South Viet Nam to consult with Communist government of North Viet Nam about elections next year.

The affair got out of hand when many of the 30,000 students, who had met at Saigon's City Hall, marched on the Hotel Majestic where the Indian-Polish-Canadian armistice commission has its headquarters. Leaders of the mob accused the commission of being partial to the Communist Vietminh regime in the north.

While a crowd outside jeered and threw stones at the windows, scores of rioters systematically wrecked the interior of the hotel. The invaders broke into rooms, smashed furniture, scattered guests' luggage and belongings. Trapped in a second-floor suite for an hour and a half was Mrs. Perle Mesta, former United States Minister to Luxembourg and noted Washington party-giver. In Saigon on a world tour, she out-talked the rioters who tried to break down her door until United States embassy guards rescued her.

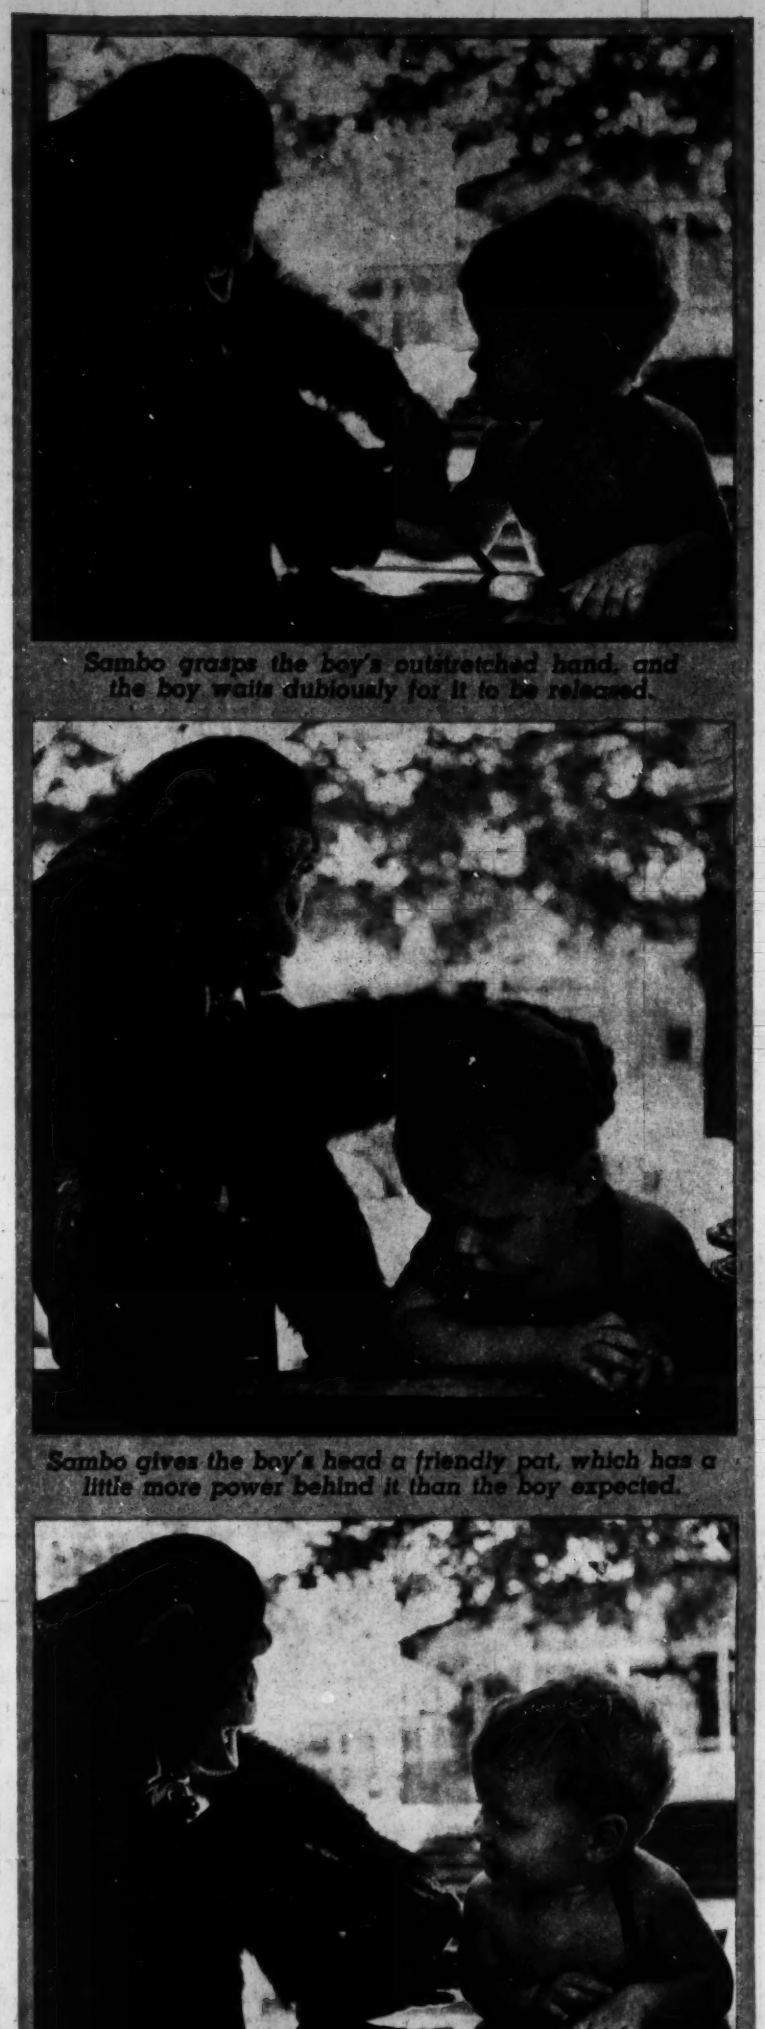

International News Photos

Automobiles parked in front of Hotel Majestic and furniture tossed from windows of the hostelry burn fiercely as firemen labor to bring the flames under control. The vehicles, which belonged to the armistice commission, were set afire by the mob. During the violent outbreak, two Communist members of the commission were manhandled; the first floor of the Gallieni Hotel, a block from the Majestic, also was wrecked. The South Viet Nam government charged that armed Communist provocateurs turned the anti-Communist demonstration into a riot. Thirty persons described as Communists were arrested.

SAMBO HOLDS COURT

Zoo Performer and a Little Boy Have a Cordial Visit

Sambo grasps the boy's outstretched hand, and the boy waits dubiously for it to be released.

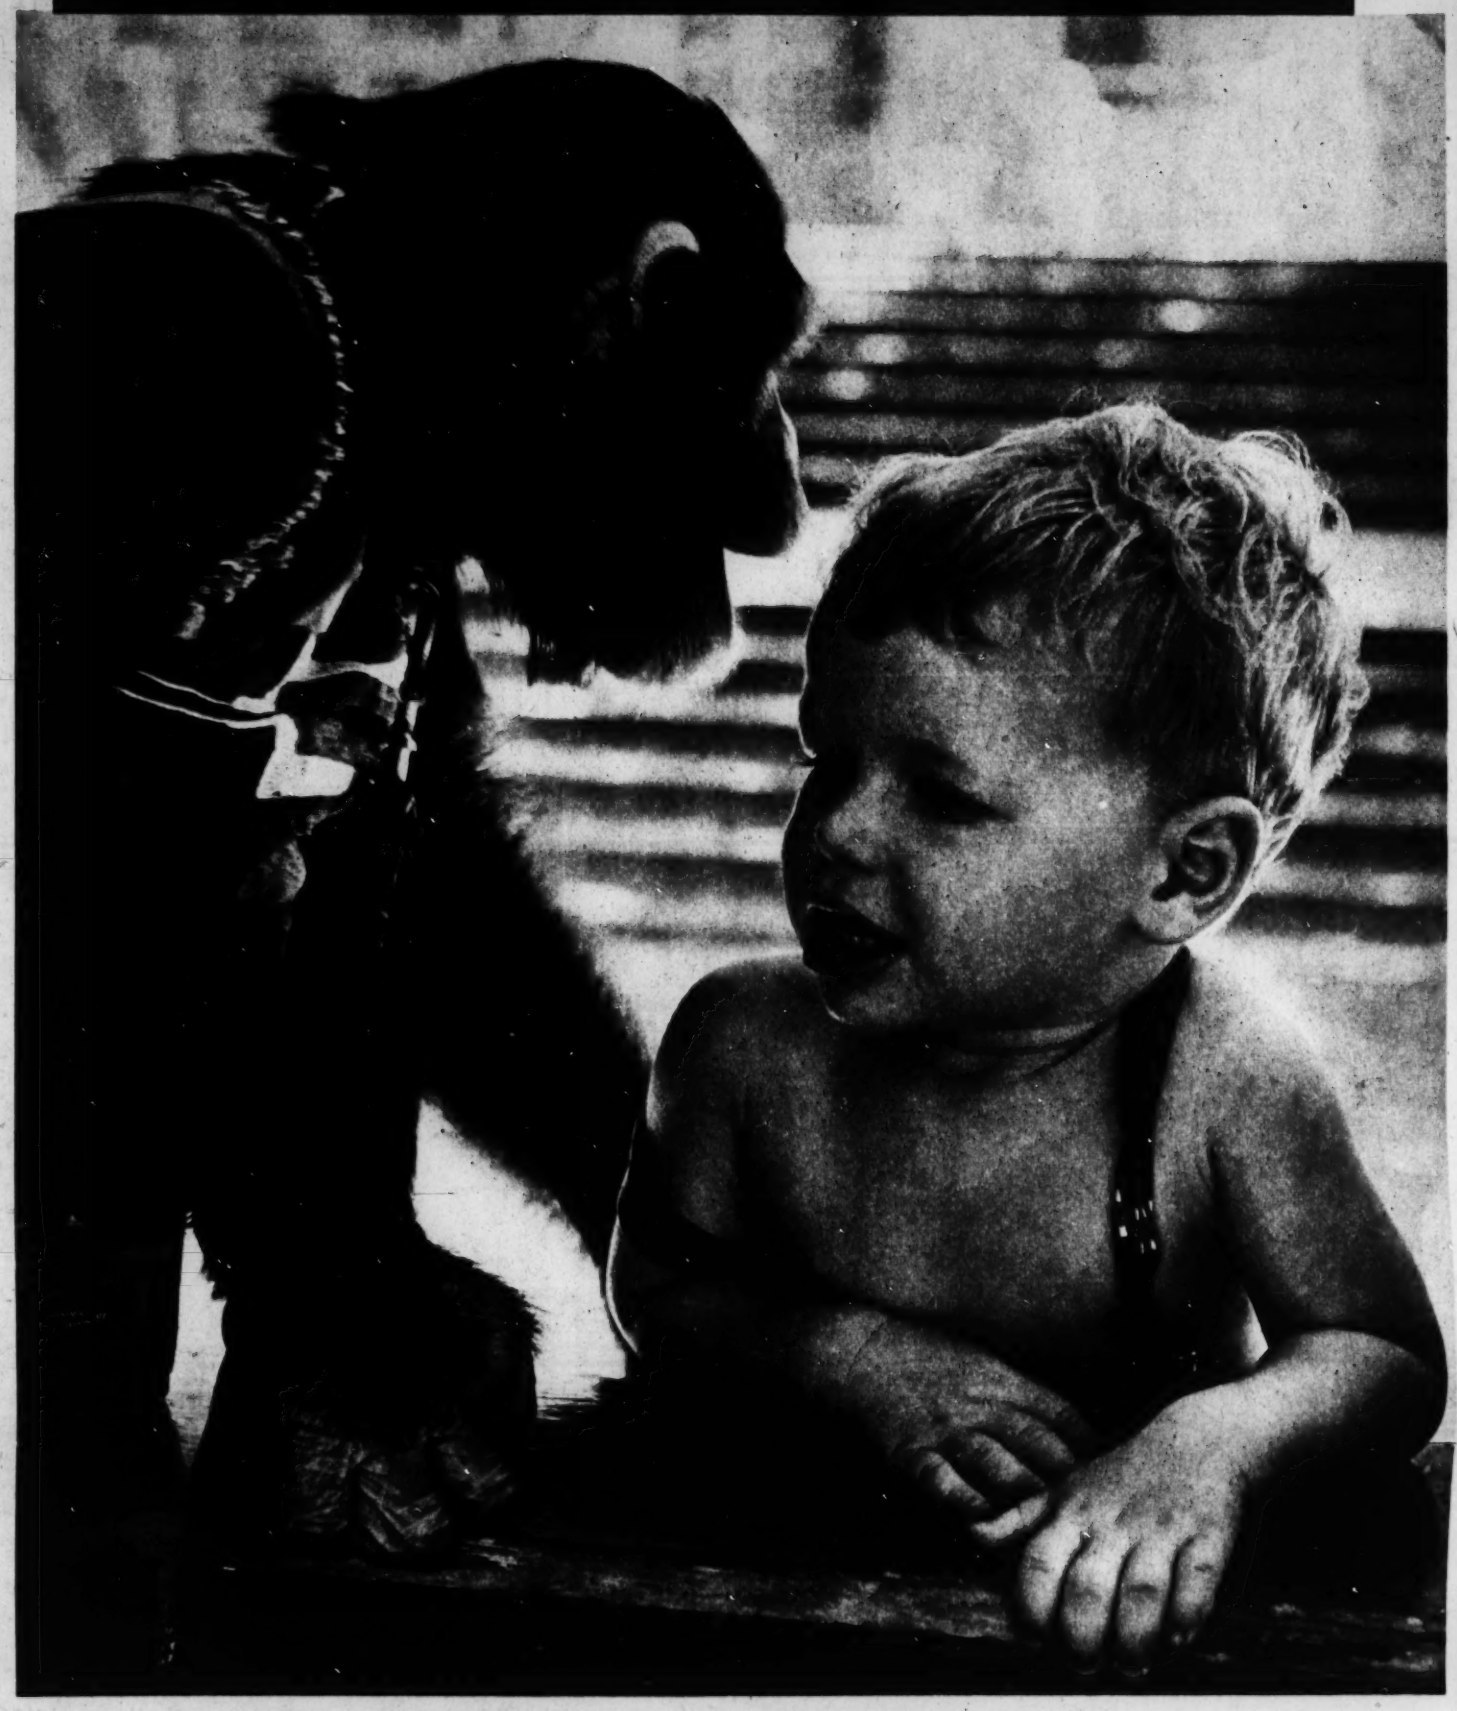

Sambo gives the boy's head a friendly pat, which has a little more power behind it than the boy expected.

Sambo calls attention to his toes, which the boy finds very interesting indeed.

With their relations on a basis of complete cordiality, Sambo and the boy exchange "See you later" looks.

A little boy accepts the invitation to get acquainted with Sambo. He leans comfortably on the counter as he and the chimpanzee fall into easy rapport.

By JOHN STIPE of the PICTURES Staff

SAMBO, a hard-working chimpanzee at the St. Louis Zoo, doubles as pitchman and performer. Before each day's chimp show, Sambo is the feature attraction at a souvenir stand on the midway outside the show arena. Zoo employes do the selling, but Sambo draws the crowd. He spends about 30 minutes outside, then is taken to a movable stand inside the arena for another hour of selling and meeting his public before going onstage. In his performing capacity, Sambo plays the part of Davy Crockett, rides ponies and skates.

Sambo is about 6 years old. He was bought from a professional wrestler by Zoo Director George Vierheller two years ago. Vierheller says Sambo is one of the most amiable animals he has ever known. Youngsters enjoy poking Sambo and pulling at his muscular arms, and Sambo often returns their caresses with pats of his own. Sambo seems to like children almost as much as he dotes on attention.

After the show, Sambo is moved back outside for more come-on work. During these off-stage appearances, parents are invited by loudspeaker to bring their children for a close-up visit. Some youngsters are uncomfortable in the animal's immediate presence, but others, apparently carried away by Sambo's ingratiating manner, seem surprised when he fails to talk with them. The fair-haired moppet shown in these photos is one of those completely at ease with Sambo as he holds court on the counter of the stand.

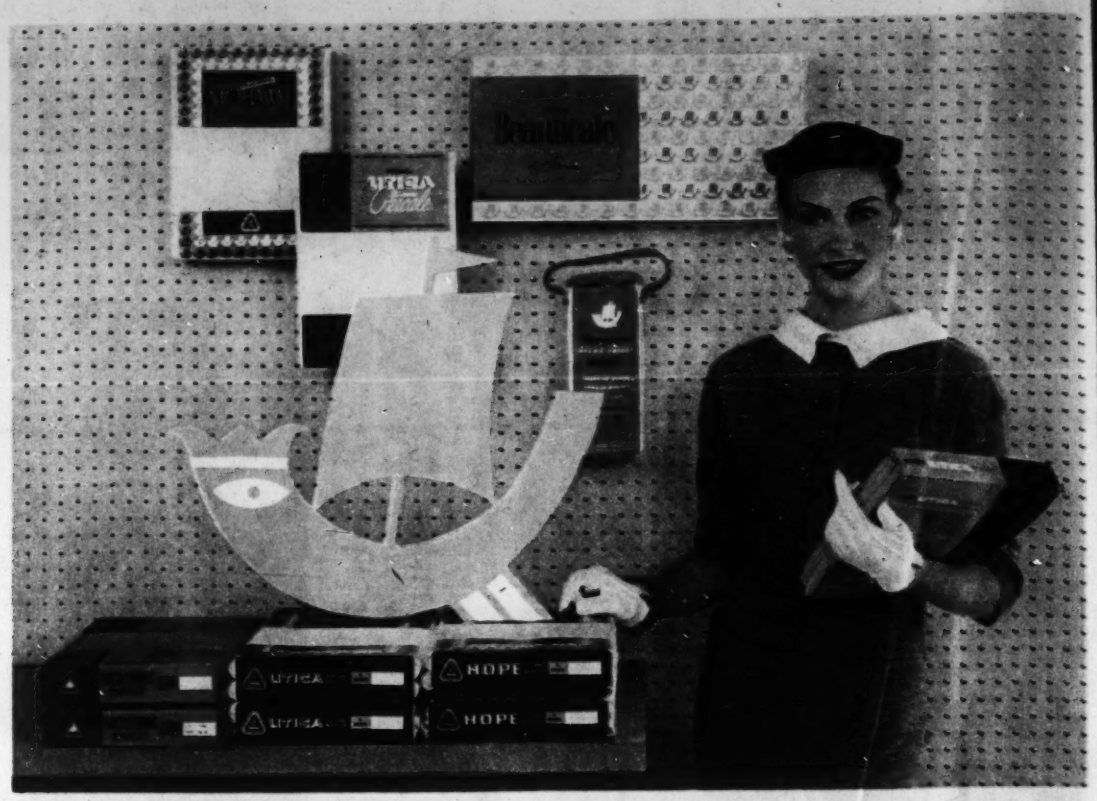

Photos by JACK GOULD of the PICTURES Staff

Inside the arena where stands are already filled, Sambo beams at children from his seat on novelties stand. Trainers Henry Ternes, bending over at left, and Ben Fridrich, at right, answer questions and wait on small customers. Director Vierheller believes that Sambo is the most photographed animal at the zoo.

COURTHOUSE ABLAZE

The roof of the Randolph County courthouse in Huntsville, Missouri, is enveloped in swirling flames and smoke during a fire that destroyed the roof and gutted the second story of the 71-year-old structure. The blaze started, apparently from an electrical short circuit, in the circuit court room. Huntsville firemen, assisted by the fire department of nearby Moberly, put out the blaze before it spread to the first floor. Records in the first-floor vault were not damaged. Huntsville is in north central Missouri.

"Just like the ravioli you'd enjoy at a fiesta in Sicily"

Ravioli is the traditional dish at Italian fiestas—like this one in Sicily. (It takes too long to make for everyday meals!)

You can serve this fiesta treat in minutes with Chef Boy-Ar-Dee Ravioli . . . you detect the authentic Italian flavor in every bite!

Tender macaroni pies filled with pure beef, simmered in a sauce of ripe red tomatoes, beef and rich beef stock – seasoned to perfection.

Chef Ravioli is perfect for lunch, supper, late-evening snacks. Ready to heat. Two servings per can—only about 14¢ a serving.

How about planning your own fiesta soon?

BOUNTY FOLLOWS THE DROUTH

THIS YEAR'S CORN—LAST YEAR'S TATTERS

This is what the corn looked like last year in the area of Clark's farm. First the sun seared it, then the grasshoppers —two can be seen on the stalk—moved in and chewed it to tatters. Some farmers cut what corn survived for fodder, or turned cattle into fields to graze on stalks.

Standing in the shade of cornstalks as much as 15 feet high, Tom Clark of Boone County is the picture of farmers whose hopes for a good crop have been happily fulfilled. Clark is looking at an ear picked at random in his 300 acres in the Missouri River bottoms. Last year Clark harvested around eight bushels an acre from some of his corn, lost most of his crop to the drouth. This year he expects to get 60 bushels, and looks for 80 to the acre if favorable weather continues to mid-August. Corn tassels were burned crisp last year in large areas of the state before corn had pollinated; this year the grains are already set and ears well-formed. Hot humid weather, cause of much urban complaint, is ideal for corn.

By OLIVER F. FINK of the PICTURES Staff

MISSOURI'S FARMS ARE LUSH AND GREEN and productive again. They provide a startling—and happy—contrast to last summer. As July ended last year the state was experiencing the worst drouth in its farm history. Three years of deficient rainfall, aggravated by extremes of heat, had seared and withered much of the countryside. Corn, soybeans, hay and pastures, vegetable gardens over a large area were severely damaged or ruined. Ponds and streams and wells were nearly or entirely dry. Livestock was lean from thirst and heat and lack of grazing. What foliage the drouth had left the grasshoppers were finishing off.

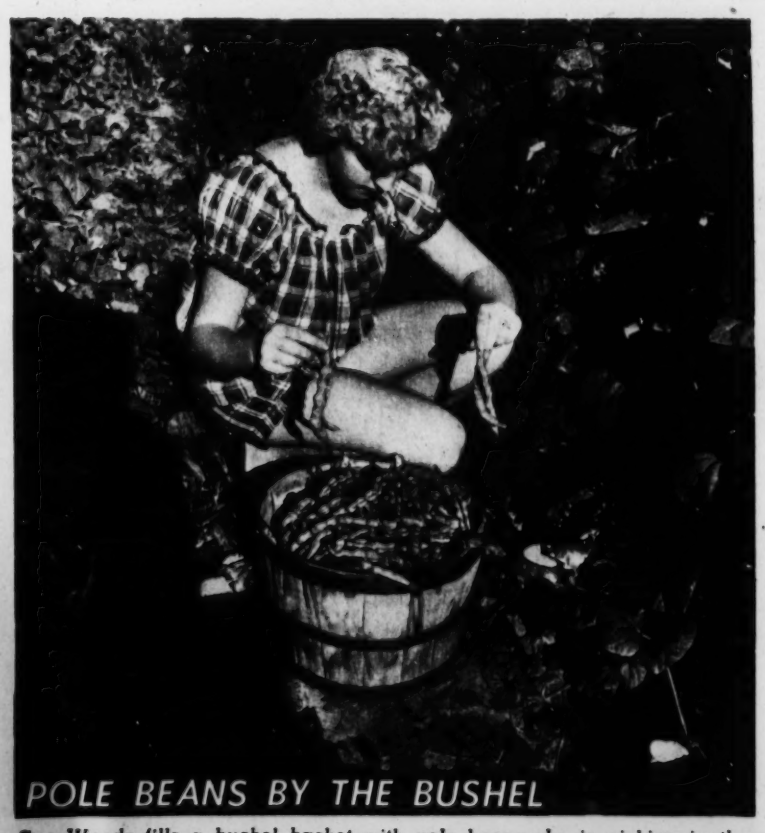

This year the rains have come in plenty. Corn, one of the state's staple crops, is tall with well-filling ears. Soybeans are high and blooming prolifically in promise of heavy yields. The hay harvest is setting a record for the state. Ponds have filled, streams and wells are flowing. Pastures are deep in forage, and livestock, well-fed, well-watered, is fat and thriving. Grasshoppers, perennial scourge of farmers, are on hand, but fewer in number and with plenty of useless foliage to feed on. A bumper year is in prospect for Missouri farmers.

Effects of the drouth in north-central Missouri were reported in PICTURES a year ago. On these pages are shown the 1955 conditions in the same area in contrast with the devastation shown last year. All the photos here were taken in Boone County, in some instances at the identical place, in all cases in the immediate vicinity.

Indicative of the changed situation, rainfall at Columbia—typical of the area—was only .33 inches for all of July last year, compared with a normal precipitation for the month of 3.01 inches. This summer the rainfall for the first 26 days of July at Columbia totaled 2.77 inches, or .36 inches above normal.

During the early months of last year, corn and soybeans gave promise of a good harvest despite the drouth. Then, on July 12 and July 14, the temperature at Columbia hit 113 degrees, even higher in some places. Soil and air were practically devoid of moisture after a cumulative 18-month deficiency of about 25 inches in rainfall. The prairie wind blew hot and dry, crops were literally cooked. But this year, temperatures have risen only into the nineties, winds have been less strong and less dry. With air and soil moist, crops of all sorts have enjoyed almost greenhouse conditions.

As an example of the better year for farmers, corn in Missouri has an indicated average yield of 43 bushels an acre, second highest on record, compared to 16.5 bushels for 1954. Last year many farmers lost their entire corn crop. Individual farmers are expecting to harvest as many as 60 to 80 bushels an acre. Hay fields have produced a second cutting with a third cutting getting under way, and a fourth in prospect. Vegetable gardens are producing surpluses. If farmers have any worry it is not for lack of crops, but from the chance big crops may lower prices.

POLE BEANS BY THE BUSHEL

Sue Woods fills a bushel basket with pole beans she is picking in the garden of the Edwin Rives farm. Two rows of beans, each some 25 feet long, have produced more than 30 bushels. Tomatoes, cucumbers, potatoes, all other garden produce are equally plentiful. Last year by the end of July many farmers had abandoned gardens to grasshoppers and weeds.

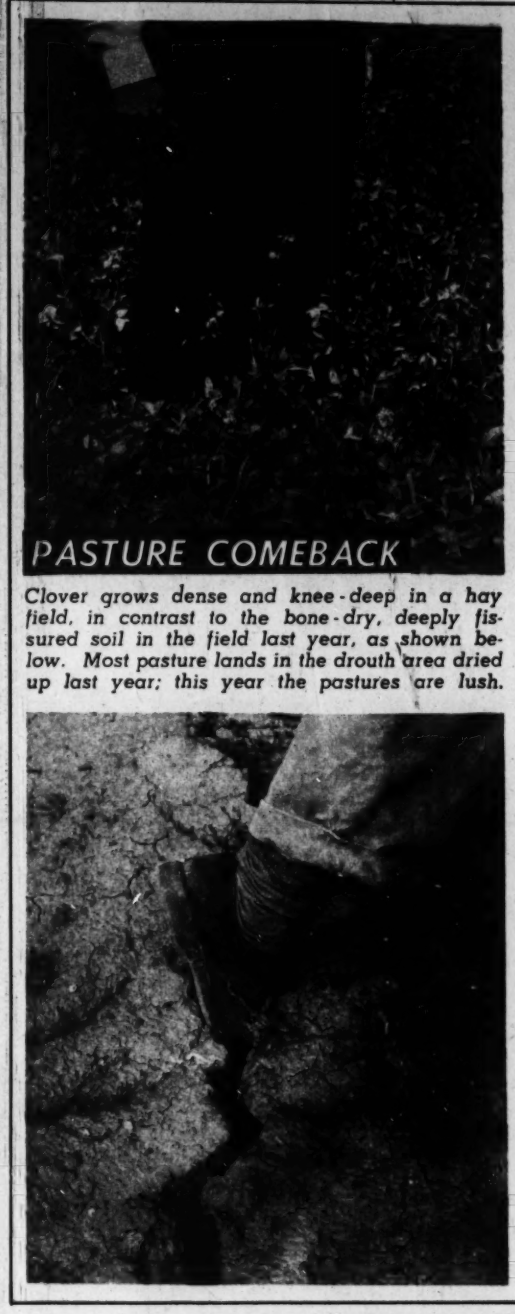

Photos by SAM CALDWELL of the PICTURES Staff

SOYBEANS, THEN AND NOW

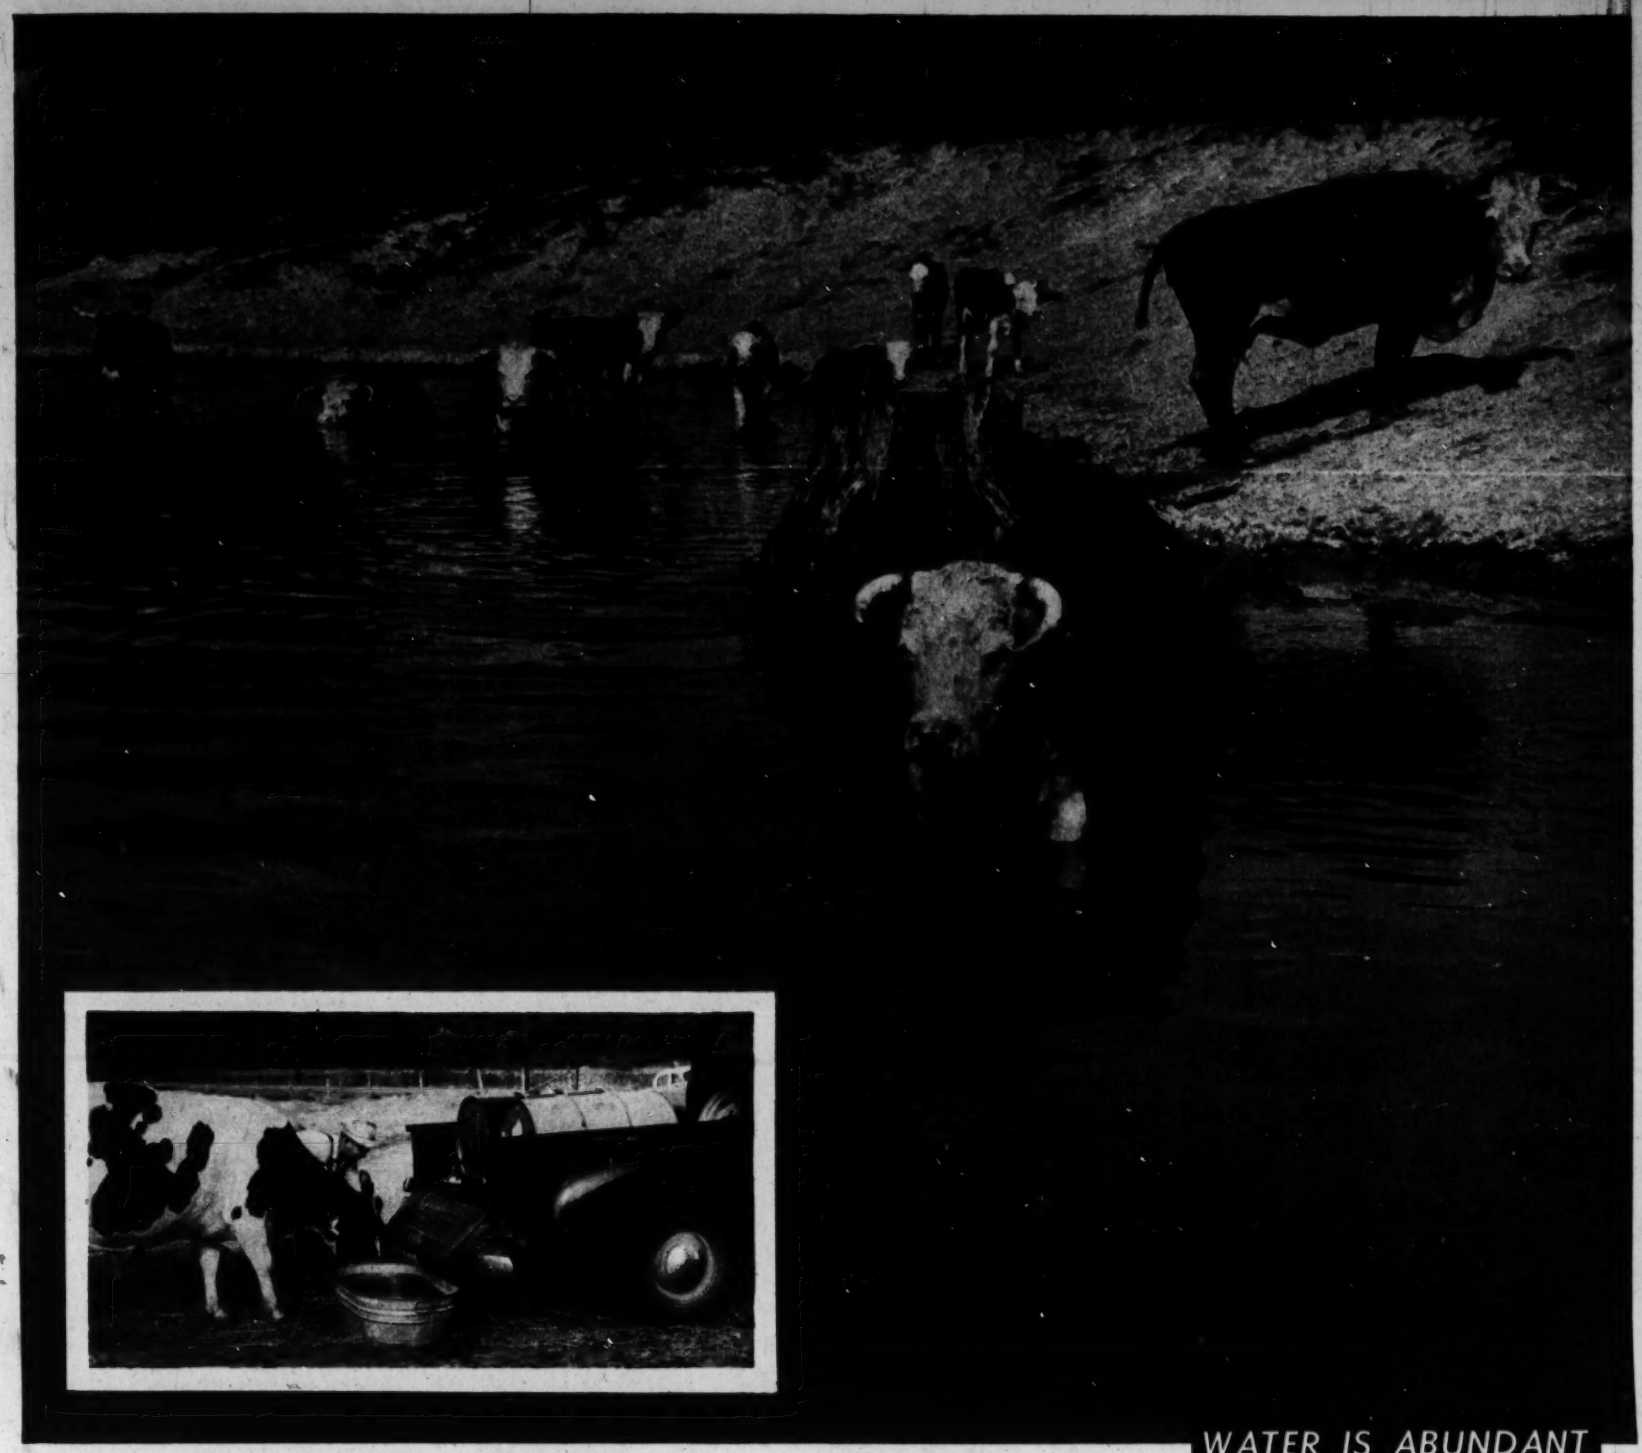

Soybeans as they look in Boone County this month and (inset) as many fields looked a year ago. Plants now are waist high, deep green, and blooming well. Much of last year's crop in the counties immediately north of the Missouri River was stunted by drouth and fit only for hay, or was burned brittle by the blazing sun. Drouth last year hit Missouri hardest south of the river and in the counties just north of it. The major portion of the state's soybeans, grown farther north, escaped severe damage, and the average yield for the state was 15 bushels an acre, one bushel above the 1953 average. It was corn and hay that took the worst beating. Corn production in 1954 was lowest since 1936, hay was 38 per cent under 10-year average.

Missouri's Farms, Parched and Withered a Year Ago, Now Are Lush With Bumper Crops; Ponds Are Filled, Pastures Deep in Grass

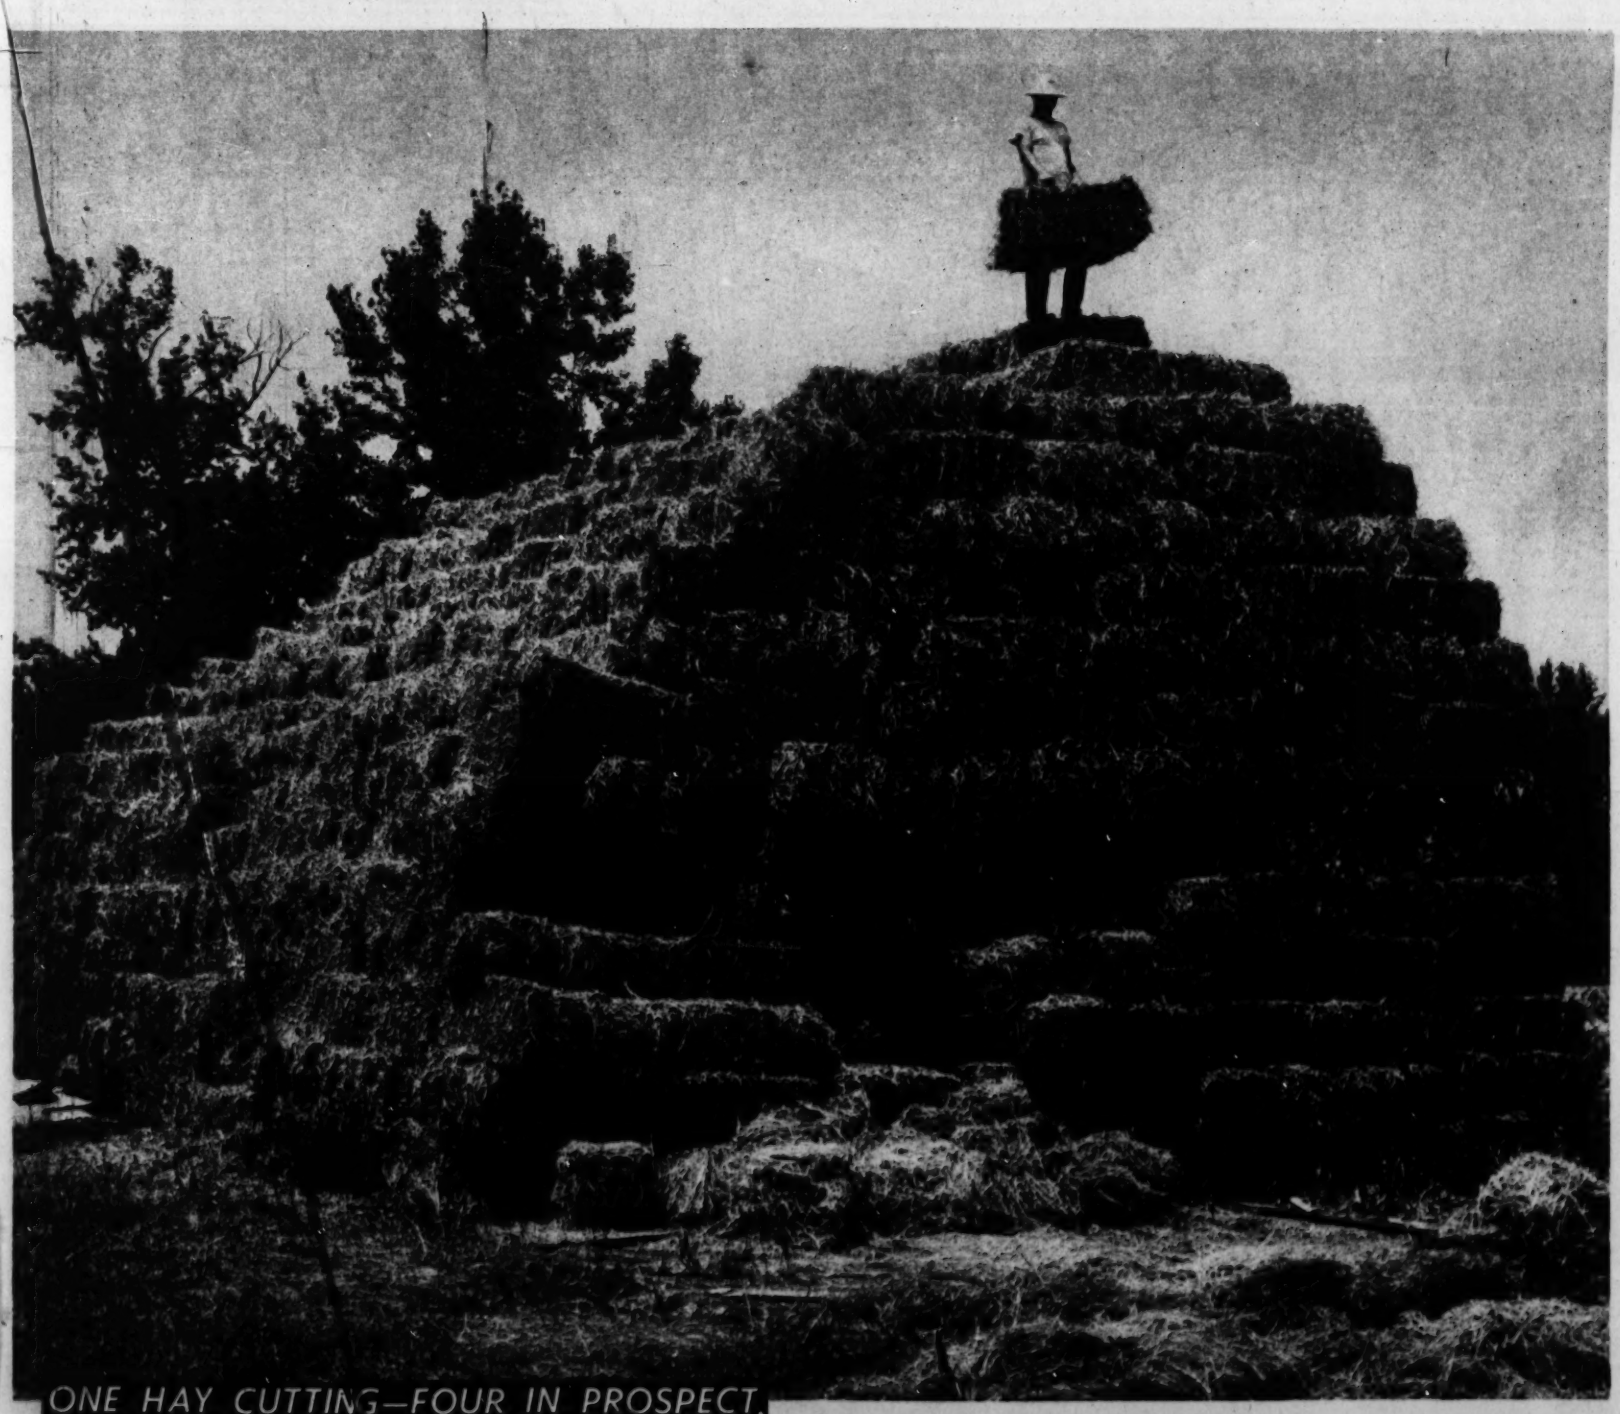

PASTURE COMEBACK

Clover grows dense and knee-deep in a hay field, in contrast to the bone-dry, deeply fissured soil in the field last year, as shown below. Most pasture lands in the drouth area dried up last year; this year the pastures are lush.

WATER IS ABUNDANT

Cattle wade out into a full farm pond to drink and cool off. Inset is a typical farm situation last year—a dairy farmer watering his cattle with water hauled 10 miles from Columbia, where he bought it at $1 for 1000 gallons. Last year cattle in the drouth-stricken areas were thin, in poor condition, and many farmers cut their herds because of lack of water and feed.

ONE HAY CUTTING—FOUR IN PROSPECT.

Standing on top of a rick of baled hay, Gene Vaughn stacks the bales of this year's bumper crop. The rick, an estimated 2000 bales, is the first cutting from 90 acres of alfalfa—the second cutting has been made and the hay stored in a barn. Last summer Missouri farmers were paying premium prices up to $45 a ton for hay, or feeding supplies usually kept for winter. This year the plentiful supply of feed has cut hay prices to around $15 a ton.

HOGS IN FULL POND

Above, Don Stamper stands on the bank of his stock pond as his hogs wallow happily in the water provided by this year's rain. Below, he stands at the same spot in last summer's drouth as his hogs try to cool off in the sun-caked muck of the waterless pond. Stamper lost three good sows and 81 pigs last year because of heat and lack of water. Large numbers of hogs and chickens died in drouth areas.

KING COBRA COMES OUT OF ITS EGG

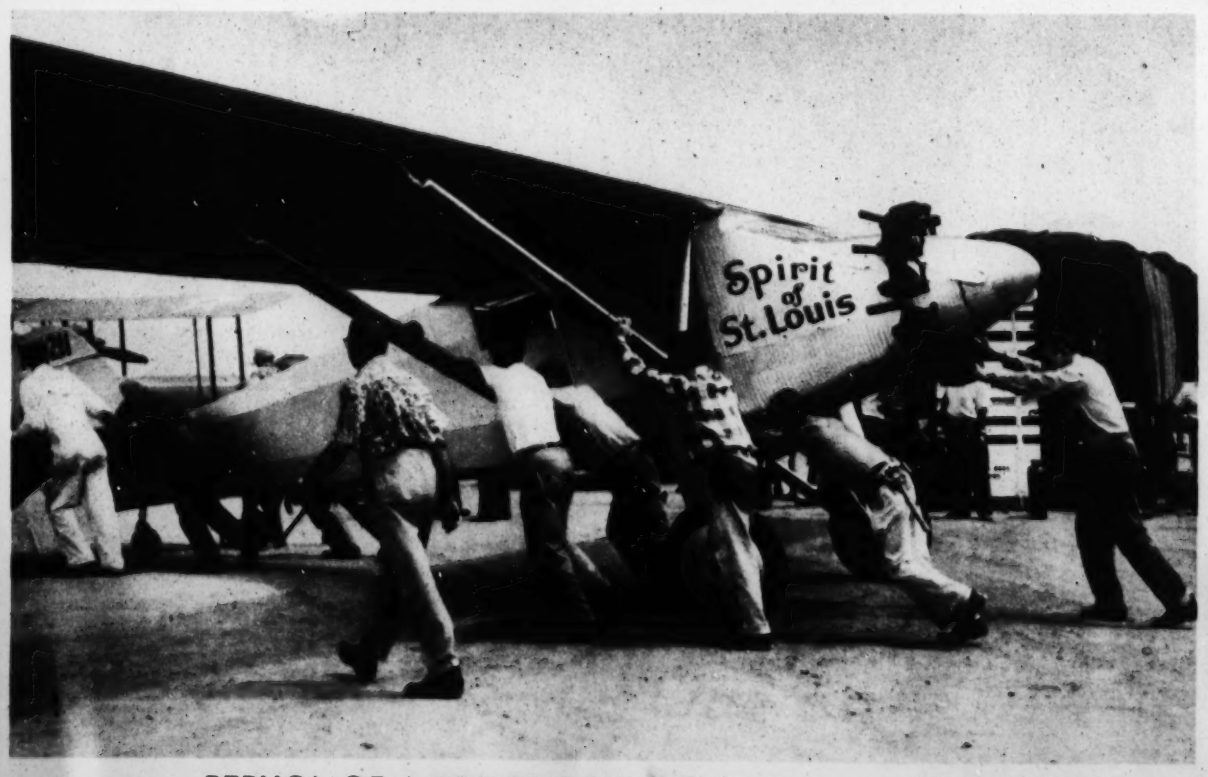

Newly hatched baby king cobra slithers out of its egg under the scientific eye of Dr. James A. Oliver, curator of reptiles at the Bronx Zoo. Dr. Oliver is ready to keep the reptile at its distance with tweezers, for even a baby cobra is equipped with deadly venom and is ready to use its fangs. The cobra, about 18 inches long at birth, was among a number hatched from a clutch of eggs laid by a zoo specimen imported, with its mate, from Thailand. Babies are believed to be the first king cobras ever hatched in captivity.

Thick Navy Bean Soup, Cooked With Ham

1. Noskay washes the dried beans and removes any foreign particles. Unless they are to be prepared in pressure pan, beans are covered with water and soaked overnight.

2. Skin of ham is slit and pulled off. The skin may be used to season string beans, or it may be dried in oven to make "cracklings." These are good with cocktails, or may be crushed and added to corn bread batter.

3. With ham placed in deep pan for cooking with the beans, a few ribs of celery and a whole onion are put in for flavor. Water is added as needed, and the soup is seasoned to taste.

By MERNA LAZIER

A FARMHOUSE-TYPE BEAN SOUP as thick as a stew is fine for the Saturday night main dish or on the housewife's especially busy days. Navy beans are rich in food value, and provide a lot of sustenance with a minimum of effort. Joseph Noskay of St. Louis, assistant director of the Public Defender Bureau, prefers to use a smoked meat and Great Northern beans, which make a smoother puree. Lemon or wine flavor in bean soup takes away its heavy quality.

Noskay washes and picks over the beans the night before and soaks them in ample water to allow for swelling. This shortens the cooking time, but can be eliminated if a pressure cooker is used. Water is added as necessary during cooking in an ordinary pan; if beans are cooked under pressure, sufficient water must be added to the dry beans before cooking to allow for expansion. After beans have become very soft, they are run through a sieve or food mill along with the onion and celery. Mixture will be quite thick, but may be thinned with water as desired. It should be reheated to distribute the flavor, with extra seasoning added if necessary. The ham should be just tender enough to slice and not fall apart. Raw sliced sweet onions marinated in vinegar and seasoned with salt and pepper are a good accompaniment. For a complete dinner, soup may be served with corn bread, cole slaw and a fruit dessert. These amounts will make about 10 to 12 bowls of soup.

INGREDIENTS: Three cups dried Great Northern beans, one large onion, three ribs celery, about a four-pound smoked callie or picnic ham, salt and pepper to taste. A dash of curry powder is flattering to bean soup. Lemon slices for garnish and dark rye bread for the ham sandwiches.

AMITY EFFORT AT GRASSROOTS

Russian Exchange Visitors Learn How Iowa Raises Big Corn and Hogs

WHILE STEPS TOWARD RUSSIAN-AMERICAN accord were being formulated by Big Four leaders at Geneva, Americans and Russians also were getting together in a friendly way nearer the grassroots level. In the first United States-Soviet Union exchange of technical missions in a decade, 12 Soviet farm experts have been giving American farming methods a close once over. A counterpart group of Americans has been doing the same thing in Russia.

During the past two weeks the Soviet visitors have toured the Iowa farm and hog country. They have visited individual farms, eaten home-cooked farm meals and Chamber of Commerce dinners, attended cocktail parties, have asked and had answered innumerable questions about American agricultural economics. They also are scheduled to look into farming in Nebraska, South Dakota, Minnesota, and California, and to visit Washington, D.C.

Although neither can speak the other's language, Ezheviski and 9-year-old Petie Harris of Chicago have no trouble reaching an understanding through mutual interest in machinery. The Russian, trying out a tractor on an Iowa farm, is bouncing up and down on the spring seat.

ADVERTISING ISN'T "A GAME," IT'S A BUSINESS TO GET BUSINESS

. . . and the facts are plain that the POST-DISPATCH gets results for the advertiser

You know from experience that, when you're blindfolded and turned around you seldom walk in the right direction.

Advertising, like anything else you do, should be approached with your eyes open. You don't barge into it with your eyes closed. Experienced advertisers don't grope around, they ask for the facts before they advertise . . . because advertising isn't "a game" . . . it's a business to get business . . . and they want to know where they're going.

To get the most for every advertising dollar spent . . . experienced advertisers choose the POST-DISPATCH. In circulation, both daily and Sunday, it reaches the most readers at the lowest cost per line per 100,000 circulation. More St. Louisans look to the POST-DISPATCH for their daily needs than to any other publication or medium.

Betty Grable, Sheree North in Film "How to Be Very, Very Popular"

1. Chorus girls Stormy Tornado (Betty Grable) and Curly Flagg (Sheree North) are in their dressing room when a girl performer is shot on stage by a distraught admirer. The bald-headed killer escapes through Curly's and Stormy's room, warning them that if they identify him, he will get revenge. The girls grab their coats and leave the city by the first bus.

2. Broke and hungry in a distant college town, the girls follow the scent of fried chicken into a fraternity house. Curly wanders into a room where Eddie Jones (Tommy Noonan) is attempting to hypnotize Toby Marshall (Orson Bean) in an experiment. Toby is unaffected, but Curly goes into a trance.

3. Eddie is unable to break his hypnotic hold on Curly, who goes into her dance whenever she hears the word "Salome." Toby is having troubles, too. Expelled for leading a panty raid, he prepares to hide out in the basement until commencement day, when his classmate, Wedge (Bob Cummings), can give him a faked diploma. Curly dreamily kisses Toby, stops only at Eddie's command.

4. Toby's wealthy father, B. J. Marshall (Fred Clark), arrives. The college president, Dr. Tweed (Charles Coburn), learns that Marshall, grateful because Toby is to graduate, plans to give the college a million dollars. President Tweed quickly changes his opinion of Toby. Curly, meantime, has been passed off as Toby's stepmother to explain her presence to the fraternity housemother.

5. Curly and Stormy, who have learned that the killer knows where they are hiding, disguise themselves in caps and gowns, find themselves on the stage with candidates for degrees. The speaker mentions the Battle of Salamis, which sounds enough like "Salome" to cause Curly to toss off her robe and go into her dance routine.

6. As Curly dances, the killer fires at her from the audience, breaking her trance. Police arrest all bald-headed men present and the killer is captured. The ex-college boys accompany the two dancing girls by bus back to the city. En route, Eddie tries to hypnotize a pretty seatmate. Wedge firmly breaks up the experiment.

St. Louis Scientists Excavate Prehistoric Mound

Preston Holder, assistant professor of anthropology at Washington University, uses trowel to scribe wall of the 15-foot-deep excavation. His assistants are Demaris L. Nebgen (center), a Washington University research assistant, and Marian E. White, University of Michigan graduate student.

Mound rises in corn field. Exploratory cut was made in center of mound, but main excavation was made in slope at left.

Miss White (photo at left) sniffs uncovered fire basin which is still redolent with odor of animal fat. Photo at right, Miss Nebgen carefully brushes away dirt covering another of the fire basins.

A PREHISTORIC Indian mound, which will be leveled as the dirt is trucked away and used for fill in bridge building, has been explored by a group of St. Louis anthropologists. The mound, on private property, is just north of Cahokia Mounds State Park between East St. Louis and Collinsville, Illinois.

Artifacts uncovered during six weeks of careful excavating showed that the mound builders belonged to the Middle Mississippi culture of agricultural Indians who at one time extended from the Gulf of Mexico to Wisconsin. Three fire basins found on different levels indicated that three structures had at various times stood on the mound site. Washington University sponsored the project.

What's New in Colgate Dental Cream

that's MISSING-MISSING-MISSING

in every other leading toothpaste?

MINUTES AFTER BRUSHING WITH ANY TOOTHPASTE

DECAY-CAUSING BACTERIA RETURN TO ATTACK YOUR TEETH!

12 HOURS AFTER ONE COLGATE BRUSHING GARDOL IS STILL FIGHTING THE BACTERIA THAT CAUSE DECAY!

It's GARDOL—To Give Up To 7 Times Longer Protection Against Tooth Decay ...With Just One Brushing!

Any toothpaste can destroy decay- and odor-causing bacteria. But new bacteria return in minutes, to form acids that cause decay. Colgate's, unlike any other leading toothpaste,* keeps on fighting decay 12 hours or more!

So, morning brushings with Colgate's help protect all day; evening brushings all night. Gardol in Colgate's forms an invisible, protective shield around teeth that lasts 12 hours with just one brushing. Ask your dentist how often to brush your teeth. Encourage your children to brush after meals. And at all times, get Gardol protection in Colgate Dental Cream!

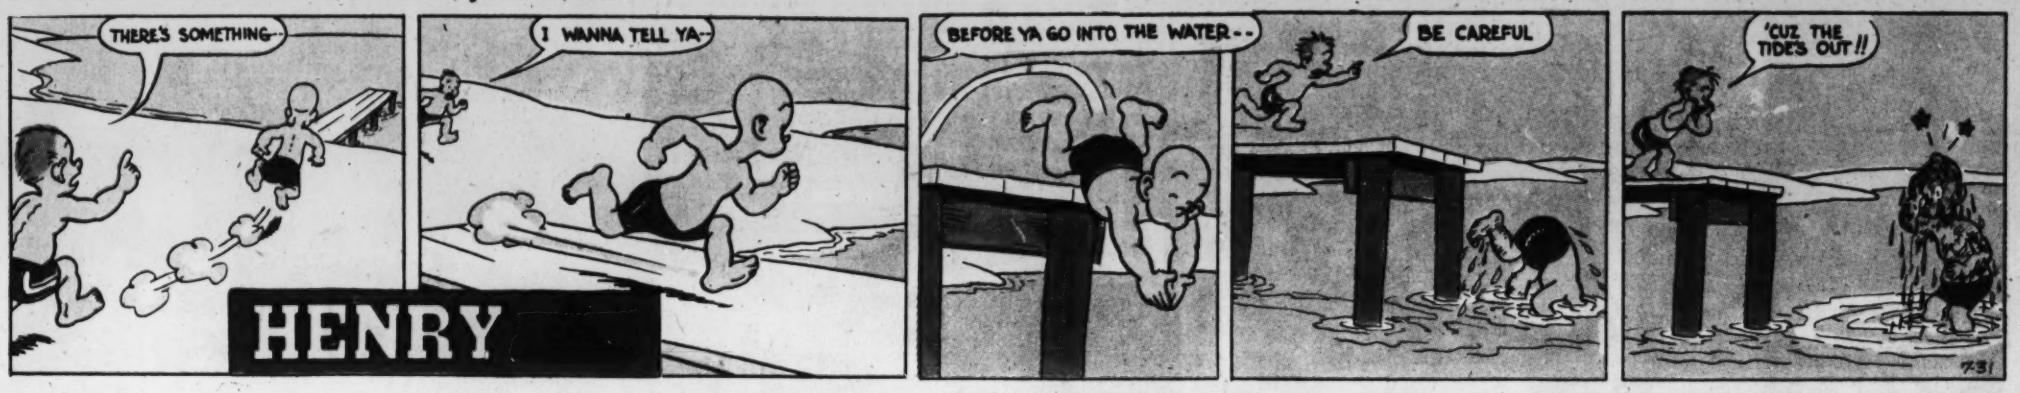

*THE TOP THREE BRANDS AFTER COLGATE'S.

No other leading toothpaste can give the 12-hour protection against decay you get with Colgate's with Gardol.

Cleans Your Breath While It Guards Your Teeth!

Prince Valiant

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

BY HAROLD R FOSTER

Our Story: PRINCE VALIANT IS STILL TOO LAME FROM HIS ACCIDENT TO TAKE PART IN THE LABOR, AND HE WATCHES ANXIOUSLY AS THE OVER-LAND TRAVERSE BEGINS.

FIRST A WORK PARTY GOES AHEAD TO CLEAR AWAY THE BLOWDOWNS AND LEVEL THE PORTAGE AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE.
THEN COME THE OXCARTS WITH THE GEAR, PROVISIONS AND TREASURE.

THE FIRST SHIP IS LIGHTENED OF EVERYTHING REMOVABLE AND LIFTED UPON ITS CARRIAGE. MEN AND OXEN STRAIN AT THE HAULING LINES, AND WITH MUCH SHOUTING AND CREAKING THE SHIP RUMBLES AWAY.

AT SOME PLACES THE WAY IS SO STEEP THE SHIP HAS TO BE SNUBBED, ELSE IT WOULD OVERRUN THE HAULERS.

WHILE AT OTHERS A CAPSTAN HAS TO BE USED TO HAUL IT UP.

VAL BECOMES TOO IMPATIENT TO REST AND HOBBLES AFTER THE WORKERS.....
.....AND COMES UP WITH THEM JUST AS THE WHEELS OF THE CARRIAGE SINK TO THE HUBS IN A MARSH!

DICK'S Adventures

LANCE

WARREN TUFTS

THE SIOUX girl crashes to the ground. She tries to move, to crawl to safety through the brush . . . But she is hurt. She can only hope the end will be quick . . .

"Broke her leg in the fall," Lance says.

"Splints," Sergeant Blaze adds, moving on it.

The girl's dark eyes are puddles of animal fear. But the white soldier moves with tenderness and when he resets the limb—sending agony coursing through her—pain is written on his face also.

He binds the leg with rich cloth taken from a place close to his heart . . .

Then guide Billy Goodblood signifies his wish to speak sign. The girl tells of the terrible encounter with the lone enemy warrior.

"She's Sioux," Goodblood explains. "There was four of 'em."

"Loud Thunder," Lance guesses.

"He took 'em lone-handed," the guide continues. "He's out t'show how good he is. I reckon he proved it!

"Him an' his Injuns'll be whoopin' it up all day over his coups. Yew'll ketch 'em t'night easy, when they's plumb tuckered . . .

" . . . an' then yew won't be needin' me. I'll take this yere no-count Sioux crittur off yer hands!"

Maybe it was the tone of Goodblood's voice, or maybe it was Goodblood the Man that grated Lance. "She'll go back to the Sioux," he says quietly, then turns and walks away.

Goodblood glowers after him for a long moment. Then he hitches his belt, shifts his hunting knife to his side, and stalks off.

Meanwhile, Loud Thunder leads his band cautiously downtrail toward the Dragoon camp . . .

A DOCTOR SPEAKS FOR HIS PROFESSION:

Some patients drive us crazy!

KAREN ANDERSON: Our new hope for the 1956 Olympics — page 4

Being looked upon as quite unconventional only amuses this Texas family—because

They Like Being 'Different'

FAMILY MUSICALE finds Sandra piping bassoon, Jim on trumpet, Joe set for solo, author at piano.

by MARY PAULINE UNDERWOOD

COLORADO CITY, TEX.

Sawing the kitchen door in half, Dutch style, might seem unconventional to some people. But 10 years ago my husband Clifford did it without a second thought. Why? Simply because it seemed the best way to let me prepare meals and still keep an eye on our twin babies, Jimmy Lew and Sandra Sue, left safely out of harm's way in the next room.

Neighbors, at the time, shook their heads and wondered about us — just as they did on a later occasion when we all pitched in and painted the floral side-walls of our rooms in bright colors, then pasted wallpaper on the ceilings.

Yet, as the years have passed, our friends have slowly become accustomed to such things as finding Jimmy and Sandra, now 12, building a unicycle in the back yard, while their 16-year-old brother Joe constructs a practical bunk house behind the garage.

Such activities are part of my husband's and my philosophy — that a home is the children's castle as well as their parents'. We also believe that the imaginative things members of a family dream up to do strengthen their understanding of one another and their faith in themselves as individuals — no matter how outlandish such projects may appear to outsiders.

A Busy Life

Ever since we were married, Clif and I have agreed that keeping busy is the best way of finding happiness. While our three children were young, the two of us were still working our way through college. Having to attend frequent night, Saturday and summer classes, we were almost forced to instill in the youngsters individual initiative and self-reliance. From an early age, they were taught to cook, do the family laundry and shopping, perform other necessary household chores.

Today the situation is relatively unchanged. Clif is an elementary-school principal and pastor of our Baptist church; I teach school during the winter; and the children are more expert than ever at doing their share around the house.

After we had repainted the interior of our home, friends asked, "How did you dare turn your children loose with all that paint and brushes?" What they were implying was that it was a pretty big risk to take as a child-rearing experiment. But they couldn't deny its success. The job may not look quite professional, but it's neat, and all five of us feel an equity in it, from the color scheme right down to the last brush stroke and the drips we had to remove from the floor.

Some years ago we established a "grocery-buying contest," which also might seem unconventional by some standards. Each child was appointed to serve for one month as family purchasing agent, completely responsible for menu-planning and restocking the larder. In return, each got half the amount saved on food bills. As you might guess, costs fell from $15 to $20 below what Clif and I had been spending and, though we were all prone to grumble at being put through the third degree each time we needed bread, our meals were both palatable and abundant.

The fact that all of us can cook, shop and do the laundry has been an invaluable help on occasions when both Clif and I have had to be away from home, and the time a few years ago when he was hospitalized and I had to spend most of my free time with him.

For recreation, we often spend evenings making our own music. The twins play respectively the bassoon and the cornet; I preside at the piano; and Joe, a member of the 1955 High School State Chorus, is our vocalist. On other occasions we may, on an impulse, gather up food and bedding and drive miles to spend the night on a raft in the middle of a favorite lake.

Far be it from us to tell other families how to live. If we have a message at all it is: Relax and be yourselves. Stop trying so hard to be like everyone else. Be downright unconventional, if it makes you happy. We are — both. ■

Now sealed in Gold Foil

NEW LUX... New Lux beauty soap has the sealed protection of gold foil! It sets a new standard of complexion care that no other soap can match.

to give you that new young, natural glowing look so typical of today's lovely stars like DIANA LYNN

When it comes to feeling confident and lovely, the girl with a pretty complexion is way ahead. That's true whether you're you—or a movie star, like Diana Lynn.

And new Lux care can do as much to keep your skin radiant and fresh—as it does for hers. But let Diana tell you . . . "Like most everyone in Hollywood, I 'previewed' new Lux for months. And honestly, I've never found it easier to keep my skin fresh and glowing."

You'll see the difference—new Lux is dazzling white. You'll smell the difference—there's a wonderfully new Lux fragrance, as carefully protected as the finest of French perfumes. And Lever Brothers promises you'll have a more radiant complexion, if you use new Lux regularly, or have back whatever you paid for it.

Start this week, to get the "golden glow" look that's so popular in Hollywood. Remember, 9 out of 10 Hollywood stars count on new Lux . . . and so do most of the beautiful women, all over the world. And now—you can get new Lux in gold foil in stores everywhere!

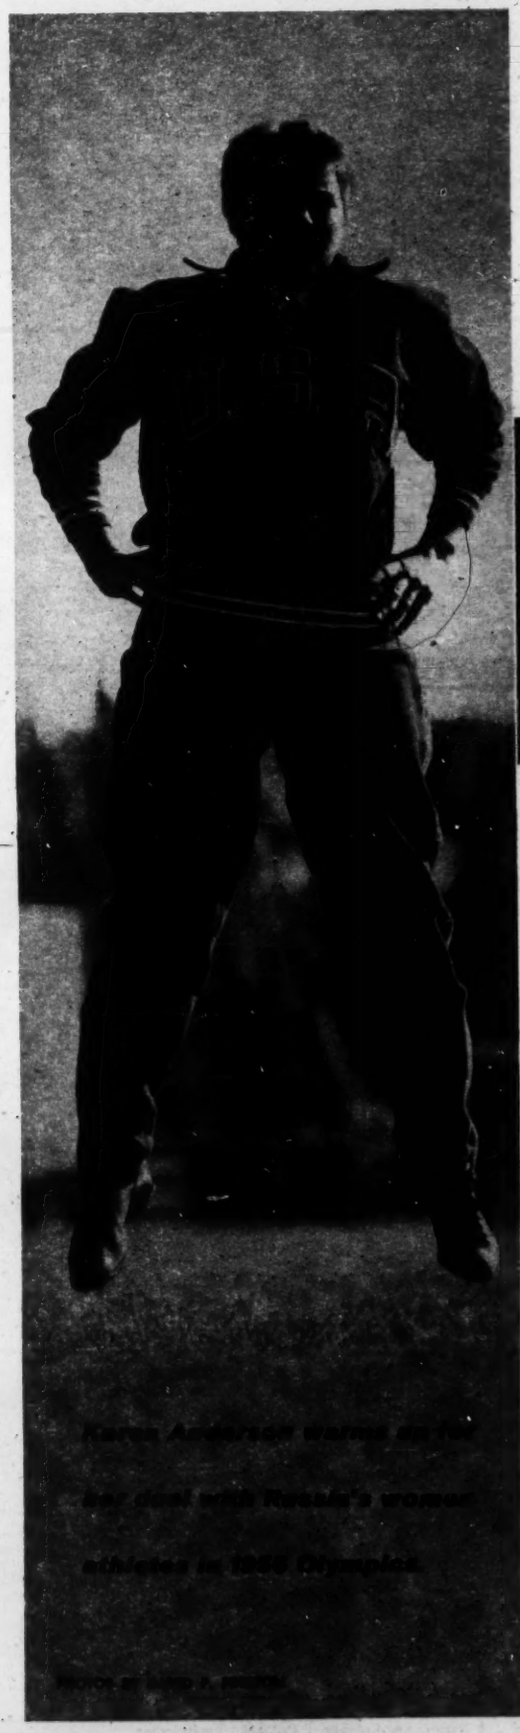

You don't have to be a movie star to have a movie star's "Golden Glow" complexion—

that's the beauty of NEW LUX

OUR NEW

A year ago Karen Anderson picked up her first javelin.

Sequence photos show Karen's throwing form, developed in a year. Her best throw—161 feet—is only

LANSDOWNE, PA.

SIX WEEKS AFTER she threw a javelin for the first time in her life, a local girl named Karen Anderson was crowned U. S. women's javelin champion. A few months later, competing in only her fourth track meet, she hurled the 1-lb., 5-oz. spear more than 160 feet, breaking the American record by 7 feet and coming within a scant 3 feet of the throw that won the 1952 Olympic crown.

The phenomenal thing about all this is that Karen is just 17. She stands only 5'4", weighs a well-proportioned 138, gets as much fun out of normal social activity as she does from athletics. But her ability at the latter has caught the attention of track experts all over America. Even more important, it is raising the hackles of a number of otherwise impassive gentlemen in Moscow, Leningrad and other Russian sports centers.

For this last statement, take the word of Karen's discoverer and trainer, Richmond "Boo" Morcom. A star pole-vaulter on our 1948 Olympic team, Morcom noted the performances of Soviet women athletes in the 1952 events at Helsinki. In men's track and field, the U. S. humbled Russia 269 to 79; but Russia's female stars turned the tables to the tune of 95 to 11, giving the Soviet an early lead for the unofficial team championship that our male performers could not overcome until the final day.

"An Amazing Girl"

Next year the U. S. and Russia will be at it hot and heavy in Melbourne, Australia. And there, says Morcom, things may be different — thanks to Karen Anderson. For if this youngster keeps improving at her present pace, she's sure to score points—possibly 10 for first place — that will cut into the expected lead of the Soviet women and give our whole squad a potent psychological lift. Understandably, this prospect depresses Russia's sports masterminds.

There's not a doubt in Morcom's mind that Karen will make the U. S. team next year — providing no other sport lures her away from the javelin. But that's a threat, for so far she's been sensational at every sport she's tried. For example, she's the top scorer on her high-school field-hockey team, which is so good it has lost but one game in five years. In basketball she's scored as many as 45 points in one game.

"I played basketball against her once during practice," says Morcom, who can still vault 14 feet and high-jump 6½. "As Karen jumped into the air for a shot, I went up to block it. In a twinkling she shifted the ball to her left hand, hooked over her head and scored. An amazing girl."

Karen is an old hand at amazing people. Pitcher on an undefeated girls' softball team, she recently topped even Don Newcombe of the Dodgers by throwing a no-hitter while walloping a homer, a triple and two doubles in four times up. Adept in swimming and tennis, she also has played football (though no longer) and is taking up golf.

The links, in fact, may be her real future, for she would like to become a professional golfer after her amateur days in track and field are over (and thus follow in the steps of Babe Didrikson Zaharias, also a great track-and-field star before hitting the golf trail). Karen started to play golf a year ago, has teed off only a dozen times, yet already shoots in the low 80s.

All sports and no play, however, is not to Karen's liking. "This summer I'm doing a lot of dating and dancing before school starts," she says. Her best beau: a star basketball player who's leaving for Duke University this fall, when Karen will be starting her senior year. She has an average of 90 in her school work, has been elected a member of the National Honor Society for her scholastic achievements and personal charm.

'GIRL WONDER'

Today she looms as the surprise of our 1956 Olympic team

COUNSEL of her father (l.) and coach, "Boo" Morcom (r.), has helped Karen adjust to her new fame.

12 feet short of women's javelin record, but 102 feet off men's mark (set by San Francisco's Bud Held).

COMPANIONSHIP of boys—for softball (above) or dancing—is major part of Karen's well-rounded life.

CAREER dreams are now fixed on professional golf, which she'll try after her Olympic days are finished.

She is an excellent public speaker (although shy about herself in conversation), and her mezzo-soprano graces the choir of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and her school's choral group.

She might still be known only as a promising mezzo if her sister Sue had not married Van Zimmerman, a pole-vaulter at the University of Pennsylvania, where Morcom is assistant track coach. A goggle-eyed Zimmerman one day reported for practice with an astonishing tale of a girl — his sister-in-law — who could fling a baseball as far as most men. Curious, Morcom drove out to Lansdowne, saw Karen zip baseballs 250 feet on a line and quickly decided she had possibilities in track and field.

"We tested her in several events," he recalls, "and decided that the javelin was best for her. Since there were no stadiums available in the neighborhood, she started throwing javelins on the local golf course. She had but 18 throws in competition — 12 at Harrisburg last summer, where she won the national junior and senior AAU championships, and six in a Chicago indoor meet — before she threw 161 feet at Mexico City to win the Pan-American championships this spring. And 161 feet, remember, is only 12 feet from the world record — held by a Russian woman."

What's the explanation for this sudden blossoming of talent? Her coordination, says Morcom. "She is not particularly big or strong, but she learns quicker than most boys and she remembers what she is told."

Both her athletic and singing talents stem from her parents. Her father, Melford O. Anderson, superintendent of Independence National Historical Park in Philadelphia, was a first-rate quarterback at Augustana College in Rock Island, Ill., during the mid-'20s. Mrs. Anderson formerly taught music in high schools.

Their life together has been a nomadic one as Mr. Anderson moved from one government post to another. Karen, born in Denver, grew up in the Rocky Mountain states. From an early age she was a supertomboy, playing football and baseball with boys twice her age. But when the family moved east to this Philadelphia suburb five years ago, she began to give up tackling boys in favor of snaring them in subtler ways.

Besides dates this summer with her basketball-playing beau and golf lessons at nearby Llanerich Golf Club, Karen daily tosses the javelin in the back yard of coach Morcom. Watching her with an expert eye (and a stern one — for she doesn't like to practice), Morcom believes she's still four or five years away from her prime, predicts she'll get better and better.

If he's right, young Karen Anderson will be putting heavy dents in the point scores of Russia's previously unbeatable women athletes — not only in '56 but in 1960 as well. ■

OUR GIRLS VS. RUSSIA

Although the Olympic Games officially are a competition between individuals, correspondents covering the 1952 Olympics set up a point-scoring system to compare Russia and the U.S. The Americans won, but Russia led up until the final day, primarily because her beefy girls, trained with Communist fervor, dominated the gymnastic and field events. Now, with Karen Anderson and other girls, the U.S. is challenging this monopoly. The table below—showing the best performance by American girls in current competition and by Russians in the 1952 Olympics, three full years ago—suggests that our girls still have a long way to go.

BUFFALO BILL: Shown in his Wild West show regalia, he was quick with a rifle – but better still at blowing his own horn, Huggins says.

The West wasn't so wild

An Arizona professor shoots down some idols of the cow country

TUCSON, ARIZ.

A crew-cut, soft-spoken professor of English at the University of Arizona here is as deadly a marksman as you've ever seen in a shoot-'em-up movie. With no weapons but yellowing newspapers and crumbling books, Prof. Jack W. Huggins has brought down the worst desperadoes and the most heroic "good guys" in the history of the cow country: Buffalo Bill, Billy the Kid, Wild Bill Hickok, the Hardin boys, Bat Masterson.

Huggins has spent the last few years proving — at least to his own satisfaction — that the Wild, Wild West was actually about as tame as a Sunday in the country, and that the fable of the frontier is largely blarney. Most of the "good guys," he says, were either fakes or well-meaning fumblers. The "bad men" were local bullies or troublemakers; not one was a Robin Hood robbing the rich to feed the poor. Further, the whole notion that Western life was a never-ending round of gun duels, rustling, poker games and drinking sessions down at the Last Chance Saloon is almost pure fiction.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the frontier settlers were hard-working people who tried to civilize the country and bring law and order to it," Huggins says. "They were too busy farming or ranching to run into town every day to swill liquor and shoot up the place."

As for that other 1 per cent, take someone like Buffalo Bill. The legend of the crack-shot buffalo hunter was started by dime-novelist Ned Buntline (real name: Edward Judson), who came West to do a story on Frank Rourke, a veteran Sioux-fighter. But Rourke wouldn't talk, and shunted Buntline along to William F. Cody, a youth with long, curly hair whose job was to shoot buffalo to feed railroad construction crews. Cody talked plenty, and Buntline filled in the gaps.

"WESTERN" DEBUNKER: Huggins (r.) thinks glorification of West is attempt "to evade adult responsibility and return to the heroic world of adolescence."

"Actually, anybody could hunt buffalo," Huggins points out. "Often they'd just stand there and let themselves be knocked off before they got wise enough to run."

Cody's reputation was swelled by his traveling Wild West show, which featured, among others, Wild Bill Hickok, famous marshal of Dodge City, Kan. (Hickok finally quit the show. "If I have to listen any more to that long-haired so-and-so," he said of Buffalo Bill, "I'll go crazy.") Hickok, Huggins admits, was a man of courage, but his reputation was made mostly by shooting first and asking questions later. Once, when he was expecting trouble, he came out of a saloon to see a man rounding the corner of a building. Hickok plugged him. The victim turned out to be one of his deputies.

As instructor of a course in "Literature of the Southwest," Huggins meets these characters frequently in print. He also runs across the legend they left behind in everyday life. The fable, he says, has its strongest roots in the West, where people should know better. The horse opera and the pulp Western sell best hereabouts, and many folks who never rode a horse wear five-gallon hats.

In trying to track down the legendary Western heroes, Huggins has been helped by the late "frontier marshal" Wyatt Earp, who tried to help set the record straight in his memoirs. "Any time you see a picture of a man with a gun in each hand, both spitting smoke," Earp wrote, "you're looking at a picture of either a fool or a fake." No man, he said, could aim two guns at once; the usual procedure was to fire one until empty, then switch. He also corrected another Western legend: "I never knew a man who amounted to anything to notch his guns."

The OK Corral Battle

Earp himself is a controversial figure in Western history. There are those who claim he led a stagecoach robbery while serving as marshal of Tombstone, Ariz.; his defenders say he was a fearless, honest officer. They have been arguing for years about the famous duel at the OK Corral, in which Earp, his two brothers and gambler Doc Holliday shot down three members of the "Cowboy Gang." To Huggins, the important point is that the whole battle lasted only 25 seconds. He winces when he watches movie fights that go on for what seems like hours.

"The gunplay was usually short and sweet," he says.

With the aid of Earp's and other reminiscences, Huggins has notched a few other legends shot down in midflight. His victims include Billy the Kid ("a cold-blooded killer without a redeeming feature"), the Hardin boys ("stagecoach robbers and rustlers"), General ("Last Stand") Custer ("a neurotic who wasn't even a good soldier"). He also is trying to debunk the legend that "heroes" died with their boots on, or rode off into the sunset.

For instance, Bat Masterson, a famous marshal, wound up his days as a New York sportswriter. "Bat had a hard time living down his reputation," Huggins says. "One of his New York friends kept badgering him for one of his guns as a souvenir. Finally, in desperation, Bat went to a pawnshop, bought a gun, and carved 22 notches in it. That's how legends start." ■

The patients v

In behalf of his much-criticized profession, a family doc

PAOLI, IND.

"Doctors should do no wrong."

That is the feeling of people everywhere — and from time to time doctors are called on the carpet, publicly or privately, because they are supposed to have "done wrong." Fees, services, hospital care, all have produced their share of criticism. As a result, doctors have done a good deal of soul-searching through the years.

However, we also have come to realize that our profession often is stung by half-truths, innuendoes and outright falsehoods. We would not be human if we did not at least think of some of the shortcomings of our critics — the patients.

SWELLING in her son's throat frightened one mother until she learned the truth.

Let's consider some of these shortcomings as I see them in my daily practice. I have placed them in 10 categories — not in malice, or to point the finger at specific individuals, but in the belief that enlightenment breeds good will (and good will, in turn, can result in better doctor-patient relationships). Here are the 10:

THE ALARMIST

To this patient every illness is an emergency — and the doctor "better come quick." Ridiculous as it may sound, I was once called at 2:30 a.m. by an anxious husband to see his wife because of a backache which had bothered her two years.

Before panicking, remember: there are very few real emergencies. Few sudden illnesses require immediate treatment. A few hours usually makes little difference. This does not mean to underestimate your symptoms. It means to contact the doctor calmly, tell him the facts and let him take it from there.

THE TIME-WASTER

Here is another disturbance to whatever peace there may be in the life of the physician. Asked how his appetite is, the time-waster recites — to the calorie — every item in his menu for the past week. Efforts to get his family history lead to long-winded expositions concerning cousins, aunts by marriage and family skeletons.

Time and service are all the doctor sells. Each 15-minute period in his day is worth just so much. If he wants to waste time in small talk, let him do it. Otherwise, stick to the business at hand — that of trying to find out what's wrong with you.

THE SHY "MAIDEN"

This is the patient, usually a woman, who is modest almost to the point of vulgarity. On the beach, she thinks nothing of exposing herself quite a bit. But in the doctor's office it's different: she considers herself ready for a complete examination after removing little more than her gloves and chewing gum.

To this patient I can only say: relax and let the doctor do his job. Let him feel for your spleen as well as your pulse. Let him use his stethoscope to listen to the "one-two" of your heart on your bare skin. It's all for your benefit.

THE "NO-PAYER"

One of my patients bends his elbow daily for a shot or more of old-fashioned penicillin at 60 cents a throw. By state law, that merchandise is strictly cash across the bar.

Yet this same man has a dog-eared card in my account files. On it are charges for many shots of the new penicillin for sore throats long ago cured and forgotten — along with the bills.

The air is filled with cries of "high fees," but many of us have relatively low fees in these days of inflated costs. Still it is often a chore to collect. A 75 per cent "take" marks the lucky doctor as a financial giant.

Very few of us turn down a patient because of his lack of money. Still, we don't like to be taken for suckers when it comes to contributing to the public weal. Doctors are supposed to be loaded with legal tender. But let me assure you that, with many of us, our mortgages are the only thing big about our financial affairs.

THE "I KNOW BETTER" PATIENT

Perhaps no one arouses the doctor to such an extent as the patient who diagnoses himself. He tells the doctor what's wrong and demands treatment. A mother's concern for her child may become exaggerated and lead her into this category.

So if you would stay in the good graces of your doctor, flatter him by letting him take the first crack at making the diagnosis.

by DR. KEITH HAMMOND

ts who drive us crazy

family doctor sticks his neck out (in a friendly way) to list 10 irritating "office types"

THE STUBBORN ONE

Many a doctor-patient relationship has been strained by the patient who insists on being "worked in" when the office is already filled with high-priority appointments. Living the Golden Rule would relieve this blight.

Remember, there's enough work to make any doctor's organized day a nightmare of disorganized bedlam. And this is not his fault — it's just the way things are.

THE NON-COOPERATOR

Perhaps nothing is more irritating to the doctor than the patient under treatment who fails to follow one word of the doctor's advice.

A doctor is making progress if his heavy-smoking ulcer patient cuts down from two packs a day to one. But if the patient fails to cut down, I sometimes feel like giving up and saying, "Why fight it?"

If you don't intend to follow his advice, there is no need to see a doctor.

THE WORRY WART

To this patient every blemish represents a potential cancer, every chest pain is "certainly" heart trouble. Once I called on a boy with hives. His mother pointed to a swelling in his neck and asked cautiously, "What's that?"

"That is commonly called the Adam's apple," I explained. "Everyone has one."

For your peace of mind, accept your doctor's advice and reassurance. Remember, it is normal to be concerned about your health, but needless worries can become a form of self-torture.

THE SHOPPER

If you want to put the doctor in a really bad mood, just greet him with a story about having seen lots of other doctors before giving him a whirl. Once, a woman graciously informed me that I was the 26th doctor she had seen in a year.

Such shopping around does the patient far more harm than good. It often represents a tragic desire on his part to get some doctor to tell him only what he wants to hear.

THE AUTHOR: Dr. Keith Hammond practices in a small Indiana community (population 2,500), but he believes the patients described here can be found anywhere in the U. S.

THOSE WITHOUT TRUST

Finally, there are people who do not trust doctors. Medical files are full of such cases. I know a middle-aged man who died needlessly of peritonitis following a ruptured appendix. He left his family destitute.

How many times have you heard: "Doctors operate whether you need it or not"?

True, mistakes have been made. But the average doctor does not risk the life of a patient by submitting him to dangerous treatment — surgical or any other kind. ■

A wonderful summertime standby, potato salad is hearty fare — yet cool to look at and refreshing to eat. Here's a new way to serve it: add a generous amount of crumbled tangy blue cheese. To this basic mixture you then can add still other protein-rich foods; see "Variations" at right.

KITCHEN HINT:
Many shrimp packers now use a wondrous new machine which peels and de-veins raw shrimp, delivering them ultra-clean, ready for processing or packing. Result: much less work in the kitchen.

BLUE CHEESE POTATO SALAD

5 medium-sized potatoes, cooked, peeled and diced
¾ cup crumbled blue cheese (about ¼ lb.)
1 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped chives
¾ cup sour cream
¾ cup mayonnaise
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
Salt and pepper to taste

Combine potatoes, cheese, celery and chives; mix well. Combine sour cream, mayonnaise, vinegar and sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Add potato mixture; season to taste with salt and pepper. Mix well; chill. Serve with crisp salad greens, if desired. Makes four servings.

VARIATIONS

POTATO-SHRIMP SALAD (pictured above): Dice 2 cups cooked shrimp (about 1 lb.) and add to recipe or use whole shrimp as attractive garnish. Serves six.

CHICKEN-CHEESE SALAD: Add 2 cups diced cooked or canned chicken to recipe; garnish with slices of hard-cooked eggs if desired. Makes six servings.

DOWN-EAST SALAD: Add 2 cups diced cooked or canned lobster meat to recipe. Garnish with lobster claws or strips of canned pimiento. Makes six servings.

DEEP-SEA SALAD: Drain 1 7-oz. can solid-pack tuna; break up into medium-sized pieces; add to recipe; garnish with fluted cucumber slices. Serves six.

T-SHIRT SLEEPER: Here's new sleeping comfort for men—a T-shirt with a foot added to its length to turn it into a nightshirt. It's rib-knit, stretches when you want to toss, eases back into shape as you quiet down. Has no buttons. $2. WITMANN TEXTILES, Dept. PP, Stowe, Pa.

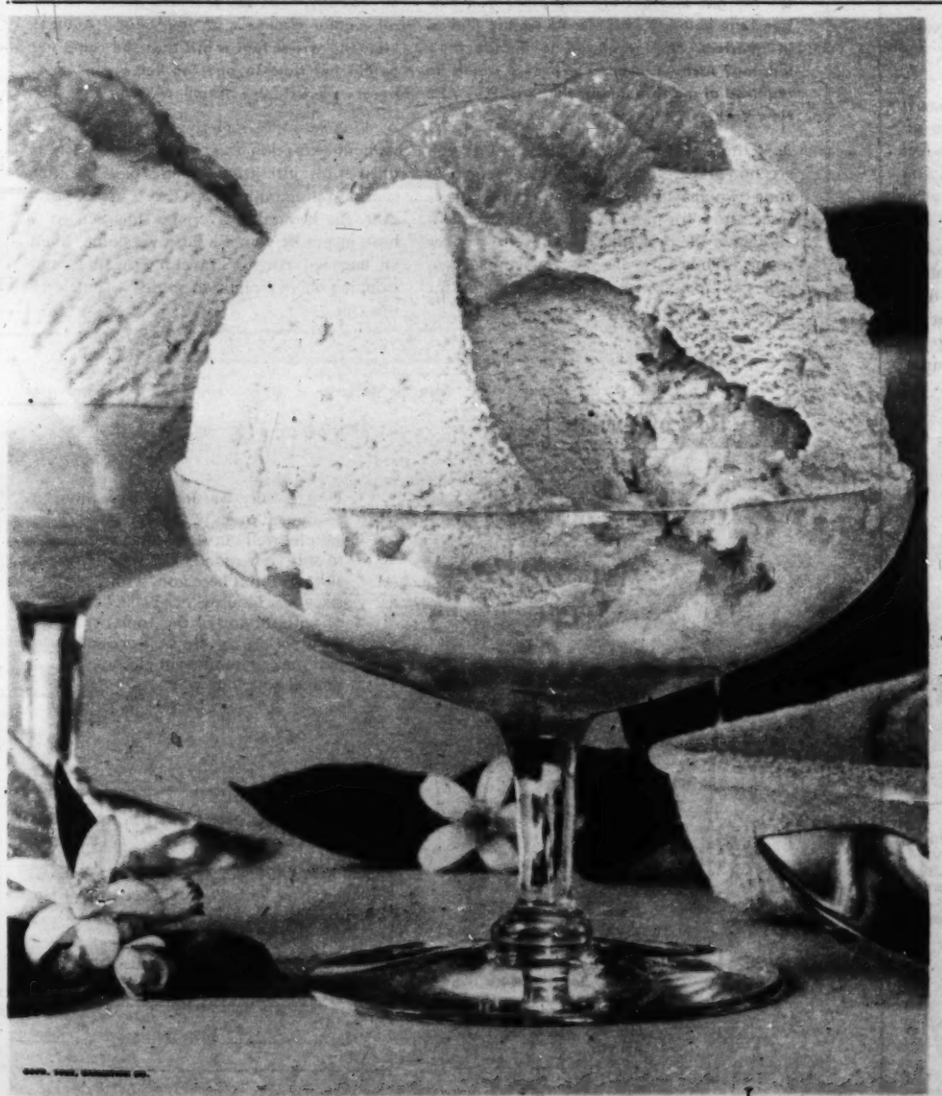

TABLE-BENCH: A wooden bench with a back rest that snaps up to make it a table is a year-round convenience. Use it now on lawn or porch, later as a workshop bench, snack bar or play table. Comes in knotty pine or clear redwood, 4' to 8' long. AUSTIN, 901 S. Harlem Ave., Oak Park, Ill.

EASIER DRIVING: If yours is an automatic-shift car, an auxiliary left-foot accelerator will rest your overworked right foot. It also lets you stop quicker, helps in traffic and hill driving since you lose no time or motion shifting one foot between accelerator and brake. Easy to install. $2.95. ZENITH, 1491 Vine, Los Angeles 28, Calif.

ASSEMBLE IT YOURSELF: Here are the makings of a 1½-car, all-steel garage—stacked in front of an erected model. Complete even to flashing cement, it's easy to assemble, features nailable steel framing: you simply nail on galvanized siding that looks like clapboard. Garage provides 100 sq. ft. of floor area for storage or workshop. 1- and 2-car sizes also available. STEEL-CRAFT MFG., Rossmoyne, Ohio.

General Questions

The time has come for me to answer some of your letters not readily classified.

Q. How should a letter to or from a couple be headed and ended? — M.V.P., El Paso, Tex.

A. When two names are used in a salutation, use the woman's name first. Since a letter normally is written by one person, I feel that the writer should mention the other member of the couple — but sign the letter alone.

Q. My girl and her married sister and husband are going to visit me. As we are limited in quarters, am I required to finance their lodging? Also what other expenses would be required of me throughout their visit? — J.P., New York, N.Y.

A. I think you must make it clear that you are not prepared to put up these people in your own apartment. You can offer to make reservations for them at a hotel and give them an idea of the price they will have to pay for rooms. While they are here, of course, you will pay for meals and entertainment for which you have invited them.

Q. I am a young man who is frequently invited to be an extra man at dinner, theater parties, etc. As I work long hours in a bank, I never have time to make the party calls my mother taught me were essential. I know many men accept these invitations without ever attempting to return them or even bothering to thank their hostesses, except at the time of the entertainment. Could you set me right? — J.M.W., Jr., Pasadena, Calif.

A. The eligible young man is certainly at a premium today in many cities. He is likely to become spoiled by social attention of the kind you mention. The courteous young man does, within a reasonable time, call his hostess on the phone, drop her a note or send her flowers, with his personal card, on which he has written a few sincere words of appreciation. While hostesses need bachelors to fill in on such occasions, they come eventually to resent even the most attractive ones who continuously take and rarely reciprocate in any way.

Q. You say, "The boy provides your room and all regular expenses of your visit." Another etiquette writer told a girl that she could not permit her date to pay for her accommodations. — R.A.H., Jr., Boston, Mass.

A. After very thorough research I have found without exception that the rule is as I outlined it. A girl provides and pays for her transportation both ways. Once arrived, however, the boy takes over; he thus acts as a host, just as he would in his own home. Even an engaged couple, traveling together and stopping off overnight en route, is subject to this rule.

STRIKING with a fierce intentness, the piranha fastens its teeth in Rogers' arm. Though horrified, he holds tightly to another piranha (left) he has just hooked.

FISH BITES MAN

Go angling for piranha and you may be hooked yourself

The man in the picture above is being bitten by a fish so fierce that a school of them can devour a wounded crocodile in 90 seconds. The man is E. L. (Buck) Rogers, public-relations writer for Johnson Motors, maker of outboard engines. The fish is the South American piranha, only 8" and 3 pounds, but armed with jagged teeth (right) and steel-trap jaws.

Rogers was making a documentary film on fishing in the Amazon River when he hooked one piranha and reached into the water to boat it. Suddenly a second fish flashed up, sank its teeth into his arm. Rogers whipped up the arm, whirled it wildly until the piranha let go and flopped back into the water. But its moment of fury remained captured — on film. ■

CAUGHT piranha is made to bare the jagged, needle-sharp teeth that tear — rather than bite — into its victims.

New greaseless anti-perspirant that lets your skin "breathe"

EXTRA-EFFECTIVE REFRESHING
GOES ON DRY!

- Underarms are absolutely dry in seconds—stay dry!
- Stops perspiration odor
- Unique new formula contains no acid—nothing to stop skin's natural "breathing"
- Cooling—glides over skin!

It's this summer's sensation! New Fresh Stick Deodorant! Goes on dry—without a trace of greasiness . . . without a drop of moisture. Non-acid! Contains nothing to stop skin's natural "breathing."

Yet Fresh Stick is extra-effective. It won't wear off even when you bake on the beach—under the hottest summer sun.

You're protected—all day—even when the mercury soars to 90°. No danger of offending even after hours in swimming.

Refreshing! Cooling!

Fresh Stick feels refreshing as a morning shower . . . and leaves skin invigorated.

No greasy fingers! No messy drip! Glides on—smooth as silk.

Handy plastic push-up tube holds stick. Your fingers never touch it. Fresh Stick is so neat—why bother with messy liquids or creams!

Fresh Stick has a light, clear fragrance, too. A clean—fresh bouquet.

No heavy masking perfume! No strong odor to linger about you!

Think of it! Extra-effective protection without any deodorant unpleasantness! Use new Fresh Stick every day.

"Won't spill or leak—ideal for travel," say vacationers everywhere.

"The perfect size to tuck in my toilet kit. No messiness when you use Fresh Stick," says Mrs. D. C. Bartindale, New York.

"Fresh Stick protects me all through my busy tourist days —no matter how hot or rushed I am," says Miss Shirley Morningstar, Mich.

"The air-traveler's dream," says Miss Jeanne Smith, Mississippi. "Won't leak. Fresh Stick goes on dry. So speedy. So easy to use."

No other deodorant stick like it! Fresh Stick is the first and only full-strength anti-perspirant stick that contains:

—no messy greasiness
—no corrosive acid salts (that ruin clothes)
—nothing to interfere with skin's natural "breathing"

NORTHRIDGE, CALIF.

When he was asked to perform the most dangerous stunt he could imagine for the TV show, You Asked for It, veteran auto stunt driver Harry Woolman picked the one shown on these pages. In 29 years at his risky craft, Woolman had been injured only once (a broken jaw in a 1946 motorcycle crash); but this time the trick proved even more dangerous than he had imagined it might be.

A small bungalow was bought and moved to a ranch near here. Ramps were built to let Woolman roar up one side, hurdle the 44 feet of roof, land on the opposite side and coast away. But he couldn't get the new car he wanted, had to settle for a balky 18-year-old coupe. On its last run, the old car took the bit in its teeth.— and wound up flat on its back. For what happened to Woolman in his most dangerous stunt, see below. ■

SMILING and unscratched, Woolman scorns help and leaking gasoline, crawls out singlehanded.
